Neches River Coalition meeting Saturday, 1 p.m., at courthouse

Neches River Coalition President Pansy Moulder, of Colmesneil, says the meeting Saturday, July 8, at the Tyler County Courthouse will be to approve a draft letter to Congressman Charles Wilson's office requesting a study be done to seek the re-authorization of the Rockland Dam and Lake Project which the coalition sees as a solution to extreme flooding of many of the organizers homes on the river.

Also on the coalitions agenda is approval of a resolution the group wants to offer to the Tyler County Commissioners Court seeking it's help in stem*ming the flooding problem, U.S. Army* Corps of Engineer executives have said in an earlier meeting that the Rockland Dam would "Cure a lot of ills", but the road to approval and construction is an arduous one.

In other business the coalition will appoint Advisory Committee members including Jeanie Turk, chair*man of the Pine Island Bayou area in* Beaumont which would benefit directly for the Rockland Dam.

Retailers get ready!

Sharp says food stamps will soon be out of business in Woodville

AUSTIN — "Food stamps will go out of business in Woodville on August 1," State Comptroller John Sharp announced Monday. "Tyler County is included in the largest expansion of the Lone Star card in Texas, and with this roll-out, the Texas attack on bureaucratic bloat and welfare fraud moves into high gear.

"In just four weeks, food stamps will virtually disappear from another 90 Texas counties, in the San Antonio, El Paso, Lubbock, Amarillo, Victoria and Beaumont-Port Arthur area, along with portions of East Texas," Sharp said. "And retailers who prepare early should be ready to accept the card without a hitch."

The Lone Star card is the cornerstone of Sharp's wide-ranging welfare reform plan, which was approved by the Texas Legislature and recently signed into law by Governor George W. Bush. The card was first proposed in 1991 by Sharp, who created a task force to oversee its development.

The August 1 implementation will affect 300,000 families and 4,000 retail grocery locations in 90 counties.

"This security card will hold accountable both the bureaucrats and the people who depend on temporary public assistance," Sharp said. "It will save tax dollars, reduce fraud and boost grocery sales.

"That's why I urge all retailers that accept food stamps who haven't yet signed up the Lone Star card to do so immediately so they don't lose business or leave their customers hanging."

Sharp said that retailers who accept the Lone Star card reported an immediate increase in food sales after the program was first implemented in February in the Houston area.

"Between Febnuary and March, food sales rose by $4.5 million, because

County Clerk on-line for birth certificates

WOODVILLE — The Tyler County Clerk's office announced this week that citizens who are born in any Texas county may now obtain their birth certificates at the local County Clerk's office. Until this time, only Tyler County birth certificates were available through the local office.

The remote system which now makes it possible to obtain these out-of-county documents is limited to birth years 1926-1935 and 1942 to present, announced Tyler County Clerk Donece Gregory.

The fee to obtain a birth certificate is currently $9, and will remain at that rate through August 31. On September 1, the cost will increase to $11, due to passage of HB 1341.

Gregory explains that it had been a long term goal of hers to provide this service to Tyler County citizens. "Up until now, if one needed their birth certificate and was not born in Tyler County, they had to make application to the BVS in Austin, which had a turnaround time of four to six weeks," she said.

Several years ago, the Beaumont Health Department obtained the remote system which cut the document turnaround time to one day. "Now, our citizens can visit the courthouse within our own county and get the certificate within eight to 10 minutes. Another added bonus is that it provides the opportunity for citizens in surrounding counties such as Angelina, Jasper and Polk to visit Woodville to take advantage of our remote system.

"We are using our computer to the fullest to provide better service to citizens," she added.

Blood drive soon

WOODVILLE — There will be a Woodville Community Blood Drive at the Woodville United Methodist Church Youth Center on Tuesday, July 11 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 2 to 5:30 p.m.

Community coordinator Jess Collins urges everyone to eat breakfast before participating in the blood drive.

Chamber office lights

WOODVILLE — The Tyler County Chamber of Commerce will be offering Christmas lights to the public at a special price on Friday, July 14.

The lights are 61 feet long and contain 100 small clear bulbs like the ones that light the downtown square at Christmas, and are available with green or white wire. Price of the lights is $5 per string.

Lights must be ordered no later than July 14 and must be prepaid. For more information, contact the Chamber of Commerce at (409) 283-2632.

Chamber officials hope that offering the lights at this economical price will encourage Tyler County residents to make their neighborhoods more beautiful than ever this Christmas.

Children touch hearts of adoptive couple

By Don Gulley

Floyd and Helen Brumley of Warren have three beautiful children; Milton (9), Tarsha (8) and Janella (6). What makes them even more special to the Brumley's, is that they are adopted.

The Brumleys adopted the trio in 1990 with the help of the Texas Department of Protective and Regulatory Services (PRS). Milton was three at the time. Mrs. Brumley recalls, "He couldn't wait to meet his Mommy and Daddy."

When asked why the couple decided to adopt, they responded, "We had seen a television commercial that presented the issue to us, and the need that these children have just pricked our hearts. We felt compelled, and wanted to open our home to them."

The Brumleys are just a few of many Texas children, once homeless, who have found loving, caring homes through adoption. Today, however, "Many people are misinformed about the adoption process," says the PRS.

There are many myths that surround the subject of adoption today. Myths that leave countless of confused Texas youth grasping to a dream that they long to fulfill, a loving home.

Marie Green has been a Foster Home Developer for 17 years. She says, "According to the 1994 Annual Report of the PRS, there were (in 1994) 197,135 cases of child abuse and neglect in the state of Texas alone."

"In 1991," she adds, "there were 113,737 adoptive investigated cases; 1992 seen 129,239 cases; 1993 brought 132,883 cases; and in 1994 there were 151,378." Notice the steady rate of increase, you cannot help but wonder what 1995 will bring.

"We need adoptive families," Green says. "There are around 1,872 adoptions monthly." According to statistics, this is just scratching the surface. "In 1985, there were 5,193 children placed in foster care, in nine short years that number had increased to 11,247 in 1994."

Many people believe that adoption is expensive, or that medical and financial assistance are not available if they decide to adopt. These are some of the "myths" mentioned earlier.

There are facts, however, that dispute most misconceptions people have concerning adoption. For example, one may assume that the only children available to adopt are infants. However, according to PRS, "Minority children of all ages, (as well as) Anglo children 12 years old and older," are available for adoption.

One of the most misconceived ideas people have of adoption are the financial conditions one has to meet in order to adopt. The idea that adoption is expensive, is false.

Others may believe that you must be childless, married and own your own home to adopt. And on a more sad note, many have the idea that there aren't really that many in need of adoption. These are false assumptions.

"There are some specifications that we were required to meet," Mrs. Brumley said. "They (TDPRS) want to see if you have adequate space for the children, like their own rooms etc. They make sure that your home is safe, and that the children will receive plenty of attention from their new parents.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Brumley agree, "Those children are our babies, they bring life and excitement to our lives. God placed these children in our hearts to love and to teach them. They're our blessing from God."

Milton wants to make good grades in school and become a preacher. Tarsha has ambitions of being a singer, musician and missionary.

"Missionary to where," I asked, "Sea World!" she replied. And Janella wants to go to college and become a nurse.

Homeless children have dreams too, the most treasured and sought after dream that they could ever have right now, is finding a loving home.

Today, the Brumleys are in the process of adopting another child, they meant business when they said, "There are no regrets, we would do it all over again."

If you have any questions regarding adoption, or foster parenting, the PRS urges you to contact: Charlotte Squyres at (409) 633-3374 in Lufkin, or Marie Green at (409) 327-6762 in Livingston.

Floyd and Helen Brumley and kids: Milton,9, Tarsha ,8, and Jonella, 6.

At the Village

By Dottie Johnson

Something old, something new, it's all there, at the Village

As our Whitmeyer Genealogy Library moves slowly but beautifully into place - don't expect it to be ready tomorrow, says volunteer library chairman Carol Phillips - I find it hard to believe that anyone could get less than excited about the information it contains and the prospects for genealogical research it affords.

Brand new bookcases made especially for this purpose by Stuart Roberts are in place, opened wide to receive the stacks of material that has heretofore been housed in one small room. Hanging above each case, circling the walls, are the tiles and painting of Village founder Clyde Gray, just as they were always meant to be. Even as Carol and Joyce and many others catalog and label each precious book and folder, visitors have come in and found help in their searches. Once completed, the library will be open during certain hours on designated days of the week with a volunteer on hand to help.

And speaking of genealogy, don't forget to give Joyce Wilson a call at 283-5377 if you're interested in a Genealogy for Beginners Course at the Village. Don't call me, don't call the Village. Call Joyce. 283-5377.

Summer story hour moves to Village

We are delighted to announce that beginning Tuesday, July 18, Heritage Village will pick up the Children's Summer Story Hour, which will be ending at the Allan Shivers Library on July 11.

For four Tuesdays, July 18 through August 8, Woodville High School student Beth Kuehn will present a program of Texas related stories and activities for little people pre-school through second grade, 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. in the Village.

The daughter of Jack and Frances Kuehn and granddaughter of Heritage Society Life members Morris and Marilyn Clemmons, Beth is a talented story teller who should keep youngsters as they learn a little about their Texas heritage in story telling form.

Check next week's paper for more details.

