Pioneers of 'Hick' Education Do Their Stuff on Main Drag

Up to Sunday, Feb. 7, it was not known Beaumont was especially interested in country people, and in particular, in auto drivers, other than from a commercial standpoint.

Because traffic in Beaumont and other large cities has increased so much during the past decade, certain traffic rules have become necessary. In far too many instances, these rules are misunderstood, therefore, violated, but principally by the country autoist, who goes to the city to view the white lights, the white way, and the by-ways.

This is only a natural consequence, because in the suburban districts traffic is not as heavy and people somehow, some way, manage to get through the little community centers with no great degree of danger, but when they get to the greater community centers, conditions are different, and almost before they know it they receive a call down—a ticket.

Traffic control in the great cities is not established just to get something on the "hick," quite the contrary, but rather to get the smart set, and don't give a darners of the city itself, in fact, residents.

And so arrangements are being made to install certain phases of signals and traffic regulations in the smaller community midsts. To inaugurate this great campaign of educating the "hicks" as to traffic regulations the Beaumont committee, who were reported to have been here on the afternoon the Ford Automobile Company gave away a brand new car some time since, selected two of our best young men to start operations in Woodville, and Sunday saw them at their best.

These two young men, Son Shivers and Joe Sidney Best established their stop and go signal on the main drag at the corner, occupied by the Ford people and in a close proximity to the Jim Wheat law office. There was a mob in their midst—in locating near the law office so that offenders would not have to spend too much time in locating an attorney to furnish bonds, etc. to appear before the municipal court often referred to by the factious as the "mulligan court."

Yes, the Booster car slowed up to obey the stop signal—but we claim to be city broke—everywhere but in Abilene, New York, and Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Beaumont is certainly performing a Christian like attitude in educating the "hicks" and its "hicks" appreciate it. But, at that, it seems there is a mob in view. If Best and

Wall Street and John Garner

The New York Evening Post, Wall Street, organ, attacks Mr. Garner, speaker of the house of representatives of the United States, formulator of Democratic policies in the one Democratic branch of our national government, and consequently the natural leader of the Democratic party in the nation.

The Post rules Mr. Garner out of the running for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, because, as it says, he is like Champ Clark, one of those "sloppy minded, easy going Southerners."

It ill behooves Wall Street, which has raided, robbed and wrecked the country with a most liberal disregard of sectionalism, to raise the sectional issue in politics.

This Wall Street organ's knowledge of American principles and constitutional provisions is not very good when it attempts to eliminate any presidential candidate because he is a resident of any state or section.

Its knowledge of American geography is not very good when it classifies Texas as especially a Southern State.

Texas, the greatest state in the Union, begins over a hundred miles west of Mississippi River and extends farther west than Oklahoma or Kansas or Nebraska or the Dakotas, and farther west than the middle of New Mexico.

And finally this Wall Street organization is peculiarly false in its knowledge of American history when it refers disparagingly to "sloppy minded, easy going Southerners" and the mistake of putting "the lazy South in the saddle."

The American nation is celebrating the bicentennial this year of one of those "sloppy minded, easy going Southerners," George Washington, the man who made it possible for the United States to have a president of any kind.

Without that particular representative of the "lazy South" this country might now be ruled by a British governor general; and sometimes said to say, it seems as if it were so ruled.

Thomas Jefferson, who gave us our Declaration of Independence was another one of those Evening Post's "sloppy minded, easy going Southerners."

And so was James Monroe, who gave us the inspiring Monroe Doctrine and gave notice to Europe to keep off the American continent. And so was James Madison.

And so was Andrew Jackson, who did not know enough to stop fighting but walloped the British at New Orleans after the war of 1812 was over, and after quite a few other parts of the country had been soundly beaten by the British.

We needed that representative of the "lazy South" to wipe out the humiliation of having our capitol and our White House at Washington burned by the British troops—as they may be burned again if Hoover succeeds in completely destroying our army and navy.

President Polk was another representative of the "lazy South" and he added the area of California, Nevada, Utah, Texas, Arizona, New Mexico, Oregon, Washington and Idaho to our country.

And by the way, when you come to think of it, it was presidents from the "lazy South"—sloppy minded, easy going Southerners—who added to the nation the states of Florida, Louisiana, the greater United States?

The Post should not write anything but the truth, and it should not do it in any way that does not do him any good.

Wall Street does not object to Mr. Garner because he comes from the West or from the South.

It does not object to him because he and Nick Longworth were friends in Iowa, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana.

