Soldiers Have Their Own Words For Tools of Death and Other Features of Their Dreary Lives

New York.—Words and terms that slumbered for more than 20 years are reawakened in man's memory today by the clash of arms in Europe. Less than a quarter-century ago, the soldiers and aviators had devised a large outlandish vocabulary, much of it sardonical, to describe the tools of death, enemies, surroundings and fellow-fighters.

No family, regardless of means, has ever been Denied

Dignified But Not Costly

NATURALLY, when the sad occasion arises
 you will wish to provide a funeral service
 that is dignified and carefully planned . . .
 The FACT that it CAN be arranged at OAKLEY-METCALF at a most moderate cost will be gratifying.
 Is it wise to remember this . . . for the need
 will eventually come.

WE HAVE one less candidate for governor as Col. Ernest O.
 (oil) Thompson has announced for the U. S. Congress. One less did we state? Pardon us, we just naturally overlooked Ma.

CORSICANA HAS cast its hat into the ring and wants to be host to the East Texas C. of C. convention in 1941. They might win out if, and when—? And Waco says: "Come to Waco in 1941."

IT APPEARS the Blue Bonnet trail for Tyler County has already begun and more particularly in Woodville. There are several very noticeable plots of the beautiful flowers already to be found in Woodville, and if nothing happens to damage these beds there will be many more to be found in 1941.

DURING THE Woodville
 Dogwood celebration several parties who had attended other Dogwood affairs, stated emphatically that the Tyler county region's blossoms were the most beautiful they had ever witnessed. The gentleman who made reference to the blossoms, in fact garrulous
 or voluble, and that's that.

HAS IT been brought to your mind what do the young folks think of Woodville? It is just too bad they have to go out of the county to find suitable bathing pools. If all the oldesters could get the correct answer, as to what the youngsters think, perhaps there'd be a move to change,
 liven up, and even "dig" a swimming pool.

SEC. ICKES says he's out with thanks if Pres. Roosevelt is re-elected. Lets see. About the latest thing Texans know of this fellow is that he wants out to be regulated by the federal government. Now if he'd said cotton, 'twouldn't have been so bad.
 As far as we are concerned, he can pack his night underlings and toothbrush any old time. In fact the sooner, the better.

READ THE story of the crucifixation, page 1, section 2 of the Booster. The story, undoubtedly,
 the only one of its kind, was written by Frank W. Loveing, a former managing editor of the Boston Journal. The story is worthy of a permanent place in anybody's scrap book. Save this particular reprint. It will not be published again, and the few extra copies of The Booster will speedily be exhausted.

NOT SO long now when everybody will be on their toes,
 just trying to keep up with the closing exercises of the Woodville
 schools. Long ago, lots of Wood-villians discovered it could not be done. According to popular report The Booster learns the Junior Senior banquet was successfully put over and after that social event, things just happen, one right after another, until the sheepskins are distributed.

THE THOUGHT presents.
 After Russia, Germany, Japan
 and perhaps Italy have cleaned up the European situation, will one of the foreign tentacles be known as the "Vanishing Americans"?
 We have no time now to spend in just "Looking Backward." We must be thoroughly abreast of the murderous now-and-now
 and as a nation be prepared for ANY eventuality. Somebody once referred to the war LORDS. We say it another way, i. e., the WAR DEVILS!

BE IMMUNIZED AGAINST
 TYPHOID-FEVER

Now that spring is here, Dr.
 Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, advises out-of-door enthusiasts to include protection against typhoid fever among their preparations for spring outings unless they have been immunized against fever within the last two to three years.

The danger from typhoid fever
 has been greatly reduced, reports
 Dr. Cox, although the protection of public water supplies from pollution, careful medical supervision of each case of the disease and painstaking investigation of the sources of infection; improved sanitation of milk production; supervision of other food supplies;
 and through individual co-operation in the disposal of sewage.
 But there are still sources of infection to which individuals are exposed, for which vaccination
 affords the only protection.

Some of the danger that persists
 after the means of public protection have been carefully observed is literally handed out by people who are carriers of the disease. A carrier is a person who has had typhoid and who continues to pass germs that cause the disease, in bodily discharges, long after he or she has recovered.

