HEALTH UNITS NEAR MILITARY TROOPS

Establishment of health units in areas where military troops are concentrated has been a specific responsibility of the State Health Department in the National Defense program. Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health officer, announced today that health units designated to maintain the health of the civilian population in areas adjacent to military reservations have been organized in the surrounding public health control of all the territory within a radius of a to 15 miles from the reservations proper.

The personnel of these units, carefully trained in the technique of military and public health, will conduct mandatory practices in the production and distribution of milk and food supplies. Special attention is also given to food, water, and sewage disposal within the area. Housing units have been set up to minimize the possibility of insect and rodent infestation. Personnel are required for the construction and operation of toilet establishments and sanitary regulations have been prescribed in all details.

The control of communicable diseases is the primary objective of the establishment of these public health units. The preventive measures prescribed within the civilian area include constant control of the military and the civilian population to keep communicable diseases under check and avert any possible epidemics in the civilian area. The surrounding area is also being surveyed for the presence of the non-military population.

The full-time public health units, adapted to areas adjacent to military reservations have been established around Camp Hancock, Brownwood, Camp Berkeley at Abilene, Camp Wolters at Mineral Wells, and in the five-county area surrounding Camp Hulen at Palestine. Additional public health units have been added to the existing health unit at Corpus Christi for special work in the territory surrounding the U. S. Naval Base and to the health unit at El Paso to serve territory surrounding Fort Bliss.

It is anticipated that within the next few weeks several additional health units will be established in areas of the State where many military camps are located in various parts of the State. These units will be organized and labeled, the concentration of large bodies of civilian or military population.

INDIAN SPECTRE SUPPOSED TO ROAM CHISOM MOUNTAINS

Chisom, name of the rugged mountains where the proposed Big Bend National Park is to be located, south of Marfa, means "ghost" in Indian dialect. The name comes from a legend of an Indian chief whose haunting of the range adds a touch of the supernatural to the picturesque scenery of the region.

The Indian chief supposedly ruled a mighty tribe, but marauding Indians from across the border captured him. After years of imprisonment and torture the chief escaped and fled to the mountains. He searched through the mountains for years but never found a trace of his tribe.

Bones found in one of the deserted canyon years later were reputed to have been his.

The belief lives among remaining Indian tribes that the lost chief still strides the mountains in the night, searching for his lost tribe, wailing through the canyons and screaming from the tops of the peaks into the wind.

TIN SMELTER FOR THE COAST

Location of a $3,500,000 tin smelter at Texas City was reported to Gov. O'Daniel last week. Decision to place the smelter at this point culminated intensive activity in behalf of this project by many Texas agencies. The governor's office has been in touch with Federal authorities during the past six months, describing the qualifications of the Texas Gulf area for this enterprise and the advantages it offers. The smelter is to be located on the Texas City waterfront.

This manual is being prepared in collaboration with the research bureau of Texas A&M college, The U. of Tex., and Texas Technological college, and other agencies of the state.

GULLIBLE GULLS
An artificial island had been created in New York Bay through pumping of sand up from the bottom. For two years the gulls and fish pumped up with the sand made easy living for the flocks of gulls, says Charles B. Driscoll. Lately there has been no pumping for three or four months, but the gulls continue to come back for their dole. As many fish as ever swim in the bay, but these stupid birds have forgotten how to catch them, or else have become so fat they can't swim. Some of them are being starved.

Who honestly strive to earn honest pay for honest work... Who honor the old-fashioned virtues of labor, thrift, truth, honesty. Who strive to give children a better chance than their parents had.

Who respect the rights and privileges of others as they value their own.

Who believe that fair play works both ways.

Who get on with other honest men by cooperation, compromise, conciliation.

Who use force only against unprovoked violence, but then defend themselves with all their might.

Americans believe—
That men can live peaceably together.
That hate and violence bring ruin to all parties.
That all honest wealth comes from productive labor of hand or mind.

That no deal is a square deal, unless it benefits all four sides of the square; labor, capital, middlemen, consumer.

That we can not sell to other cities or countries, unless we also buy from them.

That every worker is also a taxpayer and a customer.

That those who worked when they could, should not suffer when they can not.

That the only way to create love of country, is to Keep this a country that deserves to be loved.
Laurence Hart in Texas Outlook.

TEXAS SIXTH IN DUCK HUNTERS

The Lone Star State continues to rank high in duck hunting. Latest figures assembled by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service shows that in 1939 a total of 63,460 federal duck stamps were sold in Texas. That places the state sixth, the same as it was in 1938. Minnesota continues to lead with a sale of 120,934 stamps. Michigan was second with 86,064. Wisconsin placed third with 84,075. California fourth with 74,644 and Illinois fifth with 66,434.

A total of 1,111,516 duck stamps were sold in 1939. The federal service uses the money derived from the sale to purchase areas and maintain refuges for migratory fowl. Refuges are a big factor in helping increase ducks each year.
