MRS. J. H. WILLARD, Adv. Mgr.

THANKSGIVING DAY was a sorrowful day for many citizens in Woodville. The tragic death of one of Woodville's own best loved mothers cast a gloom over the entire community.

THE ENGLISH are sports. They claim the death rate there caused by the Germans whose only plan is to kill and destroy, is only three or four times greater than those produced by the automobile onslaughts on Americans—men, women and children.

WOULD YOU find out all about your heart? Well, you can. They've got a new apparatus which is known as Ballistocardiograph and ailing folks should look up Dr. Isaac Barr Hartzell and get checked up correctly. It is said the Ballistocardiograph produces results.

NEWSPAPER HEADLINES readers will recall there was a right small and troublesome wind storm in Huntsville Monday, Nov. 11. The weekly newspaper, The Huntsville Item, had a brick wall deposited upon the roof of the plant and considerable damage was the result. The Item, however, came out on time as usual. Brother newspaper men extend greetings and are glad to know the plant was not wrecked.

AT A recent meeting of the A. F. L., the American press was duly charged as being shocked by the re-election of Roosevelt, and it insinuated the press was for the Republican nominee. The meeting carried the impression the press was not in sympathy with the New Deal, supported Wilkie, and the results showed the press had lost its prestige among its readers. Perhaps so, but the meeting adjourned doubtful if the AFL would or could work out an agreement with CIO, John Lewis' pro organization, and from which he resigned as president because of the election results. Could it be possible the press could aid these two organizations?

WHEN THE Booster was started in Woodville, we happened to mention the disastrous flood of 1929. The story was told us, by whom we cannot recall nor can we remember who was the headline actor. It seems this fellow, in the dark had walked off the edge of the road and had "closed the door" in water in the ditch. Shortly after getting out he saw a light in the depot and hurriedly approached the door. Finding it locked he began a vigorous onslaught yelling "hey there! hey there! Let me in! I am the only survivor. Let me in." Well, the present flood has done considerable damage in all of East Texas, but we have heard of no such calamity as was reported to us. We'd like to know who told us and who was the fellow who fell in the drink and closed the door.

COST OF SOCKS COMPUTED

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a letter to The Times headed "On the Matter of Knitting" the writer attempts to show that the work done by women in this country who knit for soldiers is uneconomic. It is stated that a pair of hand-knit socks is valued at about $2.50, or five times more than similar articles manufactured in this country.

May I state from experience, as president of the Maple Leaf Fund, Inc.—a war relief organization for Canadians—where thousands of pairs of socks are knitted, that the cost of a pair of hand-knit socks is not over 60 cents and that this 60 cents covers only the direct cost of the wool. The indirect cost of the wool is not over 10 cents.

Wedding Story

DURING the winter of 1929-30, Robert Quillen, editor of the Fountaln Inn (S. C.) Tribune, printed a story about a wedding in his community which wasn't complimentary to either the bride or groom. As a climax, it intimated that this had been a "shot gun wedding" and then added: "This may be the last issue of the Tribune and my life ambition has been to write up one wedding and tell the truth. Now that is done, death can have no sting."

This story was widely reprinted throughout the country, by some many an editor, no doubt, had often wished to write just such a story and was glad to know that one of their number at last dared to do so. Some of them suspected that it was a fictitious yarn, but others believed it was genuine and criticized Quillen for "exposing and treating people so cruelly."

It was a hoax, all right, but it is still a curious and real wedding story, perhaps the most famous one ever written.

THE HONORABLE UNCLE LANCY

By ETHEL HUESTON

It was in all kindreds that Aunt Olympia Slophira, wife of Senator Alencon Delaporta Slophira (properly, but rarely pronounced "Slophara") invited her three orphaned Iowa nieces, the wise Helen, the beautiful Adele, and the jovous Limp, to live with them in Washington. But it was not Aunt Olympia to overlook the glorious political asset which these three debutantes offered in time of dire need.

That's where the trouble started. And that, too, was the sort of the gayest, most delicate of American political nonsense that you ever read. A laugh to every line! A fun arcade of love, laughter and politics!

Poker and Pineapple

HAWAII is the land of pineapple and poker players. It was there that good King Kalakaua learned to play the deck with voyagers who came to his shores. And like California, Hawaii is proud of raising things bigger and better—like pineapples and poker bids. When Kalakaua raised his bid when playing with an opponent who held four aces, he was tactfully reminded that four aces beat four kings. But Kalakaua raised his regal hand. "But," said he, "Five kings beat four aces."

