

Pupil Failures In Our Public School

By C. V. Compton

Over a year's period, the failures in our schools are the failures of children. When we realize the moral effect of a failure to pass to a higher grade, we can understand the situation.

We know failure in the business world can cripple the fight for a child's future. The plight of the discouraged student is less obvious. That it is just as real and just as potent educators are well aware, through parents may not be.

The Federal Bureau of Education figures indicate that out of 1,000 children who enter first grade only 311 enter the eighth. Fifty-one or approximately one-sixth of those drop out before entering high school. Out of the 200 entering high school only 107 graduate. Approximately half of these enter college and only a third finish.

It will be seen that educational mortality is strikingly high. Eliminating the economic factor it is unquestionably true that one of the chief causes is inability to make the grade.

Parents and teachers are being held responsible for this on the grounds that the educational system is not perfect. This is not true. The educational system is not perfect, but it is the best that we have. The blame for the failure of the child is not on the school, but on the parents and the child.

We are now approaching the season of greatest failure in the school life. Parents who are content with their children's failure are apt to think of it in terms of an extra period of schooling. The education of the child is not a matter of extra periods of schooling. It is a matter of the child's ability to learn.

Parents and teachers are being held responsible for this on the grounds that the educational system is not perfect. This is not true. The educational system is not perfect, but it is the best that we have. The blame for the failure of the child is not on the school, but on the parents and the child.

Clyde Smith Gets Action On the Court House Project

The following letter from Senator Morris Sheppard to Clyde Smith is in answer to a letter of inquiry to Mr. Sheppard from Smith inquiring as to why the court house project for Woodville and Tyler county has apparently been abandoned or pigeon-holed, or whatever one may call it.

From available records in this city it appears NOTHING has been done lately, and Mr. Smith was wondering why.

The letter was a personal letter to Smith who turned it over to the booster for the benefit of Tyler County citizens and Woodville folks who were rather perplexed as to why nothing has been done about the county court house.

Washington, Feb. 21—Clyde E. Smith, Dear Sir and Friend: In response to the Woodville letter of Feb. 17, I write to say the Public Works Administration advises me that the

F. F. A. Boys Digging Funds

The Future Farmers of the Woodville High school are selling magazines and setting out shade trees to raise money to attend the Fair Stock Show in Fort Worth. The boys keep half of their profits for their individual expenses and turn in half of the profits to be put in the Chapter treasury.

The boys who turn in the most money to the Chapter is to receive a prize. At the end of the first week of the contest O. V. and David Woodland were leading. These boys had been paid $5 by Dr. Barclay for trees set around the Woodville hospital and had sold twelve magazines.

With Reference to Annie Oakley Please Return 'HER' Immediately

One thousand Annie Oakleys were issued to Texas newspaper men by the Continental Exposition officials—that was fine.

On Feb. 19, news came out the big show's bosses were out trying to recall these passes, just to exchange them for single-trip passes. This is not so fine.

Showboats by the Maxwell coffee outfit put on their show at Houston last week, an honesty can anyone state a valid reason why Woodville shouldn't get in the swing?

Let's get up a petition and see if Woodville's live ones can't make an impression. Buy the coffee, are after a bunch of Woodville's live ones, drink this good to the last drop.

What would you do if the Maxwell plan became a reality and you were given $200 a month to live on with the understanding you had to spend all of it each month?

Would you keep open house for all members of the family? Would there be more home coming than ever before in all American history? 1200 a month? Come on, mother and sisters, let's go home to mother and father. Just think they have an income of $200 a month!

Now about those aliens who have bothered to become real citizens to possess American citizenship. They are applying for citizenship. They are applying for citizenship. They are applying for citizenship.

OLD AGE PENSION BLANKS NOW AVAILABLE

D. F. McDonald was here Wednesday in conversation with the booster. He stated that he was leaving Old Age Pension Blanks at the Court House here and at the postoffices in Chester, Warren, Hilliker, Doucette and Calmes around the Woodville hospital.

Clyde Smith was in Beaumont yesterday looking after a few rods of political fence.

Connally Turns Down His War Profits

Washington, Feb. 19.—The man in charge of proposed legislation to take the profits out of future wars—Senator Tom Connally (D) of Texas—has turned down two chances for a "bonus" on his World War service.

During the World War, Senator Connally then a veteran, left his seat in the House to serve in the army. After the war, the House voted to pay him and other veterans their congressional salaries during their absence. Mr. Connally had his name eliminated from the appropriation. Congress has since passed a bonus for the veterans of World War, but the House as a Senator—has been denied his.

The Senator has long been an advocate of drafting legislation to take the profits out of war.

General Houston's Once-Frodo Mansion Becomes A Patched and Ricketty Refuge For The Homeless

Huntsville—The once lovely home of Gen. Sam Houston, father of Texas independence, has become a home for the homeless.

