

Washington at 25

The taxed-to-death taxpayers of this state are organizing to force the tax assessors to follow the law in assessing property. If they don't know the law they have no business with that office.

When George Washington was twenty-five he was a soldier on the way toward becoming Virginia's first citizen. His marriage to Martha, the wealthy widow of Daniel Custis, in 1759 and the death of his first wife, Mary, in 1788, made him the richest man in Virginia, and certainly one of the richest in America.

Washington, Feb. 22 Or—Feb. 11

New York—Believe it or not, Feb. 11 is George Washington's birthday. Instead of Feb. 22, which is the date of common observance. This observation was made by Dr. William H. Barton, Jr., of Hayden Place, New York, whose hobby is the study of George Washington.

11-Grade Schools Produce Failures

Major university freshmen from 12-grade schools flunk out their first year because of the 11-grade system, according to C. V. Coleman, superintendent of Woodville schools and former school president of several Oklahoma universities.

 Plenty of Seed Potatoes and Fertilizer

IT SEEMS fireworks a plenty abound in the Texas legislative halls this year. Among other things some of the night sessions that members want to know about the $18,282,223 lobbying bill of the Texas Gull Sulphur Company as taken from a page of the auditor's records in the sulphur company's office in New York City. Can it be possible the money was not properly distributed and somebody is squealing? The Houston Press gets its facts such and in this instance in the Feb. 9, 1937 edition, by its editorial page, wants to know why the legislature does not start something for an article headed "What is the House Afraid Of?" When one lobbyist distributed $18,282,223 when the legislature was in session, it appears the balance of Texas should

MAN GETS LIFE TERM AS HABITUAL CRIMINAL
 Livingston—Among the cases tried in district court last week was that of Jettie Smith, charged with the burglary of the H. A. Wilson store in Barham. Smith was also tried as a habitual criminal and given a life sentence, the first case of this kind in Polk county. The trial of Smith revealed that the Wilson store has been
