I THINK 'MOBBIES'

There is a proposition of the education of our youth for the duration. At last, let us go to work for Uncle Sam.

The other day I read in the good Republic that a man who appears to be a member of the president of the United States.

All we have to do is to get all our boys to show up in the school and we will have a mob of boys. Anyway, right now it is just thinking about it.

Well, you could hold a meeting of the boys of the county and let them know what they are going to do. And, if you don't mind, what are you going to do about it?

How would it be to have a meeting of the boys of the county and let them know what they are going to do. And, if you don't mind, what are you going to do about it?

Right Judgment in All Things

In his judgment of Franklin Roosevelt, recently published in Liberty magazine, Walter Karig has this to say:

"He goes to church, knows the Episcopalian prayer book by rote, and can improvise a very earnest and moving prayer himself."

In that Episcopalian prayer book is found this petition for Whitsunday the descent of the Holy Ghost:

"O God, who art at this time didst teach the hearts of thy faithful people, by sending to them the light of thy Holy Spirit; Grant us by the same Spirit to have a right judgment in all things, and evermore to rejoice in his holy comfort; through the merits of Christ, Jesus our Saviour, who liveth and reigneth with thee in the unity of the same Spirit, one God, world without end."

The petition clusters about six words: "A right judgment in all things."

That is the one thing for which a chief executive should constantly pray.

LISTEN OVER NBC EACH SUNDAY

The State Fire Insurance Commission is broadcasting a program over the Mutual (NBC) network each Sunday afternoon from 2 o'clock till 2:15.

The Woodville Firefighters have been notified that they are expected to furnish a program and will be notified later, when and where. So time in on KTRCB-WPAA or WOAI each Sunday so as not to miss them.

ATTENTION CALLED TO IMPROVEMENT

The reporter was asked by one much interested in civic improvement, to advise post the Joe Ramsey home Monday and see the sidewalk just finished in front. The remark was made while we were dining in McCar's Cafe. "Such an addition to their own expense, should have some publicity." It was also mentioned that very little care was given on main streets, the curbs, but let us drive by, we noted that this is the Highway department and others congratulated the Ramsey on their civic pride and the well kept home and premises.

Save Our Homes and Our Small Businesses

Note—The following editorial was written by E. L. Frelund of the Beaver (Pa.) Daily Times and printed in the August 6 issue of that paper as the beginning of what he hopes will be a nationwide movement to have provisions written into the new tax bill to exempt part or all of principal payments on debts. It was sent to us with a special bulletin by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association with the statement that it may be republished with or without credit.

The senate finance committee, now working on the nation's next war-time tax bill, should include provisions to save millions of homes, and to prevent the collapse of small business throughout the nation as a result of war.

Hardships and sacrifices, essential to war and victory, do not offer any excuse for a repetition of the national financial crash of the early part of the last decade. Only through legislative stupidity and lack of foresight can such a ruinous calamity again befall this nation. Legislative wisdom can and should prevent it.

In suggesting that everybody make an intensive effort to pay their debts, the President has pointed the way. There is no sounder security for individual or for business groups, than to get out of debt after a hard struggle to pay for something useful. Financial independence generates hope, confidence, stability, tolerance, patriotism and national solidarity. Despair, discouragement, discontent, unrest and crime are fruits of confiscation and imposed dependency.

We suggest that the senate, in whose membership reposes our highest legislative wisdom, make these provisions in the new tax bill before sending it back to the house or its way to final passage.

Exempt from taxation all principal payments on all home, farm and business mortgages.

Exempt from taxation all principal payments on all notes on other contractual debt obligations, where such obligations were assumed prior to the war, for the promotion and operation of individual, partnership or corporate business, giving employment to other people.

Exempt from taxation life insurance premiums where the insurance was purchased for the normal security of dependents, or for the protection of business obligations.

Avoid ruin or confiscation of home and business through excessive taxes by using the government's unlimited credit to extend the time in which our war costs will be paid.