Discoveries

I don't know whether it all comes under the heading of genealogy or not, but the information that has come to us about our early Tyler County doctors has brought about an excitement all its own, an inside look at what made some of our pioneer men and women tick.

One of the most interesting of these came from Memphis, Tennessee.

After running across the Memphis Hospital Medical School as the alma mater of several of our doctors, we realized that it had to have been the forerunner of the University of Tennessee Medical School. So I called and talked with Frances Verble in the University Library.

I couldn't help giggling as she referred to UT several times and told her that in our part of the world UT meant University of Texas. "Here," she declared, "it stands for the University of Tennessee. The Big Orange." "Don't tell me," I laughed. That's right. Orange and White. From there on, we were fast friends. As she promised, I received a few days later eight pages from the University's 75th Anniversary history, written in 1986. But the story went back more than 75 years.

It went back to 1841, when the Memphis City Hospital opened and a medical college formed around it. Using the hospital facilities to teach its student body, the school flourished until 1861 when the War Between the States and Reconstruction finally began to deal its death blow. It finally closed in 1872 after graduating 240 physicians.

Another medical school, the Botanico-Medical College, emphasizing plant remedies, "water cures" and steam vapor was also in operation during those earliest years, 1846-1861.

In 1877, answering an increased national demand for medical services, a new school called the Memphis Hospital Medical College was organized and finally opened in 1880, following two devastating yellow fever epidemics that caused over 5,000 deaths in 1878 alone.

In a new three story stone and brick building across from the old hospital, the new Medical College boasted a amphitheater, dissecting room for anatomy, small clinical laboratory, museum and dispensary, and it controlled 40 charity beds for teaching purposes.

It had to have been in those earliest days of the new school that Giles B. Wood of Emilee headed to Memphis to study medicine. A picture taken the day he left for the Medical College is among the artifacts in our Exhibit of Pioneer Tyler County Doctors at the Village.

In 1890 Dr. Thomas Randolph Ogden, also of Emilee, graduated from Memphis Hospital Medical College, in 1899 his younger brother, Urial Bevis Ogden.

In 1898, Dr. W. W. Anderson of Woodville followed suit. During that period additional facilities were added, a new hospital was completed and enrollment grew from 60 medical students its first year to 752 in the class of 1899-1900.

In 1905, Dr. John E. Sheffield was named among the graduates. By 1911, when the College merged with the University of Tennessee Medical facility, it had awarded 2,625 M. D. degrees. One of its students was Ivison Grimes of Tyler County.

A letter we have sent to the registrar at that other UT may uncover more details about these and other early medics.

Discovery, that's what historical research is all about. It can be such fun, especially when you get a packet of information from David Sheffield of Victoria, who uncovered the doctors of the Ogden family, on which he is doing research.

Two of these, as listed above, were Thomas Randolph Ogden and Urial Bevis Ogden, sons of Cornelius Austin and Sarah Frances McGough Ogden.

According to Sheffield, there was a popular trend at that time for young men to enter the medical and dental professions. Strangely enough, this seems to have been particularly strong at Emilee, a small remote farming community, where the Ogden boys plowed with oxen, chopped cotton and hoed corn in addition to making trips with their father to haul freight from Concord, in Hardin County, to Tyler County.

Tom Ogden's boyhood dream was to become a doctor, and he read everything he could "get his hands on" associated with the medical profession.

After graduation from Memphis Hospital Medical College in 1890, he returned to Tyler County, married Mary E. Masterson, daughter of Rev. John Gutherage, who was himself a medical doctor but better known as a baptist minister, and opened his first office for the practice of medicine in Colmesneil. Soon after he moved to Hardin County, where he practiced in Nona and Kountze before settling down in Jasper County in 1909.

His brother Urial, who married Josephine Lottie Lazenby in 1900, was a lumber mill doctor for Kirby, left the medical field for business in 1914 only to return to it when a shortage of doctors developed during World War I. A skilled surgeon and physician, he never practiced in Tyler County.

And so the story continues.

More on cemeteries

Frankie Kindle of Warren called to report that, thanks to our readers and good neighbors throughout Tyler County, Jim and Ann Laird are down to their last six cemeteries to be visited and recorded. On five of these they have people lined up to show them the way in.

All then that is left is the Moffett Cemetery, which they say is located just East of Pedigo. A John H. Moffett owned property there in 1850 and 1860 but disappeared from the Census rolls in 1870.

An old map the Lairds have show it but they have been unable to find it.

Anyone out there with the information they need? Give Frankie a call at 547-3095.

"Greed" vs. "Survival"

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter in response to the views expressed by Mrs. Darby Kethan in her article entitled "Man In The Forest" printed in the June 21, 1995 Booster.

Mrs. Kethan used words such as "Destruction", "Greed", "Extinction" and interfering with God's work. I am a fourth-generation logger and I feel that the uneducated and misdirected views of this article are a slap in the face of many hard working individuals who take pride in a profession that has had a big part in making this community what it is today.

The equipment Mrs. Kethan labeled as destructive may be faster, but the main objective of this modern equipment is to harvest the timber in a manner to meet O.S.H.A. standards of safety, E.P.A. standards of land protection and landowner satisfaction.

The logger was also labeled as greedy by this article. If Mrs. Kethan were more aware of the financial breakdown of the timber industry she would see that "Survival" would be a more appropriate word.

There is nothing more beautiful than to see God's wonders here on earth and I thank God that He made a special breed of people to take a raw material, harvest it, make thousands of usable products, replant (a word Mrs. Kethan wasn't aware of) and harvest, time and time again.

What I believe is an is for people who are so closed minded to watch thousands and thousands of acres be destroyed by Pine Beetles when the loggers could have stopped the destruction and waste.

Mrs. Kethan, please become more informed on an issue before you play God and judge people by their reception! In most cases the loggers are doing a job instructed for them to do by a landowner or forester. Whether we agree with the way the timber is cut or not, we do our job with pride and professionalism.

Heaven's grocery store

Dear Editor:

My son, Anthony Brown, shared this poem with me and I would like to share it with others. Thank you for this opportunity.

Shopping in Heaven's Grocery Store

I was walking down life's highway, one day not so long ago,
When I saw a sign that said, "Heaven's Grocery Store".
As I got a little closer, the door popped open wide,
And when I came back to myself, I was standing there inside.
I saw a host of angels. They were standing everywhere.
One Angel spoke, and said to me, "My child, just shop with care."
Everything a Christian needed was in this grocery store,
And all you couldn't carry, you could come back again for more.
First I got some PATIENCE. LOVE was on the very same row,
Further down was UNDERSTANDING. You need that everywhere you go.
I grabbed a box or two of WISDOM. Then a bag or two of FAITH,
I just couldn't miss the HOLY GHOST. He was there all o'er the place.
I stopped to get some STRENGTH and COURAGE to run the Christian race,
But then my basket was getting full, but I remembered I needed some GRACE.
I didn't forget SALVATION, for salvation there was free,
So I tried to get enough of that to save BOTH you and me.
Then I started for the counter, to pay my grocery bill,
For, I thought, I had just everything to do my Master's will.
Up the last aisle, I saw PRAYER, and just had to put that in,
For I knew that when I stepped outside, I would run right into sin.
PEACE and JOY were plentiful. They are on the very last shelf;
SONGS and PRAISES were hanging near, so I just helped myself.
And then I asked the cashier, "NOW, HOW MUCH DO I OWE?"
He smiled and said, "JUST TAKE THEM WITH YOU EVERYWHERE YOU GO."
Puzzled, I asked again, "REALLY, HOW MUCH DO I OWE?"
He just smiled down and replied to me,
JESUS PAID YOUR BILL IN FULL A VERY LONG TIME AGO."

benefits can be spent on food and food alone, not on crack cocaine or other illegal activities in the food stamp black market," Sharp said.

"Since June 1, when the program expanded throughout the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex and along the Gulf Coast, the Lone Star card has been working so smoothly that retailers have rung up food stamps sales totaling nearly $65 million," Sharp said.

"But these benefits will bypass retailers who don't soon take steps to accept the card. Because of the vast geographical logistics of this expansion, which includes the San Antonio, El Paso, Golden Triangle and Panhandle regions, it's critical that retailers make arrangements now to install the necessary equipment."

Slightly more than 50 percent of the 4,000 retailers in this 90 county area have already signed agreements to provide food stamps and Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) payments with the Lone Star card.

"We need the remainder of the retailers in these areas to contact Transactive Corporation, the Austin-based operator of the Lone Star card, and make arrangements to come on-line by August 1. They can contact the company toll-free at 1-800-418-8000," Sharp said.

Food stamps benefits issued in the 90-county expansion area represent nearly $50 million worth of food sales per month, and the AFDC grants represent some $15 million worth of cash payments.

The Lone Star card is the largest electronic benefits transfer program in the country and is administered by the Texas Department of Human Services. The system's expansion into the San Antonio, El Paso, Beaumont, Victoria, Lufkin and Panhandle regions will reach some 300,000 households in about one-third of the counties in Texas. It is scheduled to expand statewide by early 1996.

"This card will trim the national costs of the old food stamp system by $45.4 million for printing, $4.5 million for shipping and storing, and $23.1 million for the final processing and destruction of the paper coupons at the Federal Reserve," Sharp said.

