

The Child Ready for School

Now is the time according to health officers... for every parent to ask himself if his child is physically ready for school.

A child with defective vision cannot be expected to do the best work in school... health officers are expected to make health checks.

Defective vision and other physical defects... should be corrected before the child enters school.

Physical defects are detectable in children... health officers should check for these defects.

Good and fair rules for children... should be set at a certain age to help them in their studies.
