HOW RAILROAD DOLLARS HELP YOUR COMMUNITY

Aids from their main purpose of providing essential transportation for travelers and shippers, American railroads contribute in other important ways to the upbuilding of the communities they serve. Of the money they receive for their services only a very small amount actually stays with the railroads. By far the largest part finds its way back to the people — to the average citizen — to YOU.

Let's see, then, just how the railroad dollar is spent.

|--|--|
| 41% FOR WAGES With this money 1,400,000 railroad employees buy homes, fuel, food, clothing, education and insurance — and so keep local business prosperous. | 16% FOR TAXES Railroad taxes are spent for the general support and service of the government — national defense, public safety, schools, hospitals, although part of this money goes to provide and maintain highways, waterways and bridges, some of it goes to the railroads to buy or maintain any of the equipment or help carry on its business. |
| 32% FOR MATERIALS Over two-thirds of this was spent on fuel, iron, steel, lumber, etc. — a broad cross section of industry. This money means better business and more jobs in almost every industry in the country. | 3% FOR DIVIDENDS This 3 cents is divided up among the millions of individual citizens who, through investment of their savings in railroad stocks, help provide the "backbone" for railroad employees. |
| 6% FOR INTEREST, RENTS, ETC. The greater part of this goes to the millions of men and women who have loaned or mortgaged money and so have invested in the railroads through their life insurance policies, savings bank deposits and the like. | 2% WORKS FOR THE FUTURE This last 2 cents of the railroad dollar is invested in the research which is making possible better equipped, better serviced, more jobs to help provide for our all-time, steadily-improving rail transportation. |

S-P The Friendly Southern Pacific

SOUTHERN PACIFIC, as an important part of the system of American railroads, is contributing materially in these various ways to the prosperity and progress of the thousands of communities which it serves.

"You know there's steady"

...cash in the form of pulpwood, waiting to be cut!

"Pulpwood is one farm crop you can harvest any time of year, any kind of weather. The mills are hungry for it, and ready to pay peak prices. This cash comes in mighty handy, these days, too."

"I understand pulpwood is still in great demand because reconversion is calling for more and more to use for all sorts of business and household needs. Besides there are all the new industrial uses that were developed during the war."

"I'm not going to let good money lie idle in our woods! I've learned from our successful country neighbors that you can make a fortune out of pulpwood."
