HAS IT EVER occurred to you that a reckless auto driver is not a wreckless driver

SPRING, ITS relation to house or shop cleaning: Symptom (of the attic) is last year's suit aquatic? Signed Jess W.

THE RED Cross as an organization is serving all over America, wherever and whenever needed. As an international organization the Red Cross is everywhere—even in the army fields. The Booster can talk and write. We do more than our part in financial aid in this particular territory, and, too, this is not boasting, because we are honestly proud and sincere. The Red Cross is America's greatest Mother.

THERE'S ONE thing about these state candidates who send 11 pages of type-written copy for The Booster, together with a mat of the fellow looking for publicity for nothing. We cast no mats for anybody. Some time since we sold our casting box and furthermore we do not send mats away for casting unless ordered by the publicity seeker—he pays the bill. Just why this array of state candidates expect columns of free publicity, and go to the expense of casting their mats, is something we do not understand. However their stuff does not bother, except that we do take time to examine before depositing in the ever yarning waste-paper basket.

WHAT A country is America. We have no terrible stories to relate of a booming outrage in the vicinity of Plymouth Rock, nor, ditto, San Francisco, New York, or Miami put over by any foreign nation. Think of the foreign countries, Belgium, Finland, Poland, Norway, China, and then think of America. When congress thinks of better battleships, or greater airplanes, bigger guns, and all the rest of defense operations, just say okay. Is it a splendid feeling to experience when we listen to an airplane overhead not to be afraid, not have to hide in bomb-proof shelters. We should want, work and pray our America may remain free, safe, as is. However, the nation must work and strive to keep our safe independence.

FOLKS in Woodville are patient and long suffering. However there's a couple of raft loads of citizens who are wondering when the telephone, telegraph and power line poles on the main drag are going to be removed and the paving-and-curbng completed. Widening the main drag started off with a rush. Those that were lucky, or had a drag, collected their damages in lump sums. Others showed their patriotism and donated a few feet of land. When the smoke of battle cleared away, it was found a fellow with a car could climb up over a curb and park in front of business houses on the south side of the street. Later a few loads of dirt, gravel or something was dumped next to the curb and it was possible to get across to park and shop. However, drivers have to possess expert skill to avoid collisions with both cars and trucks while dodging the power and light poles in the street. It seems it is about time this condition was remedied. Another thing in connection with this widening of the main drag. We have been asked to get the figures and publish, the take in as well as the donations. We may take the time to look up the records on this and publish. It will make interesting reading.

GOT A PASS AND WELL HAVE TO GO!

General Motors Corporation, New York, N. L. — J. H. Willard, Editor The Tyler County Booster, Woodville, Tex.

My Dear Mr. Willard: From time to time throughout the year our newspaper friends extend many individual courtesies to us that we do not always have an opportunity to acknowledge.

Last year through the General Motors Press Club, atop our Highways and Horizons exhibit building at the New York World's Fair, we were privileged to meet personally many of our press friends who visited the club as our guests. It was an informal meeting place for press folks from all sections of the country. Features of the club that seems to appeal to many were the comfortable air-conditioned lounge, the terrace with a commanding view of the Fair, a news ticker service, telephones and typewriters.

The Press Club will be opened again this year and we look forward once more to the opportunity it affords us to become better acquainted with our friends of the press who visit the fair. I am pleased to enclose your personal membership card, which I trust you will use when you arrive at the fair. Naturally, we feel that the success of the club depends on its use exclusively by members of the press, radio and photographic fields. For that reason the enclosed card is not transferable and will be honored only when presented personally by you. Guests, accompanying members are welcome at all times.

You will note that a stub is attached to your membership card. This stub entitles you and the members of your immediate family to visit the Futurama without delay. Simply present the Futurama stub at the reception desk of the Press Club. Of course, after the stub itself has been used, you personally may visit the Futurama as often as you like on presentation of your membership card. However, I believe you will appreciate the unfairness to the public of extending this special privilege beyond one family trip, as explained. I sincerely hope you will make yourself at home in this Press Room of tomorrow. It is yours to use freely whenever you are at the fair.

Sincerely, PAUL GARRETT, director of Public Relations.

WANT TO RENT A HOME? UNCLE SAM HAS 78,000

Washington, April 22.—Uncle Sam now has on his hands about 78,000 homes, taken over from private owners who turned out to be poor risks.

The great majority of these belong to the Home Owners Loan Corporation, set up in 1933, as a stop-gap in a bad credit situation when foreclosures on private homes reached a peak of 1,000 a day.