We don't know whether you can get better card decks in Hawaii, but we do know you can get better pineapples. So at your next poker party, serve some better pineapple dishes. Here are several for your consideration:

They're All Tasted

Shrimp and Pineapple Entree: Peel eight uniform red tomatoes, cut a slice from the top and scoop out the centers. Drain inside and chill. Meanwhile, marinate the contents of one 5½-ounce can of shrimps and one-half cup of chopped celery in French dressing. Then combine with one cup of drained wedges of canned pineapple and season with salt and paprika. Add mayonnaise to hold them together and fill the tomato cases. This serves eight persons.

Pineapple Brandy: Drain thoroughly the slices from one No. 1 can of pineapple, and dip each slice in condensed milk so that both sides are well covered. Then coat heavily with moist coconut. Place on a greased pan and brown in a moderate oven. This serves eight persons.

Pineapple and Cream Cheese Salad: Dissolve one package of lemon gelatin in one cup of boiling water and add one tablespoon vinegar. Mash one package of cream cheese, add the gelatin slowly and mix until smooth. Then add one and one-half cups of crushed pineapple and chill. When beginning to set, add one fourth cup of chopped nuts and pour into individual molds. Serve on lettuce with cream mayonnaise. This serves six persons.

Tibet Picks Five-Year-Old Boy To Rule as New 'Living Buddha'

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.

A living "baby" Buddha now accepting homage from the 2,000,000 people he will rule till death, and believed by his followers to have the same soul possessed by the ruler who preceded him, is the subject of a strange story being unfolded in fragmentary news from Tibet.

The small boy in knee-boots and yellow robes, recently installed in Lhasa's hilltop palace, is Tibet's fourteenth Dalai Lama, now identified after more than five years of search for the thirteenth Lama's successor.

Tibet, secluded between the world's highest mountain barriers and the gloomiest windswept desert of Asia, is one of the last theocracies (lands ruled by priests) surviving in the modern world. The Dalai Lama, head of both church and state, is acclaimed as a living embodiment of Buddha. His succession is determined by no commonplace father-and-son hereditary arrangement, but by the principle of reincarnation. When a Dalai Lama dies, oracles go into trances for guidance, and priests search the country for a boy born at the instant of the ruler's death. The spirit of the former Dalai Lama is accepted as having entered the baby, who thereupon becomes ruler of a land one-sixth as large as the United States, and head of a priesthood numbering between one-fifth and one-seventh of the entire population.

Domesticated To Aid Crops

Russian Farmers Experiment With Special Insect 'Diets.'

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.

Putting the honey bee to work on the farm like other domesticated live stock is a new development in Russia. It has been learned that bees can increase the yield of a crop by carrying pollen from one flower to another on their day-long honey hunt. Singling out a crop which does not ordinarily tempt bee appetites. Soviet scientists extracted syrup from the flowers and fed it to the insects. As a result, the bees, addicted to their new diet, now seek it in the fields, and reports from the U. S. S. R. hint of crop increases.

Many bees choose flowers more carefully than do humans, for she refuses to mix her flavors. When she starts sipping from one variety of blossom, she will fly for miles if necessary seeking others of the same variety, so that the honey will be pure. This strict selectiveness of insect diet gives the world some distinctive honey, such as the

THIS WORKER BEE is seen gathering honey from goldenrod. It requires about 3,000 visits for a worker bee to gather one drop of liquid from flowers, of which only 30 per cent is honey. Even the 30 per cent is 70 per cent water which has to be evaporated by special "air-conditioned" storage cells.

Greek honey of Mount Hymettus and the American brands flavored with star thistle or purple alfalfa or tulip tree blossoms.

The bee that has acres of blooms which she prefers within easy reach naturally fattens the honeycomb more quickly than the insect with only an area of assorted wildflowers available. Clover is the principal raw material for the honey-makers in the United States, California Leads Nation.

California, where the American honey tide rises highest, encourages the bee with fragrant orange and sage blossoms. Michigan and Ohio, however, (the states next in honey production) have miles and miles of

SUN OIL PUMP STATION MAROONED

From Friday until Monday the men could not change shifts at the Sun Oil Pump station as it was cut off by high water.

Monday E. R. Robertson of Chester, line rider and J. D. Vinson, who fortunately owed a boat, carried it out to Cypress Creek which was a half mile wide, and by the help of a rope tied to trees, bucked the current and succeeded in bringing out the men who live here in town, then left the boat for Messrs. Myers and Pickett to use.