New view

By Darby Kethan

My mother told us once of how poorly she saw until she was first fitted for glasses. Like most of us without good eyesight she truly didn't know how limited her vision was until she looked through glasses at the world she thought she knew. Most marvellous of all was her discovery that trees were not large lollipops of green with brown sticks. What she found with her new vision were branches, bark, and most marvellous of all, individual leaves. That experience forever changed her perception from the world being somehow the same for each of us to the world being what we see, and consequently, make of it. In current jargon, she experienced a "paradigm shift", her perception changed and therefore what she saw changed and what she did changed also.

What many of us really need is just a new pair of glasses. Much of what ails our world, our relationships, our children, our schools, our communities, ourselves can't be cured or even changed until we, like my mother, find our limited vision of what is possible. We need an another pair of glasses and gaining a new view.

Remember that bit about having eyes to see and having ears to hear but neither seeing nor hearing? That passage is about learning to see and to hear differently. The refrigerator door at our house doubles as bulletin board, calendar, photo gallery and education center. I thought the sayings and signs I posted mostly went unread until I overheard one of the occupants of our home saying, "Sure, I know that. I read the refrigerator, don't I?" My favorite saying speaks to the same point my mother discovered with her new spectacles. "Two men looked out from prison bars, one saw mud, the other saw stars." Even from within confinement the one who saw stars experienced the wonder and beauty of the sky that was available to each of us. The other man found what also is available to each of us . . . the drab, the dull, the messy. What each man saw was determined only by his "glasses", not by his circumstances.

The hit movie and book, The Bridges of Madison County, inspired Time Magazine to investigate some non-fiction events in the area. They reported on canoe races, an event that only seems unremarkable until you know the distance is measured in blocks . . . and that the contestants carry the canoe as they run! You know, I don't guess there are any rules requiring canoe races to be held in water . . . they had a different pair of glasses that let them see the possibilities in waterless races.

My mother's parents accidentally discovered her limited vision and acted quickly to remedy it, knowing how important accurate sight is for success in school and in life. The vision we share of world peace, of caring, concerned and committed citizens can only become a reality by teaching first ourselves and then our children the way to new views.

PROfessions

"As time goes by"

BY David Rust

As Ephraim Gluehocker once remarked, "Travelin' is a lot more fun if you ain't in any hurry to get there." Uncle Sam treated this small-town boy to more traveling during WW2 than any five of my forebears had done in their lives. But we were always in a hurry to get there.

In February of 1943 my pal and I started homeward from Karachi, India (now Pakistan). I had finished my hundred missions in December, crossed the Hump and the weary breadth of India, and served a month at Karachi teaching combat tactics to replacement pilots. Now at last we were stateside bound.

From Karachi to Cairo the trip was pretty blah, just the mud flats of Iran and the Arabian desert under the wings of our tired old Gooney Bird. But from there the scenery picked up quite a bit. The war was over in Africa, so we didn't have to make the dreary trip across the belt line of the continent, as we had done a year before on our way to China. We took off from Cairo and got a good look at the Pyramids and the Sphinx. We stayed along the seashore to Algiers, marveling at the mile after mile of military wreckage left after the fighting. Then it was the jump across Morocco with its bleached-looking towns, to the city soon to know undying fame: Casablanca. Ah, yes, Bogart, Bergman, Henreid - "As Time Goes By" - play it again, Sam - cigarettes and whiskey.

To us, this exotic spot was just one more hump to get over on our trip home. But there, to our distress, we learned that the weather had done us dirt. The North Atlantic air route had been all but closed by winter weather, pushing all U.S.-bound traffic from Europe down to the southern route. There was a huge backlog. "Maybe in a month," the ATC guy said. "We're thinking about bringing in a troop ship to take the overflow." A troop ship! That meant three or four more weeks even after the ship arrived, weeks of miserable, cramped monotony.

Casablanca's charms failed to lure us. We wanted home. "Breathes there a man with soul so dead who never to himself hath said, 'This is my own, my native land!' Whose heart hath ne'er within him burned, as home his footsteps he hath turned -". Scott's poem could have been written for us. But how?

We had been there almost two weeks. I hung around the flight line quite a bit, even knowing it was little use. But one day I noticed a war-weary B-17 out there. Asking around, I was told it was going to be flown back to the States for some kind of publicity gimmick. But no passengers were allowed. And the thought crashed in: how about stowaways?

Early next morning I talked my pal into joining me. We packed our bags, went down to the line, and unobtrusively loaded our stuff on the old Fort. Pretty soon here came a couple of pilots wearing leather A-2 jackets. From their unit insignia I saw with delight that they were from China, the B-25 group that was part of our own composite wing. I hit them up for the ride home, making sure they knew we were from the 75th "White-Nosed Bogart, Bergman, Henreid - "As Sharks" squadron which had often given them escort. They were game. Just as a technicality, they took us back to Operations and got us put on orders as pilot and copilot of the B-17!

And away we went.

It was still a long trail home, by way of such foreign cities as Dakar, Natal, Kingston and Miami. But we made it in about three days. My buddy and I both got lots of time at the wheel of the Fort, neither of us having ever flown even twin-engined planes before. But the autopilot was down, so the regular crew were very happy to have us aboard.

I often wondered what the ATC officer in Casablanca thought when our turn came up, if it ever did. But I suppose he had more to worry about than a couple of missing fly-boys. Somehow, I never lost a moment's sleep over that.

Shalom . . .

1995 TFDA Convention held

WOODVILLE — Riley Funeral Home of Woodville was well represented by delegates at the Texas Funeral Directors Association Annual State Convention which was held June 19-22 at the Worthington Hotel in Fort Worth.

This year's convention was the largest in its history.

A varied and informative line-up of topics was presented by the TFDA Programs and Education Committee at the 1995 convention, which included day two marking the opening of the TFDA annual Trade Show. The trade show featured exhibitors from across the state and nation introducing the delegates to the very latest products and services available to the funeral industry.

According to the Rileys, one of the most important benefits of membership in TFDA is to meet with industry suppliers in a relaxed atmosphere, away from the workplace. Participants were provided with advice on ways to better serve the communities they live in.

They also had an opportunity to visit the memorial area of their beloved late executive director John Cathey, which is located at the convention center.

Stewart named to head Eagle varsity baseball

WOODVILLE — Mike Stewart, who played college baseball at Stephen F. Austin and Lamar University, has been named to head Woodville's varsity baseball program next year, according to new Woodville A.D. Ty Quick.

Stewart moves to Woodville after coaching baseball and football at Little Cypress-Mauriceville. He also coached at class 5A Weslaco. He is a graduate of Little Cypress High School.

The new Woodville coach attended Panola Junior College on a baseball scholarship and later played at S.F.A. He finished his college baseball at Lamar and graduated with a degree in kinesiology and health education.

LCM Athletic Director, David Williams, noted that Stewart was a valuable asset to any coaching staff due to his versatility.

"He is an excellent instructor of the game," said Williams. "He is a coach that kids will love to play for. Mike has been a tremendous asset to our entire athletic program and will be sorely missed."

Stewart will also coach secondary and special teams in football.

Quick also hired Bryan Barbay, son of Newton A. D. and head football coach Curtis Barbay. Barbay will be Woodville's defensive coordinator. He comes to Woodville after stints at Liberty and Coldspring. He is a S.F.A. graduate with a degree in health.

At Coldspring, Barbay coached the '93 Trojan Powerlifting team to a state co-championship. He is married to Tracy Barbay of Irving.

Stated the new Woodville coach, "Everyone I have met has made me feel so welcome. Woodville appears to be a place where success can be unlimited."

In other coaching decisions, Quick announced that David Stallcup will be moved up to coach varsity athletics, including taking over as the junior varsity receiver coach and handling the freshman offense.

John Lamberth will again be back as head basketball coach and will work with the varsity receivers in football.

Micha Bass will handle the defensive line and again coach the Woodville Junior Varsity baseball program, while John Cooley will work the defensive ends in football and coach junior varsity basketball.

Minor league

Softballers win thriller

WOODVILLE — Tyler County's Minor League Softball All-Stars rallied back to post a 6-5 extra inning victory over Lumberton Saturday night in the opening round of District 12 softball tournament action. The win sets up a second round road game at Kirbyville Wednesday.

Tyler County scored the winning run in the top of the seventh when Tasha Johnson drove in Lyssa Dennard with a single. Dennard had earlier gotten on base with a single.

Holly Robertson stopped Lumberton in the bottom of the seventh by striking out the side, the last coming with two runners on base.

Courtney Flowers pitched the first six innings of the game, chalking up 17 strikeouts and giving up only six hits. By league rule she was unable to pitch more than six innings.

Lumberton held a 3-1 lead through the fourth inning, but Tyler County tied it in the fifth on single by Ashley Tibbetts, a double by Dennard, and a home run by Flowers.

Tyler County's first run came on a single by Tibbetts and a triple by Flowers.

After falling behind again, the local all-stars tied the game again in the sixth on a single by Robertson, a walk to Tibbetts and a double by Flowers.

Tyler County 4-H'ers place at district horse show

LUFKIN — Tyler County students Amanda Bell, Katie Mc Clusky, James Courville, Elyssa Tucker and Patricia Sutton recently participated and placed at the District 5 4-H Horse Show. Katie McClusky and Mandy Bell garnered enough points to participate in the State 4-H Horse Show in Abilene in July.

