WOODVILLE, TYLER COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, JANUARY 10, 1935

Offers New Crop Benefit Bill

Following his proposal for further expansion of his program of silver monetization, U. S. Rep. Martin Dies of this district one day last week announced in Washington he would sponsor a bill to set up a new domestic allotment plan for rice, cotton and wheat.

The plan would replace the Bankhead act and the present scheme of benefit payments of the agricultural adjustment administration. He had made it known in his district that he did not favor a continuation of the Bankhead law.

Congressman Dies' measure would provide certain payments to growers of the crops named, which he termed those having exportable surpluses, and would stimulate foreign trade by the acceptance of silver in payment for all such surpluses this country sells abroad, in his opinion.

The congressman's remonetization plan would be calculated to provide funds for the benefit payments. There would be no compulsory element in this because there would be no restrictive element, Dies said. The grower would be paid extra for his allotment, but if he produced more than that he would have to take the world market price and take his chances on breaking even.

Dies' as his first step, would have the allotments divided equally among the growers. Cotton farmers would be given 10 cents a pound in addition to the world price, rice growers would get 1 cent a pound and wheat farmers would be given the import duty on their product in addition to the world figure. Wheat, cotton and rice in excess of an individual's allotment would have to find an outlet at competitive prices.

Dies would reduce the weight content of the gold dollar from 15.521 grains, 9/10 fine, to 12.910 grains and would reduce the weight of the silver dollar from 412 1/2 grains to 206 1/4 grains. The treasury then would issue silver certificates against all of that metal it had, one dollar of certificate being issued for each 206 1/4 grains in the treasury.

Dies said the government thereby would profit by about $1,000,000,000 which, along with the increased values resulting from reduction in the weight of the gold dollar, would be turned over to the secretary of agriculture in the form of a domestic allotment fund, out of which the benefit payments to wheat, rice and cotton growers would be paid.

C. E. SMITH NAMED TO STATE POSITION

C. E. Smith of Woodville has been named to the position of attorney general in the Democratic primaries of 1934 has accepted a position as first assistant to the secretary of state and has moved to Austin to take up his duties on January 12, so that he may receive here from the state capital on Tuesday, Beaumont, Texas.

We republish this from the Beaumont Enterprise. The position has been impounded by Mr. Smith until we heard from the state papers, in the New Boy publication on Thursday and we were given it to notify the public of his appointment.

WOMANLESS WEDDING

Oh, Boy! Won't it be fun, when on Friday night we "split our sides" laughing at the Womanless Wedding at the Christian church? These handsome gentlemen often laugh at women's in men's britches, but now your chance to see how they look in dresses.

It has been announced by those backing the "Womanless Wedding" put over for the benefit of the Kirby H. Sweater fund, that there will be a banquet at the newly completed high school gym next week, Friday, January 18th.

This affair is in no way a restricted affair, as everybody who is hungry will be welcomed—if he or she or they have the price. Of course, no one imagines a free banquet in these prosperous alphabetical times, and, too, there is method in the madness of the banquet instigators, for, be it known, the cats are going to be provided by the P-T-A.

Yes, it is a fact, the P-T-A is going to help furnish the price for the lettered sweaters for the nearly victorious Eagles.

Notice is hereby given that everybody is supposed to be in attendance at the banquet, and listen in on the several speakers who will be present. There has been announced a program after the eats.

Emergency Gov. Cattle Sales

Notices were mailed to 214 owners to deliver by Jan. 15, 1935 head of Tyler county cattle to be bought as part of the drought relief program. This is expected to bring $12,000 to $18,000 to Tyler county citizens and give them a chance to cull out their poor animals many of which are slowly starving. Relief clients were given first consideration giving them the privilege to sell all they offered to sell. Next came in order the people who were known to be most in need of financial aid and finally dividing the remainder among the various growers as fairly as the county drought committee with a number of advisory farmers could prorate them.