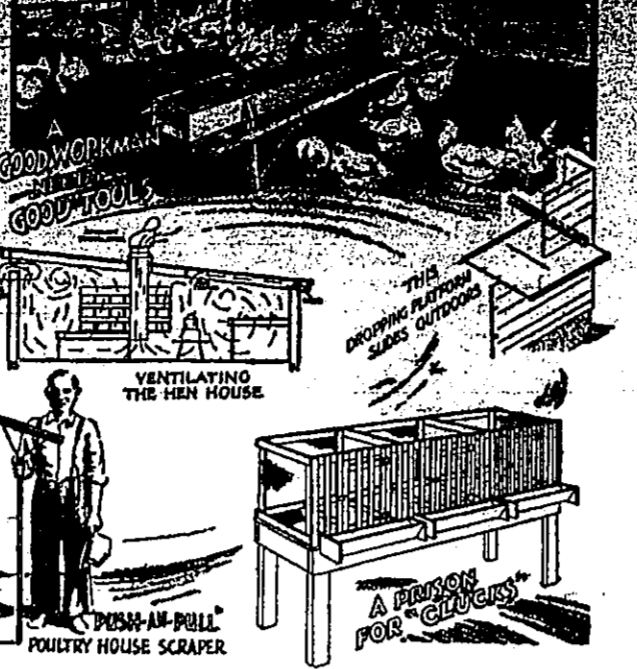

The Tomato Tide

NEWS releases tell us that the tide is rising. This time it doesn't mean to call out the Mississippi Flood Relief or that it's time to hold a finger in the Holland dyke leak. This is a tide of crimson tomato juice which is rising and flooding the entire country with health. It's time, then, to call up the grocer and get your share of this delicious juice, ready-to-serve, as a healthful, fruit juice. It's time, then, to season a bit for a dinner.

Try serving the new cocktail we are suggesting here, with sandwiches of anchovies and hard-boiled eggs on triangles of toast. If you want your sandwiches to look particularly gay, pop the top slice of bread with tiny circles of pimiento. A sprig of mint makes a pretty garnish for this sort of cocktail.

Midnight Frolic Cocktail: Combine the following ingredients: the contents of two 1/2-cup cans of tomato juice, the juice from a No. 2 can of stringless beans, salt and pepper to taste, and a dash of Worcestershire sauce.

A good workman needs good tools—and so does a good hen. Safe rules for the laying house are 5 feet of hopper space for each 50 hens—5 gallons of fresh water for every 100 hens—and 1 good nest for every 5 hens.

Keeping the hen house dry in winter is tremendously important. The exhaust ventilator should reach close to the floor to remove damp air efficiently. Ask your county agent for recommendations.

The "push-an-pull" poultry scraper was made by mounting a 5 x 14 inch section of an old cross-cut saw slantwise on an old broom handle. Very useful for scraping dropping platforms as it works in either direction.

The right upper drawing shows details of a dropping platform that slides through the outside wall of the hen house for cleaning. Easy to make and eases your work.

Lower right drawing shows the broody coop that was designed by the Missouri Experiment station. Make three compartments—place two feet above the floor—put the "chicks" in jail the moment you notice them—feed lightly, with ample water—and you will get many more eggs during the year.

COMBATTING MILDEW

In less than an hour a home-maker can give an ordinary shower curtain a treatment that will make it mildew resistant.

This is welcome news from Mrs. Bernice Claytor, specialist in home improvement for the A&M College extension work who says this simple treatment requires no special equipment. Only a good laundry soap and crystals of cadmium chloride, available at drug stores are needed.

Have the cloth thoroughly clean. Heat it in a solution of 1 to 2 ounces of soap to a gallon of water. About 1 1/2 gallons will cover an average sized shower curtain. Heat 20 minutes, remove the cloth, and squeeze out excess soap.

Put the wet cloth into a second solution of cadmium chloride crystals, 3 ounces to a gallon of water. About 1 1/2 gallons is required.

MEPHISTOPHELES

Many persons assume that Meephistopheles is a synonym for the devil. This is not true. Meephistopheles was a fiendish character in ancient legend and in Goethe's Faust and was not the devil, but only one of the devil's many medieval assistants. Therefore, properly speaking, Meephistopheles is a synonym for a devil, but not for THE devil.

THE WRONG PLACE

Newspapers, doctors, lawyers—all have their ethics. In fact, ethics, like politics, are frequently hoisted to the front to give someone an excuse for not doing something he doesn't want to do.

So with that thought in mind, I tell this story.