The horse show, held this year at the Angelina County Exposition Center in Lufkin, drew 172 participants, ages nine through 19, all members of 4-H clubs within District 5 of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service which includes Anderson, Cherokee, Gregg, Harrison, Henderson, Houston, Jasper, Marion, Nacogdoches, Newton, Panola, Polk, Rusk, Sabine, San Augustine, Shelby, Smith, Trinity, Tyler, Upshur and Wood counties.

Horse shows, at least the 4-H variety, do more than teach horsemanship, said Matt Bochat, Extension Agent, Tyler County. "It's a lot more than just horses," Bochat said. "The 4-H Horse Show program helps 4-H'ers gain self-confidence and self-esteem. As with all 4-H projects, the children start a project and carry it through. Projects also teach citizenship, teamwork and leadership skills."

Chewing the fat

Congratulations go out to Chester's Bob Jewell and Jeremiah Barnes for making the Texas High School Coaches Association All-State Baseball team. both Jewell and Barnes were both all-state caliber players who helped the Yellowjackets compile one of their best records ever.

Thanks to coach Rusty Minyard for nominating two of his players, even though Rusty won't be back to coach at Chester next year. After much contemplating, Minyard is going out into the business world to give it a try. There are a lot of people who wish him luck, but at the same time wish that he would stay in coaching. Rusty is a solid individual who had respect from his players. He was good for the game and good for the kids.

I will miss Rusty in more ways than one. I have come across a lot of coaches in 25 years of covering sports, and Rusty would definitely fit in the top echelon. I think that above all is that he is fair. Even when Chester lost games he never dodged my calls. He always had his books ready with information. He was honest to let me know, and by doing so let you, the reader, know, whether or not his team played well or not. His concept of coaching went beyond the diamond and the score book. He realized that as part of his job that he had to talk with sports writers and baseball fans, and some would ask questions that he would just as soon not answer. But he did, he always did, and I respect him for that.

And while Chester landed two players on the all-state team, some folks might be wondering whey no other Tyler County player made it, especially folks down around Spurger. Let me do what I can to explain. This particular all-state team was selected by the Texas High School Baseball Coaches association. Some coaches are members, some not. Ballots are only sent out to members. So if a coach is not a member, naturally he doesn't get a shot at nominating one of his players. After the nominations are compiled, a list is sent back to the same coaches to be voted on.

The same thing applies to the Texas Sports Writers' All-State Baseball Team. I happen to be a member, so I can nominate any player that I have seen play, regardless of whether he is from one of the schools that I cover or not. The nominations include a brief list of a players' accomplishments from the past year. That list is compiled and sent back out to all the sports writers who are members. Those members stretch from El Paso to Orange, and to be honest, about the only insight a sportswriter has about a player that he hasn't seen from Chester or Woodville or Spurger or any other place is what is written in the biography. That might not be fair, but without sending films, and who films baseball games, plus spending hours and hours research, this method at least will recognize some of the best players in the state. The sad part is some will be left off who really deserve the honor. And the sad part about this year is that I didn't get a nomination list so I didn't get a chance to nominate anybody. The Booster switched post office boxes and somewhere down the line the nomination list got lost in the mail.

Things like that is why Robbie White of Trinidad, possibly the best pitcher in class A baseball this year, was left off the all-state team. It is also the reason why Woodville's Jason Tolbert won't be found on an all-state team, nor Spurger's Bubba Winkle or the Pirates' Marcus McCabe. And there are others. But at least Barnes and Jewell received their deserved honor. I just wish that there could have been more.

Switching from baseball to track, the Dallas Morning News has come up with some interesting statistics about high school track and how each state fares against the other. Using a point system of 10 for the best time in the nation in a certain event, eight for the second, six for the third and so on, the News has found that Texas would have swept to a national track title in a boys division and come in second in a girls division.

Using that formula in the boys' division, Texas scored 202.8 points compared to California's 119 points. Washington finished third with 42 points and Florida fourth with 33.

In the boys' division at least one Texas athlete had one of the top eight best times or distances in the nation in all but two events. Texas high schools dominated the times in the relays, taking six of the best eight times in the 400 meter and five of the eight best times in the 1600.

Jacob Davis of Orangefield had the best pole vault in the nation with a mark of 17-0 1/2, and Jim Roberts of Shepherd had the third best mark in the nation in discus with a toss of 196-0.

In the girls' division, California dominated the nation with the best times and distances. Using the smae point system, California scored 207.6 to take the top spot followed by Texas with 69.6. Maryland was third with 33 points and Pennsylvania fourth with 30 points.

Nanceen Perry of Fairfield had the best time in the nation in the 200 meter dash with a 23.49. She also was the second best in the 100 meters with a time of 11.50. And to top it off Nanceen had the seventh best long jump in the nation with a 19-9 mark.

Just in case you might be from another state besides Texas, here is a list of the states and how they fared in the mythical national track meet.

10 year old All-Stars stay alive

WOODVILLE — Tyler County's Minor League All-Stars stayed alive in the District 12 post season baseball tournament Saturday with an 8-2 victory over Kountze.

The local all-stars will now host Beaumont's Amelia Wednesday at 7 p.m. A victory there would move Tyler County on to the next step in the loser's bracket with a 7 p.m. Friday game. The loser of the Tyler County Amelia contest will be eliminated from tournament play.

Against Kountze the local all-stars got top notch pitching from Keith Hughes, Jacob Terrell and Clay Hensarling to hold the opponents to only two runs. Meanwhile at the plate, Derek Marshall, along with Terrell kept Tyler County's offense in gear.

After battling to a 1-1 tie through the first four innings, Tyler County broke the game open with a three run rally in the fifth. They put the game out of reach in the sixth with four more runs.

Marshall and Terrell each had a pair of hits in the game along with two runs batted in each They also both scored twice.

In the fifth Marshall and Clay Hensarling, along with a walk to Terrell and three Kountze errors accounted for three Tyler county runs.

Chud Back, Marshall and Terrell all singled in the sixth inning and got the benefit of a Ferguson walk and two more Kountze errors for four more runs.

Hughes started the game on the mound for Tyler County but had to leave after one inning due to a hurt arm. He was relieved by Terrell who pitched three innings and Hensarling who tossed the final two.

Tyler County is one of six teams remaining in the 12 team tournament. Four of the teams are in the losers' bracket, with two in the winner's bracket.

Eye banks get good, bad news

HOUSTON — A controversial new surgical procedure may be good news for eye banks, despite the initial fear that it would run them out of business.

Dr. Kirk R. Wilhelmus, medical director of the Lions Eye Bank of Texas, Baylor College of Medicine believes corneal transplantation, the oldest, most successful and most frequent transplantation operation performed in the world, may become even more successful due to the introduction of an excimer laser by Summit Technology, Inc.

The laser, approved by the FDA for photorefractive keratectomy, or the correcting of corneal shape, may soon be approved to "polish" away elevated scars on the surface of the cornea to improve sight. However, eye banks foresee a different use for the laser.

"We anticipate that the laser will be used to make a more precise, cleaner cut into the tissue, thus lessening scars and raising the high success rate of corneal transplantation to a new level," said Wilhelmus, "In the future we may see the development of an epi keratectomy, or a living contact lens."

Eye banks like the Lions Eye Bank of Texas in Houston have supplied corneal tissue to surgeons for sight-restoring surgery. Many people in the eye banking field initially feared that the laser would be a downfall to eye banks because of its possibility of eliminating the need for transplantation.

Dr. Reinhart anticipates one problem that the excimer laser will cause in tissue procurement. He cautions eye banks to watch for tissue of donors who have undergone laser surgery.

"If the laser procedure is used as a polishing device, the cornea will be much thinner. We would have to develop a way of inspecting procured corneas before incision to prevent paper thin corneas from being transplanted."

"We are excited about the laser and look forward to the introduction of it into eye banking," said Emile J. Farge, Ph.D., executive director of the Lions Eye Bank of Texas, the largest eye bank in the world. "It's ironic that a beam of light will help to restore sight."

Medicare pays second sometimes

LUFKIN — There are several situations in which medicare will pay second - after payment by another insurance carrier. One instance of medicare being second payer is when a worker is covered under his/her employer's insurance plan. The law specifies that the employer insurance will pay first and amounts not paid may be paid by medicare - if the services are covered under medicare. Claims should be filed first with the employer's insurance carrier - then medicare.

Other instances in which medicare becomes secondary payer include: automobile accidents paid by personal automobile medical insurance; state no-fault automobile insurance; or liability insurance. In the case of liability insurance, the claimant may file first with medicare but medicare will recover payments duplicated by the liability insurance. Some workers who have employer insurance delay filing for medicare at age 65 because employer insurance has such complete coverage. As long as the worker is covered by their employer plan, there is no premium penalty for filing later for medicare - that is if filing is done within a specified time after loss of employer coverage. Most doctors and suppliers, with a few exceptions, file with medicare on their services. A primary exception is when Medicare is a secondary payer. In this situation, the beneficiary must file the claim. More information on this topic or any Social Security or SSI matter can be obtained by calling SSA's toll free number - 1-800-772-1213.

