We STRIKE A Blow In the Pacific

RECENTLY in the Southwest Pacific the Allies struck a new, hard blow at the Axis enemy. Now Makin Island, key to Japan's position over a large area, was invaded. This theatre in which ground action has long been limited to air and ship attacks, was suddenly broadened to include a new dimension—the strength of the Allies has been demonstrated.

The invasion of Makin Island, the first of a series of operations, was the result of a long and arduous campaign. The Allies had to overcome a series of obstacles, including the need to transport supplies and troops over a long distance. The operation was a testament to the Allies' ability to plan and execute a complex military campaign.

west Pacific theatre there had been a hard campaign up through the Solomon and across New Guinea to move the threat to Australia and to the enemy's main supply bases there. More recently had been the lightning attack in the Central Pacific, with the capture of the Gilbert Islands. The "BIG FOUR" Draw Up Plans

In the Middle East, where the military begins, history will be written recently when four men—the four most powerful men in the United Nations—had traveled thousands of miles across oceans, deserts, and frozen steppes, to meet in conference and pin the finishing touches on plans for the defeat of the Axis and for the construction of an enduring peace.

These meetings were held against a background of mounting pressure against the Axis. The Axis powers were facing increasing military setbacks, and the Allies were preparing for a final push.

Just before dawn a small assault force of the American Sixth Army, headed by Texans carrying the Lone Star flag, moved forward. The force was successful in capturing a key position, which was a significant blow to the Axis.

How RUSSIANS Give All to War

By MAURICE HINDUS
Author of "Under Hitler" and "The Russian Revolution"

MOSCOW, Dec. 18. (By Telephone) WILLIE the Red Army is fighting the Russian people is working as hard as ever. In Russia there are no strikes, no lockouts and no idleness. There is no idleness, no one, not even the Red women, except when they have to be children, are permitted to live idly. There is no idleness, no one, not even the Red women, except when they have to be children, are permitted to live idly.

American who are asking how it happened that Russia succeeded in turning back from the very gates of Moscow from the hands of a hordes of German tanks, which were the outbreak of the Russo-German war, the most universally agreed upon, highly mechanized and perfectly coordinated fighting force in the world. It is the command of steel production that or four times as fast as Russia will produce the answer in part to the question.

Technically there are two wars in the world, with Russia still neutral in the East and giving every indication that, at least until the big job in the West is finished, she intends to remain so. Thus there were two conferences, and the leaders made the plans for the invasion of Japan.

Professors Help Out All Around The college professor is not only man who delivers lectures to students, but is a consultant of industry or agriculture, a director of the on that enterprise within the sphere of his speciality.

An Agricultural Miracle It is despite the shortness of winter there is no famine in Russia. The miracle of the Russian culture has performed the feat of making the most of the winter months, and the Russian people have managed to produce enough food to sustain the population.

CURRENT

December 17, 1940. For years ago, the world's leading nations, North America, Europe, and Asia, were engaged in a struggle for power. The United States, in particular, was a major player in this game. The world was a stage, and the nations were the actors. THE RAREST FISH IN THE WORLD

THE RAREST FISH IN THE WORLD
The rarest fish in the world is the Coelacanth. It was first discovered in 1938 off the coast of South Africa. It is a prehistoric fish that has been extinct for millions of years. It is a large, deep-sea fish with a long, pointed snout and a thick, bony armor. It is considered one of the most primitive of all fish. The discovery of the Coelacanth has provided scientists with valuable information about the evolution of fish and the history of life on Earth.

MONSTER DEVIL FISH
A monster devil fish was reported on the edge of the Gulf Stream near Key West, Fla. It was a boat 10 miles to sea before finally being killed, though, about 100 miles from the shore, it was one of the largest ever captured. It was described as a "swimming barn door" because of its rectangular shape. The devil fish is really a shark and the members of the shark family. There are several kinds of rays. The torpedos have a kind of electric battery built into their bodies. They use this to help them move through the water. The electric rays are found in the shallow waters of the coast. They are a common sight in many parts of the world.

IN AMERICA'S LARGEST CITY
WHERE THE BEST WINS THE TEST

They Satisfy

NOT A SLOGAN BUT A FACT

Wherever you go—in the great metropolis or anywhere in this country—notice how many people are enjoying Chesterfields.

Chesterfields do what they say they do. THEY SATISFY. They give you the best in tobacco quality plus the Right Combination of these tobaccos to give you a Smooth, Tasty, Satisfying smoke. Make your next cigarette a cheerful one. You'll see how really good a cigarette can be.

It's Chesterfield
