CANDIDATE CARDS NOT TO BE ALLOWED ON TEXAS HI-WAYS

State Highway Engineer Gilchrist Sends Out Notice to This Effect to All Division Engineers of State

To all Division Engineers:

Two years ago it was decided by the Commission that candidates' posters and other campaign literature would be placed in the same class as merchants' and manufacturers' signs which are not allowed on the highway right-of-way. You are, therefore, instructed to follow the same practice this year, giving as much publicity of this plan as possible, in order that it will not be necessary to have to remove such placards. You should instruct your foremen and other members of your personnel in patrolling highways to see that advertising of this character is not permitted and is immediately removed. The Commission believes that as no candidate will be permitted to place his name or picture on the highway, the Commission believes that the policy is fair to all and is necessary in view of the past prohibition of merchants' advertising on the highway.

Yours very truly,
GIBB GILCHRIST
State Highway Engineer

ATTORNEY SMITH IN BIG MURDER CASE IN LIBERTY COUNTY—SECOND TRIAL

This case that has been in the papers for the past two weeks had been tried in Montgomery county resulting in a mistrial. The style of the case was State of Texas vs. Amos Lawrence for the murder of Emory Fischer Nov. 17, 1929. Emory was a wealthy rancher. Lawrence was a second cousin of the murdered man, and the case went to trial plainly on circumstantial evidence.

The trial began March 7 and ended at 1 p. m. March 12, and resulted in a penitentiary sentence of five years. Defendant was 67 years old. Fischer was shot with a high powered rifle at 700 yards. Six witnesses testified that from the sounds of the shooting it came from Lawrence's home. It was claimed nine shells were fired. Later three empty shells were found at the pasture gate in front of the Lawrence home.

One set of tracks only was found at the gate and they corresponded with the defendant's foot tracks. The rifle was found in his home at the time of arrest.

Defendant was represented by E. B. Pickett, Liberty county attorney, A. W. Marshall, Abilene, and Tom Branch also of Houston said to be the best criminal attorneys in Texas.

Arranged against this outstanding legal talent was H. D. Crocan and Woodville's brilliant Prosecuting Attorney, Clyde Smith. Smith's closing address to the jury contained two logical and convincing arguments. The jury retired at about 7 in the evening and returned their verdict at 1 o'clock the following day.

DISTRICT COURT CONVENE MONDAY—ADJOURNED FOR BALANCE OF THE WEEK

The regular March term of the District Court came to order Monday. The Hon. Judge Thos. B. Coe and other court attaches all being present. It is usual with the opening of the court the selection of the Grand Jury was the first task undertaken which resulted in the appointment by the Court of W. E. Ogden, foreman. The other members of the Grand Jury were G. S. McAllister, Hugh Johnson, Martin Nellius, T. K. Goodspeed, J. G. Guber, D. P. Sheffield, H. Seamon, J. L. Hanks, J. W. Sutton, W. C. Cruse, M. L. Spinks.

There were six felony cases tried on the opening day, which is said to have been cleaned up, approximately, all such cases.

Judge J. E. Sturrock and Marlin Spurger appeared for the defense in all of these cases, and they consider themselves very fortunate in the disposition of their pleadings.

There was one two-year term assessed in connection with a child desertion charge, and several such cases, and one or two disbarment outcoms.

Monday Judge Coe appeared and the attorneys set the cases for a second week which appear to be civil hearings.

The Glover trial has been set down for April 6, and the Willford case, which was continued from the last term, was set for April 4.

- Spurger 2 petitions
- A. W. Buchanan of College Station was in attendance requesting that the county commissioners reconsider their order, but the commissioners stated that at this time it was impossible to find money with which to continue the work.

The regular routine of work was gone through with, and although the commissioners met again Tuesday morning there was but little work left uncompleted.

COLOQUIT FARMER GINS HIS WINTER'S CROP OF COTTON

Monticello, Feb. 26—Here is another story that couldn't have been written but for the fact that this has been the warmest winter any living South Georgian has ever seen.

Dan Baker has just completed the picking of 11 bales of cotton picked from boll which have opened since Jan. 1. He planted 600 acres last year and when the crop was picked the stalks were left in the field. They remained green and began to bloom. The blooms were followed by bolls and early in February the warm sunshine caused the bolls to open not quite as full as they did last fall, but sufficient to produce staple of fair quality. No effort is to be made to raise a third crop from the stalks and they are now being plowed under.

SYLVIA SIDNEY'S BIG OPPORTUNITY LIES IN NEW ROLE

Sylvia Sidney, whose excellent work in "An American Tragedy" was a notable comment from the critics, now has the leading feminine part in "Ladies of the Big House," which is scheduled as the feature attraction at the Crescent Theatre, beginning on Sunday, continuing on Monday and Tuesday.