Neches River Coalition meeting Saturday, 1 p.m., at courthouse

Neches River Coalition President Pansy Moulder, of Colmesneil, says the meeting Saturday, July 8, at the Tyler County Courthouse will be to approve a draft letter to Congressman Charles Wilson's office requesting a study be done to seek the re-authorization of the Rockland Dam and Lake Project which the coalition sees as a solution to extreme flooding of many of the organizers homes on the river.

Also on the coalitions agenda is approval of a resolution the group wants to offer to the Tyler County Commissioner's Court seeking it's help in stemming the flooding problem. U.S. Army Corps of Engineer executives have said in an earlier meeting that the Rockland Dam would "Cure a lot of ills", but the road to approval and construction is an arduous one.

In other business the coalition will appoint Advisory Committee members including Jeanie Turk, chairman of the Pine Island Bayou area in Beaumont which would benefit directly for the Rockland Dam.

Retailers get ready!

Sharp says food stamps will soon be out of business in Woodville

AUSTIN — "Food stamps will go out of business in Woodville on August 1," State Comptroller John Sharp announced Monday. "Tyler County is included in the largest expansion of the Lone Star card in Texas, and with this roll-out, the Texas attack on bureaucratic bloat and welfare fraud moves into high gear.

"In just four weeks, food stamps will virtually disappear from another 90 Texas counties, in the San Antonio, El Paso, Lubbock, Amarillo, Victoria and Beaumont-Port Arthur areas, along with portions of East Texas," Sharp said. "And retailers who prepare early should be ready to accept the card without a hitch."

The Lone Star card is the cornerstone of Sharp's wide-ranging welfare reform plan, which was approved by the Texas Legislature and recently signed into law by Governor George W. Bush. The card was first proposed in 1991 by Sharp, who created a task force to oversee its development.

The August 1 implementation will affect 300,000 families and 4,000 retail grocery locations in 90 counties.

"This security card will hold accountable both the bureaucrats and the people who depend on temporary public assistance," Sharp said. "It will save tax dollars, reduce fraud and boost grocery sales.

"That's why I urge all retailers that accept food stamps who haven't yet signed up the Lone Star card to do so immediately so they don't lose business or leave their customers hanging."

Sharp said that retailers who accept the Lone Star card reported an immediate increase in food sales after the program was first implemented in February in the Houston area.

"Between February and March, food sales rose by $4.5 million, because

County Clerk on-line for birth certificates

WOODVILLE — The Tyler County Clerk's office announced this week that citizens who are born in any Texas county may now obtain their birth certificates at the local County Clerk's office. Until this time, only Tyler County birth certificates were available through the local office.

The remote system which now makes it possible to obtain these out-of-county documents is limited to birth years 1926-1935 and 1942 to present, announced Tyler County Clerk Donece Gregory.

The fee to obtain a birth certificate is currently $9, and will remain at that rate through August 31. On September 1, the cost will increase to $11, due to passage of HB 1341.

Gregory explains that it had been a long term goal of hers to provide this service to Tyler County citizens. "Up until now, if one needed their birth certificate and was not born in Tyler County, they had to make application to the BVS in Austin, which had a turnaround time of four to six weeks," she said.

Several years ago, the Beaumont Health Department obtained the remote system which cut the document turnaround time to one day. "Now, our citizens can visit the courthouse within our own county and get the certificate within eight to 10 minutes. Another added bonus is that it provides the opportunity for citizens in surrounding counties such as Angelina, Jasper and Polk to visit Woodville to take advantage of our remote system.

"We are using our computer to the fullest to provide better service to citizens," she added.

Blood drive soon

WOODVILLE — There will be a Woodville Community Blood Drive at the Woodville United Methodist Church Youth Center on Tuesday, July 11 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 2 to 5:30 p.m.

Community coordinator Jess Collins urges everyone to eat breakfast before participating in the blood drive.

Chamber office lights

WOODVILLE — The Tyler County Chamber of Commerce will be offering Christmas lights to the public at a special price on Friday, July 14.

The lights are 61 feet long and contain 100 small clear bulbs like the ones that light the downtown square at Christmas, and are available with green or white wire. Price of the lights is $5 per string.

Chamber officials hope that offering the lights at this economical price will encourage Tyler County residents to make their neighborhoods more beautiful than ever this Christmas.

Lights must be ordered no later than July 14 and must be prepaid. For more information, contact the Chamber of Commerce at (409) 283-2632.

Children touch hearts of adoptive couple

By Don Gulley

Floyd and Helen Brumley of Warren have three beautiful children; Milton (9), Tarsha (8) and Janella (6). What makes them even more special to the Brumley's, is that they are adopted.

The Brumleys adopted the trio in 1990 with the help of the Texas Department of Protective and Regulatory Services (PRS). Milton was three at the time, Mrs. Brumley recalls, "He couldn't wait to meet his Mommy and Daddy."

When asked why the couple decided to adopt, they responded, "We had seen a television commercial that presented the issue to us, and the need that these children have just pricked our hearts. We felt compelled, and wanted to open our home to them."

The Brumleys are just a few of many Texas children, once homeless, who have found loving, caring homes through adoption. Today, however, "Many people are misinformed about the adoption process," says the PRS.

There are many myths that surround the subject of adoption today. Myths that leave countless of confused Texas youth grasping to a dream that they long to fulfill, a loving home.

Marie Green has been a Foster Home Developer for 17 years. She says, "According to the 1994 Annual Report of the PRS, there were (in 1994) 197,135 cases of child abuse and neglect in the state of Texas alone."

"In 1991," she adds, "there were 113,737 adoptive investigated cases; 1992 seen 129,239 cases; 1993 brought 132,883 cases; and in 1994 there were 151,378." Notice the steady rate of increase, you cannot help but wonder what 1995 will bring.

"We need adoptive families," Green says. "There are around 1,872 adoptions monthly." According to statistics, this is just scratching the surface. "In 1985, there were 5,193 children placed in foster care, in nine short years that number had increased to 11,247 in 1994."

Many people believe that adoption is expensive, or that medical and financial assistance are not available if they decide to adopt. These are some of the "myths" mentioned earlier.

There are facts, however, that dispute most misconceptions people have concerning adoption. For example, one may assume that the only children available to adopt are infants. However, according to PRS, "Minority children of all ages, (as well as) Anglo children 12 years old and older," are available for adoption.

One of the most misconceived ideas people have of adoption are the financial conditions one has to meet in order to adopt. The idea that adoption is expensive, is false.

Others may believe that you must be childless, married and own your own home to adopt. And on a more sad note, many have the idea that there aren't really that many in need of adoption. These are false assumptions.

"There are some specifications that we were required to meet," Mrs. Brumley said. "They (TDPRS) want to see if you have adequate space for the children, like their own rooms etc. They make sure that your home is safe, and that the children will receive plenty of attention from their new parents."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Brumley agree, "Those children are our babies, they bring life and excitement to our lives. God placed these children in our hearts to love and to teach them. They're our blessing from God."

Milton wants to make good grades in school and become a preacher. Tarsha has ambitions of being a singer, musician and missionary.

"Missionary to where," I asked, "Sea World!" she replied. And Janella wants to go to college and become a nurse.

Homeless children have dreams too, the most treasured and sought after dream that they could ever have right now, is finding a loving home.

Today, the Brumleys are in the process of adopting another child, they meant business when they said, "There are no regrets, we would do it all over again."

If you have any questions regarding adoption, or foster parenting, the PRS urges you to contact: Charlotte Squyres at (409) 633-3374 in Lufkin, or Marie Green at (409) 327-6762 in Livingston.

Floyd and Helen Brumley and kids: Milton, 9, Tarsha ,8, and Jonella, 6.

At the Village

By Dottie Johnson

Something old, something new, it's all there, at the Village

As our Whitmeyer Genealogy Library moves slowly but beautifully into place - don't expect it to be ready tomorrow, says volunteer library chairman Carol Phillips - I find it hard to believe that anyone could get less than excited about the information it contains and the prospects for genealogical research it affords.

Brand new bookcases made especially for this purpose by Stuart Roberts are in place, opened wide to receive the stacks of material that has heretofore been housed in one small room. Hanging above each case, circling the walls, are the tiles and painting of Village founder Clyde Gray, just as they were always meant to be.

Even as Carol and Joyce and many others catalog and label each precious book and folder, visitors have come in and found help in their searches. Once completed, the library will be open during certain hours on designated days of the week with a volunteer on hand to help.

And speaking of genealogy, don't forget to give Joyce Wilson a call at 283-5377 if you're interested in a Genealogy for Beginners Course at the Village. Don't call me, don't call the Village. Call Joyce. 283-5377.

Summer story hour moves to Village

We are delighted to announce that beginning Tuesday, July 18, Heritage Village will pick up the Children's Summer Story Hour, which will be ending at the Allan Shivers Library on July 11.

For four Tuesdays, July 18 through August 8, Woodville High School student Beth Kuehn will present a program of Texas related stories and activities for little people pre-school through second grade, 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. in the Village.

The daughter of Jack and Frances Kuehn and granddaughter of Heritage Society Life members Morris and Marilyn Clemmons, Beth is a talented story teller who should keep youngsters as they learn a little about their Texas heritage in story telling form.

Check next week's paper for more details.

