Methodists Begin Work On New Unit

Construction on a $100,000 educational wing and chapel at the First Methodist Church of Woodville was scheduled to begin this week following groundbreaking ceremonies here Sunday.

The structure will contain 10 classrooms and a chapel, Rev. Wayne Odum, pastor, said. It will be located just east of the present church building and will attach to it. The framehouse now on West Bluff will be sold and moved, he said. The entire children's division of the Sunday School will be concentrated in the new air-conditioned building which is expected to be completed in about seven months. By moving elementary classes out of the present educational areas it will be possible to expand the adult Sunday School and add more classes here, Rev. Odum pointed out.

The groundbreaking ceremonies were held at the close of church services last Sunday. Dr. Stewart Clendenin, district superintendent of Beaumont, presided.

Building committee members are Jack White, chairman; Frank Robinson, chairman of the board of stewards; J.H. "Jiggs" Kennesson Jr., finance chairman; and Mrs. D.P. Mann, Woodville, Mrs. F.B. Sullivan, and Mrs. James Parks.

Others participating in the ceremony were Mrs. Benmie Stanford, president of the Woman's Society; Max Graman, president of the Methodist Men; Mrs. Bunkle deBryne, representing the Westgate Service Guild; David Mann, children's division representative; and Jennie Lou Carter, president of the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Contractor is H.B. Nield of Beaumont and Rex Good is architect.

Commissioners Hold Lengthy Session Monday

County commissioners held a somewhat lengthy session Monday but the meeting was principally with routine matters.

A special session of the court will be held next Monday to discuss the new county auditor with the court.

Judge Cole is expected to appoint the auditor after interviewing candidates here late this month.

Insurance for county employees was discussed at length with several agents appearing before the commissioners but no specific action was taken Monday.

Neither did the court take any action on a suggestion by Ernest Lynn, deputy constable from Chester that the court set salaries of commissioners in line with the $100 monthly pay voted for constables in January.

However, Commissioner H. H. Powell of Chester did make a motion that officials' salaries be cut 10 per cent across the board.

Mr. Powell made his motion as a means of reducing a $50,000 deficit in the officials salary fund.

Judge Jeff Monney explained that the deficit has accumulated in the fund due to a raise voted by officials two years ago.

Mr. Powell's motion died for want of a second.

Commissioners discussed the deficit at length but came up with no answer to the problem Monday.

Judge Monney moved that pay for courthouse employees be calculated on the basis of a 10 day work week.

Five and a half day work week and the motion passed unopposed.

Plat of a subdivision offered by H. K. Maxey was approved by the court but was withheld on one offered Wildwood subdivision in the south part of the county due to street widths and confusion of wording about dedication of streets.

Citizens State Bank of Woodville was made depository for the county's various funds and county school funds. Carey L. Cruse, executive vice-president of the bank, represented that firm.

Commissioners indicated that they would attend a meeting of County Judges and Commissioners at A&M University next week.

Kiwanis Club Organizes Here, Hosts Beaumont

The Irish Village Kiwanis Club of Beaumont held an inter-club meeting at noon Tuesday in the Woodville Community Inn.

Walter Shell, flight instructor of Naches Aviation Co., showed a film and talked on "Community Benefits from an Airport Development."