An Austin man went on a trip. He wanted to find a swell fishing hole. He stopped everywhere he could to fish. Finally, away off in another state, he asked a man where the best fishing hole was.

"Mind going about 700 miles from here?" said the fellow.

"Nope," said the Texan.

"Well, if you'll go to Austin, Texas, right below the Tom Miller dam, you'll find the best fishing spot in America."

The man blushed, came back home—Charlie Green in the Austin Statesman.

TRUTH IN FABRICS IS NOW THE LAW

Seven months hence a Federal act, already popularly captioned "Truth in Fabrics," will become a law of the nation. Effective June 14, 1941, manufacturers of all woolen goods, except carpets, rugs, mats, and upholstery, will be required to stamp, tag or label their product to show the proportion of the types of wool as well as the content, other than wool, in it.

"This act," says W. R. Nisbet, Extension Service Animal Husbandman for Texas A&M college, "opens the way for women to know precisely the wool content of the fabric, especially wearing apparel, they are buying. Moreover they can demand labelling of any fabric on sale as 'woolen.'"

"Manufacturers are obliged under the law to state the percentage of virgin wool in any fabric so labelled, as well as the amount of reworked wool, or shoddy. If wool content is not claimed for the fabric placed on sale, it may be reworked without labelling."

Passage of the bill, which culminated a 35-year effort by the National Wool Growers Association for "truth in fabrics," is comparable in its scope to the enactment of the pure food law. It will prevent any misrepresentation of the staple content of cloths offered in retail commerce.

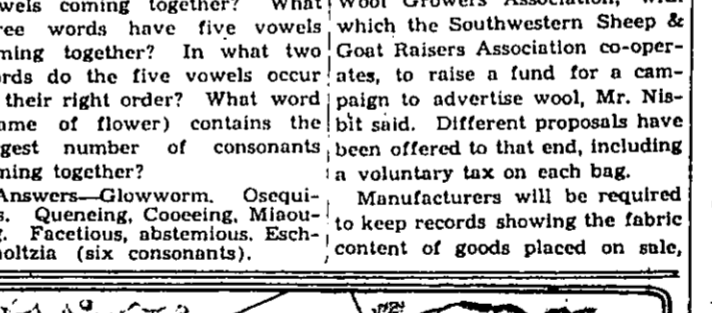

Although bills similar to this, which will be known as the statutes as "Wool products labelling act of 1939," have been introduced in practically every session of congress since the turn of the century, progress toward realization was more halting than enactment of the pure food law.

The law defines the term "wool" to mean the fibre from the fleeces of the sheep or lamb, or hair of the Angora or Cashmere goat, and may also include the so-called specialty fibres from the hair of the camel, alpaca, llama and vicuna, which has never been reclaimed from any woven or felted wool product.

Enactment of the law may revive the program of the National Wool Growers Association, with which the Southwestern Sheep & Goat Raisers Association co-operates, to raise a fund for a campaign to advertise wool. Mr. Nisbet said. Different proposals have been offered to that end, including voluntary tax on each bag.

Manufacturers will be required to keep records showing the fabric content of goods placed on sale.

Tomatoes Give Timely Tip

ACKLESS bathing beauties might take a tip, at this season, from no less an authority than the popular love apple. Tomatoes, scientists tell us, blush redder if the sun is not too hot. If you get hot and bothered under the sun on the beach, it is nice to know that there are sun pills and suntan pills for every sort of skin. But if you are content to "ripen" slowly, like the lovely tomato, you will choose some spot where the sun is not at its hottest and there develop that rich rosy sun-tan that you covet.

Scientists Study Blushes

Scientists of the United States Department of Agriculture who have made a careful study of tomato varieties in connection with the identification of the principal commercial varieties, found that the ideal red color of a variety does not, however, always develop to the same extent in different regions. Under abnormally high temperatures, or when the fruits are exposed to the direct rays of the sun without shade from leaves, the characteristic rich red may not develop. Varieties that are of a rich brilliant scarlet in the central and northern regions of the country tend toward a granulate color under the higher temperatures of the South and Southwest.

Canned Tomatoes Right Color

The rich red of canned tomatoes testifies to the fact that growers who have produced these perfect tomatoes for "canned" use, have dodged their crop, allowing them to grow under conditions which are best suited to their complexion. Not only have their flavors developed at their best, under these conditions of proper growing, but their health-giving content has also increased.

SOMETHING ABOUT ALIEN REGISTRATION

The four-month period provided by Congress for the registration and fingerprinting of all aliens in the United States is now nearing its close. With little more than a month to go we are facing the task of registering the last 800,000 or so non-citizens who are (1) still ignorant of the law; (2) negligent; (3) reluctant or unwilling to comply with the law.