Those cattle are to be delivered at Warren, Woodville, or Colmesneil to a representative of the Relief office for shipment, after they have been dipped. As the grower gets his receipt from the relief representative he takes it to the county agents' office where his voucher is completed and sent in for auditing. Most growers can expect their money from sale within about 15 days if the process functions as well as it did last summer. All growers are warned that they must properly dispose of all condemned animals before he can expect his voucher to be paid or approved. No dead animals must be left around the premises of the men who are kind enough to furnish pens for concentration points.

A. B. FORD.

LATER—Latest orders received Thursday morning say no cattle, except cows over two years old will be purchased.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mrs. Frank Fain entertained at three tables of Bridge Monday afternoon in honor of Mrs. C. E. Smith who is moving to Austin this week, where Mr. Smith will act as assistant secretary of state. Mrs. Smith has been active in social and church circles all her life and will be greatly missed in both, also Eastern Star activities. Mrs. Carlton Young held high score and Mrs. Mattie Hewitt received out prize. Mrs. Smith was presented with a lovely gift from the Thursday Bridge Club of which she has been a member since its beginning. Pie and coffee were served and all tried to let Mrs. Smith know that she would be missed, but that all sincerely hoped she would be happy in her new home and would enjoy a future of good health and happiness.

The Bridge Clubs entertained on Tuesday night at the Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Eden home for Attorney and Mrs. C. E. Smith who moved the next day to Austin. Nine tables of bridge enjoyed the hospitality, a number of expected guests absent because of the important meeting of Chamber of Commerce at which weighty questions were to come up for discussion. Gordon Anderson held high score among the men and Mrs. T. C. Rock among the ladies. Beautiful gifts were presented to both Mr. and Mrs. Smith by Attorney Sandlin from the clubs and Mr. Smith expressed their appreciation in a fitting way. Pie and coffee were served.

A. D. CARROLL
Funeral rites for Alva D. Carroll, 77, prominent Beaumont lumberman and prohibitionist, who died Jan. 5 in the morning at 10:10 in a local hospital, were held at the home of a sister, Mrs. H. C. Smythe, 695 Irma street, Rev. J. A. Smart, Baptist minister officiating burial in Magnolia cemetery. Mr. Carroll retired from active business about 20 years ago. Prior to that time, however, he had extensive lumber interests in Texas and Louisiana. He owned a large sawmill at Rockland, another at Orange, and another at Doucette, and had an interest in several other mills in Texas and Louisiana. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ella Carroll, Beaumont; a son, A. Dee Carroll, Beaumont; a brother, W. G. Carroll of Dallas, and two sisters, Mrs. Smythe and Mrs. John C. Ward.

J. G. OGDEN
J. G. Ogden, 51, member of a pioneer east Texas family, died at 1:30 Saturday morning in his home in Mont Belvieu. He was born in Tyler county Jan. 13, 1873, and had lived in Texas throughout his life. He was a member of the Tyler county board of supervisors and was a prominent citizen of Mont Belvieu.

C. of C. Executive Talkfest Tuesday

Tuesday night a well-attended meeting of the Executive board of the Woodville C. of C. was held at the court house. The word was out that Supt. Hays of Texas City would be present to tell of the reduction of the cost of electric energy. Hays did not appear.

His representative, T. S. Cole, explained he had received word from Hays there would be a comedown on the rate, and that Hays didn't know how much, but the next bills would tell the story.

Pres. J. E. Wheat called for propositions and there were a bunch of 'em offered for the mutual benefit of the town's treasury as well as for mutual benefit.

J. D. Brown headed the list with a good one, and that was to grab off this local plant and run it ourselves and sell the juice at cost, whatever that is. J. D. was unlucky because the Chamber did not buy it pronto, fire Cole and tell the Gulf Utilities to go south. However, Pres. Wheat said this plan had been discussed for some time and Woodville might yet get into the municipal ownership class; however, it costs to become municipally minded.

After the C. of C. completed its regular routine of procedure, Mayor Dave Mann took the floor and told of some of the things that ought to be done. The Mayor succeeded in starting something and the end is not just around the well-known corner. Something has to be done.