Typoid is contracted by way
 of the mouth, through water, milk,
 or other foods contaminated by typhoid germs. Some of the most serious outbreaks have been traced to carriers who were careless
 in their personal habits.

Typoid fever control demands constant fight against the disease through both public protection and individual precautions.
 Young people are particularly susceptible to typhoid. Vaccination against the disease gives individual protection against typhoid. Three injections of the typhoid vaccine, a week apart,
 will put you in the protected class. It takes several weeks for the protective treatment to establish itself in the system. Therefore the State Health Department
 urges you to be immunized
 against now.

Rev. Louis Simmons filled his regular appointment here Sunday.
 A large number of people from his home attended the Sunday night service.

Mrs. Fred Dowling of Colmesneil
 attended church here Sunday.
 Mrs. Elton Hanes and baby of Port Arthur enjoyed the week end here with his parents, Mrs.
 W. T. Ramsey.

Miss Lois Gibson of Sunny
 Dell is spending several days with her sister, Mrs. B. Durham, who is quite ill.

All are sorry to know Mrs. Sam
 Morris is not doing well and plans are being made to move her to Lufkin for treatment.

Hardy Marshall has been brought home from the hospital
 and his condition is greatly improved.

The advice applies particularly to fishermen, hikers, boy and girl scouts, campfire girls, and any others who are looking forward to
 out-of-doors activities.

The FSA clients met Geo. S.
 well advanced, but will have to be Dean in Woodville Monday to discuss the home sanitary improvement plan that is now in progress.

Mrs. Homer King of Nacogdoches spent the week end with relatives
 and Misses Tera and Lora King returned home with them
 for a two week's visit.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR
 WOODVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

From the State Department of Education, Division of Supervision, comes the report of school supervisor on the Woodville
 school, addressed to Lee Hensley,
 under date of February 28:

In order that the schools may be properly classified, reports M.
 J. Fields, it is essential that minimum requirements be met. To that end the supervisor who recently visited your school the following report is offered:

1. Recommendations, 1. attention is called to the fact many of the arched windows in the arm
 or apron should be repaired.

2. That it would seem advisable to build a separate house for shop
 work in vocational agriculture,
 when finances will permit such an expenditure.

3. That much careful attention be given to the proper adjustment of window shades on west side of the three buildings to prevent direct sunlight or shadow on students' work. The eyes should be carefully protected at all times.

The school is to be complimented for the following accomplishments:

1. A surplus commodities kitchen being in the school with NYA employees and sponsored by the local PTA.

Mrs. Mattie Leonard has received her daughter and other relatives in Zwolle, La. Dr. C. C.
 Miller was in Beaumont Saturday to attend the ball game.

Rev. Cockrell, who has been engaged in a meeting in the Baptist church in Woodville, visited in the homes of Mrs. Ray Owens
 and Mrs. O. Owens Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Kesson Crowell and her friend Mrs. Le. B. Harris, who is employed in Marshall, came Saturday
 to help her celebrate her birth-
 day and wedding anniversary.

Mrs. J. H. Fain and daughter, Mrs. T. H. Townsend, spent Wednesday with Mrs. Fah's
 sister, Mrs. W. T. Hill of Waverly,
 to help her celebrate her birth-
 day and wedding anniversary.

Mrs. J. C. Marshall was given a pleasant surprise when Mrs. T.
 H. Townsend, at the piano, began to play "Happy Birthday to You."
 Little Mary Ann Collins walked slowly to Mrs. J. C. Marshall presenting birthday gifts to her
 from each member of the church.
 The group then sang "Happy Birthday to You" and enjoyed watching Mrs. Marshall as she opened each one of her gifts.

CO-OPERATIVE FOOD
 LOCKERS FINANCED

Recent announcements that the Houston Bank for Co-operatives expects to assist local communities in financing at least 80 cooperative refrigerated food locker plants in Texas during 1940 indicate the tremendous popularity of this movement in Texas. Before 1939, there were only two freezer locker storage plants in Texas equipped to give complete service
 in the handling of meat, according to C. E. Bowles, co-operative marketing specialist for the A.
 & M. College of Extension Service
 but by September at least 16
 plants operating or under construction in Texas prior to the first of the year.

