J. H. WILLARD, Editor-Owner
MRS. J. H. WILLARD, Adv. Mgr.

GEO. KIRKPATRICK of Ewaldale, near Silsbee, who was one of Bill McCraw's backers in the last and lamented election, has been re-appointed as assistant attorney general to Gerald Mann, a position he enjoyed under McCraw. Friends are extending congratulations.

MOST THINKING Texans are wondering how come. New Orleans grabbed off that $1,000,000 cotton laboratory authorized by congress. It may be possible Texas will have to build its own research laboratory in attempting to solve the problem of what to do with its greatest crop.

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT has been made to the effect Lufkin has been successful in selling this part of East Texas to the Southern Paper Mills, Inc. This means Lufkin is to have a great paper mill, and slash pine will be in the future not a dead loss unless the trees are visited by a forest fire.

THE SOUTHEAST educational world will extend sympathy to Mrs. J. F. Parnell of the Jasper school system. Mrs. Parnell were injured in an automobile accident, Thursday, Dec. 2. The car driven by Prof. Parnell collided with a truck when it skidded on wet pavements, some 16 miles from Center, and they are now in a Jasper hospital.

ENGLAND'S SOAP users, and actually there are a few, remember, historically, at least when 70% of the manufacturers were forced out of business between 1821 and 1831, because of heavy taxes on soap. Americans, however, pay only 104 different taxes on every cask of soap purchased, and have you heard of anybody even thinking of going back to the old safe and sure old-fashioned home-made varieties?

THE PUBLISHERS' Auxiliary this week carried a little birthday notice in the Minnesota announcements that brought to this writer memories of back yonder: "Pine County Pioneer (Pine City, Minnesota), Volume 52." All this means it was 52 years ago when The Booster editor became that publications' first apprentice—more commonly known as a printers' devil. We helped get out that paper's second issue.

TYLER COUNTY has another oil well near Spurger. No, there is no excitement at Spurger, Fred, Woodville, Chester or Colmesneil. Just the same Rocklanders are wondering about their own proven field. The big fellows did not bring in a well drilled to unusual depth in a so-called shallow field, but they did find out what they wanted to know about the depths far below an already proven shallow field. And speaking about the Spurger field, it is a fact, no duster has as yet been located.

ONE OF the measures that should come before this year's legislature is the matter of handling the actual field of endeavor out in the rough, where is now heated many millions of cords of second-growth pine about to be cut and delivered to the new paper mill at Lufkin, soon to be erected. This fall has proven to Texas the great danger of fire in the forests, when many thousands of acres were burned over. In this connection it must be learned no pine will be accepted by paper mills that has been through even a small fire. With better activity in the forests now that a market has been produced for second-growth pine, it appears the fire hazard will increase. It is not an unreasonable proposition that the slashing of second-growth pine should be prohibited in the same way as the cutting of the same. Any cutting of second-growth pine should be done by a licensed fireman, and the cutting should be done in a way that will not create a fire hazard. This is a measure that should be considered by the legislature.

MYSTERIES THE WORLD HAS NEVER SOLVED

PAMELA

Who Was She?

By MADOC OWENS

THERE was high place in the nursery of the Palais Royale, home of the Duc de Chartres, that near kinsman of the king, who later became the Duc d'Orleans. A beautiful child, a vision of loveliness and grace, a golden-haired, blue-eyed, mischievous, sprightly girl had been brought from England to be the playmate of the palace's royal youngsters. Her name was Pamela.

Pamela was born to be loved. The royal children of the household of Chartres, their governess, the amiable Mme. de Genlis; His Grace, the Duc; princes, princesses and even their Majesties themselves, loved her from the first. She was one of the loveliest creatures ever known to man. And her loveliness increased as she reached maturity.

But who was she? No one cared save women who were envious of her charms, and their wagging tongues found few listeners. There was not a princeling in all France who would not have wed her, if he could.

But a young Lechinvar was to come out of the West and win Pamela. It was at the opera, in Paris, while she sat in the box of the Duc de Chartres, one night upon the eve of the French Revolution, that the Irish Lord Edward Fitz Gerald, son of the Duke of Leinster, first fastened eyes on this charming belle. He was handsome, brave and young—still in his twenties—it was a case of mutual love at first sight. And despite the opposition of Pamela's devoted governess, now her duenna, Mme. de Genlis, the young couple were wedded at Tournay the following December.

Daughter of "Mary Simms."

In the marriage contract, still preserved at Tournay, the bride was described as "Strophane Caroline Anne Simms, known as 'Pamela,' native of London, daughter of William Berkeley and Mary Simms."

In later years her devoted Mme. de Genlis maintained that her faith charge had been the daughter not of William Berkeley, but of one Seymour, an Englishman of good family, who had run off to New Foundland with Mary Simms, a Hampshire girl of humble birth, on whose account he had suffered disownment after their marriage and who had soon died, leaving her to work for her living.

Sold for 25 Guineas.

But her poverty had been relieved by a gentleman of the Duc de Chartres' household, who had come to England in search for a playmate for His Grace's children. According to Mme. de Genlis' story, Pamela had been bought from Mary Simms as an apprentice, for 25 guineas.

A third version of Pamela's parentage was, however, given in the marriage record printed in the Masonic Magazine the month after her wedding. This describes the contracting couple as "The Hon. Lord Edward Fitz Gerald, Knight of the Shire for County Kildare," and "Mme. Pamela Capet, daughter of His Royal Highness, the ex-devant Duke of Orleans."

A fourth clue was given by Moore in his "Life of Lord Edward Fitz Gerald." It states that "Pamela was the adopted, or, as it may be said without acting into Pamela's daughter of Mme. de Genlis by the Duc d'Orleans."