Now where would Wall Street be without all these states to plunder and exploit?

Where would New York be if it were not a commercial metropolis of the world?

It does not object to him because he is a modernizationist on the liquor question.

It does not object to him because he is NOT BELONG to Wall Street.

Mr. Garner is of course not hostile to any legitimate element of the community, but he does not intend to be owned by any element. He will be a president like Jefferson, for the greatest good of the greatest number.

He will be a president like Lincoln of the people, by the people, and for the people.

He will not be a president primarily for Europe.

Nor will he be merely the official representative of the international bankers.

Mr. Smith, Mr. Baker, Mr. Richie, Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Young are all good men, all very good men, but all internationalists, all peculiarly acceptable to the international bankers.

Mr. Garner is NOT an internationalist.

HE IS NOT more concerned about European peoples than he is about his own people.

HE IS NOT in favor of giving the American people's money away to Europe.

HE IS NOT in favor of having our federal reserve banks develop European enterprises and have no money left to develop American enterprises.

HE IS just a true American—like Champ Clark.

That's all, and that's enough.

HE MAY NOT be acceptable to Wall Street and Wall Street's organ.

That is sort of too bad. But perhaps he will be acceptable to the rest of the country.

much money these days, thanks to Wall Street, but they still have votes.

The rest of the people have not—William Randolph Hearst in San Antonio Light.

Commissioners' Court Cuts Salaries to Meet the County Income

The County Commissioners met in regular session Monday and the regular routine of work was transacted, including the passing of bills, the placing of their official okay on the county financial statement and other little odds and ends attended to before adjournment, calling it a day's work well done.

Tuesday the Fire Works Started

The Commissioners came to order again Tuesday, and how? They were wondering just how to start the ball rolling when Commissioner H. A. Conner rose to his feet and made a motion that was seconded by Commissioner B. L. Richardson, that the services of B. B. Martin, County Agricultural Agent, be dispensed with, in order to take effect within the prescribed 30 days, the contract with the State Department of Agriculture calling that such a notice be given to all county agents when dismissal is contemplated.

There was not much argument on this motion and when the vote was tabulated it was found that Commissioners B. L. Richardson, H. A. Conner and F. W. Phillips had voted yes, F. Riley not voting.

Commissioner Conner then offered another motion that the wages of all county officials be reduced 10%—said motion he seconded by Commissioner B. L. Richardson and Phillips for and Riley and Richardson against. County Judge J. F. Sturrock untied the vote, and the motion was carried.

Pauper's Fund Reduced

Formerly the pauper fund had set the county back in the neighborhood of $2,400 and the 10% cut brings it down to $1,896 a year or about $158 a month.

The saving to the county, including the county's $1,000 paid in expenses with the State's allotment for the County Agents salary, together with the 10% cut in all county officers' salaries, amounts to a yearly saving of $2,720.

The Court requested Tax Collector Spurlock and J. R. Wallace, assessor to pay back their 10%. Spurlock readily agreed and as yet Mr. Wallace has not been interviewed. If Mr. Wallace agrees and as yet Mr. Wallace's sum of approximately $400 to add to the aforesaid named $2,720 brings the saving to the county to approximately $3,000 a year.

Judge Spurlock informed the members that this was in no way a political move, merely an attempt to keep the expenditures within the county's income.

The action of the county court in connection with the dismissal of B. B. Martin is said by two members of the court to be final and that they are determined to stand pat.

It has been common knowledge among those close to the Tyler County Commissioners' Court that the majority members were in favor of the agricultural work but during the past few months a deal of pressure has been brought on the Commissioners' Court to make a change. Those who were against the project call to mind that many agents throughout the state have been relieved of their responsibilities, and they saw no reason why the work should be continued at that time when the income of the County was at its lowest ebb for years.

The Tuesday session ended at noon, and it is reported no extra sessions will be called for the month of February.

The "Big Parade" Opens for 3-Day Stand on Thursday

In response to demand from film enthusiasts all over the country, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has released its greatest film "The Big Parade." The picture, enhanced with new and thrilling sound effects, made its triumphant return Thursday, Feb. 11 at the Crescent Theatre, and will prove itself to be a film which not only survives the years, but stands out as the most convincing and moving ever portrayed on the screen.

The addition of sound bumps out the best in the "talk" drama of an American boy's war, interesting both the trace war scenes and the many tickling comedy moments. The picture is a packed full of humor, of pathos, of wit, of comedy and of drama that is most profoundly moving. Melesse (Henry Arden) is wounded on the road after Jim (John Gilbert) had gone off in a motor truck. It typifies the best of the race of women. A scene in a shell hole where tobacco-chewing Jim (Karl Ludwig) spits at a target and so with the chance to save two pals from almost certain death is without heroes.