Some of the questions which come up in connection with a freezer locker plant, Bowles believes, are: How many people will use the lockers? What are the advantages of having the locker plant owned co-operatively by those who use it? Should produce be made for year round curing of pork?

KNOCKS HORN FLIES LOOSE;
 AND THEN TRAPS THEM!

The horn flies were bad and the cattle were nearly crazy. Out of the brush comes an old cow at a dead run. She heads for the trap, goes through it, and starts grazing easy on the other side. That is an example of the stories going
 the rounds about the new horn fly trap designed by W. G. Bruce of the USDA Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, and tested experimentally on several Texas ranches. The trap resembles a carnival "crazy" house and is placed where cattle must pass through it on their way to water
 and in similar locations.

Weighted flaps knock off the flies and traps, placed to take advantage of the insects' habit of flying to the side when disturbed, catch them.

There has been no difficulty in familiarizing livestock with the trap. Once the flies become annoying, the cattle soon learn to make for the trap. A list of materials and an illustration of the trap, which can be built from scrap material by anyone handy with tools, may be obtained by writing to Cameron Siddall, entomologist of the Texas A&M College Extension Service, College Station.

...the company he... generally speaking... reliable barometer... and... by which to judge a man... one justified to judge a firm... business man by the product... or the service he renders... the matter? That comparison is... unreasonable, it is... quite reasonable to suppose that a... firm which has chosen with much... after deliberate study, the... automobile they are going to sell... is a good firm to do business... with. You are at least assured... that they are, themselves, sold on... the car. They selected it of their... own volition. They had a large... field to select from and the Chevrolet was the choice of that field.

Now consider this a moment: Sutton-Fain Chevrolet Co. selected this car as a means of livelihood and a medium of service to you. They invested their money... efforts and experience in it. In fact, they put their all into it. Isn't it then good logic for you to accept the judgment of men like these in the choice of your car? Shouldn't you at least afford them the opportunity to demonstrate to you its many advantages to you; to show you its fine points as they know them and of which you may not be aware? A call on the phone to Number 35 will bring one of their representatives to your door with a shining new Chevrolet.

This firm with W. E. Martin as president and manager was established three years ago. They maintain repair service and have a new and up to date wrecker which they just recently installed.

HILL FURNITURE STORE, WOODVILLE

Every day is bargain day at Mr. and Mrs. Hill's New and Used Furniture store. The prices are always low. That is why the business has expanded so much in the three months they have owned it, giving people of this section liberal allowances on used furniture and liberal terms on orders they buy. They guarantee satisfaction.

JAY KELLEY, WOODVILLE

The grass is not greener far away. It only looks greener. In buying merchandise you can't do better by going far away, either. You'll do just as well right here in Woodville by trading with Jay Kelley who founded this grocery store in 1920, and you'll save yourself a lot of time and travel, too.

Mr. Kelley carries fancy and staple groceries, fresh fruits and vegetables and bakery goods and maintains a modern Meat Market which he leases to Mr. Eaves who operates the market.

RAINEY'S CASH-GROCERY WOODVILLE

You are a stranger here but once. Our quality groceries, fruits, vegetables, meats and bakery goods, our low prices and our friendly service will make you the friend of Etile Rainey who is a native of Tyler County, and who established this store over a year ago.

If you have ever registered at The Rainey Hotel, we know you'll come again on your next trip to Woodville, because we know you will have enjoyed your first stay there. The proprietor, S. L. Rainey, personally sees to it that the 23 guest rooms and the food served, are always the kind to make you come back.

COMMUNITY PUBLIC SERVICE CO., WOODVILLE

It was Ralph Waldo Emerson, that illustrious exponent of American Philosophy, who is credited with the gem of thought wherein he says that if a man writes a better book, preaches a better sermon or makes a better mousetrap than his neighbor, though he built his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door. And this is a verity that may be accepted quite literally in any line of endeavor.

I think the originators of this concern must have read that little epic of Mr. Emerson's, for they have certainly adhered to the tenets of its teachings in their own business and if they did it has surely been with profitable results, for there is a well defined and marked path to the door of the Community Public Service Co., and the hinges of those doors will never grow rusty. They are kept swinging to the tune of many satisfied customers.