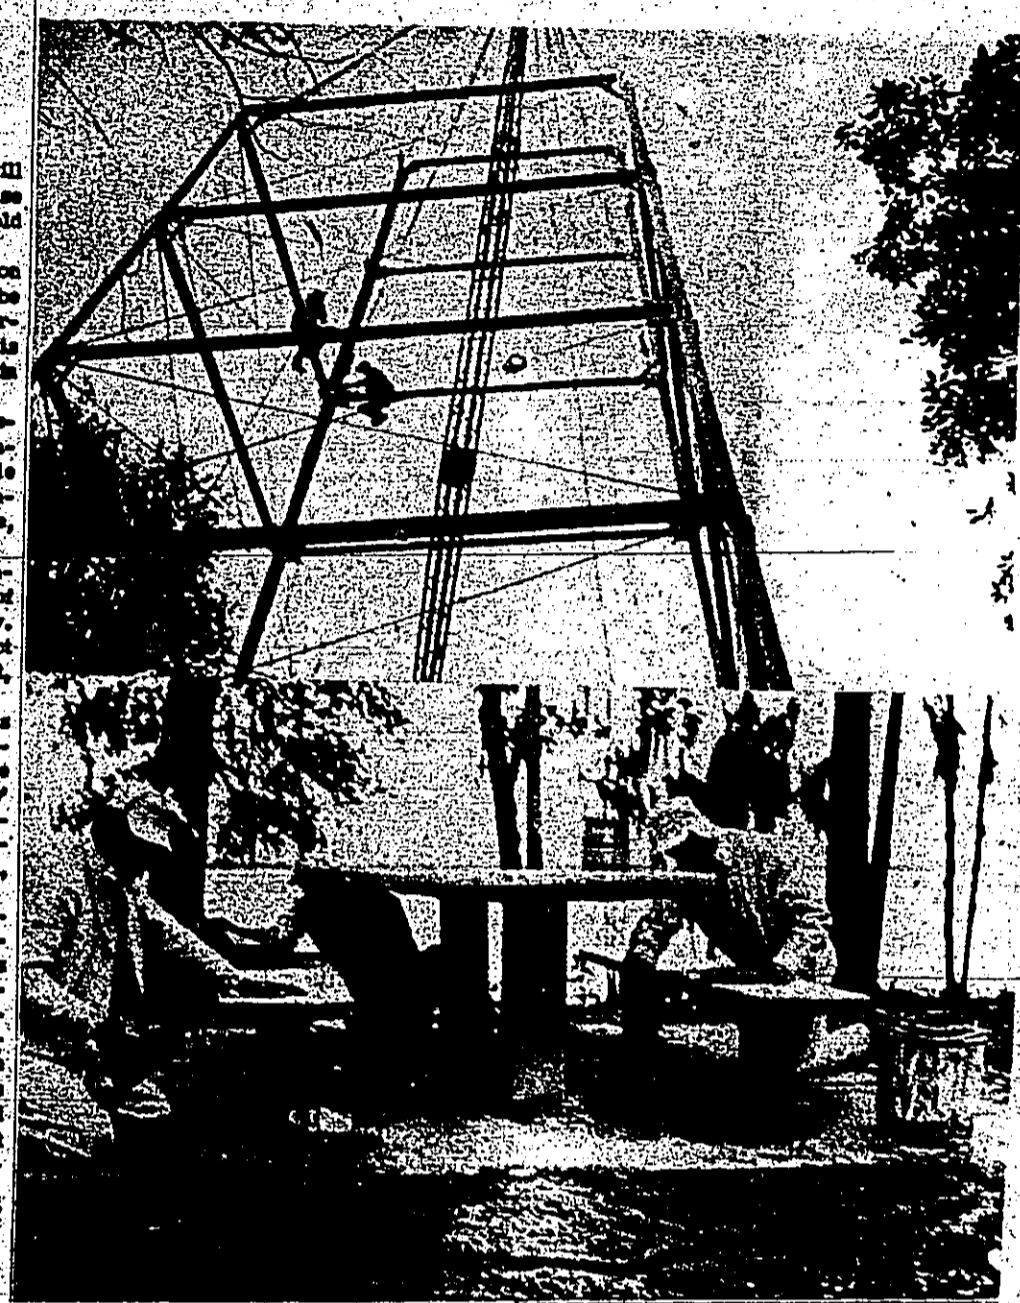

Leonard Dickson, president of the club, headed the delegation from Beaumont. Also attending were Hugh Glazen of Beaumont, lieutenant governor of Division

Dr. G.M. Brassard of Beaumont, chairman of publicity and business affairs for the Oklahoma District of Kiwanis International, arranged the meeting.