"Life seems to me more like a beautiful dream than reality. We are so happy that I sometimes ask myself fearfully, will it, can it last?" wrote Pamela to Mme. de Genlis.

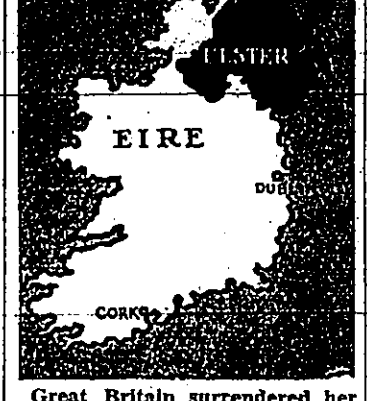

Became a Politician.

Coming events had foreshadowed the shadow in Pamela's fears. Lord Edward's ambition led him into the vortex of Irish politics. He became the ruling spirit of the Society of United Irishmen. He played the same card that Sir Roger Casement played—choosing the channel he arranged for a French invasion of Ireland, but was betrayed. With a price of 1,000 pounds upon his head, he went into hiding, contriving now and then to steal into Pamela's lodgings and spend a happy hour with her. But the night after he had returned from one of these visits with her his hiding place was surrounded. Dages' hand, he hung himself upon his captors but was overpowered.

Pamela sold all of her bridal presents and with the money, tried to bribe his jailers. Finally she managed to be allowed to stamp his captivity. But she was ordered to leave Ireland immediately, and but a few days after her husband's departure she was herself being taken to France. She was taken to the prison of the Bastille, where she was held for some time.

Miss Jessie Lee Sanders is back in the Warren cafe after a few weeks of illness.

Britain Leaves Eire

Great Britain surrendered her last vestige of control over the 26 counties of Eire, Ireland, Saturday, Dec. 23, when she renounced treaty rights held since 1922 over three Irish ports including Lough Swilly, shown on map. STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH IN CRITICAL STAGE

The State Department of Health is facing one of the most critical stages in the history of its existence says Dr. Holman Taylor, secretary, State Medical Association of Texas. The rapid expansion of the public health program during the past few years in Texas has been due in part to the increased interest of the citizens in need for, a more adequate program of health protection and a more emphatic demand that these services be given through the State Department of Health. If these demands are to be satisfactorily met and the people in all parts of the state gain the reasonable health protection to which they are entitled, the following fundamental needs of the department should be met for the next biennium.

A substantial increase in the amount of funds for the support of the central administration. Adequate appropriation for the promotion of a successful anti-venereal disease program. The passage of a new up-to-date sanitary code in line with the national code.

Sufficient monies to be used as an equalization fund for promotion of local health work in the financially weaker cities and counties.

An increase in the number of public health districts from 8, the present number, to 12 with adequate personnel to carry forward an effective program of communicable disease control.

A separate appropriation for both malaria control and pneumonia typing.

A constitutional amendment to permit counties to levy and collect a special tax to support local health work if their general revenue funds are inadequate or overdrawn.

Establishment of a division of mental hygiene to reduce the number of mentally ill.

These eight vital needs are met by the incoming 76th Legislature. Dr. Taylor feels confident the Texas State Department of Health will be enabled to meet the vital needs of the state.

L. C. C. AUTHORIZES $6,000,000 LOAN TO SOUTHERN RY. CO.

The Interstate Commerce Commission authorized the Southern Railway Company to borrow $6,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to complete its $20,000,000 equipment purchasing program.

The Southern plans to use the new loan to acquire 2,400 all-steel freight cars and 25 all-steel express cars. Recently it has borrowed $14,000,000 from the RFC to acquire 5724 freight cars for four small Diesel electric trains.

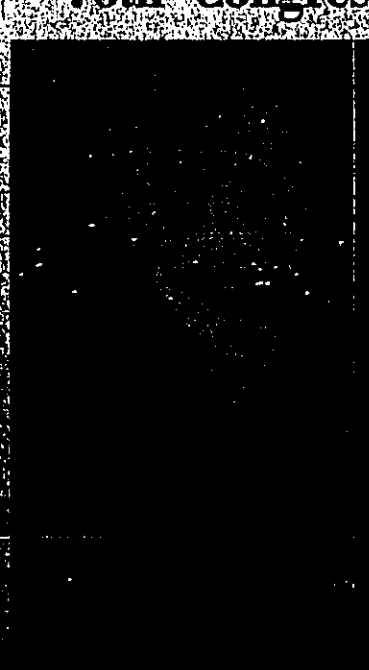

It is estimated the new equipment would reduce its annual car hire bill by almost $2,000,000 and reduce its maintenance of equipment expenses $350,000 or more annually for at least five years.

Whose Booster do You Borrow?

Here are two pieces of evidence to be submitted in the federal bribery case against J. Edgar Hoover, alleged spy-master in New York's lottery racket, which opens Monday, January 9. The first sheet, left, purports to show that Hines did not live in a certain apartment building at the time "payoff" checks were supposed to have been delivered to him there. The check, which first bears an endorsement by J. Edward (Dixie) Davis, lawyer for the late Dutch Schultz's policy case, also carries a signature, J. Hines. The defense, fighting District Attorney Thomas Dewey's case, claims this is not Hines' own signature.

HOW MANY TONS? It might surprise a lot of Tyler Countians to know 481 tons of commercial fertilizer were purchased during 1938 to aid in producing better crop stands in this county. This information was not obtained locally, but rather from A. D. Jackson, at College Station. Harrison county leads the list of all counties purchasing fertilizer with a record of 4048 tons. Mrs. Ernest Mayes of Jasper visited the sister, Mrs. P. H. Powell and family Christmas eve.
