DON'T STOP US
A man once owned a very fine horse which was the envy of all his acquaintances, one of whom, a shrewd trader, often asked to buy the animal. The owner always refused, but when the horse died, he had it sent to the trader. Some time later the two men met and the practical joker asked the other how he had liked the gift. The trader replied: "I made $3500 off him."
"How did you manage to make that off a dead horse?"
"I sold 200 tickets,"
"My dear fellow, didn't anyone object?"
"Oh, yes," the trader answered, "but the only one who objected was the man who won the horse, and I gave him back his money." — M. M. Brown, in Reader's Digest.

JAP BUSINESS FIRMS SEIZED BY GOVERNMENT

Washington, Dec. 8. — Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced today the seizure of all Japanese banks and business enterprises throughout the United States.
He said in a formal statement that "treasury agents had taken custody of premises of Japanese banking and business enterprises throughout the United States."
Officials have been given special instructions to prevent the removal of funds from the premises of such enterprises and to prevent the destruction or removal of their books, records and other property.
He said treasury agents had forestalled "numerous attempts to remove securities and other valuable documents from the premises of Japanese enterprises," and added that in San Francisco, Japanese were caught trying to remove $40,000 worth of securities from a Japanese concern.

Martin Nelhus, Jr., of Dallas, was home last week to attend the funeral of his grandfather, J. A. Best.
Friends are sincerely sorry to learn that W. E. Suter is confined to his bed. Mrs. Suter is able to be about the home after three weeks illness.
Luther Dean, son of Esca Dean who has been located for some time in El Paso is with Uncle Sam's army at Ft. Bliss, expecting orders any minute for transfer to war zone.
Friends are sorry to learn that M. M. Minyard of Comalco entered a Jasper hospital Monday for treatment.
W. A. Richardson, Aubrey Grimes and Merle McAllister of Port Arthur made a short visit with home folks, and went on to the west coast to again join the Navy. "Curley" Smith also headed that way to re-enlist. He is a veteran of the World War No. 1.
A. L. Little left early Monday for Dallas, looking after road affairs.
Henry Edsall Ford got as far as Dallas when orders came to return to the west coast. Many of the boys turned back from there, who were enroute home for the Christmas holidays but Henry came on by bus, spent a few hours with his mother and left for San Diego.

KEEP THE LIGHT SHINING

Funeral services for George W. Allison, 75, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Mount Zion church, with the Rev. Ronald L. Pope in charge of the services, under direction of Oakley-Metcalf Funeral Home. A Masonic funeral service will be held at the grave. Pallbearers are to be J. K. Allison of Crockett, W. C. Allison of Houston, Sedman Allison of Beaumont, Lee Phillips of Camden, Jim Smith of Silsbee, Lee Sheffield of Silsbee, Allen Phillips of Beaumont, Frank Payne of Silsbee and John Henry Lazenby of Hillister. Mr. Allison, who had lived in Hillister for a number of years, died at 4:35 o'clock yesterday afternoon at St. Theresse hospital, Beaumont, after a serious illness of 25 hours. He was a native of Madison county and came to Tyler county when he was nine years old. He was in the laundry business. He was a member of the Baptist Church from early life, and was a past master of the Myrtle lodge of Masons at Warren. He was serving as associate patron of the Warren Eastern Star. He was married in 1880 to Miss Fanny Jane Hare, who survives him. Other survivors are one son, Elton Allison of Houston; two half brothers, John Harmon of Hillister and Jim Buckner of Normangee.

IT'S YOUR LIFE

Are your feet killing you? Maybe they aren't yet—but one out of every four persons killed in traffic accidents this year have walked to their deaths.
Among the objectives of the December Traffic Safety Emergency Campaign is the prevention of 52 pedestrian deaths which are expected under the present accident trend.
Thirty-one of the pedestrian fatalities are expected to occur on city streets. Twenty-one are due along the rural highways.
The main reason for these deaths will be that the pedestrian forgot to be careful. Unless in extreme cases such as in drunken driving, the machine isn't going to seek out the pedestrian. The latter, through carelessness, usually puts himself into a hazardous position.
At night when the majority of rural pedestrian fatalities occur, the victim might have avoided the accident had he worn something white that would reflect the beams of the approaching headlights.
A good rule to follow for any highway hiker is to use the left side of the highway, facing traffic.
The best rule for the city pedestrian is to watch while you walk. Never depend on the driver. Play it safe.
And then, maybe, your feet won't kill you.