A group of interested business and professional men in Woodville are in the process of meeting the charter requirements to start a Kiwanis Club in Woodville. Dr. W.E. Polmboff is temporary chairman and said the Woodville group hopes to complete requirements by the end of February.

By the end of February, the Tyler County P.T.A. will meet Thursday, February 18, in the Chester school auditorium at 10 a.m. The program will be on Founders Day.

WATER TOWERS, picnic tables, and shelters are just part of the many attractions at Dam B State park now under construction. At top, workmen cling to girders of what will be a 102-foot high steel tower supporting a 20,000 gallon cypress water tank—one of two in the system. Center, inmates from the Texas Department of Corrections smooth rough edges of one of 240 concrete picnic tables in the park. Bottom, Joe Adair left, construction superintendent at the park and Parks Department official from Austin, stand before one of the 12 by 16 foot screened shelters.

Workers Bustle As Dam B Park Emerges From Brushy Woods

The screening pine and brush on Highway 190 on the east banks of Dam B mask a veritable hive-of-activity as workers rush to complete the half-million dollar Dam B State Park. Draglines are visible from the highway, moving earth and even trees.

Initial construction at the park—said by some to be Texas' largest—was started last June. Today, the work is over 70 percent complete, Joe Adair of Woodville, construction superintendent, says.

On the ground inspection of the two park areas—Beech Grove on the south side of the highway, and Walnut Ridge, to the north, shows that workers have made tremendous progress in the past months. However, it will probably be early fall before the whole thing is done, Adair remarked.

Two residences, one for the park manager and one for the park superintendent, are virtually ready for occupancy. Both buildings are spacious and will have year-round air-conditioning. Two headquarters buildings, one for each section of the park, are also nearing completion.

Park rangers will work out of the buildings and a secretary clerk will also be on duty to help register visitors, distribute information, and be general assistance to tourists.

There is over five miles of water line in the park up to four inches in size. The water supply comes from two wells, one in each section, and will be bolstered by 20,000 gallon cypress tanks on 102 foot high steel towers. In addition to the water system, a sanitary sewer system is also being installed and it will have three and a half miles of line. Water is piped to within easy reach of every camping area, tent site, picnic table, trailer parking area and shelter.

There will be six rest rooms scattered through the park. These restrooms are large and equipped with showers. They will cost in the neighborhood of $11,000 each, Adair said.

Already completed are 46 screened and roofed shelters—small cabins 12 feet by 16 feet in size. The Beech Grove unit has 21 of these along the lake shore near the south side of the entrance to Gum Slough. The other 25 are on Walnut Ridge south of Spring Creek.

Two fish cleaning stations will be provided—roofed, with concrete cleaning trough, running water, and trash disposal barrels.

Reeling off a list of the many conveniences and features of the park gets almost monotonous. There will be eight miles of road, mostly blacktop; 35 trailer sites, 240 concrete picnic tables, and a large cooking grill by each one, located on ramps, tent camping sites, and two swimming beaches. The shelters and trailers will be equipped with electricity.

Great attention will be given to cleanliness and sanitation. There are adequate restrooms and facilities with the above mentioned sewer system. A concrete pad, campsite, and a table has a nearby trash barrel, on concrete pad and secured to a post.

The Walnut Ridge section will boast a big (44 x 70) concrete building which will be leased by the Parks and Wildlife Department.

Much of the labor at the park—brush clearing, digging of water lines, and construction of the laying of concrete picnic tables, has been done by inmates of the Texas Department of Corrections.

The men are from the Woodville unit of the TDC. They are worked at 4 a.m. and begin the trip at 5 a.m. After a full work day, they are returned by bus to Haysville.

Presently about 50 people a day are employed at the park in addition to the TDC men, Adair said. The highway department has done the road work.

