

LEGISLATURE PLUS Legislature plus law equals the Load Limit and that's plenty of 'L' if you ask me—Steering Wheel.

THE BOOSTER has received a photographic print of his ribs, A. Hitler. As compared with the cartoons, there is not so great a resemblance.

A STATISTICIAN writing up highway facts relates: Every 6.3 hours ticked off by the clock last year recorded a death on the Texas highways, streets and roads.

THE ILLEGAL issuing of motor license plates at this time is giving a few distributors a serious moment, and the story thereof is presented for readers, page one.

THE DENTISTS had a convention in Port Arthur last Friday. It was a general admiration meet. Nevertheless, they had their serious moments and one was when a diagnosis treatment of marilary sinusitis as a lectures was presented. "Verily I say unto you the world moves on."

WHEN YOU discover city folks breaking down trees on highway right-of-ways, get their car license number and send in to the Highway Department, stating the date and place as near as possible and your name and address. The officials will appreciate the interest you show and will make it rather interesting for the transgressors.

WE SEE by the papers, a woman from Germany, is lecturing in several great American cities, including Houston. Subject is "World Trade—A Gateway to Peace." In spite of the fact this woman has taken out her first papers, signifying her intention to become an American citizen, we hope the woman and her lecturers are thoroughly scouted by the proper authorities.

THE LOUISIANA legislature recently appropriated $300,000 to put in co-operation county health units. The State of Texas

TEXAS COULD have owned 1,313 additional miles of local two-lane highways or 440 additional grade crossing separations with the money which her 1938 traffic accidents cost, relates Julian Montgomery, State Highway engineer, revealed in an article on "Economics of Safety" in the March issue of Texas Parade. Although 1938 saw a reduction in Texas' traffic accidents, the total is still staggering.

ALL TAX payers in Texas hope the "land-grabbers" racket will be forbidden by the present legislature. It seems as though a fellow can hold land under certain conditions under the squatter law and get thereby a title to the land. This being a fact, it would appear citizens who have lived on certain tracts for years, cultivated and paid taxes thereon, no court in the world should have the right to even listen in on so-called evidence tending to rob a man of his holdings.

IN GALVESTON they talk about the "Oleander Trail," and up here in East Texas we have several Dog Wood Trails, and too, East Texans are becoming more and more Dog Wood minded—just watching for city folks with their cars filling up with broken-off young trees, limbs from larger trees and even the tops of other trees are broken off. They stuff their cars full, cover up with paper, sheets, etc., and even put up shades in the windows to hide from curious eyes the evidences of law breaking.

THE GRAND Jury in Kansas City, Mo., is stepping out and is making a name for itself in showing up the so-called racketeers racket of that city. Primarily the action of the Grand Jury is an indictment of law enforcement in Kansas City. Final disposition of the indictments, of course, must be made by court trial. But whatever the outcome, the investigation seems to be establishing again what has been proven frequently in the past that organized crime cannot long exist except by the inertia or with the collaboration of law enforcement authorities.

A MATTER of Hell: Dr. Homer P. Rainey, newly-elected president of the University of Texas, told the Legislature last week about his cross-examination by the University board of regents. "Finally I got to feeling like Dr. Gordon, who was a famous Boston minister for 40 years, felt when he went to meet with the pupil committee when he was a young man," Rainey said. "Dr. Gordon was cross-examined roughly for several hours.

Finally one Puritan elder raised up in a corner where he had been sitting silently for hours and asked: "Dr. Gordon, would you go to Hell for the glory of God?" Gordon quickly replied, "I don't believe I would, but I'd be glad to have the committee do so."—State Observer.

ELMER GO Lightly! We do not recollect when or where or why this term was exagitated, but when applied to some of the committees to whom introduced bills are referred, we'll admit we believe it must have originated and applied to weak-kneed legislative committees. As a matter of application, take the outfit looking into the bill pertaining to the driver's licenses, etc., a bill born this year. The bill was represented as drastic, was intended to be just that—severe and exacting. Did the committee place its okay thereon? No, they wanted more time to consider, ah, perhaps declaring an emergency! As written, they might have imagined the harsh penalizing words might have hurt somebody's tender feelings. Possibly all the members of this committee have never had a death in their immediate family caused by some fool driver trying to make 98 m. p. h. on a road that could be negotiated safely only at about 40 m. p. r. That's all, thank you.

THE CITIZENS of San Antonio, over the last five-year period, have paid exactly $4,416,682.00 in premiums to the fire insurance companies. What was the total loss to those companies in that same period in San Antonio? The answer speaks for itself. A total of $795,292.00. Alright, then take a small town, Woodboro, for instance. (Ha, ha! You thought we were going to say Woodville, then, didn't you?) The citizens there paid a total of $21,181.00 in five years. The fire loss in the same period was the high total of $41.00. No wonder the companies made, in many instances, as high as 20 to 75 percent annually in the last five years. As Ralph Soape says: tax the insurance companies and get your 50 millions yearly to pay old age pensions. We say amen, brother.