Stimulus House, where a St. Louis man, who was a general in the army, died in 1862, is now a refuge for the homeless. The mansion, which was built in 1820, is now a refuge for the homeless.

22,000,000 Trees In Shelter Belt

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 10.—Federal shelter belt officials announced the first of 22,000,000 trees to be planted in six midwestern states during 1936 will be set out immediately in southwestern Oklahoma and northwestern Texas.

Reiter laborers will plant the trees as part of a federal $75,000,000 attempt to control wind erosion and reduce soil moisture evaporation. Wages for the planters range from $6 to $7 a month for 180 hours of work.

And 124 Miles

Officials estimated the new program which will add 124 million shelter belt trees to the 120 million planted last year would cost $200,000,000 during 1936.

They may be some doubts as to the accuracy of the figures, but the fact is that the majority was just 553.

150th Anniversary of Gen. James Appleton's Birth "Father of Prohibition"

Probably getting underway even to most of the great host who still support the ideal he first urged in this country, was the 150th anniversary (February 14th) of the birth of Gen. James Appleton, credited with being the "Father of Prohibition." He was born Feb. 14, 1786, in Ipswich, Mass., and gained the first idea of prohibition by law while serving in the Massachusetts legislature in 1811.

One day listening to a debate upon a license bill then being considered by the Legislature, he was suddenly seized with the thought that it appeared from the debate—the sale of liquor was so harmful to the public it should be licensed at all.

First Prohibitionist

The idea took deep root in General Appleton's thought, and believing he had found a true principle which would, if faithfully applied, rid society of rum, he determined to do all in his power to secure its adoption by the public.

The Ipswich Chronicle reports that three of the General's (Gen. Appleton) first speeches in the Legislature were the first announced against prohibition. Although the General's first speech was in 1811, it was not until 1819 that the first prohibition law was passed in this country.

It was in this school of vigorous ethics and sound prohibitive philosophy that Neal Day and others of that day were said to have received the education and inspiration for their efforts in succeeding years.

Law Passed in 1834

In 1834 General Appleton's report and the work of Maine prohibitionists had its effect. The law was passed in that year.

It was said to have accomplished great good, but though the law was passed in 1834, it was not until 1850 that the first prohibition law was passed in this country.

THE CHICKEN

A chicken sat in his swivel chair, evolving a scheme from pure bluff. But, the chicken, pretending to make a bluff.

Neither money nor credit have I. That's tough.

So he called in a partner whose name he knew.

And changed away his chicken. Saying, "Please take this change on me."

And if I make good no chicken will I get over on you henceforth.

So the partner sharpened his pencil line.

(Although knowing all he said, and took in payment) O. U. Which he finally cashed (as they sometimes do).

And the business evolved from pure bluff.

And printed matter, and bunk and blarney.

And crew (as such business schemes will) to give the chicken a mighty bluff.

And the printer thought, as a printer would.

Now that the business was going on, last he'd begin to get the price that his work was worth for.

But the chicken, called for his rate one day.

And the printer, as accounts were settled, complained.

"I'd had friend's prices," he said, "paid by a partner who had no money."

And the chicken, who had no money, said, "I'd had friend's prices, paid by a partner who had no money."

On Texas Farms
 Searching questions are being asked of would-be gardeners by F. F. Rosborough, extension horticulturist at the gardening season opens. No more examining lawyer can beat Rosborough when it comes to this question: "Where five tons of manure applied to each half acre of your garden?" He asked if not rotted manure, leaf mold or rotted gin burs can still be applied, he says.

DAMPING OFF OF PLANTS

There are several ways to dampen off plants. The plants from damping off. A method is to select a well draining soil for the bed and see that the plants get some ventilation each sunny day. Avoid excessive watering, which may lead to damping off.

Copper Carbonate Treatment

To sterilize the soil of the same of damping tomato seed copper carbonate may be used. Mix 1 lb. of 50% copper carbonate powder with 25 gallons water. Plant the seed and wet the soil with this solution, using 1 pint per square foot of bed surface. Three ounces of copper carbonate dissolved in 1 gallon water will treat 100 sq. ft. of bed. If plants are up, it can be applied at the same rate except the solution should not touch the foliage. It should be run down the sides of the bed.

That is a habit. A habit is a thing you do unconsciously or automatically, without thought. We are ruled by our habits. When habits are young they are like little birds, soft, fluffy, friendly, frolicsome little animals. They grow day by day. Eventually, they rule you. Choose this day, the habit you would have to rule over you. The habit that thrives is simply the habit which dictates that you shall earn more than you spend. In other words, thrift is the habit that provides that you shall spend less than you earn. Take your choice.

Here's a Fine Red Fruit

A significant body of research has shown that the tomato is a fruit. It is a member of the nightshade family, the same family as the potato, eggplant, and pepper. The tomato is a fruit because it grows on a stem and has seeds. It is a fruit because it is a member of the nightshade family. It is a fruit because it is a member of the nightshade family.