The Parks department is looking after the interests of swimmers as well as campers and fishermen. Two huge beaches are being built, one in each section of the park, which will accommodate those who prefer to frolic in the water instead of fish in it. They will be sandy and with a gentle slope from shallow to deep water.

Visitors using the park facilities will have to register, pay a fee, and will be assured of easy access to the park. The east side park alone will accommodate over a million people per year if occupancy is consistently at capacity. The lake, both sides, has over one million persons in the past few years, compared to the 1954 report issued in the past year.

Registration and a dance will highlight activity Saturday with the business sessions set for Sunday, J.M. "Jiggs" Cruse, commander of Robert M. Pace Post 2033, host post, said.

A commanders breakfast will be held from 9:30 to 10:30 Sunday morning followed by church for those who wish to attend. A luncheon will be held at noon with the usual closed meeting at 2 p.m.

Mr. Evelyn Boyd, president of District 19 Ladies Auxiliary, Mrs. Marjorie Rush, secretary, and Luella Auxiliary Chaplain, Mrs. J.C. Boyd, were all visitors to the January 21 meeting of the local ladies auxiliary, Mrs. Freda Cruse, president

Jack Spee of Beaumont who is employed by Smith, Kline & French Laboratories, will give an illustrated talk on the drug industry at today's meeting of the Lions Club.

Dr. L. G. Byron is in charge of the program.

She has been a member of the Kirby High School band for four years and is now serving her second year as head referee. She plays the flute. She is also a member of the Future Homemakers of America and the First Baptist Church of Woodville.

Three Spots Open In Coming City Council Election

Election of three aldermen to the Woodville city government was set officially for April 6, Rols Brockman, city secretary, said Tuesday.

The city council met Monday night to order the election and to handle other business.

The terms of three members of the council are open this year. Positions held by Emory Mahan, Dr. R. E. Swearingen, and Billy M. Mitchell are open.

Mr. Mitchell resigned from the council when he moved out of Woodville late last year.

Mr. Brockman said that as of Tuesday, no one had filed for a position on the ballot. Deadline is five for a position is Friday, March 5.

The council voted to hire the Municipal Code Corp. to re-draft all city ordinances, since the city's incorporation fee of $2500.

There was a brief general discussion of delinquent tax collections and of the new sanitation ordinance.

Mr. Brockman reported that citizens were fully cooperative about closing down outdoor privies and that delinquent tax collectors had been good.

Woodville Post Will Host Area VFW Convention

Veterans of Foreign Wars from District 19 will hold their winter meeting this Saturday and Sunday at the Woodville Community Inn. The Ladies Auxiliary will also meet at this time.

Registration and a dance will highlight activity Saturday with the business sessions set for Sunday, J.M. "Jiggs" Cruse, commander of Robert M. Pace Post 2033, host post, said.

WHEN 90 history students from West Elementary School visited Woodville's Heritage Garden in mid-January, Clyde Gray, owner, offered prizes for the best three papers written about the visit to the Garden. But when teachers graded the papers, they came up with nine that were too close to separate. Monday, Mr. Gray gave prizes to all nine. Left to right are Tonya Hooks, Joey Wheat, Paul Sweet, Colette Fortenberry, Rusty Rakcliff, Ronald Jamison, David Beckhardt, and Jimmy Spurlock. Spurlock won first place, Beckhardt and Jamison second with all others honorable mention. Dale Findley, who was not present for the picture, also won honorable mention.

REV. WAYNE Odum turns earth in the groundbreaking ceremonies at the First Methodist Church Sunday. Construction of a $100,000 educational building was to start this week. Looking on as Rev. Odum takes his turn with the shovel are Mrs. D.P. Mann, Mrs. Hays deBryne, Dr. Stewart Clendenin, J. H. Kennesson Jr., Jack White, James Parks, Noah Platt, and Frank Robinson.