This firm, managed by B. C. Jones, maintains a modern ice plant, manufacturing ice and supplying electric power. Their ice is sold at wholesale and retail throughout Tyler County. They also sell Kelvinator Electric Refrigerators, Hot Point Appliances and Hot Point Stoves. They service all products they sell and employ five local people. The Phone, 90.

CITIZENS STATE BANK, WOODVILLE

The Citizens State Bank, a financial institution in Woodville that has been a bulwark of strength and safety ever since its inception on Mar. 8, 1920, has always advocated and encouraged thrift and saving and has also always practiced it. Because of intelligent, economical management, the bank has attained its present enviable position in the financial world of Tyler County.

Adhere to the teachings of wise men. Save when you can for the time when you can't. Heavy burdens are light when you have a bank account. Start a small account today and some day it will be of some account. A dollar bill is sure sure for many ailments and a mighty wedge for any rut. Come in now and let the Citizens State Bank, a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, prepare you for the future. Look ahead. Not behind. You can see further and clearer.

A steady growing bank balance assures a safe harbor in times of financial storm. It's the light-house and the beacon. Grab a life line before your craft is scuttled. Bank in and on The Citizens State Bank at Woodville which has as its officers, E. M. Eaglin, president, D. E. Mann, vice president and cashier, and J. B. Shillings and W. W. Cruse, assistant cashiers.

PEOPLES GARAGE WOODVILLE

The People's Garage and Service Station builds for tomorrow by their Service today. Day in and day out you'll get the kind of service that has built this business. Good Gulf gas and oil as well as fine accessories, too, are, of course, to be expected if you get them from G. R. Vanson, owner of this station.

The Backbone of Tyler County

The merchants and other business people listed in this commercial review of Tyler County are local people, a part of this community. Their interests and yours are one. They pay taxes here, contribute to churches, schools, charities and other local institutions that are requisite to the welfare of any community, not for any selfish gain or reason, but because these local institutions are their own as well as yours and they are glad to do their share. Do mail order houses do that? Do peddlers or out-of-town business interests of any nature do it? No, they don't. They take but never put and you can't keep on taking from anything without eventually impoverishing it and having nothing left from which to take for either you or the merchant.

Isn't it good logic and common sense then for you to patronize these local merchants who have helped and will continue to help make this a finer community for you and your children also?

These local merchants do not ask charity. They offer a full measure of value for every dollar received. Their goods are fairly priced, all of them. You don't pay fifty cents for one dollar article and then turn around and pay a dollar and fifty cents for another dollar article. They don't resort to such subterfuge. You get sixteen ounces to every pound, thirty-six inches to every yard, a hundred cents of value and service for every dollar, with a smile wrapped in every bundle. LOCAL MERCHANTS ARE LOCAL ASSETS. HELP THEM. THAT THEY MAY HELP YOU.

One must remember that successful business houses are an absolute essential to the progress of any town. In fact, a community cannot exist without them. Though they are dependent on your support, you and your community are in turn dependent upon them and a perfect spirit of co-operation between you makes for the ideal community.

POWDER PUFF BEAUTY SHOP & WOODVILLE BEAUTY SHOP

Two beauty shops that are well worth mentioning are those of Mrs. John and Mrs. W. E. Grammer who started here in Woodville several years ago. When they do your work it is done right and the charges are very reasonable, too. Mrs. W. E. Grammer began business here in the Woodville Beauty Shop several years ago and they established the Powder Puff shop one year ago. Mrs. Grammer manages the Woodville shop in her home and Mrs. John Grammer, her daughter-in-law, conducts the Powder Puff shop.

H & H CASH SYSTEM

A Tyler County Booster with a modern Meat Market and Grocery store at Woodville, "Where Quality and Price Meet." That's Joe Ramsey, in business here five years. That's recommendation enough for anyone.

YOUNG'S PHARMACY WOODVILLE

Carlton E. Young, a registered pharmacist, graduated from Danforth College of Pharmacy in Fort Worth. You are assured then of expert care in having your prescriptions filled if you bring them to Young's Pharmacy, a business in operation at Woodville since April 15, 1932. And remember, that the proper filling of a prescription is just as important as the selection of a competent physician to prescribe it.