THIS PROPOSITION about Lufkin swapping its colored CCC Camp outfit with Woodville with its white contingent, including the officers, does not and never will make a hit with the citizens of this county and city. For years now Woodville has had friendly terms with the Anglin County municipality. We are very pleased with our intimate relationship with our neighbors in Anglin County, and we are sure that the citizens of Woodville and Lufkin will continue to have friendly relations.

COLMESNEIL

Mrs. Bob. York and A. Beard visited in Lufkin over the week end. The W.M.F. met at the home of Mrs. F. Hamilton Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. M. L. Childress gave a birthday party Friday afternoon honoring her son, William Ed. He received many nice gifts. Games were played and refreshments were served to about 10 children. J. E. Squires with Mrs. Gay Shirley and son left Sunday to return to their home in Warren, Ark. after two weeks visit with her friends here. Mrs. G. D. Goodwin and daughter of Beaumont spent a few hours Thursday with her nephew, W. B. Morrow and family. The P.T.A. met Thursday night at the church. A nice crowd assembled there. Mrs. Alice Pope gave a very important talk. The girls and boys of Doucette played off their game of soft ball Friday in Woodville. The girls played Chester and lost. The boys played Exed and won, 35-5. They also played the Warren boys Saturday morning and won from them and Saturday afternoon they played Woodville and won from them. They succeeded in getting 1st place. Arthur Hensarling is visiting a few days in Houston with his aunt and uncle. All are sorry

WOODVILLE LOCALS

Mrs. Jack Kelley of Jasper and Mrs. Rod Lowery of De Ridder, La., spent Sunday with the parents, Mrs. Jay Kelley. It was the 52nd birthday of Mr. Kelley and at the close of the Bible school class at the court house he was presented with a big birthday cake with best regards and well wishes of his class members.

Many went from this county to Somerville Saturday to enter the Amateur contest. Mrs. Mac Brown carried little Miss Maxie over, and she was in the contest. Miss Madge Schleiffarth and others of Chester and Woodville school faculty were with the pupils who went.

Friends and neighbors deeply sympathize with Rev. J. C. Boyd and his dear old mother, in the death of his father. Rev. Boyd was called to Boyd early last week and the father passed away some hours later. He was up in his eighties and not in good health for many months. Rev. Boyd arrived home early Sunday morning after a very unpleasant ride through the dust storm raging about Dallas, Fort Worth and the Panhandle country.

MRS. MOLLIE B. BOSTICK

The funeral was held in Magnolia cemetery Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for Mrs. Mollie Bryant Bostick, 61, who died at her home two miles north of Woodville Friday about noon, Rev. Ernest Martin was in charge of the service. Mrs. Bostick was born near Kirbyville in Jasper county on Jan. 9, 1878. At the age of 22 years she moved to Tyler county, where she lived until her death. On Nov. 9, 1902, she married J. L. Bostick, who survives her. She has been a member of the Baptist church 41 years. She had been in failing health for a year. Friday while cooking dinner she fell dead as the result of a heart attack and was found by her husband on his return to the house for dinner. Besides her husband she is survived by

Through this telephone, and half a million others like it in Texas homes and offices, Texas talk about oil and cotton and livestock... about who will make a fourth at bridge, and what the doctor said to Henry.

To clear the way for these calls, 8,700 telephone people work along the lines, or in the 314 offices that are the cross-roads of the company's 2 1/2 million mile network of telephone wires in Texas. More than 10 million dollars in wages, nearly 5 million dollars in federal, state, and local taxes, help make up the total of over $44 million that this company spends every year to operate its Texas telephone system.

These figures are big because the telephone company has a big job to do in Texas. The telephone system is the backbone of the state.

Mountain Man

A Banner Fiction Serial
By HAROLD CHANNING WIRE

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—Jim Colter, forest ranger, had been mysteriously killed in the past few days. Gordon Brock, who had been made over Colter's job, hoping to avenge his father's death. The Colters, however, mountain moonshiners, were not to be so easily fooled. Brock was a cunning, crafty and cunning man. Brock was a cunning, crafty and cunning man. Brock was a cunning, crafty and cunning man.

CHAPTER II—Before leaving for his mountain station, Brock buys a outfit and decides to attend the public dance run by the Tillsons in Lone Tree. Brock was a cunning, crafty and cunning man.

CHAPTER III—At the dance Brock meets with Louise, a girl who takes a liking to him. Brock, however, is not to be so easily fooled. Brock was a cunning, crafty and cunning man.

CHAPTER IV—Brock and his chief set out for the mountain station. Halfway they are met by Sierra Simpson, moonshiner who is also in the forest service. Brock learns from Sierra that tracking down Jim Colter's murderer must be done cautiously and by devious methods.

CHAPTER V—Cook, Brock and Sierra continue their ascent of the mountains. Stopping to rest, they fight the Tillsons, returning to their hideout.

