Divine Trust Topic of Sterling's Sermon Vigorously Denied

Sunday School Class at Tyler Addressed by Governor—Can You Visualize "Fa" in Such a Role?

Tyler, July 11.—Governor Ross Sterling preached a lay sermon here Sunday morning to the Methodist men's Sunday school class of 3,000 members, said to be the largest in Texas. He was invited to address the class Saturday night, when he spoke to an East Texas crowd in behalf of his candidacy for re-election. He changed his plans to accept the invitation.

Galloway Calhoun, former first assistant attorney general, who introduced the governor Saturday night, also presented him to the class as "A Splendid Christian Gentleman," and a member of the Christian church. Mr. Calhoun is teacher of the class. Sees Guiding Hand "Man does not really work out his own destiny," began the governor. "A guiding hand controls. The chief executive naturally has a great burden placed upon him. Many difficult questions are thrust upon him for decision, and he must look to divine guidance if he would really succeed. "We are going through a period that tests men's souls. Many have not been able to stand the strain, and have given up. I think, simply because they have not trusted enough in the Almighty. We must trust in the Lord, and He will carry us through. "I need your prayers," he concluded, "and ask that you pray for me."

Pollard Lauds Talk Sunday morning comments upon Governor Sterling's campaign speech here revealed a favorable reaction. "With 2,500 members brought into Smith county by oil since the last election, I was somewhat doubtful of the outcome of Governor Sterling's candidacy for re-election," said Senator Tom Pollard of Tyler, "but I believe the search put him in this county. It was wonderful campaign address, and made many votes."

OWEN W. SHERRILL CANCELS HIS ENGAGEMENT

Owen W. Sherrill, the regional manager, canceled his date for July 13th at Woodville and July 14 at Jasper and Bill Stark Camp, since he has been ordered by telegram to be in Washington, D. C., Thursday, July 14 on important business.

VALUE OF CENTENNIAL TO THE STATE RECOGNIZED

Austin, July 9.—Advertisers of Texas are falling in line with promotion of the centennial celebration in 1936. Earle Racey of Dallas, governor of the Texas District of the Advertising Federation of America, told members of the Austin Ad Club at luncheon Friday. They see the program not only as a recognition of the brilliant past of Texas, Mr. Racey said, but also as an investment in the state's future, whereby the event can be made to return many dollars more than needed to make it possible. "We are fortunate," said Mr. Racey, "to be of the generation able to see what 100 years has brought to Texas. I believe the temper of the Texas people is such that when the nature and value of the centennial is understood there will be no doubt of its realization in 1936."

U. S. WILL REPLACE $40 IN $10 BILLS TAKEN FROM GOAT

Dallas, Texas, July 9.—The government will give Roy King four brand new $10 bills to replace the money which his goat swallowed. The government, however, has declined to replace the goat, which perished as a prelude to recovery of the currency. King is county agent of Rockwall county. He was working in his garden when the goat gulped down the $40 and was promptly cut off in the flower of its youth.

NEW BRAUNFELS TO BE SITE OF THE FIRST TEXAS MOHAIR PLANT

New Braunfels is to be the site of the first wool and mohair mill in Texas, according to a new Braunfels dispatch. It will manufacture cloth for both men's and women's wear in the beginning and later on will develop the manufacture of wool and mohair blankets. Capitalization of $200,000 for the mill is in sight, according to James McDowell, technically trained spinner associated for the past several years with the Blue Bonnet Cotton Mills of that city. A committee of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association for some time has been investigating the feasibility of establishing such a mill in Texas and on June 4 the directors endorsed the New Braunfels location. The New Braunfels chamber of commerce having financed the early promotion and now undertaking to secure a large part of the capital. Although Texas produces more than 90% of all the mohair and 40% of all the wool in the United States, there has not been a single mill devoted to the processing of either. Within a short distance of New Braunfels are produced annually 50 million pounds of wool and 20 million pounds of mohair.