The HOLC today owns 77,229 homes, worth an average of $6,000 each. It has already sold 80,824 other properties, taking a book loss of approximately $78,834,000.

The Federal Housing Administration, with a more conservative credit policy, meanwhile has had to foreclose on only 1,188 small home properties and three large housing projects out of approximately 465,730 mortgages it has underwritten to date.

The FHA has sold about half of its foreclosed homes, with an average loss on each of between $400 and $600.

As soon as either of these government agencies acquires a home it sets a reconditioning force to work. HOLC officials estimate they spend about $75,000 each working day to recapture and protect the values of properties their agency owns. Then, if possible, the house is rented. More than 90 per cent of HOLC-owned homes were rented on Dec. 31.

In most states HOLC foreclosures are now reported to officials to be "pretty well licked." The majority of foreclosures, now are in industrial states where real estate values have failed to recover in the same proportion as the rest of the country and where many families have failed to display the sense of responsibility necessary for successful ownership.

What will Uncle Sam do with the houses he can't sell in the final reckoning? The answer to that question isn't troubling officials much yet. HOLC borrowers have 15 years to settle up on their 1,019,000 mortgages and thus far the Corporation is operating within its own income, collecting approximately $1,000,000 in principal and interest every day.

As far as the FHA is concerned, charges against its reserves set up by congress still amounted to only a fraction of 1 per cent of its total business at the end of 1939.

Long Distance Taxi Ride

Several years ago newspapers all over the country printed an amusing story, furnished to them by one of the press associations, which told how a bibulous visitor to New York hailed a taxi cab and, in response to the driver's query, "Where to?" replied, "Loah Anglesh—and please don't drive too fast." Whereupon the taxi driver took him to Los Angeles and, arriving there, looked at his meter and announced that the fare was $900, which the bibulous one cheerfully paid. Then, so the story ran, the driver took him to Los Angeles and, arriving there, looked at his meter and announced that the fare was $900, which the bibulous one cheerfully paid. Charging Toll for Sidewalk Walking

An exchange says there is a man in Kansas who has never taken a bath in 12 years. He calls at the drug store annually and pays a quarter for an alum. The butcher charges him 30 cents a pound for liver, and when he comes to town he always walks in the middle of the street for some one told him once they charge toll for walking on the sidewalks.

WHEN Your Boy Grows Up!

All mothers and fathers want their children to have worthwhile employment when they grow up.

The Texas oil business is manned by Texas boys and girls yesterday, 225,000 of them earn good livings for themselves and their families—a yearly payroll of $271,000,000.

Oil pays good wages, maintains reasonable working hours, and offers opportunity for promotion.

Old age retirement and unhampered development of the oil business will provide many new jobs each year for our young Texas workers.

But the growing tax burden is a serious factor in wages and employment, since the Texas oil industry now pays taxes equal to 36 per cent of its labor payroll.

Unwise laws and excessive taxes can retard and stop the growth of this industry which means so much to the future employment of our boys and girls.

DON'T NEGLECT FUNDAMENTALS IN YOUR NEW HOME

1 This is a corner of the foundation and footings. Your whole house rests upon it. It can never be replaced.

2 This is the same foundation in place. Again here is a part of your home that can never be replaced.

3 Here is a rough window opening from the inside. Notice how the framing members are doubled all around the opening. Dark shaded portions show insulation in place between the studs.

Glitter of Gadgets Often Distracts Builder From Quality Where It's Needed Most

Are you building a house for the first time? Then chances are you are in kind of a daze. There are so many things to decide, so many things to buy, so many more things you want and can't buy because there is just so much money. Now there's nothing less glamorous than the concrete footings and foundation. One doesn't show them off to one's friends, but if you skimp on either, you'll be busy for years to come trying to cover up cracked walls that all your friends will see.

Don't Skimp On Framework Likewise the timber skeleton or frame of your house is going to be all covered up, but if you skimp on it you'll have "rattling" floors that squeak at every step.

And how about those great big holes in the wall, the rough window openings. You can buy windows and window frames to fill these holes pretty cheap. And you'll pay for them for years to come in heat lost, drafty floors and wet walls. Or you can buy carefully designed, precision built and factory fitted windows and window frames complete with weatherstrip that will be a joy and a comfort every year that you live in your house. Yes, and you'll find that the extra cost was money well spent because of heat bills, repair bills and redecorating bills saved.

Can't Replace Windows Good windows are a permanent part of your walls. They protect your investment in insulation and quality construction. Any home with weatherstripped windows is only one-half insulated. So when you build, get down to fundamentals. Always remember—you can add the extra any time, but you can't replace footings or timbers or windows. They've got to be good right from the start.

