Bundles to England From Woodville

To help England by organizing American support at this critical time, a group of citizens in Woodville is forming a local branch of Bundles for Britain, Inc.

Leaders in the movement are Mrs. Jack Kelley, Pres.; Mrs. J. Wood Fain, Sec.; Woodrow Cruse, Treas. A large group of local residents are to join in the organization of the Woodville branch, which is like other chapters of Bundles for England, Inc.

Gifts of clean and mended clothing for men, women and children will be received for shipment and sent to England. The bundles will be provided to volunteer knitters at cost through the national headquarters in New York City, along with instructions to knit sweaters, aviation jackets, mittens, wristlets, scarves and pocket stockings of official designs for England. Lighter Mrs. Wade Datham, national president, writes from New York City to urge the greatest possible effort to alleviate suffering resulting from the devastating bombing on the British Isles.

There is all important representation in London say the need for medical supplies and equipment of all kind is desperate. Mrs. Wm. S. Gresham, wife of the Texas Minister and our honorary sponsor, recently sent an urgent appeal for children's coats. Contributions are used to purchase supplies and apparatus.

Authorization for the local branch of Bundles for Britain has been received by Mrs. Jack Kelley, president of the Woodville branch. This group will meet in the Rawls building, adjoining the Tyler County Courthouse.

The knitting group with Mrs. Clark Hightower as chairman, will meet on Wednesday. Some will be in the building to accept old garments on that day. All persons interested in helping contact Mrs. Betty Wright.

D. and Jewel Hunter hope their friends will attend this opening and look over the ready-made clothing they are offering to make it possible for the ladies of this community to find what they want and need at home. Both ladies are well known and well liked and extend an earnest invitation to all their friends.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

The First Church of Christ, Scientist of Beaumont announced the 1941 service of Christian Science at San Francisco, Cal., member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., in the Rose Room of Hotel Beaumont, Monday evening, Mar. 24th, at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Historic Chapel To Be Rebuilt

Historic McMahan's Chapel, the cradle of Methodist Methodism, is to be rebuilt.

Through the contributions of Methodists throughout the eastern part of the state, a church structure to serve "As fitting memorial to pioneer Methodists" will be constructed soon at the site of the chapel nine miles east of San Augustine.

In addition, a summer encampment ground adjoining the chapel is under consideration. Twenty acres of land for the purpose was donated by Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Noble of San Augustine.

The original log structure, one of the oldest Protestant churches in Texas, was founded in 1828 by the Rev. Lattin Fowler, presiding elder of the Methodist Episcopal church, who also helped by the foundation for free schools in the state.

The rebuilding program will not disturb one of the strangest bombshells in Texas, a tall marble slab that rises through the floor of the old church. The body of the Rev. Fowler lies buried beneath. The slab will not be moved. The original log building was replaced in 1870 by a new wooden church structure, and the planned memorial will replace it.

The building of McMahan's Chapel in 1838 followed the organization of a religious society at the home of Col. Samuel B. McMahan in 1833. At that time Mexican authorities kept vigilance watch over the Texas colonists to keep them from organizing Protestant churches. But there was little restriction, however, on camp meetings and religious societies were permitted to be organized.

The Rev. James P. Stevenson came to Texas in 1833 and was a guest of McMahan for several days. It was he who organized a small group of worshippers with McMahan as their chief leader. It is believed this was the first organized Methodist unit in the state. About five years later McMahan's Chapel, 30x40 feet in size, was built on land donated by Colonel McMahan.

Charles Young of Woodville is the nephew of the founder of this renowned old chapel and is looking forward with pleasure to the planned building and has hopes that he may be able to see it before he leaves this old world. Mr. Young has not enjoyed good health the past two years, but has recovered enough to be down town greeting old friends.

PLANTING OF AZALAE AND DOGWOOD COMPLETED

The Woodville Future Farmers of America set out Azalae and dogwood trees in finishing their work on the main dogwood drive.

The azalae were set out on the azalae island on Big Cypress creek and the dogwood trees were set along the side of the road. In all, their work they have transplanted approximately 30 Azalae and 400 dogwoods.