In a large measure the co-operation of the press was instrumental in the registration of more than 2,800,000 aliens. But it is the last few hundred thousand who will be the most difficult to reach. The following list briefly points to what must be accomplished from December 1 to December 26:

- (1) The fact that all aliens who were in this country as of August 27 must be registered and fingerprinted by Dec. 26, or face a $1,000 fine, six months in jail, or both.
- (2) Alien children under 14 must be registered by their parents or guardians, but are not fingerprinted.
- (3) Aliens having registered have still not fully complied with the law unless they notify the Immigration and Naturalization Service of the Department of Justice in Washington of any change in permanent residence address within five days of such change, on a form available at any postoffice.
- (4) Postmasters should be notified immediately in the case of any bedridden alien so that he may take the necessary steps to register him at his place of confinement.
- (5) Confusion between registration for Selective Service and Alien registration should be cleared up. All male aliens 21 to 36 were required to register for the draft, but this did not in any way relieve them of the necessity of registering as an alien.
- (6) Service by an alien in the World War did not of itself win him citizenship, and unless citizenship was achieved he must still register as an alien.
- (7) There are no fees of any kind connected with registration. Aliens should beware of racketeers who promise to "fix things."
- (8) The Post Office department of Justice are ready to answer any individual questions about registration. The alien may feel free to call on any postmaster for any assistance that can be rendered.

The Following Are Musts

Alien registration will end on December 26 and all non-citizens who have not yet registered are warned that severe penalties will follow failure to comply with this Federal law.

All aliens, 14 years of age and older, must register in person and be fingerprinted.

Alien children, under 14, must be registered by their parents or guardians.

Registration takes place of the postoffices.

There is no charge of any kind connected with alien registration. The Department of Justice warns aliens to beware of racketeers.

The postoffice department and the department of Justice will willingly assist the alien in every possible way.

Earl G. Harrison, director of alien registration of the department, suggests that those aliens who have not yet registered do so at once and avoid the Christmas rush. No alien need be unprepared for the questions he will be asked. Sample registration forms which show him exactly what information he will need at registration are available in all postoffices.

With little more than a month to go we are facing the task of registering the last 800,000 or so non-citizens who are (1) still ignorant of the law; (2) negligent; (3) reluctant or unwilling to comply with the law.

In a large measure the co-operation of the press was instrumental in the registration of more than 2,800,000 aliens. But it is the last few hundred thousand who will be the most difficult to reach. The following list briefly points to what must be accomplished from December 1 to December 26:

- (1) The fact that all aliens who were in this country as of August 27 must be registered and fingerprinted by Dec. 26, or face a $1,000 fine, six months in jail, or both.
- (2) Alien children under 14 must be registered by their parents or guardians, but are not fingerprinted.
- (3) Aliens having registered have still not fully complied with the law unless they notify the Immigration and Naturalization Service of the Department of Justice in Washington of any change in permanent residence address within five days of such change, on a form available at any postoffice.
- (4) Postmasters should be notified immediately in the case of any bedridden alien so that he may take the necessary steps to register him at his place of confinement.
- (5) Confusion between registration for Selective Service and Alien registration should be cleared up. All male aliens 21 to 36 were required to register for the draft, but this did not in any way relieve them of the necessity of registering as an alien.
- (6) Service by an alien in the World War did not of itself win him citizenship, and unless citizenship was achieved he must still register as an alien.
- (7) There are no fees of any kind connected with registration. Aliens should beware of racketeers who promise to "fix things."
- (8) The Post Office department of Justice are ready to answer any individual questions about registration. The alien may feel free to call on any postmaster for any assistance that can be rendered.

The Following Are Musts

Alien registration will end on December 26 and all non-citizens who have not yet registered are warned that severe penalties will follow failure to comply with this Federal law.

All aliens, 14 years of age and older, must register in person and be fingerprinted.

Alien children, under 14, must be registered by their parents or guardians.

Registration takes place of the postoffices.

There is no charge of any kind connected with alien registration. The Department of Justice warns aliens to beware of racketeers.

The postoffice department and the department of Justice will willingly assist the alien in every possible way.

Earl G. Harrison, director of alien registration of the department, suggests that those aliens who have not yet registered do so at once and avoid the Christmas rush. No alien need be unprepared for the questions he will be asked. Sample registration forms which show him exactly what information he will need at registration are available in all postoffices.