The long train of trucks carrying men always more men to the front, mangled by the train of ambulances returning after the parade is profoundly moving. An insane soldier in the hospital wand, the steady sweeping advance through the woods, with soldiers dropping here and there, the scene in one shell hole where Jim and Bull decide to go and get revenge for the killing of slim and the scene in another shell hole where Jim has dragged himself after a German soldier with intent to bayonet him, only to give up his last cigarette to the dying enemy who is, after all human, are only a few of the unusual and appealing bits. The war is real, war grim and relentless, heroic and comic, magnificently portrayed.

To the Voters of Tyler County

I am a candidate for the office of District Clerk subject to the action of the Democratic primaries, and I respectfully solicit your support. Should I be elected, I will do all in my power to fill the office efficiently, impartially, and satisfactorily to the people of this county.

I came to Tyler County when I was eight years old and have lived in it ever since. I graduated from the Woodville high school, in 1924, and have had five years of college training in the Texas Technological College at Lubbock.

I am married and have a wife and child to support. I am asking for the office because I believe I am qualified to fill it, and I shall sincerely appreciate every vote that may be given to me and every word that may be spoken in my behalf.

Respectfully, JOHN R. HUNTER

SOME RECORD

When it come to a battling average in voting, St. Bernard parish has it all over the rest of the world. In the primary of January 19, the result was something like this: Allen, 3,180; Clark, none; Boone, none; LeBlanc, none; Gulon, none. Which was a perfect day at bat for somebody!—Rayne Tribune, Rayne, Louisiana.

COTTON REPORT

There were 3,254 bales of cotton ginned in Tyler County from the crop of 1931, prior to Jan. 16, 1932, as compared with 2,778 bales ginned to Jan. 16, 1931. JACK H. PEDIGO.

Truck Growers in Saturday Meeting

The Truck Growers' Association met at the court house last Saturday afternoon. This was the last meeting devoted to the radish question. The radish crop will be planted some time this week, so get your seed as soon as possible.

Mr. Wilson told the members to get their cold frames ready just as soon as possible and set their tomatoes therein as the early bird will get the longest worm.

B. B. Martin addressed the meeting on fruit culture telling just how to take care of the fruit trees from the day they are set out to the ripe fruit and if his advice is taken Tyler county farmers will be in a better position in a few years than they have ever been before. We all know Tyler county is a fruit county but we know also no one has taken care of their fruit trees.

At the next meeting, Saturday, Feb. 20, information will be given how to fertilize, set and cultivate the tomato crop, also how to spray in case of insects. Don't miss these meetings for there are many things to be thrashed out that will be of interest to all, and the association needs your co-operation. J. W. GETTEINGER, Sec.

The Democratic Party Preparing to Make A Great Damn Fool of Itself Said Sen. Norris Memphis, Tenn.

CAPITAL STIRRED BY PROSPECT OF SMITH CANDIDACY

Conflicting Views Taken by Leaders of Various Factions As Result of Recent Statement.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Stirred by no other developments since the momentous days of '28, the democrats of the nation read and reread the pronouncement of Al Smith, and began once more taking sides for and against him.

In spite of his reiteration that he would not seek re-nomination, it remained the almost unanimous opinion of political leaders that his withdrawal to accept support had put the severely sick contest.

The Roosevelt men themselves replied that the effect would be instead to redouble their efforts and strengthen their candidate.

A charge that the power interests were seeking to defeat Roosevelt was made in the senate by Senator Wheeler of Montana, a Roosevelt partisan. The house cheered a proposal by Representative Blanton, democrat, Texas, that Speaker John N. Garner be made the nominee if Smith and Roosevelt stop each other.

From Senator Norris of Nebraska, a Republican insurgent who boomed four years ago to Smith, came the prediction that the democratic party was preparing to "make a damn fool of itself." Passing through Memphis, Tenn. Senator Norris said:

"That a Democratic year will be a year of the Roosevelt men is a prediction that the Roosevelt men themselves replied that the effect would be instead to redouble their efforts and strengthen their candidate."

Cellulose From the Whole Cotton Plant Science's Way to Beat Nature

Chapel Hill, N. C., Feb. 7.—A practical method of changing the world's cotton fields into cellulose farms is nearing successful development at the University of North Carolina.