The azalae and dogwoods were taken up from out of sight of the road and were transplanted near the road.

In addition to setting out the azalae and the dogwood trees the boys cleaned up around azalae island. They cut off low limbs and cleaned up the ground and brush in order for the sight-seers to get a new view of the azalae island. Reporter.

Dogwood Festival Plans Are Complete — Too Much Rain

Miss Jacqueline Connally will reign as queen of the second annual Tyler county dogwood festival which opens Saturday. Miss Connally, daughter of Mrs. Tom Connally, is a popular member of the senior class of the local high school.

She was easily the winner in the field of 18 candidates, having a total of 21,600 votes. She is a talented entertainer, often appearing as tap dancer on programs. Miss Connally was the duchess of Woodville at the Texas Forest Festival in Lufkin last fall.

The coronation of the queen will be Saturday night in the Woodville school amphitheatre with attendants from a large number of southeast Texas towns. An elaborate program has been arranged in which the Spruells dancers and Schubert's Ensemble of Beaumont will appear.

The queen's ball will follow in the high school gym featuring the music of Carol Lofner and his recording orchestra.

All reports of the contest in Tyler county towns are not complete, but the following princesses are in the court of Queen Jacqueline: Woodville, princess, Addie Faye Patton; prince, Billie Dismuke; Chester, princess, Virginia Lewis; prince, Clarence Amerine; Hillister, princess, Grace Glines; prince, Marvin Maddox.

JUDGE J. E. WHEAT CHAIRMAN OF CAMPAIGN

Judge J. E. Wheat has been chosen as chairman of the second congressional district for the annual Texas Jackson day campaign of the democrats in this state.

The number of "B" certificates for five years is not large over the whole state and "A's" are even a smaller number. Mr. Sims has certainly been a faithful, hard working and consistent worker for the city's best interests since taking over this position, or rather job, for there is plenty of real labor connected with it.

The Coco-Cola Managers Meet

Some forty dealers in Coco-Cola in the Woodville community were invited guests at a banquet Friday night given by the plant at Beaumont. Acting host was the distributor who makes Woodville, Wm. Richardson of Salsbee, who presented the speaker of the evening, Howard Snowden, sales manager of the Beaumont district.

With them was D. Beard whose headquarters are at Jasper and who was here a week ago, mapping the town and planning for the occasion which was not only enjoyed because of the good chicken pie supper served with a generous helping of Coco-Cola, but the interesting program presented. Each one present was presented with a 6-bottle carton at the close of the evening. The pictures shown were very interesting; the institutions of what carbonated water, found first in certain parts of the world in springs which were exploited as health resorts on through the years is chemists discovered that it could be made a product that all, rich and poor could enjoy and be refreshed. The technicolor movie picture was very lovely and instructive, pointing out the glass and steel factories pouring out the material for bottles and caps into the thousands of workers used to get this product from raw materials to the consumer. The ladies of the Christian church who served the supper greatly enjoyed and appreciated the opportunity of seeing and hearing the program.

A reception for these guests will be held at 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the home makers reception room, in the high school. The guests are requested to report to the front of the Fair there where they will be sent to various homes to get ready for the evening.

VAL DELMAR DESCRIBED AS TENOR SENSATION

A tip has reached the local times committee to watch the work of the youthful Val Delmar, who is being described as the tenor sensation in the music business and who will be here with Carol Lofner's orchestra on Saturday, March 22.

Mr. Lofner is nursing this young discovery along carefully and hopes he will be able to keep him for a time before the network grab his talent.

The band leader was touring the smaller Hollywood night spots preparatory to leaving for a trans-continental tour with his

Flames prevented immediate rescue attempts but Bryant partially quelled them with his fire extinguisher to allow an approach to the cab. He then backed his truck to the wreckage and hooked his tail-gate chain to the door. He started his truck and yanked the door from the wreckage, permitting the driver to be removed and placed in a waiting ambulance.

Saving his job was done. Bryant proceeded on schedule without telling witnesses his name.

When asked about the incident, Bryant said, "I only did what any other truck driver would have done."

