Surge Oil Well Down Deep

The Republic-Houston's North Pole No. 1 at Spurger is drilling at around 7200 feet. Because of the high pressure, the precautions are being taken by the drillers at the Spurger field.

The several banana cuts obtained all over Tyler county are about to do an upset for the county. A few well directly next to the Tyler county line spudded in very recently.

It is noted that these two above named wells seem to be producing the well laid plans of men and mice will all go haywire. If you understand what is meant thereby.

That there are favorable indications in Tyler county is very apparent and more so, especially when one looks back two or three and four years since when the checkerboard process was being applied over the county by major and other company's lease holders. They spent from two to four years leasing up Tyler County farm and timberlands.

The indications were brought to notice of the superiors when all the modern testing machines including double-bugs, showed all nearly everywhere in the county.

Of course, the natives leased their lands, high pressure well lines and lease-holders attended to that to the queen's taste in spite of the booster's warning to obtain drilling clauses of from 80 to 100 days, none so far as the booster has been able to learn were obtained.