Cotton is cellulose converted into fiber by nature. But chemists have learned to convert cellulose without nature's aid into fiber more than 100 times as fast and into hundreds of other lucrative commercial products.

For this reason scientists have been predicting speedy arrival of a time when King Cotton would abdicate and his snowy plants be used only to supply raw cellulose.

That time seems to be arriving on a 10-acre experiment plot supervised by Dr. Frank A. Cameron, professor of chemistry at the University of North Carolina, that the 1931 crop of cotton will be used to produce cellulose.

It is cut like hay and crushed into pulp, from which cellulose is extracted. The cotton plant is sown broadcast, and it is claimed that no cultivation is necessary.

Boll weevil infested cotton is as good as any other kind for obtaining cellulose.

The cotton boll is 90 per cent pure cellulose. The rest of the plant is 40 per cent cellulose. All this part of the plant has been waste.

Cellulose literally is the skeleton within which the living processes of plants does its work. This skeleton is made of crystals, composed of carbon hydrogen and oxygen. The crystals form cells that line up into long, straight strands.

These strands are the raw material which chemists convert cellulose into paper, rayon, and other products.

Four Escape From the County Bastille

It just seems those incarcerated in the Tyler County jail are getting the habit of escaping whenever the spirit moves, and they are getting out in droves of one and of three.

This is a pretty good record for prisoners to make in any old kind of a county bastille.

The first to escape was Prisoner Stanley held on the charge of robbing S. P. Dean at Rankland, who did on Wednesday of last week. Stanley was suspended in Houston (Number one, continued on last page)

Every Saturday night we will have The Hillbilly Show, quartette and an extra on our show program at the Crescent Theatre. See "The Parade" Thursday, Friday, Saturday, beginning Thursday, Feb. 11.

Second Growth Cotton Experiment

Don't get cold enough this winter. The cotton stalks, a magnificent crop, may be made into a second growth. There has been a great deal of talk about a second growth of cotton, but some of the cotton stalks are being used for a second growth. The stalks are being used for a second growth. THIRD GRADE—We are glad to have the children from Shilo back. The roads have been so bad the bus couldn't get to their homes. We are sorry to lose Thurman Rainey. He has moved back to Rusk. He was one of our pupils. Most of us have been studying hard and taking tests this week.

FOURTH GRADE—Elma Ruth Riley has been absent from school for two weeks. We hope she will soon recover and be back at school.

FIFTH GRADE—We are glad that all of the pupils of our room are present this week. We are looking forward to a book shower Monday at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon. In art we are making something new. In writing we wrote to our mothers about the book shower.

SIXTH GRADE—In arithmetic our class is studying subtracting compound numbers. Alva Lee Cobb and Willie Belle Sheffield are practicing for declamation. They are doing fine so far. We are sorry that one of our classmates, Bruce Holton, has quit school.

SEVENTH GRADE—We have finished our mid-terms. Most everyone has made a good grade. We have a new pupil, T. B. Tesson. We are very glad to have him. We have six days that Dave has been under. We are all proud that we are trying to be good and do our best. Our club is practicing a new song. We want to know the words by Friday. We are anxious to show the public what we can do. The book shower given by the Parent Teachers Association was quite a success. From two stand points. First we got 100 books, second from a social standpoint. Every one seemed to have good people for being so generous. Our sixth month began Monday and we know we must get down to some real hard work these last four months.

JOKES
Miss Brown: "What did Mr. Nobody do?"

Miss Brown: "Yes, but wet fire on the wood."

Teacher: "What is posture?"
Pupil: "It is something you filter water through."
Teacher: "Name three rivers and three cities of Texas."
Pupil: "Neches, Brazos and Mississippi rivers, and Beaumont, Houston and New York are cities."

Geography: "What does Arabia land mean? Land that has Arab on it."

NEWS OUTLINE
In the news outline this week we found some important facts about Washington in his boyhood. George Washington was born in Wakefield, Virginia, and later moved to Mount Vernon with his half brother Lawrence Washington. The first work Washington ever did was to survey some land for one of his neighbors, Lord Fairfax, in the Shenandoah valley of Virginia.

In his diary he wrote, "We camped this night in the woods near a wild meadow where was a large stack of hay. After we pitched our tent and made a very large fire we pulled out our knapsack in order to recruit ourselves. Everyone was his own cook, our spits was forged sticks, our plates was a large chip, as for dishes we had none."
This is punctuated and capitalized as it was in his day.