CROSSING FATALITIES

Fatalities resulting from accidents at highway-railroad grade crossings in 1940 totaled 1,814, according to complete reports for the year just received by the Safety Section of the Association of American Railroads. Except in 1937, when there were 1,875, the number of such fatalities was greater in 1940 than in any year since 1930. The number of fatalities in 1940 showed an increase of 416 compared with 1939 and a gain of 297 compared with 1938.

CHINESE FARMERS EXEMPT FROM TAX BUT PAY ANYWAY

Denver.—Three Chinese truck farmers apologized to Uncle Sam because they had not made enough money in 1940 to pay income taxes. But, enclosed in a letter to Collector of Internal Revenue Ralph A. Nicholas, were three $5 money orders which the letter asked "please be accepted for the great needs of national defense."

The contributions will be accepted, Nicholas said, explaining about 250 such offerings for defense had been received with no tax returns in Colorado this past month.

JUST IN A TRUCKERS LINE OF DUTY

W. F. Bryant, veteran truck driver for the Red Ball Motor Freight Lines, who it has been learned last Friday night rescued the unidentified driver of a gasoline truck who was trapped in the burning cab of his machine following a collision with a Warren in which two persons were killed, said it was just in my line of duty.

Bystanders were trying to extinguish the gasoline flames when Bryant arrived on the scene on his Dallas-to-Galveston run.

Flames prevented immediate rescue attempts but Bryant partially quelled them with his fire extinguisher to allow an approach to the cab. He then backed his truck to the wreckage and hooked his tail-gate chain to the door. He started his truck and yanked the door from the wreckage, permitting the driver to be removed and placed in a waiting ambulance.

The Red Berry Much Admired

Victor H. Schoeffelmayer, agricultural editor of the Dallas Morning News spent February 14 in Lafayette and Bastrop counties, and on this occasion he was tendered a luncheon by the Chamber of Commerce of Smithville, with representatives from Bastrop, Giddings, Winchester, La Grange and a number of other nearby points being represented. During this luncheon Mr. Schoeffelmayer spoke eloquently of the timber resources of Bastrop, Fayette and Lee counties. Following his visit to this section, he wrote two articles for his paper, one appeared on Feb. 24, and on March 3, both of which were widely read.

Title of the first article was "Smithville, Bastrop, communities find new wealth in Forest, soil and team work," and the second was given entirely to the subject of Yaupons, the title of this article being "Yaupon, gorgeous Texas shrub needs benefit of scientific multiplication." In the first article this well known writer exploited the timber resources in a general way, declaring among other things that the timbers of Bastrop, Fayette and Lee counties could be commercialized to a great advantage in the making of pulp paper. The second followed closely the subject given above. Both of these articles have been widely read and some of the papers of this area are running them serially.

The article on the Yaupon, however, gave Dr. William Dyer Moore, head of the Department of Foreign Languages of the Texas State College for Women a poetic inspiration, and he sent the poem which he named "Yaupon" to Mr. Schoeffelmayer, giving him permission to use it in any way that he desired. Mr. Schoeffelmayer has sent the poem to the Smithville C. of C. in Smithville, with the suggestion that it be passed to the papers of Bastrop and Fayette counties for publication as it speaks, especially of these two counties. It follows:

Misses J. D. Wood of Houston spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. C. J. Padgen.

Many more have enjoyed the dogwood festival, however, at Woodville Sunday.

Island Hat-mak of Beaumont spent the week end. Mrs. Harriett will be here three months under the treatment of the day.

The HONORABLE UNCLE LANCY

"Adele, I've known those two a long time. They are swell sports. They're game as they come. But I feel down on this job because I like them—and adore you—they'd be the first to sneer. And you'd be next. Listen, sweet, I don't want them beaten, but I'm going to try my best to beat them. If you do you think Olympia will ever feel the same? We can't beat them, unless we get some breaks I can't foresee. That's what I'm on the lookout for—the breaks. And it will mean a lot for me if I put it across. The Governor has promised me anything I want. Anything! We could get married then. I could take care of you."