A. D. CARSON, WARREN VOCATIONAL AGGY MAN

A. D. Carson of Corsicana has been signed up by the Warren school board for the coming year to teach vocational agriculture. Mr. Carson called on The Booster Monday and he has promised to have a number of interesting stories on the work in a short time. Under the Smith-Hughes act a vocational agriculture man is an all-time, all year round worker, and the work is most valuable to all who are interested in agriculture. Mr. Carson stated he is now out getting acquainted with the farmers in the Warren district. Also he is getting ready to open an evening school for adult farmers in the district and problems of the farmers will be taken up. The work in the school for the youngsters is most interesting and at the same time one of the most important—more especially for those who live on the farms. The methods taught are as scientific as modern modes of experiment and research work can produce, in fact vocational agriculture is not an experiment in the school work. The Warren school is congratulated upon being able to qualify to the extent of taking on the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Rigby of Liberty recently made a short visit with Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Eden.

The D. F. Munsell family are moving here this week from Jasper. They will be at home soon in the Powell apartment vacated by Mrs. Jesse Feagin and children.

FOR RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT

The High Spots in Ross Sterling's Platform; Seeking Re-election or His Record

The platform of my candidacy for re-election is the record of accomplishments and conduct of my administration. Two years ago I told the people of Texas that if elected Governor, I would manage the state's business on a business basis. The indelible record bears witness that this has been done in every phase of the government which the chief executive has a controlling influence. This administration comes to the people not with excuses, alibis and promises, but with its record of actual performance. At the outset, this administration faced a deficit of approximately $4,500,000 according to official reports of the state auditor. Appropriation bills passed in 1931 to finance the state government for the ensuing two years, together with the prospect of shrinking tax collections, raised the estimate of the deficit to $11,300,000 by the close of the biennium, August 31, 1933. By executive veto of $3,621,897 of these appropriations, and other economies, supplemented by the imposition of taxes on cement, cigarettes, sulphur and natural gas, each of which helped held down taxes on real property, the deficit was reduced to a negligible sum and soon will be wiped out.

AID TO TAXPAYERS During this administration, the first definite move has been made to lighten the tax burdens on homes, farms and ranches in Texas. The constitutional amendment to exempt all homesteads to the extent of $3,000 assessed valuation from all state tax will be voted on by the people next November. I favored the submission of this amendment and I ask the people to vote for it. The home is the foundation rock of civilization. I have striven and shall continue to strive in every possible way to encourage home ownership in Texas. I shall always be proud that under my administration this forward step was taken in lightening the tax burdens on Texas homes. The taxpayer's lot has been made easier by the split payment act passed last year, permitting him to pay his county and state taxes in installments, and the distressed taxpayers were substantially aided by the tax penalty release bill which waived all penalties on delinquent taxes paid by January 31, 1932.

To mention only a few of the great number of other constructive steps taken by this administration: A series of bills was passed in the interest of employed people, along lines of workmen's protection and compensation. A minimum wage law was passed for state highway laborers. The state highway patrol was increased for the protection and assistance of travelers. The highway commission was authorized to invest $3,000,000 of its funds in state warrants, enabling state employees and Confederate pensioners to cash their pay checks without great delay or discount. A law to make kidnapping for extortion a capital offense was enacted to discourage criminals and gangsters from such horrors as was perpetrated upon the Lindberghs and other families. Last fall, I called a conference of representative citizens from all sections of the state to grapple with the unemployment problem. A committee of one hundred was formed to help find jobs for the jobless.

OIL RESTRICTION Perhaps the largest individual problem ever presented to the government of this state resulted from the unexpected discovery of oil in East Texas, the largest oil field in the world. When the East Texas field was discovered, many oil companies were importing oil from Central and South American countries to their refineries on the upper Atlantic seaboard. The discovery of the vast supply in East Texas, when added to that which was being imported, meant such a stock on hand that this natural resource was being sold to big barrel and taken out of the state. The farmers who owned the land on which the wells were located were either getting no royalty at all, or practically none. Texans were being threatened with the loss of their property, and were daily being forced toward actual bankruptcy. The state was confronted with the loss of more than $2,000,000 a year in the oil production taxes, which it had to have to maintain the schools and the government. The land owners were losing the natural resource which a kind Providence had placed beneath their land and Texas was losing something which should mean wealth to the state and which should have been a very large portion of the cost of the government. Only the largest companies had storage facilities that would permit them to take advantage of these prices and to reap a harvest of wealth at the expense of the landowners, small producers and the state of Texas.

By preventing in the only way possible this waste and destruction, Texas and her people have been saved millions and millions of dollars. In less than twelve months' time this action has brought in the state treasury more than $1,000,000 above the cost of the protecting this resource. If this action had not been taken and the unrestricted production of the field would have continued, then the great East Texas field would now be a matter of history, and the state would not have received its taxes, and neither would the people have received the benefit of their land.