This picture is Paramount's screen version of the story by Ernest Booth, life term convict author at Folsom prison. It is a gripping romantic drama of two persons who have run afoul of the law and presents a cross-section of the real drama of life within the quarters of a great prison.

"Ladies of the Big House" follows Miss Sidney's stellar appearance in "Street Scene," a United Artists production for which she was loaned by Paramount.

Miss Sidney gained prominence when Paramount selected her to take the part of Clara Bow in "City Streets," when the red-headed star became ill. She also had the leading roles in "An American Tragedy" and "Confessions of a Co-Ed."

"Ladies of the Big House" further Miss Sidney's career as successor to Miss Bow, since "Ladies of the Mob," Booth's first screen story, served as Clara's most dramatic role several years ago.

"Ladies of the Big House" Miss Sidney has as her leading man, Gene Raymond, who gained screen prominence as Nancy Carroll's leading man in "Personal Maid," following his stage success in "Young Sinners."

The story of "Ladies of the Big House," a heart-stirring romance of love and regeneration, centers on the two leading characters, unjustly caught in the coils of the law.

GROUND SQUIRREL APPARENTLY DEAD WHILE HIBERNATING

A ground squirrel, which apparently had died and had been buried more than 90 days, came to life on being dug up and going about his business. If nothing had happened, the little animal was a pet belonging to James Stephens, 10-year-old son of J. M. F. Stephens, 209 E. 31st street, and had been brought from near Colmesneil last June. Mr. Stephens is authority for this story.

In the latter part of November, to the great sorrow of James, the little squirrel died. As James was going to school at the time, the little animal was left in the shed for several days, and became as stiff as a board. Then a small box was prepared by the children, the squirrel laid in it, and a grave dug in a vacant lot across the street. A lead-little mound was made and a stone was placed both at the head and at the foot to mark the spot.

Toward the end of February, James and two or three other little boys happened to be playing in the woods, when some of the boys unearthed the box containing the squirrel. The open box added to the consternation of James, when the squirrel showed unmistakable signs of life.

It was taken to the house and soon became able to get up and move about. Food and water were given him and he seemed to be gradually recovering his strength. After spending 90 days in a tomb.

James thinks 90 days is a mighty long time to be buried in a hole, and he would never see the winter again.

PROVIDES DEATH PENALTY

That is a bill which provides the death penalty, except where the kidnaped person is returned without serious bodily injury having been inflicted, according to John M. Mathis, Sr., sponsor of the bill recently passed by the Texas legislature.

In any case, the penalty is "not less than five years in the penitentiary."

Mr. Mathis sent the following letter to the Post.

"I noticed in today's paper that the five district judges of San Antonio have had a solemn meeting and decided that the legislature should pass a kidnaping law and in order that these district judges might know that there is such a statute and that the people of the state generally might know it, I am convinced that if the district judges of San Antonio, Texas, are ignorant of the fact that a kidnaping law has been passed then the ordinary layman doesn't know that one has been passed, and so restriction or enlightenment of the punishment therefore. That bill was passed through the house, amended in the senate, came back to the house and the house concurred in the amendment and the bill was finally passed without a dissenting vote. The bill is as follows:

"Be it enacted by the legislature of the State of Texas,

Sec. 1. That every person who forcibly detains or forcibly takes, or forcibly confines, or forcibly conceals, or fraudulently entices away any other person for the purpose or with the intent of taking or receiving or holding or enticing away any other person, or any money or valuable thing, or every person who, by force, threats, fraud, duress, or enticement, takes, confines, kidnaps, conceals or entices away any other person for any purpose or with the intent of taking or receiving or demanding, or extorting from the person so restrained or kidnaped, or his relatives, of from any other person, or any money or valuable thing, is guilty of a capital felony and upon conviction shall be punished by death or confinement in the penitentiary for any term of years not less than five; provided, that in all cases where the person kidnaped, detained or enticed away is returned by the defendant without serious bodily injury, having been inflicted, the punishment shall be by confinement for any term of years not less than five.

Section 2. The aforesaid penalty applies in every case regardless of whether the offense originated within or without the state and the venue of the offense shall lie in the county where the kidnaping occurred, or where the person was held or detained or in any county through which the kidnaped person passed, or in any county in the vicinity of the kidnaping of the Lindberg baby, I deem it proper that the people of Texas should know that in view of the state and that it carried with it the emergency clause.

This law can be found on page 12 of the General Laws of Texas.

Yours truly JOHN M. MATHIS, SR.