CRESCENT BOTTLING WORKS WOODVILLE

In 1925, J. B. Coffman founded this bottling plant at Woodville, which is today recognized throughout this section as a house of merit, and one deserving its large patronage.

WOODVILLE FLOWER SHOP

"Say it with Flowers," but say it with ours... The Woodville Flower Shop of Mays Pope at Woodville since November or 1939, has a splendid assortment of cut flowers, potted plants and flower designs for all occasions at all times.

MAKER MOTOR CO. WOODVILLE

To me it seems only natural that a garage like the one owned by Oscar Baker and R. L. Strickel should sell Ford cars, trucks and Mercury cars. Because of their own growth, solid standing and general appearance, it is but logical that the cars they handle should be in accordance with their own conceptions of good value.

Why not let an expert repair that automobile of yours, and know that it is properly done? When W. T. Gardner's Garage and Service Station does it you have that assurance for his many years of automobile training have qualified him to turn out a great job that will give you the most...

AMERICAN GARAGE WOODVILLE

A newer conception of the motor service is embodied in the American Garage and Service Station established here by W. F. Shillings and they have in 1932. The word service is frequently abused but here it is frequently used and never abused. You'll know what I mean when you patronize this firm.

HAMERLY'S CAFE WOODVILLE

Good coffee means a good morning and starts you off right. And if you have all your meals at Hamerly's Cafe owned by Mrs. Ernest Hamerly the whole day will be right, for all the food is wholesome and tempting and Mrs. Hamerly knows how to cook.

MRS. OZELLE WATTS WARREN

Only quality make low prices low. That is the foundation upon which this beauty shop was started by Mrs. Ozella Watts four years ago. And it has proved itself a good foundation.

WHEAT ABSTRACT CO. WOODVILLE

The work of the abstractor is often too lightly regarded. His efficiency or his lack of it may easily affect the title to your property. The vigilance, search and care, taken by J. E. Wheat in the course of his 26 years of business activity, has been the medium through which this enterprise has gained its valued prestige.

McCLURE'S CAFE, WOODVILLE

What helps keep us fit? What helps make us happy and content? Isn't it good, wholesome, satisfying food? Mrs. C. G. Shivers, owner of this cafe, serves that kind of food.

J. T. LINDSEY, WOODVILLE

It is better to buy the best than to wish you had. You can't make that mistake at J. T. Lindsey's Service Station and Grocery Store, for they don't have anything but the best in the store. Never have, since they started, six years ago.

A. L. C. GROCERY WOODVILLE

Patronize the grocery store of Miss Alva Lee Cobb, your neighborhood store, the Home of Satisfaction, where Price Sells and Quality Tells.

BIRDWELL 5c to 10c STORE WOODVILLE

It has ever been the policy of C. E. Birdwell in the course of his one year of business here at Woodville, to treat you as he would like to be treated. That is why you'll find in this attractive Variety Store only those brands of goods behind which he can put his own guarantee of satisfaction.

GLENN'S 10c AND 15c STORE WOODVILLE

There's no need to look any farther for good merchandise than the 10c and 15c store of Glenn's. It's the only place in town where you can find such a wide variety of goods at such low prices.

WOODVILLE TAILOR SHOP

The observant student of industry as pertaining to Tyler County surely will have concluded very early that the position of eminence attained by the Long Ball Lumber Co. in the commercial life of this town has been well earned. Diligent effort, diligently applied, since the firm was organized in 1917, has been the chief factor in its attainment of that position. Diligent effort, however, would not suffice. Combined with it there must be an appreciation of the intrinsic value of merchandise, an intelligent understanding of the public's desire and an untiring will to appease that desire. These traits are essential and absolute requisites to the successful business man of today, and his success is definitely measured by the prolific tendencies of such traits in himself or the lack of them.

Silent testimony, none the less conclusive, that these traits dwell in this firm, is well evidenced by the success gleaned in 27 years of activity in the lumber business. The mill employing 75 people with a capacity of 35,000 board feet a day, is under the management of I. R. Fisher, who has been with the company for 23 years.