RIVERBED LAW Your chief executive submitted and urged the passage of and approved a law passed at the last session of the legislature empowering the state government to develop its riverbed lands in the East Texas oil field and other producing areas. This development will bring millions of dollars into the treasury. It will not come from increased taxes, but, on the contrary, the tax burdens of the people will be reduced by the amounts realized from the state's riverbed oil production.

In the campaign of 1930, and at all times, I have espoused the conservation of all state resources—conservation of the soil, the minerals, the water, the timber, the game. Feeling that this generation should not be permitted to deplete our natural resources, so that oncoming generations would be deprived of them, I have urged measures to husband and protect them. Among those measures was the act to stop waste of oil and natural gas, already mentioned, and the soil conservation act of 1931. By the terms of the law, valuable assistance was extended to farmers by placing county road machinery at their disposal at a nominal cost, for the terracing of their lands. Many enterprising farmers are taking advantage of this opportunity to check the enormous losses of past years of erosion and washing away of the soil.

CHILD WELFARE WORK It should be a source of pride to every Texas that, upon recommendation of the chief executive, Texas has taken a place of leadership among the states in the advancement of child welfare. This was done

Garner's Name on A New Fergusonon Typhoid Here; Time Ballot for Two Jobs Plea for Money To Recognize Facts

Over in the Uvalde district, where Speaker John N. Garner is, and has been the representative of the people. It is likely his name will appear twice on the official ballot this election. This is unnecessary. There is little doubt the democrats will win at the November election, but if Garner should not win, Garner will still be Speaker of the House. Republicans in his district have challenged him. "If you are so sure of the democrats winning this year, why don't you also show a substantial sum of the difference was dividends derived from the Ferguson Forum."

Mr. and Mrs. Rual Norton are happy over the safe arrival of a son and heir who made his appearance on Monday. Other committees on which new members serve, but they are not very important to the Nation's basic policies. When a member is placed on one of the important committees he is not permitted to serve on the lesser assignments. Of course, John Garner's name should be on the ballot for Congress from this district—Williamson County Sun.

While Jim Ferguson in his Forum is pleading with the people of Texas for their checks and dimes to help carry on making believe that he must raise money to continue, we cite you the fact that in three years, Jim Ferguson's income tax report showed $18,053.00 and the United States Internal Revenue Department adjusted the claim to show that Jim Ferguson received $148,612.00, a slight difference of $130,559.00 between the way Uncle Sam figured it and the records.

At that time the commission found the department in a state of demoralization, highway construction and maintenance was virtually at a standstill. The federal aid had been withdrawn, and the preceding administration had left the department over $6,000,000 in debt. These conditions were corrected, economy and the gradual development of the department were launched and carried out as a matter of general knowledge.

DRIVE ON FEE GRANTS An investigation during the administration by a special committee of the state legislature uncovered a system of graft whereby the state was being robbed through the collection of fees based on falsified accounts. This practice has been stopped and a number of offenders have been indicted, tried and convicted. The leakage of state funds plugged by saving the state hundreds of thousands of dollars annually in reduced cost of government. Too much credit can not be given the able and tireless work of this special senate fee investigation committee, assisted by the state comptroller, the attorney general, the state auditor, and directed by the governor, the adjutant general and the district attorney of Travis County.

PRISON DEVELOPMENTS In the forefront of improvement, and savings made during this term are those of the state prison system. The state prison board and its convalescent management are to be commended for the wonderful improvements they brought about. Under the present management the penal system has been revolutionized, industrially financed, morally, by raising food and feed, manufacturing shoes and by other activities and economies, the system is saving the state more than $500,000 a year. But, above all, the morale and condition of the prisoners have been improved wonderfully. A good measure of these bettered conditions may be credited to the policy I have followed which lets into the dark prison walls the sunlight of hope conditioned on hard work and good behavior. Clemencies have been granted strictly on the merits of the prisoners, after careful study and recommendations by the board of pardons and paroles.

Within these restrictions the pardon power has been exercised humanely, yet with consideration of the inmate's ability to support himself and adjust himself to useful citizenship after release. Indeed, few full pardons have been granted. The policy has been to grant furloughs and paroles conditioned upon good behavior and the prisoner's use of employment. For bad conduct, he is promptly returned to prison.