MODERN TREND TO MORE WINDOWS PUTS STRESS ON QUALITY

EVERY HOME IS BUILT AROUND ITS WINDOWS

Sponsor of Famous World's Fair Home Points Out Importance of Good Windows

By W. Wadsworth Wood Director, National Small Home Bureau

New York City—Few people, when they build a new home, seem to realize the importance of windows. Yet every house is built around them. This is literally true in two different ways. First, the frame of the house is actually built around its window openings. Take a look at a home under construction some-where. Notice how framing timbers around every window opening are doubled.

WOODVILLE NEWS

Mildred Lilly who has many friends during her work at the local tele- phone exchange, was forced to return to Cold Springs by her mother.

Windows and More Windows Is Trend in New Homes Today

No matter how you look at windows you're going to see more and more of them in new homes. Light, airy rooms mean just one thing—more windows—and that is definitely the trend in home construction today.

And the more windows you have in your new home, the more you've got to watch quality construction in the windows you buy. Windows can add much to the enjoyment of your new home if they're good windows, and if they're poor ones, they'll add plenty of headaches.

Window "Pains" Gone Rattling, sticking, leaking windows are a thing of the past with the complete factory fitted window units as manufactured today. Maybe that is why architects and contractors the country over are favoring more windows because at last, the "pains" has been taken out of them.

New Features Such features as inside double glazing, screens that are removed from the inside, condensation controls, and hinges that allow both sides of the glass to be washed from the inside are part of modern casement windows today. Similar improvements have been made in the popular double hung windows. Double action weatherstrip, noiseless pulleys, and flat weights that allow for narrow lines are a few of the outstanding innovations.

Windows Determine Wall Space

Second, the arrangement of your rooms, the arrangement of your furniture, is all done around the windows. Available wall space is largely determined by windows. On the outside the architectural harmony is largely determined by the placing or grouping of windows. Thus you see how important windows are just from appearance alone. But appearance, important as it is, is only half of the story. Here are some of the other things that a good window should do: Keep cold air out. Keep warm air in. Keep cool air in. Keep hot air out. Keep insects out. Keep dirt and dust out. Work freely under all conditions without rattling. Provide ventilation when open. Be water-tight when closed. Let light in. Give clear vision out. Add beauty to your home. Harmonize with your style of architecture. No other architectural feature in a house must perform so many functions.

Unit Shows Variety of Services In First Year

Southeast Texas' first health unit to function chiefly in rural areas, the Hardin-Tyler unit, re- completed its first year of service. Members of the staff are Dr. R. B. McElroy, director; Dr. Bartlett, assistant; Mrs. Sadie Engle, Tyler county nurse; Miss Hazel Son, Hardin county nurse; Mrs. Helen Oliver Lawson, general disease nurse; and Miss Grace Sheffield, secretary. It is the aim of this unit," the director explained in the preface to the annual report, "to do every- thing in its power to further im- prove sanitary conditions, con- trol the spread of communicable disease, and to improve the pub- lic health of Hardin and Tyler counties."

A major consideration of the public service is communicable diseases. A total of 142 people were vaccinated for diph- theria fever during the year. Di- phtheria is actively fought by the children's clinic, which, through the appearance of the disease. There's something touching in these efforts. Held in every section of the counties, all kinds of gathering places— churches, schoolhouses, stores, and even private homes if a group has come together there. Prepara- tion for the clinic is simple. By the time the news trickles through the piney woods that a case of some communicable dis- ease has been diagnosed in the community, the health unit will hold a clinic today, to- morrow, or the next day. And how gratefully the news is received! Any "doubting Thom- ases" who question the recep- tion of the public health work in the sparsely settled rural sections should come to the clinics. Many walk from one to seven miles, often carry- ing their children in their arms; others come in wagons or old cars; yet every member of the family is present. It is a picture that glad- dened the hearts of the observers who stops to consider the last- ing results. The person is able to pay 50 cents for the vaccine, he does and the money is turned over to the Hardin-Tyler Medical association for the state health department. The state health department is distributing gratis thousands of dollars worth of good health in preventing diseases of serious communicable diseases. A hook worm survey of school children was made and revealed that the startling fact that ap- proximately 70% of the children are infected. Knowledge of this con- dition is being disseminated by tribu- tion by other agencies of medicine for the correction of the condition. The unit itself is fighting the disease through the work of the sanitarian who at present is directing a WPA pro- ject for the improvement of the sanitary conditions of many homes.