Discoveries

I don't know whether it all comes under the heading of genealogy or not, but the information that has come to us about our early Tyler County doctors has brought about an excitement all its own, an inside look at what made some of our pioneer men and women tick.

One of the most interesting of these came from Memphis, Tennessee.

After running across the Memphis Hospital Medical School as the alma mater of several of our doctors, we realized that it had to have been the forerunner of the University of Tennessee Medical School. So I called and talked with Frances Verble in the University Library.

I couldn't help giggling as she referred to UT several times and told her that in our part of the world UT meant University of Texas. "Here," she declared, "it stands for the University of Tennessee. The Big Orange." "Don't tell me," I laughed. That's right. Orange and White. From there on, we were fast friends. As she promised, I received a few days later eight pages from the University's 75th Anniversary history, written in 1986. But the story went back more than 75 years.

It went back to 1841, when the Memphis City Hospital opened and a medical college formed around it. Using the hospital facilities to teach its student body, the school flourished until 1861 when the War Between the States and Reconstruction finally began to deal its death blow. It finally closed in 1872 after graduating 240 physicians.

Another medical school, the Botanico-Medical College, emphasizing plant remedies, "water cures" and steam vapor was also in operation during those earliest years, 1846-1861.

In 1877, answering an increased national demand for medical services, a new school called the Memphis Hospital Medical College was organized and finally opened in 1880, following two devastating yellow fever epidemics that caused over 5,000 deaths in 1878 alone.

In a new three story stone and brick building across from the old hospital, the new Medical College boasted a amphitheater, dissecting room for anatomy, small clinical laboratory, museum and dispensary, and it controlled 40 charity beds for teaching purposes.

It had to have been in those earliest days of the new school that Giles B. Wood of Emilee headed to Memphis to study medicine. A picture taken the day he left for the Medical College is among the artifacts in our Exhibit of Pioneer Tyler County Doctors at the Village.

In 1890 Dr. Thomas Randolph Ogden, also of Emilee, graduated from Memphis Hospital Medical College, in 1899 his younger brother, Urial Bevis Ogden.

In 1898, Dr. W. W. Anderson of Woodville followed suit. During that period additional facilities were added, a new hospital was completed and enrollment grew from 60 medical students its first year to 752 in the class of 1899-1900.

In 1905, Dr. John E. Sheffield was named among the graduates. By 1911, when the College merged with the University of Tennessee Medical facility, it had awarded 2,625 M. D. degrees. One of its students was Ivison Grimes of Tyler County.

A letter we have sent to the registrar at that other UT may uncover more details about these and other early medics.

Discovery, that's what historical research is all about. It can be such fun, especially when you get a packet of information from David Sheffield of Victoria, who uncovered the doctors of the Ogden family, on which he is doing research.

Two of these, as listed above, were Thomas Randolph Ogden and Urial Bevis Ogden, sons of Cornelius Austin and Sarah Frances McGough Ogden.

According to Sheffield, there was a popular trend at that time for young men to enter the medical and dental professions. Strangely enough, this seems to have been particularly strong at Emilee, a small remote farming community, where the Ogden boys plowed with oxen, chopped cotton and hoed corn in addition to making trips with their father to haul freight from Concord, in Hardin County, to Tyler County.

Tom Ogden's boyhood dream was to become a doctor, and he read everything he could "get his hands on" associated with the medical profession.

After graduation from Memphis Hospital Medical College in 1890, he returned to Tyler County, married Mary E. Masterson, daughter of Rev. John Gutherage, who was himself a medical doctor but better known as a baptist minister, and opened his first office for the practice of medicine in Colmesneil. Soon after he moved to Hardin County, where he practiced in Nona and Kountze before settling down in Jasper County in 1909.

His brother Urial, who married Josephine Lottie Lazenby in 1900, was a lumber mill doctor for Kirby, left the medical field for business in 1914 only to return to it when a shortage of doctors developed during World War I. A skilled surgeon and physician, he never practiced in Tyler County.

And so the story continues.

More on cemeteries

Frankie Kindle of Warren called to report that, thanks to our readers and good neighbors throughout Tyler County, Jim and Ann Laird are down to their last six cemeteries to be visited and recorded. On five of these they have people lined up to show them the way in.

All then that is left is the Moffett Cemetery, which they say is located just East of Pedigo. A John H. Moffett owned property there in 1850 and 1860 but disappeared from the Census rolls in 1870.

An old map the Lairds have show it but they have been unable to find it.

Anyone out there with the information they need? Give Frankie a call at 547-3095.

"Greed" vs. "Survival"

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter in response to the views expressed by Mrs. Darby Kethan in her article entitled "Man In The Forest" printed in the June 21, 1995 Booster.

Mrs. Kethan used words such as "Destruction", "Greed", "Extinction" and interfering with God's work. I am a fourth-generation logger and I feel that the uneducated and misdirected views of this article are a slap in the face of many hard working individuals who take pride in a profession that has had a big part in making this community what it is today.

The equipment Mrs. Kethan labeled as destructive may be faster, but the main objective of this modern equipment is to harvest the timber in a manner to meet O.S.H.A. standards of safety, E.P.A. standards of land protection and landowner satisfaction.

The logger was also labeled as greedy by this article. If Mrs. Kethan were more aware of the financial breakdown of the timber industry she would see that "Survival" would be a more appropriate word.

There is nothing more beautiful than to see God's wonders here on earth and I thank God that He made a special breed of people to take a raw material, harvest it, make thousands of usable products, replant (a word Mrs. Kethan wasn't aware of) and harvest, time and time again.

What I believe is an is for people who are so closed minded to watch thousands and thousands of acres be destroyed by Pine Beetles when the loggers could have stopped the destruction and waste.

Mrs. Kethan, please become more informed on an issue before you play God and judge people by their occupation! In most cases the loggers are doing a job instructed for them to do by a landowner or forester. Whether we agree with the way the timber is cut or not, we do our job with pride and professionalism.

Heaven's grocery store

Dear Editor:

My son, Anthony Brown, shared this poem with me and I would like to share it with others. Thank you for this opportunity.

Shopping in Heaven's Grocery Store

I was walking down life's highway, one day not so long ago,
When I saw a sign that said, 'Heaven's Grocery Store".
As I got a little closer, the door popped open wide,
And when I came back to myself, I was standing there inside.
I saw a host of angels. They were standing everywhere.
One Angel spoke, and said to me, "My child, just shop with care."
Everything a Christian needed was in this grocery store,
And all you couldn't carry, you could come back again for more.
First I got some PATIENCE. LOVE was on the very same row,
Further down was UNDERSTANDING. You need that everywhere you go.
I grabbed a box or two of WISDOM. Then a bag or two of FAITH,
I just couldn't miss the HOLY GHOST. He was there all o'er the place.
I stopped to get some STRENGTH and COURAGE to run the Christian race,
But then my basket was getting full, but I remembered I needed some GRACE.
I didn't forget SALVATION, for salvation there was free,
So I tried to get enough of that to save BOTH you and me.
Then I started for the counter, to pay my grocery bill,
For, I thought, I had just everything to do my Master's will.
Up the last aisle, I saw PRAYER . . . and just had to put that in,
For I knew that when I stepped outside, I would run right into sin.
PEACE and JOY were plentiful. They are on the very last shelf;
SONGS and PRAISES were hanging near, so I just helped myself.
And then I asked the cashier, "NOW, HOW MUCH DO I OWE?"
He smiled and said, "JUST TAKE THEM WITH YOU EVERYWHERE YOU GO."
Puzzled, I asked again, "REALLY, HOW MUCH DO I OWE?"
He just smiled down and replied to me,
JESUS PAID YOUR BILL IN FULL A VERY LONG TIME AGO."

Sharp says...

benefits can be spent on food and food alone, not on crack cocaine or other illegal activities in the food stamp black market," Sharp said.

"Since June 1, when the program expanded throughout the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex and along the Gulf Coast, the Lone Star card has been working so smoothly that retailers have rung up food stamps sales totaling nearly $65 million," Sharp said.

"But these benefits will bypass retailers who don't soon take steps to accept the card. Because of the vast geographical logistics of this expansion, which includes the San Antonio, El Paso, Golden Triangle and Panhandle regions, it's critical that retailers make arrangements now to install the necessary equipment."

Slightly more than 50 percent of the 4,000 retailers in this 90 county area have already signed agreements to provide food stamps and Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) payments with the Lone Star card.

"We need the remainder of the retailers in these areas to contact Transactive Corporation, the Austin-based operator of the Lone Star card, and make arrangements to come on-line by August 1. They can contact the company toll-free at 1-800-418-8000," Sharp said.

Food stamps benefits issued in the 90-county expansion area represent nearly $50 million worth of food sales per month, and the AFDC grants represent some $15 million worth of cash payments.

The Lone Star card is the largest electronic benefits transfer program in the country and is administered by the Texas Department of Human Services. The system's expansion into the San Antonio, El Paso, Beaumont, Victoria, Lufkin and Panhandle regions will reach some 300,000 households in about one-third of the counties in Texas. It is scheduled to expand statewide by early 1996.

"This card will trim the national costs of the old food stamp system by $45.4 million for printing, $4.5 million for shipping and storing, and $23.1 million for the final processing and destruction of the paper coupons at the Federal Reserve," Sharp said.