ROAD FINANCE For more than four years I have advocated that the money for the construction of state highways should be derived solely from the traffic—that is, a tax upon gasoline, together with license fees. I have also advocated that the money levied by counties and road districts for the construction of state highways should be refunded to them by the state, or that their bonds to the extent of money used in the highways should be assumed by the state, thereby lessening the burden of taxes upon the homes, farms, ranches and property of the citizens of Texas. In view of existing economic conditions, I am opposed to the voting of bonds of any character by town, city, county or state for any purpose. A bill passed by the legislature last year, designed to give the counties part of the gasoline tax revenue, was vetoed because it offered no relief until 1933, and it materially interfered with the outstanding contracts, and obligations of the highway department, and many lawyers declared it unconstitutional. I will do everything in my power to give the counties such relief as a constitutional way, and I have submitted a constitutional amendment at the earliest possible moment, authorizing immediate relief along lines of the Brooks bill. As governor I have naturally continued my warm interest in highway department. I am proud of the continued progress in the program of road roads development begun by me while at the time of the department's chairmanship over five years ago.

PERSONAL LOSSES I shall be ever grateful for the exceptional degree of cooperation extended by the governor's office, the departments and the legislature which has characterized this administration. It has been a pleasure to work shoulder to shoulder with the legislature. I found members, as a whole, pleasant at all times and filled with a patriotic desire to serve the state. Generally, it was easy to cooperate with these men and women and to get them to cooperate with me. I am seeking re-election to the office of governor solely on the record of my administration. The people of this state generally know that I have suffered large financial losses since I have been in public office, but that is a personal matter and does not affect them. I have not slighted the public business, to give attention to my private affairs, and I shall not in the future, whatever betide. I make no appeal for sympathy. In truth, I have pleasure in company, so much company that if all those who have lost money in the past two years were to vote for me and all those who have made money were to vote the other way, I would be elected by the largest majority a candidate for office ever received in a Texas election.

During the campaign, I shall not neglect the duties of my office. At the same time, I shall go before the people, taking the occasion to submit to them this brief report of my stewardship, as my claim to their continued confidence. I am sincere in saying that I would rather contribute to the improvement of conditions and the relief of the distressed among our people, and to providing work for the unemployed than to gain all the offices in the world. I trust that these perilous economic times, which affect all the people more or less, I may have the cooperation of all citizens for a continuance of responsible honest government.

The issue is: Shall honest government and responsible government, and business-like government be continued in Texas?

A RECITAL OF FACT

Readers of The Booster will recall that this paper has been boosting for a cleanup campaign for some time. That we were correct that there is need for immediate action there can be no doubt and the following affidavits will prove our contention. It is not with a spirit of "I told you so" that we are mentioning the cleanup activity, but rather that the inhabitants of Woodville are in danger.

It will be remembered that at the time of the cleanup campaign put over by the Woodville Civic Club for a year ago a state health man came in and addressed the club and its members at the court house one evening. He made the statement that the city was all set for a No. 1 epidemic of typhoid fever and we had much rather tell the world about our activities in cleaning than make up stories about the dear departed, called obituaries. There is no pleasure in writing about somebody's loved ones who have been called to the great beyond.

That Woodville is due, at least for a cleanup campaign, that something be done in regard to those surface-outdoor toilets, not provided with screens and the surface water wells, and the majority of which are not properly protected with concrete surface covering and enclosures there can be no question. In evidence thereof of our contention, The Booster offers the following signed statements that speak louder than all the words that can be written from the common layman. There is no pretension from a laboratory test.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN On or about July 20, 1932, I was called to Woodville, Texas, to see Jim Pope in consultation with Dr. J. C. Miller. The history of the case was obtained from Dr. Miller members of the family and nurse in charge as the patient at this time was unable to make coherent statements. I then made a general physical examination of patient and found him with all the clinical symptoms of Typhoid Fever of a very violent type and of the most serious character and family.

With reference to the surface-outdoor toilet and the surface water well, I found them to be in a state of demoralization, and the preceding administration had left the department over $6,000,000 in debt. These conditions were corrected, economy and the gradual development of the department were launched and carried out as a matter of general knowledge.

ANOTHER STATEMENT NIPPED IN THE BUD

Persistent reports come to The Booster that the young man, William Jackson, a printer and Linotype operator working on the opposition sheet, had been hired away and employed in the Booster office.

