Better Breakfasts

BETTER breakfasts make for a better day's work—especially in a hot, hot season. July breakfasts should be light, yes; they should, however, be nourishing. The reason for this is because at the same time old Sol is putting iron in your system, he is helping you to burn up energy—and it must be constantly replaced. Try this breakfast, some fine morning, for it's not only delicious—it's horse-sense.

THE EXPLANATION MAY BE FOUND in the fact that the equilateral triangle has always been sacred. The sum of all the angles of any triangle is equal to two right angles, or 180°. Each of the equal angles of any equilateral triangle is equal to one-third of two right angles (180 divided by 3 equals 60) which is 60°. The compasses thus set at 60° allude to the equilateral triangle and if two points were united by a straight line, would form one. Our ancient Brethren placed the equilateral triangle itself on the altar. The compasses opened at 60° have been substituted.

TAKE A LETTER

"Now, look here, I fired three girls for revising my letters, see?" said the boss to his new sten.

"Yes, sir."

"All right, now take a letter and take it the way I tell you."

And the next morning Mr. O. J. Squizz of the Spizz Soap Company received the following letter:

"Mr. O. K. or A. J. or something, look it up, Squizz, what a name, Squizz Company, Detroit, that's in Michigan, isn't it? Dear Mr. Squizz, Humm, the last shipment of soap you sent us was of inferior quality and I want you to understand: No, scratch that out, I want you to understand—Humm unless you can ship—furnish, ship, no furnish us with your regular soap you needn't ship us no more, period, or whatever the grammar is, and pull down your shirt."

"Where was I? Paragraph. Your soap wasn't what you said, I should say it wasn't. Them father have thought they want through the world again! He's hoarse, open and close, to point yer face up for like in-decisive and macked, with many hokawats and more than one of two perfidious friend. The world's and will continue to be led by a man in the U. S. A. head who who smokes every day in one of the Center restaurant. We sat down beside him the other day and saw him carefully pocket the one lump of sugar that came with his coffee. You see," he explained. "I'm taking it for a horse. It's just a delivery horse, but I've become very much attached to him and every day he looks for a lump of sugar. I can go without it, but the horse wouldn't. He'd think I was mean at him or something." (Rockefeller Center Magazine)

Best for Baby

NOT "How much trouble is it?" but "Is it best for baby?" the home-prepared, in proportion as care is taken during the nursing process to exclude air. Most manufacturers marketers have strained and specially prepared endless food for generation of babies and now that baby food is pureed and scientific everywhere, are asking their physicians which is best for baby? Dr. Walter H. Eddy, of Columbia University, recently told mothers this in "Good Housekeeping Magazine":

"When vegetables are cooked and pureed in the home, the process usually leads to a considerable destruction of vitamin C, owing to the access of air during the process. The canned pureed baby food is prepared for 'baby' but vegetables are more valuable than

The flight of a bird past the window beckons ill luck to come.

To remove frockles wash in dew or stamp water before sunrise on the first of May.

Shingle your house during the period of a waning moon, for that Mrs. G. H. Boyer says, also a waning moon will pull the shingles flat.

When the leaves of the elm tree have become the size of a quarter coin, that's the time to plant corn.

And as for too many cooks spoiling the broth, the superstitious about soap provides a parallel. Soap which by the way, should be made in the light of the moon must be started by only one person and always in the same direction.

Plant root crops in the dark of the moon, crops that ripen above the ground plant in the full moon.

And so that meat will not "dry hard and leave oily" do the butchering before the full moon.

MAKING THE MOST OF YOUR LIGHTING

(No. 3 of a Series)

Eliminate Colored Bulbs

Amber-orange and flame tinted bulbs in round or flame shape give a mellow, amber lighting effect, but there is a considerable loss in light to obtain it. Replace them with inside-frosted lamps of the same wattage and you'll get a lot more light from the same amount of current. It's a good idea, too, to see that bulbs are equipped with shades to prevent glare and to direct light where it is needed. We'll gladly help you in any way we can to make the most of your lighting.

For Home Study . . . an I.E.S. Better Sight Study Lamp equipped with a 100-watt bulb provides abundant, soft, glareless light that helps youngsters finish their lessons quicker and easier. Get one for your child today. Better light means better grades.