O. W. HATTON, WARREN

The firm of O. W. Hatton at Warren since July 15, 1937, is modern in every respect. Here you will find a complete line of Meats, Groceries and General Merchandise, all goods of quality and sold at prices that are consistent with that high quality. A good store in a good town.

WARREN CAFE

TOMMY TOWNSEND SERVICE STATION

When the prices are the same, why not buy from an independent station like that of Tommy Townsend at Colmesneil, operated by J. M. Kimball? Your money will then stay right here in your community and help build it up.

C. M. TOLAR, SPURGER

A modern service station at Spurger is that of C. M. Tolar, which he started here April 6, 1939. At C. M. Tolar's Service Station you will get that well known Texaco gas and oil and you will be more than favorably impressed with the friendly and courteous service.

HILLISTER CAFE, HILLISTER

We have eaten at the Hillister Cafe owned by D. C. Enloe and we know whereof we speak. When we say that the food served at the Hillister Cafe is good—that it is wholesome and well cooked—that the restaurant and kitchen is clean and inviting and that the prices are low, we know what we are talking about because we have eaten there and that's the only test for any restaurant.

QUALITY DRY CLEANERS WOODVILLE

Dry cleaning, pressing and alterations work is no longer something that most anyone can do. It is a field of highly specialized endeavor—one requiring skillful training, experience, costly machinery and a keen knowledge of materials. O. Z. Scarborough, who started this business just a few weeks ago, is endowed with all these essential requirements.

NECHES LUMBER CO. STORE CHESTER

Why don't you drop in at the general store of the Neches Lumber Co. and find out why so many of your neighbors are trading there? They know that the general merchandise, meats and groceries this company sells are real quality products and at prices that are easy on your pocket strings. You, too, can make the same savings that your neighbors are making.

JOE'S APPLIANCE CO. WOODVILLE

The best is often right at your door; particularly if you live in Woodville where Joe Peters conducts the Appliance store and electrical contracting business of which I am writing. You don't have to go further away to look for better Appliances or Electrical service, better prices or better service. You'll be wasting your time. You'll find as good values in the store of Joe Peters as you will anywhere.

WRIGHT'S SERVICE STATION, WOODVILLE

"There's a big difference in good gas, oil, and greases and just plain, everyday gas, oil, and greases. That difference isn't always reflected in the price tag either. It will, however, always show up in the performance and life of your car. If you want real performance and long life for your motor, use Sinclair Gas and Oil, Miller Tires, Willard Batteries and candles and cold drinks, the kind G. R. Wright sells.

PARSON'S SERVICE STATION WOODVILLE

A service station today is much more than a place in which to buy gas and oil. Are you getting the service you are entitled to get? If not, then stop in at Parson's Service Station operated by Ed Richardson, for some of that Humble gas and oil and real service.

OURBIE'S GROCERY AND STATION, HILLISTER

Almost two years of service, handling quality goods at quality prices are the prime reasons why success of this firm might be attributed to a "Home town man" and his ability to handle the business and products of the market.

REX SANDWICH SHOP

CASH REMAINS HIDDEN UNDER LARGE BOX

A modern version of an old English fairy tale was re-enacted on State Highway 2 between San Antonio and Austin last week and hundreds of motorists passed up five perfectly good dollars as they hid under a cardboard box in the middle of the pavement.

State Patrolman H. W. Knerim and Frank Conklin last Friday tried for three hours to reward some super-safety-minded driver who would move a large paper box from the San Antonio highway five miles from Austin. There were no takers among the 714 people who whizzed or chugged around the box in 373 hours, trucks and passenger cars. Here's how the scheme worked: it didn't work; it's all a matter of opinion.

The officers took their idea from an old English tale, "The Stone in the Road," and five dollars from their pockets. They placed the box in the middle of the highway and under five one-dollar bills. Then the officers drove up the road to await results.

If you remember your mythology, a village king whose subjects wanted riches without working for them placed a heavy stone with a fortune in gold under it in the middle of a highway. Villagers trampled around it and all complained at the carelessness of the person who placed the obstruction in their path.

Finally, at dusk, a farmer boy on his way home from the fields moved the heavy stone from the road before someone stumbles over it in the dark. He found the gold and a note: "This gold is for the one, the one alone, who goes to the trouble to move this stone."