Contribution of rat poison to combat typhus fever, controlling smallpox to prevent the spread of the disease from a case discovered on May 2, 1939, in Tyler county. In August, the same V. D. clinic was started in Kountze for Hardin county. By February, 1940, 151 patients were under treat- ment; 1110 blood tests for syphilis had been taken and 248 cases of gonorrhea were discovered. In November, 1939, another nurse was given to our unit to assist in the rapidly growing V. D. pro- gram. Among the patients is the negro woman with syphilis in its most infectious stage who could hardly walk before she was crippled by her foot and who after treatments now is able to work steadily and stamp out the disease. Her treat- ment is being continued by the unit.

The outstanding feature of the tuberculosis control program was the visit of the state health de- partment tuberculosis x-ray trailer. Eighty-six patients were x-rayed and 13 were diagnosed as hav- ing pulmonary tuberculosis. Six x-rays had been taken before the arrival of the state trailer and four patients had been admitted to the state sanatorium. The maternity service work is largely the work of the nurses who in a year's time made 599 field visits to expectant mothers and 330 visits to mothers after the babies were born. Recent Wasserman tests are made on these prenatal cases for the un- born children can be protected from syphilis if the disease is dis- covered in the mother for at least 1 1/2 months before her child is born. Monthly urinal tests are run on women not under a doc- tor's care. Birth registrations, care of the mother during the prenatal period and care of the mother and baby after birth are stressed by the nurses, whose work supplements that of the attending physicians. One of the most interesting fea- tures of the work with the blind and the homes is the health clubs, organized by the nurses in several communities. These clubs are con- ducted by the nurses and give the assistance on their own problems and for the social hour. The health clubs have developed several loan chests in the coun- ty. These contain bed linens, dresses, pads, thermometers, hot water bottles, and various other necessities which the average home may not be able to supply in case of illness. The women used ingenious methods to earn a few dollars needed to purchase the supplies which may be borrowed by anyone in the neighborhood in case of sickness. During the January severe cold an example of neighborhood that spanned about 10 miles was seen. Out east of Woodville a 23-year- old mother of seven children, the wife of a WPA worker, knelt be- fore the open fire in her home to warm her back. Her clothing ig- nited and burned almost off her- self before she could extinguish the flames by running out and rolling in the snow. The screams of the children brought the father from the barn. He called neighbors who came to town for a doctor but were unable to locate one. In the emergency they called the county nurse, and she arrived at the home about 40 minutes af- ter the accident. She taught the neighbors how to care for the patient and borrowed for use in the home the supplies from the Beech Creek loan chest, 10 miles away. Incidentally, the woman is slowly recovering after lying on her stomach for five weeks. The crippled children's service is one that brings some of the greatest satisfaction to the unit. Each child with a deformed leg, arm, foot, or other part of the body gets new hope in the diagno- sis and treatment received in the crippled children's hospitals even though the family cannot afford to pay for the service. Negro children also profit from the health unit.

A wide and varied work is done by the sanitarian in looking after water, milk, sewerage disposal and the like. It is too soon to meas- ure the effects of his work, but it means a great deal of protection to the people in both towns and coun- try. Inspection of the dairies and food establishments has been voluntary, but rather widely ac- cepted in the counties. The sanitarian lectures and talks to schools and civic organizations, reports Dr. McElroy, "play a very important role in the incorpora- tion of towns, such as Sour Lake, which was one of the crowning successes of the year."

It is hard to dream of all the things the health unit staff has envisioned for the future in the two counties—pasteurization plants for milk, loyettes made by the sewing room for relief clients, control of communicable diseases, sanitary homes, home sani- tation for every home, and early contact with all expectant moth- ers to encourage them to bud- get so that they can afford to have a doctor deliver their babies— just to mention a very few of these dreams. "We appreciate very much the co-operation we have received from the commissioners' courts, the physicians, the Parent-Teacher Associations, the schools, the American Red Cross, and many other organizations in the two counties. Our work would not have been successful if it had not been for the friendly co-operation we have received," Dr. McElroy declared.

HE STARTED AS A GRUNT and helped develop a great telephone system for Texas

FORTY YEARS AGO THIS man was a grunt... a telephone lineman's helper. His eyes have seen a miracle... the development of the Bell telephone system that today serves nearly 550,000 Texas tele- phones. His hands helped make the miracle come true.

When he was "breaking in," there were less than 25,000 Bell telephones in Texas. Based on present standards, the service then was slow and not very dependable or clear. Sometimes it took hours to complete a long distance call.

Today, from the sidelines, this old-timer watches with keen delight as 3,500 Texas telephone workers carry on. The job is bigger now; but the goal is still the same... to fur- nish Texas with the best tele- phone service possible, at the lowest cost to the user.