New view

By Darby Kethan

My mother told us once of how poorly she saw until she was first fitted for glasses. Like most of us without good eyesight she truly didn't know how limited her vision was until she looked through glasses at the world she thought she knew. Most marvellous of all was her discovery that trees were not large lollipops of green with brown sticks. What she found with her new vision were branches, bark, and most marvellous of all, individual leaves. That experience forever changed her perception from the world being somehow the same for each of us to the world being what we see, and consequently, make of it. In current jargon, she experienced a "paradigm shift", her perception changed and therefore what she saw changed and what she did changed also.

What many of us really need is just a new pair of glasses. Much of what ails our world, our relationships, our children, our schools, our communities, ourselves can't be cured or even changed until we, like my mother, find our limited vision of what is changed by putting on another pair of glasses and gaining a new view.

Remember that bit about having eyes to see and having ears to hear but neither seeing nor hearing? That passage is about learning to see and to hear differently. The refrigerator door at our house doubles as bulletin board, calendar, photo gallery and education center. I thought the sayings and signs I posted mostly went unread until I overheard one of the occupants of our home saying, "Sure, I know that. I read the refrigerator, don't I?" My favorite saying speaks to the same point my mother discovered with her new spectacles. "Two men looked out from prison bars, one saw mud, the other saw stars." Even from within confinement the one who saw stars experienced the wonder and beauty of the sky that was available to each of us. The other man found what also is available to each of us . . . the drab, the dull, the messy. What each man saw was determined only by his "glasses", not by his circumstances.

The hit movie and book, The Bridges of Madison County, inspired Time Magazine to investigate some non-fiction events in the area. They reported on canoe races, an event that only seems unremarkable until you know the distance is measured in blocks . . . and that the contestants carry the canoe as they run! You know, I don't guess there are any rules requiring canoe races to be held in water . . . they had a different pair of glasses that let them see the possibilities in waterless races.

My mother's parents accidentally discovered her limited vision and acted quickly to remedy it, knowing how important accurate sight is for success in school and in life. The vision we share of world peace, of caring, concerned and committed citizens can only become a reality by teaching first ourselves and then our children the way to new views.

PROfessions

"As time goes by"

BY David Rust

As Ephraim Gluehocker once remarked, "Travelin' is a lot more fun if you ain't in any hurry to get there." Uncle Sam treated this small-town boy to more traveling during WW2 than any five of my forebears had done in their lives. But we were always in a hurry to get there..

In February of 1945 my pal and I started homeward from Karachi, India (now Pakistan). I had finished my hundred missions in December, crossed the Hump and the weary breadth of India, and served a month at Karachi teaching combat tactics to replacement pilots. Now at last we were stateside bound.

From Karachi to Cairo the trip was pretty blah, just the mud flats of Iran and the Arabian desert under the wings of our tired old Gooney Bird. But from there the scenery picked up quite a bit. The war was over in Africa, so we didn't have to make the dreary trip across the belt line of the continent, as we had done a year before on our way to China. We took off from Cairo and got a good look at the Pyramids and the Sphinx. We stayed along the seashore to Algiers, marveling at the mile after mile of military wreckage left after the fighting. Then it was the jump across Morocco with its bleached-looking towns, to the city soon to know undying fame: Casablanca. Ah, yes, Bogart, Bergman, Henreid - "As Time Goes By" - play it again, Sam - cigarettes and whiskey.

To us, this exotic spot was just one more hump to get over on our trip home. But there, to our distress, we learned that the weather had done us dirt. The North Atlantic air route had been all but closed by winter weather, pushing all U.S.-bound traffic from Europe down to the southern route. There was a huge backlog. "Maybe in a month," the ATC guy said. "We're thinking about bringing in a troop ship to take the overflow." A troop ship! That meant three or four more weeks even after the ship arrived, weeks of miserable, cramped monotony.

Casablanca's charms failed to lure us. We wanted home. "Breathless there a man with soul so dead who never to himself hath said, 'This is my own, my native land!' Whose heart hath ne'er within him burned, as home his footsteps he hath turned -". Scott's poem could have been written for us. But how?

We had been there almost two weeks. I hung around the flight line quite a bit, even knowing it was little use. But one day I noticed a war-weary B-17 out there. Asking around, I was told it was going to be flown back to the States for some kind of publicity gimmick. But no passengers were allowed. And the thought crashed in: how about stowaways?

Early next morning I talked my pal into joining me. We packed our bags, went down to the line, and unobtrusively loaded our stuff on the old Fort. Pretty soon here came a couple of pilots wearing leather A-2 jackets. From their unit insignia I saw with delight that they were from China, the B-25 group that was part of our own composite wing. I hit them up for the ride home, making sure they knew we were from the 75th "White-Nosed Sharks" squadron which had often given them escort. They were game. Just as a technicality, they took us back to Operations and got us put on orders as pilot and copilot of the B-17! And away we went.

It was still a long trail home, by way of such foreign cities as Dakar, Natal, Kingston and Miami. But we made it in about three days. My buddy and I both got lots of time at the wheel of the Fort, neither of us having ever flown even twin-engined planes before. But the autopilot was down, so the regular crew were very happy to have us aboard.

I often wondered what the ATC officer in Casablanca thought when our turn came up, if it ever did. But I suppose he had more to worry about than a couple of missing fly-boys. Somehow, I never lost a moment's sleep over that.

Shalom . . .

1995 TFDA Convention held

WOODVILLE — Riley Funeral Home of Woodville was well represented by delegates at the Texas Funeral Directors Association Annual State Convention which was held June 19-22 at the Worthington Hotel in Fort Worth.

This year's convention was the largest in its history.

A varied and informative line-up of topics was presented by the TFDA Programs and Education Committee at the 1995 convention, which included day two marking the opening of the TFDA annual Trade Show. The trade show featured exhibitors from across the state and nation introducing the delegates to the very latest products and services available to the funeral industry.

According to the Rileys, one of the most important benefits of membership in TFDA is to meet with industry suppliers in a relaxed atmosphere, away from the workplace. Participants were provided with advice on ways to better serve the communities they live in.

They also had an opportunity to visit the memorial area of their beloved late executive director John Cathey, which is located at the convention center.

Stewart named to head Eagle varsity baseball

WOODVILLE — Mike Stewart, who played college baseball at Stephen F. Austin and Lamar University, has been named to head Woodville's varsity baseball program next year, according to new Woodville A.D. Ty Quick.

Stewart moves to Woodville after coaching baseball and football at Little Cypress-Mauriceville. He also coached at class 5A Weslaco. He is a graduate of Little Cypress High School.

The new Woodville coach attended Panola Junior College on a baseball scholarship and later played at S.F.A. He finished his college baseball at Lamar and graduated with a degree in kinesiology and health education.

LCM Athletic Director, David Williams, noted that Stewart was a valuable asset to any coaching staff due to his versatility.

"He is an excellent instructor of the game," said Williams. "He is a coach that kids will love to play for. Mike has been a tremendous asset to our entire athletic program and will be sorely missed."

Stewart will also coach secondary and special teams in football.

Quick also hired Bryan Barbay, son of Newton A. D. and head football coach Curtis Barbay. Barbay will be Woodville's defensive coordinator. He comes to Woodville after stints at Liberty and Coldspring. He is a S.F.A. graduate with a degree in health.

At Coldspring, Barbay coached the '95 Trojan Powerlifting team to a state co-championship. He is married to Tracy Barbay of Irving.

Stated the new Woodville coach, "Everyone I have met has made me feel so welcome. Woodville appears to be a place where success can be unlimited."

Softballers win thriller

WOODVILLE — Tyler County's Minor League Softball All-Stars rallied back to post a 6-5 extra inning victory over Lumberton Saturday night in the opening round of District 12 softball tournament action. The win sets up a second round road game at Kirbyville Wednesday.

Tyler County scored the winning run in the top of the seventh when Tasha Jamison drove in Lyssa Dennard with a single. Dennard had earlier gotten on base with a single.

Holly Robertson stopped Lumberton in the bottom of the seventh by striking out the side, the last coming with two runners on base.

Courtney Flowers pitched the first six innings of the game, chalking up 17 strikeouts and giving up only six hits. By league rule she was unable to pitch more than six innings.

Lumberton held a 3-1 lead through the fourth inning, but Tyler County tied it in the fifth on single by Ashley Tibbetts, a double by Dennard, and a home run by Flowers.

Tyler County's first run came on a single by Tibbetts and a triple by Flowers.

After falling behind again, the local all-stars tied the game again in the sixth on a single by Robertson, a walk to Tibbetts and a double by Flowers.

Tyler County 4-H'ers place at district horse show

LUFKIN — Tyler County students Amanda Bell, Katie McClusky, James Courville, Elyssa Tucker and Patricia Sutton recently participated and placed at the District 5 4-H Horse Show. Katie McClusky and Mandy Bell garnered enough points to participate in the State 4-H Horse Show in Abilene in July.

The horse show, held this year at the Angelina County Exposition Center in Lufkin, drew 172 participants, ages nine through 19, all members of 4-H clubs within District 5 of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service which includes Anderson, Cherokee, Gregg, Harrison, Henderson, Houston, Jasper, Marion, Nacogdoches, Newton, Panola, Polk, Rusk, Sabine, San Augustine, Shelby, Smith, Trinity, Tyler, Upshur and Wood counties.