We believe it is imperative that those provisions be made by the senate, and that the house approve them for the safety, security and general welfare of all our people.

Unless such provisions are made, history demonstrates that untold millions of families, now paying for homes, on mortgage plans will lose their homes through tax rates that will be confiscatory. Those people will then be depressed and discouraged. They will be hesitant, if not wholly unwilling, to make another effort at home ownership, wherein is the heart and soul, the strength and stability of the nation. That is wholly unnecessary. It is inexcusable in a land of plenty. It can easily be prevented, but dangerously tolerated.

Unless small business, successful without government contracts and subsidies, can get some relief from high tax rates, its mortality chart will run extremely high. In that case, unemployment will again become the biggest problem of a nation impoverished when war it did not seek but must win.

Small business has always been the nation's largest and steadiest employer. In spite of greatly decreased revenues, caused by the necessities of war, small business is still able to make its own way without access to government loans or subsidies. Can we afford to close our eyes to the future and let it die now in one desperate grab? Hardly.

When war contracts and profits cease, when victory and peace are won, it will be the responsibility of small business to save the nation from demoralization and despair. An abnormal burden will then descend squarely on the shoulders of small business. It will carry that burden successfully if given a reasonable opportunity. It will be the shock absorber on the rough road of transition from war to peace again. Only legislation and economic stupidity, and lack of foresight now, will chart any other course than one of utmost protection and encouragement for small business in these and future critical days.

Life insurance companies are probably the largest purchasers of government obligations to finance the war. This source of security for the people who pay the premium should be protected. People, in addition to the men in the armed services, should be encouraged to buy life insurance. They should not buy in excessive amounts on tax free premiums, but in sufficient amounts to make normally secure their dependents, and to protect their personal and business obligations.

Congress should pass this tax bill, with these provisions, NOW, instead of waiting until after the November election. They will, if enough millions of people who are affected, consent, tell them, 49 degree, and they will pass it. They will pass it. They will pass it.

Boy's Manly Letter To Parents To Shame All Non Enlisters

Tyler, Aug. 22.—A simple direct letter from a 17-year-old boy to his parents, made public with the consent of the parents, put into words the spirit of America's fighting men.

The boy, Odie Lee Chappel, wanted to enlist in the navy. Because of his age, Chief F. A. Wade, officer in charge of the United States navy recruiting station here, insisted that the boy first get the consent of his parents. Miss N. H. Chappel of Norman.

Odie Lee's letter follows. The Oscar to whom he refers was his brother, killed in action with the navy March 14. The boy has another brother in the navy at this time.

"Dear Mother and Dad:

"Look, people! You said that if I really wanted to join the navy you would sign the papers. Well, I have fully made up my mind and have taken the examination and passed. The man here said he would mail them (the papers) to you and you all could sign them and send them back. Then I will come home and see you all and come back up here and ship out. Please send them back as soon as you can.

"I'm not getting in just to get revenge on those guys that killed Oscar in cold blood, but that is partly why.

"But there is another reason. We people have a pretty swell country over here and those guys over there got the idea they were wanted to push us around a little. Well, we got ideas, too, and there are about 3,000,000 men who are out there to keep this a free country and a swell place to live in.

"And here and do my part. I won't deserve the peace and happiness that's going to come after this war. So please sign the papers and send them back as soon as you get them. Then I will come home and see you people.

"I am O K and ready to go. I'll see you as soon as I get the papers back. Your Loving Son,

"ODIE LEE."

The United States navy has a new man, Odie Lee Chappel was accepted for enlistment in the regular navy as an apprentice seaman.

WOODVILLE NEWS

There should be a do and a don't for next November. Do eliminate from Congress the blind men, including dupes of Nazi propaganda, who neither saw the present in the past nor can see the future in the present. Don't vote against any Senator or Representative merely because you feel sure at Congress is a whole. That is a sure recipe for jumping from the frying pan into the fire. —Chicago Sun (Ind.).