Again in his diary he wrote: "On the third night we went into a yard to my surprise I found it to be nothing but a little straw matter, without sheets or anything else, but only one threadbare blanket."
George worked hard and made accurate records for Lord Fairfax and so with his influence he promoted him to government as a trip to the United off Culpeppen county, Virginia. His land marks have been checked by up-to-date surveyors and have been accurate.

While he was young he had dreams of being a sailor like Laurence Washington. His mother gave her consent but after he had packed and was ready to go his mother asked him not to go so he did not. Before he was a sailor he was a trader in the West Indies. He did not like it very well so we learn here that he was indeed meant for the land world.

NUMBER ONE

(Number One—Continued from Page 1) and was just recently returned to Tyler County. He has a reputation of being a hard man to handle and after he had punched a hole in the east side of the pulpit, he was asked if they wanted it. They all refused and Stanley kept an ultimatum on the line. This, "I can fool health you keep very quiet until I have been gone a long time."

The hole in the wall has been repaired. One of the fine things in connection with it is the case of a person with a that it gave employment to somebody in the making of repair.

Monday Night Three More Escape
Monday night between 8 and 9 three other men decided they didn't like the surroundings. A hole was bored in the wall on the south side of the cell and Henry Galt, an under indictment for murder of his brother, and "the hair" from Doucette, and Clayton Edmon, indicted on a liquor charge, and a prisoner wanted in San Jacinto county, escaped through a remarkably small hole and slipped down to old mother earth and it is safe bet they're running yet.
No clues are noted by the authorities as to their whereabouts. About the only thing that is absolutely sure of is that these prisoners were not locked up in their cells, being given the freedom of the so-called run-around. This must be the case as no sawed bars or broken locks can be found and they would lead anyone to believe they had been able to get out of the steel cells.

COLMESNEIL

Miss Wilma Polk visited her parents in Beaumont this week end. Maurice Courtney and Harold Sutton spent Sunday with relatives in New Willard. Miss Olive Taylor had a week end camp. Her little sister from Mauldin. Mr. and Mrs. Marion Tatum of Woodville were Sunday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Tatum. Doucette Scouts

One meeting was called to order by our scoutmaster and after discussing the club and how we had held and attendance checks by parents. We had constructive and demonstrations of the first aid merit badge requirements. Then we were thoroughly examined in all tests passed the week as we will appear before the board of review soon. Each patrol had a short conference and plans for the coming week discussed. We were assigned our parts for our anniversary program which will be given with Woodville troop Sunday night at the Christian church in Woodville. Our troop attended Sunday school and church services here last Sunday in a body. We had 17 present in uniform. We were glad to have as a visitor Mr. Swearingen a member of the troop committee. Our new mascot, Thomas Lee Paschall, arrived at the home of our scoutmaster Saturday. After a very enjoyable talk by Mr. Swearingen we were dismissed with taps. — JACK McCURLEY.

THE CLAY'S THE THING

PICTURE REALISM NOW TOUCHES EVEN RAILROAD TICKETS

The railroad companies realizing that Hollywood is one of their greatest markets for extensive travel, extend all status the courtesy of making up special tickets to fit the scenario of any picture in production.
The railroad tickets used in Paramount's "This Reckless Age" in scenes with Charles Dudley, Eugene, Richard, and Charles Ruggles, Peggy Shannon, Frances Dee and Frances Starr were especially made up to fit the story.
The railroad companies are not at all averse to putting a fresh town on a ticket. Formerly they were turned over to the studio stamped with a cancellation mark but more recently the companies have been sending an agent to the studio to sit around and wait for the director to finish with the ticket. Then it is returned and immediately sent through railroad bookkeeping channels as cancelled.
"This Reckless Age" depicts the cross currents of the nowadays arising between conservative, though indulgent parents and modern, unconventional, selfish children. An interesting comedy drama, it provides several laugh-out-loud scenes, which are punctuated by many a hearty laugh. It is the Crescent Theatre's feature for Sunday, Monday, Tuesday.

RENEE ADOREE WITH THE BIG PARADE
Renee Adoree, who plays the part of the French farm girl, Mellisande, in "The Big Parade" which has been brought back to the screen with new sound effects, plays her part as the minor born, so to speak. For Miss Adoree as the refugee heroine in the picture is reacting her own thrilling experience when she was driven out of Belgium by German invaders, escaping from Brussels in a freight train under cover of darkness. She was born under canvas in a circus lot in Lille, and knows every part of rural France thoroughly. John Gilbert has the starring role in "The Big Parade," the new sound version of which will open Thursday, Feb. 11 at the Crescent Theatre.