Prologue to Love

By MARTHA OSTENSO

MARTHA OSTENSO-WNU SERVICE

"You know that?"
 "I have put two and two together, Hector," Bruce replied bluntly. "I know they were in love—the rest I have guessed."
 "You have talked with Autumn about it?"
 "A little—a very little—one night just after she came back," Bruce admitted.
 "You came to that conclusion together, then?" Hector asked. "I hope you don't mind my questioning you in this way. It's scarcely good manners in a host."
 "It can't make the slightest difference, Hector," Bruce replied. "I see no reason why you and I should stand on ceremony."

"Certainly not! Certainly not! Because of that, I mean to tell you the truth about that episode, if you can bear the telling of it."
 Bruce bit meditatively at his under lip while his eyes studied Hector's face.
 "I'm of age, Hector," he said. "I guess I can stand hearing it—if you can tell it."
 The old man drained his glass and set it on the table. "Then—listen until I'm quite through with it," he said.

Bruce felt ridiculously like a child who was about to be told the facts of life for the first time. But in spite of his mildly derisive mood, the piquant articulateness of Hector's ancient furniture and clocks and silver and porcelain gave him a strangely warm feeling of respect. However shocking Hector's disclosures were to be, it seemed true to him now at least—whether or not the mellow personality of the room had hypnotized him—that the past was the past, yesterday flowing back into the Renaissance, into the Middle Ages, into the lush glow of prehistoric times, sealed and separate from today.

Three clocks, in various shadowed recesses of the room, struck eleven. Bruce had heard all of Hector's story, and the two men had sat for minutes without speaking a word. Hector got up from his chair, looked briefly at the youthful figure seated across from him, elbows propped on knees, head resting on hands, and poured out two more drinks of brandy.

"A night-cap, my boy," Hector said sturdily, as he offered the glass to Bruce.
 Bruce came suddenly out of his reverie, and took the glass from Hector, than sat for a moment staring into the sparkling liquid.
 "How much of this does Autumn know?" he asked.
 "Everything I have told you," Hector replied.
 "I see," Bruce said quietly. "Did you tell her?"
 "Jarvis Dean told her—one night soon after she came back."
 "You don't happen to remember—about what night that was?"
 "Not very clearly. She called here the next morning—I think on her way to visit the Parss."
 "That was on her first visit, wasn't it?"
 "I believe it was," Hector told him.
 "It must have been," Bruce said. "It just about killed the girl, I guess."

Hector looked at him for a moment. "Why do you think she has been playing the fool ever since?"
 Bruce tossed off the brandy and set his glass aside. "It's a crazy world," he said. "One night—only a week ago—I learned how it feels to want to kill a man."
 Old Hector, standing above him, raised his eyebrows. A light seemed to dawn in his eyes and he smiled whimsically down upon the roughly tanned head of his guest.
 "That was good for your soul, my boy," he observed. "You learned

"I just about killed the girl, I guess."
 "Something that ought to mean much to you in the future."
 "Careful! Don't bring me into this."

CHAPTER XIV

Autumn walked across the grounds to the Willmar cottage; her wide-brimmed mocha hat in her hand, the light, warm wind blowing the skirt of her white organdie dress into a billow about her. As she approached the cottage, three children rose from the tall field of white daisies that grew in the hollow between the Castle and the foreman's lodge. The Willmar brood—Dickie, Simmy and Laura—started toward her with excited cries, their hands full of the white daisies they had been gathering. Trotting behind them came the ubiquitous Mo-mo, still possessed of his woolly tail, and bearing himself with considerably more dignity than when he had gone wandering with Simmy in the early Spring.

Autumn stopped and gathered the children into her arms, then turned and stretched her hand to rub Mo-mo's velvety nose.
 Laura, the ten-year-old, pressed her bloody nose against Autumn's cheek and wound her arm tightly about her neck.
 "I don't want you to go 'way, Autumn," she said, her voice full of pleading. "I don't want to have to go away, too, if you go. We don't want to go."
 Autumn's eyes darkened with the anxiety she had been feeling for the past week. "Consensus, dear!" she protested. "You will stay here no matter where I go."
 Dickie and Simmy broke into a duet of lament. "We can't have Mo-mo any more. The man says he's going to take Mo-mo."
 "Oh, you dear stilles!" Autumn scolded them. "No man is going to take Mo-mo. Come along, let's go in and see mother."