It is noticeable, however, while truck taxes and occupation taxes were discussed, no one made a motion to demand of the City Commissioners that an attorney—one not afraid of his shadow—be employed to collect years-past-due city taxes by suit at law if necessary.

Occupation taxes and truck taxes and permits for peddlers, etc., are to be generally speaking, but if the occupation taxes are only for a few it will not help much, save and except to dig in on some of our personal bank accounts. There is a raftload of Woodville citizens who are about to find out why some people can get by without paying taxes. If all city taxes are paid occupation taxes would not be necessary.

Space forbids giving a detailed resume of the round table discussions, but Booster readers will be looking for some story lights on Highway 40 at the junction with 45 p. d. q. before a dozen or more of auto wrecks occur within the city limits. The new sheriff is going to make a collection of some of the slot machine gambling devices throughout the county and the city commissioners and county court are going to back Sheriff Nechalson in his work. The city is also considering the employment of a night marshal deputized as a deputy sheriff and he'll have power to make arrests.

WOODVILLE LOCALS

Among the vice chairman named at the meeting of the retail code authority executive meeting of car dealers in Beaumont Tuesday, we notice where Paul Powell was again on the list.

A host of friends of the Ogden family are sincerely grieving with them in the death of J. G. Ogden who was brought back to Woodville for burial. A son of Uncle Neal Ogden his wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Crumpler of Hillister, two of the splendid pioneer families of this section. Apparently as well as usual when he retired, Mr. Ogden suddenly passed away with an heart attack.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Fortenberry have the sincere sympathy of all who know them. The infant born into the home in December suddenly passed away Sunday and the tiny body was placed in the Camp Ground Cemetery Monday with Rev. H. I. Rushing in charge.

MRS. FLETCHER BEST

It was with deep sorrow and sympathy that people learned of the death of Mrs. Fletcher Best on Sunday. Annie Eloy MacIn was born June 23, 1908, in Tyler county and early in her teens she immigrated to the Baptist church in the Sunny Dell community. She and her sister, now Mrs. Otis Best, married brothers and the two couples have been near and dear to each other. Two small boys, B. A. and James Richard, are left with the heart broken father to miss her tender loving care. Sunday her smallest one wanted her so badly, just couldn't go to sleep because she wasn't there, so he was taken in to her, so he could kiss her goodnight. All hearts go out to this sorrowing family. Interment was made at the Mt. Pisgah cemetery Monday with Rev. H. I. Rushing seeking to give comfort by quoting words of God's promises to comfort and care for the broken-hearted and bereaved. Her mother, Mrs. A. B. MacIn, three sisters, and seven brothers, all have sympathy of all. Otis Best is very ill with pneumonia so his wife has a double load of sorrow and grief to carry.

FARMERS MEETING

A representative group of farmers and business men met in Woodville Jan. 3rd for the purpose of making plans for a vegetable crop. It was decided to accept a contract with the Orange Products company for the growing of about 200 acres of cucumbers and it seems that there will be a moderate sized tomato crop in the county also. The main point that this group wished to put over to the growers is the importance of going to the field early enough to have a crop to market. A grower would be a hundred times more fortunate to go to the field early and have his plants killed than he would be if he goes late with them and does all the work necessary to grow them and then gets in the market one day too late with them.

After the meeting a conference of vocational teachers and County Agt. Ford it was decided to put on a county-wide campaign for the eradication of the "pests and diseases" that cause so much loss of our sweet potato crop. All agricultural workers of the county expect to help in this campaign. A. B. FORD.

HOG CHOLERA

Many hogs are dying of cholera in the county now, and owners are advised to keep their hogs in good health without delay. The disease is highly contagious and is fatal. It is caused by a bacterium which is present in the soil and water. It is spread by contact with infected hogs or their excrement. It is also spread by flies and other insects. The disease is characterized by a sudden onset of illness, with a high fever, loss of appetite, and diarrhea. The hogs die within a few days of the onset of the disease. It is important to keep hogs in good health and to avoid contact with infected hogs or their excrement. It is also important to keep hogs in good health and to avoid contact with infected hogs or their excrement.