Fish Hatchery Output Increase Seen In Texas

Since Texas will double the present volume of fresh water in the next two years, state hatchery facilities have been ordered expanded to meet the demand for various kinds of game fish. It was announced by Marlon Wolfe, coordinator for inland fisheries for the Parks and Wildlife Department. Wolfe said the principal improvement would be in modernized baiting and distribution techniques and that the present fourteen state hatcheries would receive an adequate framework for the enlarged program.

Apply For Bass Stock For Lakes Before April 1

Texas seeking black bass for stocking private water areas were advised by Marlon Wolfe, inland fisheries coordinator for the Parks and Wildlife Department, that their applications must be received by the department by April 1. The deadline for catch, cradle and sunfish is August 1. The address is John H. Rogan Building, Austin, Texas. Wolfe said department personnel need to process each application to determine adequacy of the area recommended for restocking.

Special observance of increased emphasis on our education system has been marked annually in fifteen years by a Public Schools Week in Texas. During this period, parents are encouraged to visit the public schools, and all citizens are urged through special programs to recognize the tremendous importance of our system of education. Our goal is to make our public schools the finest in the Nation, and to achieve this goal we must cooperate with our parents, principals, and teachers. Never before in our history has there been a greater need for parental leadership. As a parent, you are responsible for the success or failure of your child's education. It is your duty to help your child learn, to encourage him to do his best, and to help him to become a responsible citizen. We urge you to visit the public schools, to help your child, and to help us to make our schools the finest in the Nation.

ACCENT ON HEALTH

Maintaining good dental health for your children is an investment in their future. This week-National Children's Dental Health Week (Feb. 7-13) is designed to call attention to the importance of good dental health, particularly in our children. Tooth decay afflicts more people today than any other disease. About 85 percent of the population can begin early dental care. About 95 percent of all children older than one year of age have permanent teeth, while permanent teeth are being formed beneath the jaw. By the time these children reach the youthful age of 15, they already have an average of nine decayed permanent teeth. In addition to the necessity for proper chewing, comfort, general well-being and pleasing appearance, teeth are important in making the mouth and face attractive. It is obvious that decay prevention cannot be started too early. Decayed teeth or gums can interfere with proper growth and development. Furthermore, dental disease can complicate and aggravate disease elsewhere in the body. It is better to visit a dentist regularly for preventive checkups instead of suffering all night or longer with agonizing toothache or waiting until the tooth has to be pulled because of damage done to the tooth. Dentists recommend that youngsters have their first check-ups between the ages of two and a half and three. Develop the good dental health habit early in your child's life. As you teach your child to dress himself and wash his face and hands, include tooth brushing as part of the regular routine. Show your youngster how to brush his teeth. After meals with water-swish and swallow. Don't brush his teeth. Nutrition, too, plays an important role in your child's dental health. Training comes through preparing and serving balanced meals with a minimum of sweets each day. Hallways need will mean a paper lid for yourself and for children.