Such reports cannot be passed up by The Booster owners. It can in no way be even construed as the TRUTH. Here are the facts: Last Thursday morning Jackson came to The Booster office and declared he had quit and that day going to Beaumont. We then mentioned that if he had time before he left for Beaumont he would appreciate his assistance in taking down the keyboard of our Linotype machine.

At noon the job was almost completed and he was on his way to lunch. We did not have him away, nor were we in any way whatever interested in his quitting his job, reports to the contrary notwithstanding. We mention this to clear up a situation that has arisen over the city and this is the only way we can get the real facts out before our friends.

It is a well-known fact we do not need to hire help to get out the Booster and Jackson knows this and does not expect to receive any kind of an offer from us. But the report is out—is being talked all over town, and up to now there has been but one side of the foolish story submitted.

FERGUSON RECORD PLAYED IN SPEECH BY ROSS STERLING. Colorado, Texas, July 7.—Texas would lose $7,500,000 annually in Federal road aid by adopting the plan of diverting gasoline tax funds proposed by Jim Ferguson and the taxpayers would lose much of the county bond taxes they have paid toward State road construction.

After giving one-third, or $10,000,000 of the gasoline tax revenues to the schools and putting one-third into the general fund, or Old Jim proposition, said the Governor, "there would be only $10,000,000 left, and that much is needed annually for maintenance and betterments. So Texas would not have the money necessary to match its share of Federal aid, which is $7,500,000, and, therefore, would lose the Federal aid."

Would Not Mean Tax Cut. Moreover, he said that if the $10,000,000 was diverted to the general revenue fund there would be no assurance that it would be used to eliminate the ad valorem tax. "In the past," he continued, "when there was a Treasury surplus the Legislature has always increased its appropriations instead of reducing taxes. But even if the Legislature should not spend the money and if the ad valorem tax were reduced, the reduction would be spread over all State taxes, and not just those of counties which have bonded themselves to build State roads. They are the ones that should have their tax burden relieved, and the only way to do it is to refund them the money that has contributed to State roads."

At the same time, he said, the plan would not decrease their tax rate more than 25c at best, but the refund plan would reduce the rates of the bonded counties as much as a dollar and more on the hundred dollars valuation.

FORD PRODUCTS FROM THE FORD PLANTATION

Shipping a cargo of new and exotic products of the Amazonian Jungle the steamship Boniface of the Booth Company is scheduled to berth today at Pier 14 or 15, Hoboken.

Below her hatches is a consignment of the first commercial products of the Ford plantation at Boa Vista, on the Tapajós river, 700 miles from Pará on the Amazon and one of its principal tributaries. Included in the shipment are latex and lumber from some of the best of the tropical trees to be found in the tropical forests, stumps of the same trees, as well as rubber, honey, from tropical plants of the family and oils pressed from tropical trees. The lumber and equipment quantities to be shipped are the first kiln-dried material to be shipped out of Brazil.

It makes me sick at heart to see farmers and their wives working from dawn till dark in the fields, raising cotton which scarcely sells for the cost of its production, and then to see them up taxes up to $3 on the $100 valuation to pay for highways of which they enjoy the most benefits.

All Voted Against Bill. "I'll be damned if I do," he said his answer was to the proposition, adding, "and every last one of those eighteen members who were named to me, they voted against the measure."

San Angelo, Texas, July 7.—The abandonment of the county aid system in State road financing announced on Tuesday by the Highway Commission, was lauded as the best thing done by Gov. Ross S. Sterling in a campaign address Wednesday night.

Mrs. Hugh Davis entertained with a swimming party near Hillister of some 15 youngsters in honor of the eighth birthday of her son Dick, although the birthday was Sunday the 10th inst. A splendid outing was enjoyed by all and the serving of ice cream and cake was the crowning pleasure. Dick received a number of lovely and useful gifts.

The home of Dr. and Mrs. M. M. Baker was the scene of a jolly gathering on last Thursday evening, when a group of boys and girls assembled for an informal party. The affair was in honor of four visitors from out of town—Mrs. Baker's niece, Miss Crystal Carnes of Chester, and Misses Nellie Harold, Virginia Morris, and Bess Brown of Conroe, who last week were guests of Miss Majorie Sandler. Various games were played, these being planned by Miss Majorie Sandler and the hostess's son, Woodrow. Refreshments of punch and cake were served by Mrs. Baker.—Enterprise, Livingston.