"I don't want to be taken care of at their expense. You don't know how lovely they are to us. I don't want anything—taken from them."

"Talk to Olympia," Len said. "She knows this racket. It's always a scrap. They can take a beating, but they can't stand a quarter."

"I think it is—despicable," she said, and there were tears, very becoming tears, in her lovely eyes.

"It's the democratic form of government," he said, and kissed the tears away. "It's the only word for it, sweet. Ask them."

"But if you were with us, Len, it would be so perfect. To have you go with us, and plan with us, and be on our side."

"Yes, it would be perfect. But if I broke my contract, it would be the best weapon the Governor could hold against him. They would claim that by influence and money."

"No, sweet, I don't. But that hasn't a thing in the world to do with it. No, I don't think of that. I'm just thinking of my job. Publicity is."

"It's appalling, Brick," Helen said. "I'm just terrified of the whole thing. It all smears down to the fact that the outcasts and the ins want to stay where they are. I don't believe in a single thing at stake but that Brother Wilkie and Uncle Lancy agree on almost every point, except that the Governor thinks the Republicans could do a better job of finishing what the democrats started."

"I asked Aunt Olympia what is the real issue in this campaign."

"The issue," she boomed. "The issue? Why, the issue is just whether the Senator is going to be beaten by that treacherous worm who ought to get back where he belongs."

"All the time, Brick, all the money, all the scheming and planning, all the heartaches—just for that?"

Aunt Olympia was packed and ready for adjournment by the tenth of May. Still Congress dawdled, filibustered, talked.

The second week in June she sent Hilda on up to Mayville with most of the baggage and with orders to get things ready for her arrival. It couldn't be long now. The most notorious congressional session was frayed and rasping.

"A hog caller couldn't stick it out much longer," she told the girls hopefully.

On June 16th, Congress adjourned.

Helen drew a deep, tired breath. "At last! It's over!" she ejaculated.

Olympia's smart was deep and rusty. She raised her shoulders like a champion Pegasus pluming for flight.

"Over!" she boomed. "Over! Why, it hasn't even begun!"

CHAPTER VII

Shires, the senatorial estate near Mayville, Mayville, the capital of the state, headquarters both of Republican and Democratic state committees, was an ideal location for the Senator in a campaign year. It was an ideal location for Len Hardesty, too, though working for the Opposition. "Not even a slave-driver with seven brats can keep me on the go day and night all summer," he told Adele confidentially.

"I've got to relax occasionally, and I expect to do all my summer's relaxing at Shires."

The house itself was low, rambling and wide with porches on every side; with high cupolas and low steep and broad fireplaces; with great rooms, huge windows and crystal chandeliers; artlessly old-fashioned to the last detail. Yet the old-fashionedness of it was more apparent than real, for it was only ten years old and its equipment was modern to the extreme.

In planning her arrival after the adjournment of Congress—Aunt Olympia always had a plan for everything minutely laid out in advance—she had been bitterly torn between natural thrift and pride. She wanted the girls to see Shires first in all its pristine beauty, and yet, wishing to safeguard and protect the home, she had had a small roadster and arrived at Shires in advance of the main party.

"Dear me, it must be a huge Aid," said Adele. "You've had food enough for two hundred."

"There'll be two hundred," said Aunt Olympia. "Though it's got a very large Aid. They'll bring out a hundred more, and you'll see."

"I'll take advantage of the situation and get a little more food for the girls."

"I'll take advantage of the situation and get a little more food for the girls."

WOODVILLE NEWS

Mrs. H. C. Ellis of Chester were calling on Woodville friends Thursday.

Brother Wilkie, but in the house on board, such as it is, is your board."

Len Hardesty, who was usually heard pressed about one thing or another on Sunday morning, had also attended divine worship in Mayville that morning, occupying the corner of the pew directly opposite Senator Shipshire's and gazing intently at Adele's slightly flushed profile during the entire service. He put nothing in the collection plate. Though Olympia had not definitely included him in her invitation, he tucked Adele easily into his small roadster and arrived at Shires in advance of the main party.