With a warm little-boy hand in each of hers, and with Laura walking sedately ahead of her and Mo-mo following closely behind, Autumn proceeded to the main cottage.
 It was baking day for Mrs. Willmar. As Autumn entered the kitchen with the children, the woman turned from the table where she had been rolling out sookie pastry. The troubled look in her eyes changed swiftly to a resolute smile as she dusted the flour from her hands.
 "Good morning, Miss Autumn," she said, brushing a loose strand of pale hair back from her warm brow. "My goodness, you young ones shouldn't hang on Miss Autumn's dress that way. Don't let them do it. Come away, Dickie—your hands are a sight!"

Autumn laughed and ruffled Dickie's hair. "Hands and dresses can be washed, can't they, Dickie?" she said.
 Mo-mo's hoofs clattered across the kitchen floor to a basket of vegetables that stood in one corner.
 "Simmy—look after Mo-mo." Mrs. Willmar sighed wearily, and wiped her face with her apron. "If you children can't mind that lamb he'll have to be kept out of the house. He's getting too big to be in the house, anyhow."

When the children had lugged the sheep out of the house and had gone romping into the yard, Autumn turned herself toward the kitchen table and Mrs. Willmar went on cutting out the cookies with the cover of a baking-powder can.
 "Tom says you'll be leaving us soon again, Miss Autumn," she said quietly.

"Not for another two weeks or so," Autumn told her. "There is a lot to do with straightening everything up in a place like this."
 "Ah, dear! I don't know what we're going to do!"
 Autumn glanced quickly at her and saddened. Tom Willmar's wife, the wistful-eyed little woman who had won her way back to health when she had come to live here ten years ago. The Dean ranch had meant life itself to her. And now—she had been ousted from her contentment and her modest security haunted her eyes.
 "I've been wanting to talk to you about that, Mrs. Willmar," Autumn said gently.

The woman turned her face toward her in an utter hopelessness that wrung Autumn's heart.
 "Talking about it won't change anything, I'm afraid, Miss Autumn," she replied resignedly. "Snyder was talking to Tom last night in town. He's a hard man, that Snyder."
 "What was he saying, Mrs. Willmar?" Autumn asked.
 "Tom told him he'd like to stay on here—has been home to us for over ten years now. But Snyder says his clients, as he calls them, have plans of their own and there won't be any more place for us here."

Autumn clasped her hands in her lap. For days, ever since the evening of her last conference with Snyder and the men who were considering the purchase of the ranch with all its stock and equipment, her mind had dwelt almost constantly upon the Willmars, and Hannah, and poor old Absolom Peck, and the others who had given their years of faithful service to Jarvis Dean. At the outset of her negotiations with Snyder, Autumn had supposed that her father's old dependents would remain where they were and go about their work as they had always done. Hannah, of course, would have to be looked after, but Autumn had already resolved to take her along with her and make her remaining years as comfortable as she could in the service of Aunt Flo. Snyder had been all diplomatic as possible. He was anxious to complete the sale without delay and in a manner that would be quite satisfactory to both parties to the transfer. When Autumn had expressed her wish that the staff should remain to carry on the work, Snyder had been unwilling to commit himself. His clients, of course, would have plans of their own. He would do what he could, certainly, to bring them to accept her suggestions.

CALIFORNIA QUAKES ARE FORECAST Vancouver, B. C., March 27—Disasterous earthquakes in California between July 20 and Aug. 5 were predicted Thursday by Civil Engineer E. C. Thrupp...

Both predictions were made last June and registered with the Royal Society, but the July tremor previously was not localized to California.

The prediction said the period would "bring the most destructive earthquake of this century, probably in those countries where they have occurred before."

The main shocks will come between 6 and 9 p. m. (P. S. T.) This occasion will compare with the disasters in Asia Minor on August 13 and September 5, 1822, when 22,000 people were killed.

A second period of great quake risk was forecast for October 20-November 10, with the main shocks coming between 4 and 8 p. m. (P. S. T.) Thrupp is on record as prophesying.