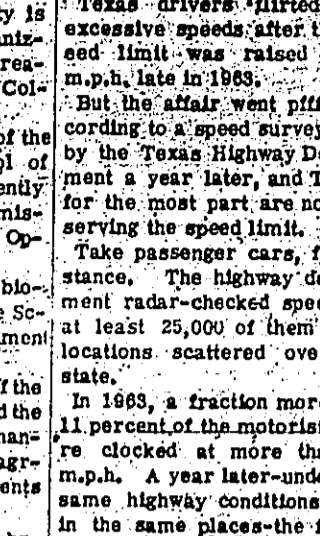

New Departments Formed At Texas Top University

Texas A & M University is busy setting up a new organization—a Department of Recreation and Parks—within its College of Agriculture. The department is part of the college's new School of Nature-Bio-Sciences recently approved by the Texas Commission on Higher Education. Operation will start this fall. Other departments in the bio-sciences school are Range Science, formerly the Department of Wildlife Management, and Dr. R. E. Patterson, dean of the College of Agriculture, said the school is a response to changing times in agriculture, agriculture and other segments of the overall economy. He said the changes have brought about a new philosophy of own as multiple land use, meaning that utilization of land for food, fiber, timber and recreation is becoming a must. The dean said present outdoor recreation facilities are being outgrown by a rapidly expanding population. An answer to the problem is to utilize more private land for recreation. "A study by the U.S. Department of Agriculture of outdoor recreation facilities on farms and ranches shows that the greatest potential for meeting future needs is on the nation's private rural land," Patterson said. "Nearly three-fourths of the U.S. mainland is in private ownership. Government ownership, he said, has shown that many areas are fortunately more suitable for recreation than for agriculture. The dean added that A&M's Department of Recreation and Parks will be aimed directly at the multiple land use philosophy. Patterson emphasized that this study area is bulging with recreation opportunities for grasslands. Many positions can be found in federal and state parks, municipal parks, private parks and ranches.

Texas Drivers Mostly Observe Speed Limits Now

Texas drivers "flirted" with excessive speeds after the speed limit was raised to 70 m.p.h. late in 1963. But the state's top police officers said today that motorists had a sudden new freedom to ten miles an hour faster. "In exceeding that freedom, some of them said what the heck and went for broke," they said. "How come they slowed down a year later, then?" "The novelty wore off. At least that's all we can figure," he admitted just a guess. The highway department's annual speed survey by high speed radar-checked speeds of at least 25,000 of them in 30 locations scattered over the state. In 1963, a friction more than 11 percent of the motorists were clocked at more than 70 m.p.h. A year later—under the same highway conditions, and in the same places—the figure had dropped to just 5.1 percent. Dr. R. C. Potts, assistant director of agricultural instruction, said the criticism will concentrate on biological and physical resources important to outdoor recreation, and the socio-economic relationships which occur when people use wildland areas for recreation. From then on, study areas will study a broad range of private rural land, agriculture, science and humanity courses. "From then on, study areas will cover conservation, wildlife, safety education, landscape horticulture, forestry, civil engineering, sociology, psychology, agronomy, wildland recreation, park administration, campsite design, recreational development and landscape construction and maintenance. Potts said the curriculum's versatility is necessary because the field of recreation and parks should be resource-oriented, activity-oriented and people-oriented. On the other hand, it is not so encyclopedic that students learn too little about too much.

A fantastic network of tunnels—some as high as 80 feet—is being carved in solid salt beneath Grand Saline, in Van. He has pulled more than a dozen historical murals in place. Here, in an almost unearthly place—restaurants, a restaurant, monster machines, wings and loan building, church and 18 workers bring out 600 tons of rock salt daily. But the mine is not just a mine. It is a museum. The mine is owned by the National Salt Co., probably never will be exhausted. This mine is only a little bit of a huge salt dome says mining expert Raymond R. "We cover 70 acres with 11 to 12 million tons of salt. There's enough salt to last almost forever," he says. The salt rock is blasted from the mine's walls, often in chunks weighing hundreds of pounds. It is then carried through a series of grinding, crushing, and screening operations that separate it into 7 different sizes. The salt is then packed into a compound used to de-ice streets. Chris Green of Nacogdoches has made good use of his salt mine and has an interest in his

Corvair by Chevrolet. The beauty of it, of course, goes deeper than the things you don't get. There's the other side of the coin—what you do get in their place. Take the no window post, for example. What you do get is hardtop styling—with curved frameless side windows—in every Corvair closed model. The transmission and driveline hump you don't get means more foot room. Thanks to Corvair's rear engine, the floor is practically flat. No radiator—the engine's air-cooled—also means no water, no antifreeze and no hose leaks to worry about. All of which add up to some more important pluses. Power steering? Power brakes? Corvair needs them like a contigule needs crutches. With most of the engine weight on the rear wheels, the front ones are free to steer easily. And stops are—quick and sure—with no nosediving. Co in on down to our showroom and discover the difference.
