More Power to the Farmer

Producer of Food for Victory

One reason for America's record wartime food production is the extensive use of labor-saving electricity on the farm.

As its part in providing more power for food production, this company has greatly expanded its facilities for serving farms and residents of rural communities throughout the war.

Since Pearl Harbor, over 3,000 new rural customers have been added to our lines. Numerous additional extensions to serve rural users within practical reach of existing lines in our territory have been surveyed and are scheduled for completion as rapidly as manpower and material shortages will permit.

Today, one customer of every five we serve is a rural customer and the percentage is growing steadily. On the farm, as in business and industry, C. P. S. Co. power is working for Victory.