CHAPTER VI—Next day, Cook sends Brock and Sierra in one direction to repeat the telephone line, while he takes another. Brock, however, is not to be so easily fooled. Brock was a cunning, crafty and cunning man.

CHAPTER VII—Returning to Cook's camp, Brock is met by Sierra Simpson, moonshiner who is also in the forest service. Brock learns from Sierra that tracking down Jim Colter's murderer must be done cautiously and by devious methods.

CHAPTER VIII—Brock and his chief set out for the mountain station. Halfway they are met by Sierra Simpson, moonshiner who is also in the forest service. Brock learns from Sierra that tracking down Jim Colter's murderer must be done cautiously and by devious methods.

Brock swung to his saddle. Louise crossed the creek to him. "You're pretty good at talking, mister," he flung back. "I reckon I'll have to go peckin' a dictionary instead of a six-gun!"

He mounted in a lithe spring, doffed his hat to Louise, let his horse rear once and dashed away proudly erect and showing his full sense of victory.

A PERIOD OF "A HEAP 'O LIVING" TO CLOSE

This month will bring to a close a period of "A Heap 'O Living" in the lives of 38 men of Camp Leonard Wood, Woodville. These men have served their country and their company well and it is with a sense of great loss that the company bids its buddies goodbye.

These 38 men have, according to War Department regulations, served the maximum time in camp and must now find employment in private industry. They are strong, industrious men—men that industry can rely upon to do the work well and without constant supervision.

What will be Industry's answer to the following 38 young men Camp Leonard Wood and 1,600 other Texas youth on April 1st? WARREN SCHOOL NEWS. The Warren Chapter of Future Home Makers met in regular session, Feb. 11, and made cosmetics. The making of hand lotion and cleansing cream, deodorant, and shampoo was successfully demonstrated in the morning sessions. In the afternoon the chapter went to the park for a picnic. After refreshments were served, Kodak pictures were made for the chapter scrap book and the school annual. The club spent a profitable and enjoyable day. The chapter served an oyster supper which Mr. Watts gave for his basket ball boys on the 10th of February.

BEECH CREEK. Beech Creek Health club met at the home of Mrs. C. B. Jordan Saturday, Mar. 11, for an all day meeting.

White faces swung to his direction.

White faces swung to his direction. Behind him, a stampede had started in the meadow. Wheeling, he cut back across the upper end as a wave of cattle reached it and plunging into them, turned the rush downward. Once on the move they were easily handled. As they quieted to a walk, he flashed a light on the flanks of those nearest. The brands were varied, yet one appeared on more than half the lot. "Well, well," Brock fell back, pushing the bunch rapidly down the canyon, and in an hour shoved them into the main herd at Rock House.

Tempers were slow, they were quiet. Brock looked at the ground with a steady gaze. "Well, well," Brock fell back, pushing the bunch rapidly down the canyon, and in an hour shoved them into the main herd at Rock House.

At his side the stream talked noisily, human in its wide range of tone, from low guttural rumbles to silvery laughter. It covered the sound of his horse's hoofs and also many words that might have come from the camp, until abruptly a man's quick retort broke through. There was anger in his suddenness, and a threat in the silence that followed.

No hesitation Brock pushed past the thicket and into the girl's camp. He saw Louise sitting on her saddle, chin propped in both hands, Art Tillson standing before her. Tillson, who he approached and on his face saw a furious rage.

Brock looked at the girl. "How are you, Louise?" "She's all right!" Art cut in. "Don't need anything now." With scoffing sarcasm he added, "Thanks for comin' up!" Then he turned his back. Louise lifted her face to Brock, but he could not read through the shadows upon it. She might be telling him to go.

SENATOR JOHN REDDITT AGAINST FAIR TRADE BILL
The daily papers quote Senator John Redditt as follows: "Some of the opponents were outspoken in their opposition. For instance, John Redditt of Larkin declared: 'I think we would make a serious mistake to pass the measure. It is absolutely contrary to everything we've been trying to do for years in the way of safeguarding free trade. It would necessarily break down the anti-monopoly and restraint-of-trade in Texas. It would be an attempt to repeal them.' Proponents cite such laws: Those states would be all states had the law, but surely when all states adopt it the Northern and Eastern manufacturers will start fixing prices. The senators asked also about the so-called anti-discrimination bill, companion to the so-called fair trade bill, but few seemed to know or care much about it." The senators stated their position on the fair trade bill on condition their names not be used. Others expressed themselves as follows:

Woodville Locals
Mrs. J. H. Willard drove to Livingston Friday to look after business matters. On to Liberty, where they enjoyed meeting old friends, then on to Lafayette, La., to enjoy the Azaleas. Old Jack Frost didn't smile on Louisiana this year, but nipped the palms and early flowers badly. Just a few more days and the azaleas will be gone. Chester Owens of Longview is spending the week end with his parents in Doucette.