Horse shows, at least the 4-H variety, do more than teach horsemanship, said Matt Bochat, Extension Agent, Tyler County. "It's a lot more than just horses," Bochat said. "The 4-H Horse Show program helps 4-H'ers gain self-confidence and self-esteem. As with all 4-H projects, the children start a project and carry it through. Projects also teach citizenship, teamwork and leadership skills."

To participate in the 4-H Horse Show, a young person must be currently enrolled in 4-H and meet age requirements established by the club and local county programs.

To join a county 4-H club, a person must be at least nine years old and no more than 19 years old, and a resident of the county. As with all Texas Agricultural Extension Programs, 4-H is open to all, regardless of race, socio-economic level, religion, disability or national origin.

For more information, call Bochat at the Tyler County Extension Office at 283-5284. The office is located in the Tyler County Courthouse.

Chewing the fat

Congratulations go out to Chester's Bob Jewell and Jeremiah Barnes for making the Texas High School Coaches Association All-State Baseball team. both Jewell and Barnes were both all-state caliber players who helped the Yellowjackets compile one of their best records ever.

Thanks to coach Rusty Minyard for nominating two of his players, even though Rusty won't be back to coach at Chester next year. After much contemplating, Minyard is going out into the business world to give it a try. There are a lot of people who wish him luck, but at the same time wish that he would stay in coaching. Rusty is a solid individual who had respect from his players. He was good for the game and good for the kids.

I will miss Rusty in more ways than one. I have come across a lot of coaches in 25 years of covering sports, and Rusty would definitely fit in the top echelon. I think that above all is that he is fair. Even when Chester lost games he never dodged my calls. He always had his books ready with information. He was honest to let me know, and by doing so let you, the reader, know, whether or not his team played well or not. His concept of coaching went beyond the diamond and the score book. He realized that as part of his job that he had to talk with sports writers and baseball fans, and some would ask questions that he would just as soon not answer. But he did, he always did, and I respect him for that.

And while Chester landed two players on the all-state team, some folks might be wondering whey no other Tyler County player made it, especially folks down around Spurger. Let me do what I can to explain. This particular all-state team was selected by the Texas High School Baseball Coaches association. Some coaches are members, some not. Ballots are only sent out to members. So if a coach is not a member, naturally he doesn't get a shot at nominating one of his players. After the nominations are compiled, a list is sent back to the same coaches to be voted on.

The same thing applies to the Texas Sports Writers' All-State Baseball Team. I happen to be a member, so I can nominate any player that I have seen play, regardless of whether he is from one of the schools that I cover or not. The nominations include a brief list of a players' accomplishments from the past year. That list is compiled and sent back out to all the sports writers who are members. Those members stretch from El Paso to Orange, and to be honest, about the only insight a sportswriter has about a player that he hasn't seen from Chester or Woodville or Spurger or any other place is what is written in the biography. That might not be fair, but without sending films, and who films baseball games, plus spending hours and hours research, this method at least will recognize some of the best players in the state. The sad part is some will be left off who really deserve the honor. And the sad part about this year is that I didn't get a nomination list so I didn't get a chance to nominate anybody. The Booster switched post office boxes and somewhere down the line the nomination list got lost in the mail.

Things like that is why Robbie White of Trinidad, possibly the best pitcher in class A baseball this year, was left off the all-state team. It is also the reason why Woodville's Jason Tolbert won't be found on an all-state team, nor Spurger's Bubba Winkle or the Pirates' Marcus McCabe. And there are others. But at least Barnes and Jewell received their deserved honor. I just wish that there could have been more.

Switching from baseball to track, the Dallas Morning News has come up with some interesting statistics about high school track and how each state fares against the other. Using a point system of 10 for the winner down to one for the tenth place finisher in each event, eight for the second, six for the third and so on, the News has found that Texas would have swept to a national track title in a boys division and come in second in a girls division.

Using that formula in the boys' division, Texas scored 202.8 points compared to California's 119 points. Washington finished third with 42 points and Florida fourth with 33.

In the boys' division at least one Texas athlete had one of the top eight best times or distances in the nation in all but two events. Texas high schools dominated the times in the relays, taking six of the best eight times in the 400 meter and five of the eight best times in the 1600.

Jacob Davis of Orangefield had the best pole vault in the nation with a mark of 17-0 1/2, and Jim Roberts of Shepherd had the third best mark in the nation in discus with a toss of 196-0.

In the girls' division, California dominated the nation with the best times and distances. Using the smae point system, California scored 207.6 to take the top spot followed by Texas with 69.6. Maryland was third with 33 points and Pennsylvania fourth with 30 points.

Nanceen Perry of Fairfield had the best time in the nation in the 200 meter dash with a 23.49. She also was the second best in the 100 meters with a time of 11.50. And to top it off Nanceen had the seventh best long jump in the nation with a 19-9 mark.

Just in case you might be from another state besides Texas, here is a list of the states and how they fared in the mythical national track meet.

10 year old All-Stars stay alive

WOODVILLE — Tyler County's Minor League All-Stars stayed alive in the District 12 post season baseball tournament Saturday with an 8-2 victory over Kountze.

The local all-stars will now host Beaumont's Amelia Wednesday at 7 p.m. A victory there would move Tyler County on to the next step in the loser's bracket with a 7 p.m. Friday game. The loser of the Tyler County Amelia contest will be eliminated from tournament play.

Against Kountze the local all-stars got top notch pitching from Keith Hughes, Jacob Terrell and Clay Hensarling to hold the opponents to only two runs. Meanwhile at the plate, Derek Marshall, along with Terrell kept Tyler County's offense in gear.

After battling to a 1-1 tie through the first four innings, Tyler County broke the game open with a three run rally in the fifth. They put the game out of reach in the sixth with four more runs.

Marshall and Terrell each had a pair of hits in the game along with two runs batted in each They also both scored twice.

In the fifth Marshall and Clay Hensarling, along with a walk to Terrell and three Kountze errors accounted for three Tyler county runs.

Chad Black, Marshall and Terrell all singled in the sixth inning and got the benefit of a Ferguson walk and two more Kountze errors for four more runs.

Hughes started the game on the mound for Tyler County but had to leave after one inning due to a burn arm. He was relieved by Terrell who pitched three innings and Hensarling who tossed the final two.

Tyler County is one of six teams remaining in the 12 team tournament. Four of the teams are in the losers' bracket, with two in the winner's bracket.

Eye banks get good, bad news

HOUSTON — A controversial new surgical procedure may be good news for eye banks, despite the initial fear that it would run them out of business.

Dr. Kirk R. Wilhelmus, medical director of the Lions Eye Bank of Texas, Baylor College of Medicine believes corneal transplantation, the oldest, most successful and most frequent transplantation operation performed in the world, may become even more successful due to the introduction of an excimer laser by Summit Technology, Inc.

The laser, approved by the FDA for photorefractive keratectomy, or the correcting of corneal shape, may soon be approved to "polish" away elevated scars on the surface of the cornea to improve sight. However, eye banks foresee a different use for the laser.

"We anticipate that the laser will be used to make a more precise, cleaner cut into the tissue, thus lessening scars and raising the high success rate of corneal transplantation to a new level," said Wilhelmus, "In the future we may see the development of an epi keratectomy, or a living contact lens."

Eye banks like the Lions Eye Bank of Texas in Houston have supplied corneal tissue to surgeons for sight-restoring surgery. Many people in the eye banking field initially feared that the laser would be a downfall to eye banks because of its possibility of eliminating the need for transplantation

Dr. Reinhart anticipates no problem that the excimer laser will cause in tissue procurement. He cautions eye banks to watch for tissue of donors who have undergone laser surgery.

"If the laser procedure is used as a polishing device, the cornea will be much thinner. We would have to develop a way of inspecting procured corneas before incision to prevent paper thin corneas from being transplanted."

"We are excited about the laser and look forward to the introduction of it into eye banking," said Emile J. Farge, Ph.D., executive director of the Lions Eye Bank of Texas, the largest eye bank in the world. "It's ironic that a beam of light will help to restore sight."

Medicare pays second sometimes

LUFKIN — There are several situations in which medicare will pay second - after payment by another insurance carrier. One instance of medicare being second payer is when a worker is covered under his/her employer's insurance plan. The law specifies that the employer insurance will pay first and amounts not paid may be paid by medicare - if the services are covered under medicare. Claims should be filed first with the employer's insurance carrier - then medicare.

Other instances in which medicare becomes secondary payer include: automobile accidents paid by personal automobile medical insurance; state no-fault automobile insurance; or liability insurance. In the case of liability insurance, the claimant may file first with medicare but medicare will recover payments duplicated by the liability insurance. Some workers who have employer insurance delay filing for medicare at age 65 because employer insurance has such complete coverage. As long as the worker is covered by their employer plan, there is no premium penalty for filing later for medicare - that is if filing is done within a specified time after loss of employer coverage. Most doctors and suppliers, with a few exceptions, file with medicare on their services. A primary exception is when Medicare is a secondary payer. In this situation, the beneficiary must file the claim. More information on this topic or any Social Security or SSI matter can be obtained by calling SSA's toll free number - 1-800-772-1213.
