Been thinking lately about a lot of things (as much as my limited brain capacity can think), and came to the conclusion that until all the people in a community make up their minds that they would like to go forward and progress, nothing can really help them, or us, I should say. It appears that the almighty dollar has become the "symbol of faith" and God's wonderful gifts to us have been completely overlooked. Our scenic beauty, forest, streams, wild and domestic flowers and a built-in machine that we can turn on and it will produce love and compassion for our fellowman and his problems. However it seems that we don't want all this, and the only kind of machine we want is an X-Ray type of machine that will let us look into our fellowman's pocketbook and see if he has enough money for us to love him. It has got to start within neighbors, and spread, and us in the newspaper and radio business can whoop and holler all we want, write nasty articles, sweet articles, accusations, praise or what have you, and according to the readers and listeners, it was written or spoken. "For the other fellow" or "well, I'm doing all I can", so what. We are not doing all we can and we all know it. My friends, regardless of what kind of "hub" a wheel has, it still has to have spokes and a rim before it can really be considered a wheel and do its part to haul the load it is supposed to. God gave Tyler County a "hub" in its natural resources, but some of us are going to have to be spokes and rims. Spend some time last week with Texaco's Gill Tubb in working out a grand opening campaign for a new Texaco Service Station on Nellius and Chester highway. It is going to be a humdinger and many fabulous prizes will be given away. I sure appreciated Gill's enthusiasm about this.

Speaking of enthusiasm, Dr. Raymond Parker, pastor of the First Baptist Church here in Woodville was literally "bubbling over" in anticipation of the revival that is now in progress. And right now I would like to say something about Dr. Parker. I admire him very much and have found him a very dedicated person. His sermons, not only in the sermons he preaches but in our private conversations, has touched me deeply. I am grateful for a man like Dr. Parker who stands on his convictions regardless of how the general flow of thought may go. He is the first to admit his own faults and the first to extend a helping hand to someone that might have fallen.

My pal the Mayor, Jimmy Freeman, is doing what I call a very good job of mayoring. Not many cities the size of Woodville can boast of a mayor that can not only stand firmly behind a volunteer fire department, but can drive a fire truck like a mad. Ole Jimmy is a prince of a fellow and is sincere in his job. Being Mayor is certainly a "non-paying, thankless job" and it takes a fellow that wants to see the City go forward to take it on. So stay in there and pal Mayor Jimmy Freeman, and we know that there are times when you feel like you are about as popular as a chicken snake in a hen's nest when some issues arise, but remember that a lot of good folks feel that you are doing a good job and are staking a lot on your ability to help us reach our desired place on the industrial, recreational and heritage horizon.

People we saw department: A&M Motor's Red (Junior goat herder) Pitts with his usual good word when we talked with him recently. Bob Boykin of Bob's Prescription Shop very happy about the attendance of his grand opening. Good pal James Smith of Smith's Drive in Grocery with a big howdy and still happy about the Dogwood trees back of his store two miles out.

Deadline Nears For Citizenship Essay Contest

Tyler County Junior and Senior High School students are reminded that time is growing short to get their "Good Citizenship" essays into the Booster. The time expires midnight April 30, and all material will be turned over to the judges at that time. After the final judging of the material, the boy and girl writing the best theme on good citizenship will each receive $100.00 each to be used for further education.

It is suggested that the essays or themes be confined to one thousand words or less and will be judged on the thoughts projected on what a good citizen should be, or how to be a good citizen, as well as neatness etc. The material to be judged will be numbered when presented to the judges and by this means the judges will not know the writer.

Mail your essays to the Tyler County Booster, P. O. Box 248, Woodville, Texas. Any Junior or Senior High School student in Tyler county is eligible to enter at no cost to them.

Dallas Man Winner In Bass Tourney

Harold Hayes, of Dallas, first place winner in the Texas National Bass Tournament held on Lake Sam Rayburn Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Pete Henson of Mableton, Georgia, was second and Richard Geyer of Arkadelphia, Arkansas, was third.

Saturday's final day fishing proved to be hard on all the contestants due to the weather. In fact, the weather gods have decided some of the winners since several of the leaders were unable to get back to the weigh-in station because of the high waves caused by the strong winds that came up Saturday afternoon. The deadline was 4:30 p.m. and a game and wildlife boat went across the lake to pick up the stranded contestants. However, it returned with them three minutes past the deadline and none of their points counted for fish caught Saturday.

Bill Dance, last year's winner, was among the ones stranded but still placed 19 with two days points. Hayes was all smiles, and told his secret of how to catch the big ones. Hayes was formerly with the Dallas Cowboys and is now a linebacker for the San Francisco 49ers.

The total catch for the tourney was 5,371 lbs. Ray Scott, president of B. A. S. S. said this was the highest record catch in any tourney. Largest fish weighed 6 pounds, 9 ounces, and was caught by Henson, second place winner. A banquet was held at the Jasper fire hall Saturday at 8 p.m. to award the anglers with trophies and prizes.

1. Harold Hayes, Dallas, $1500 105 lbs. 3 oz.
2. Pete Henson, Mableton, Ga., $1000 - 92 lbs.
3. Richard Green, Arkadelphia, Ark., $500 - 83 lbs.
4. Blake Honeycutt, Ilwaco,

Jack Lane Ford To Show Brand New Maverick Today

Jack Lane Ford in Woodville will introduce the long heralded 1970 Maverick, new small car from Ford Division, on Thursday, April 17. This $1,995 car is a two-door sedan of modified fastback design with a hint of an air spoiler or "ducktail" at the rear. Designed to carry a family of four with adequate luggage, it is powered by a six-cylinder engine in either of two sizes, 170 or 200 cubic inch displacement. In normal city-suburban driving, Maverick can be expected to deliver 22 1/2 miles per gallon of gasoline.

John Naughton, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager, calls Maverick "the greatest automotive value ever offered in terms of price, upkeep and features" included at no extra cost. "Planned to be economical in purchase price, operating cost and maintenance, Maverick offers a longer, wider body than the principal import, yet turns in a tighter radius for easy handling and parking. Transmission choice includes the fully synchronized three-speed manual, the three-speed automatic with optional shift-for-yourself feature, and, for the first time, a new semiautomatic transmission. Cheaper than the automatic and clutchless, it permits a change of gears with a single movement of the hand lever. "Maverick will live up to its name in being a unique, independent kind of car," said Jack Lane of Jack Lane Ford.

"It's bigger and roomier than the imports, but quicker and lighter than the American compacts. Even some of the color names carry out the car's individualistic character. Thanks vermilion, hula blue, red-tan, gill, anti-establishment and original cinnamon."

HOMEMAKING HINTS

By Mrs. Maurine J. Mooney, HD Agent

Accent or Eyesore? Exterior planters which flank many contemporary homes may represent an asset of beauty, or a problem of poor plant choice and poor plant growth.

Perhaps the best solution in choosing the best planting for planters is to plant permanent dwarf evergreen plants which provide year round attractiveness and supplement the planting with seasonal flowering or foliage plants for a seasonal accent.

Often times the home gardener will miss planting date, thus the area which is to accent remains cold for the season. Without permanent plantings, the winter season too presents a time of void for the planter.

Over the past several years plant breeders have developed outstanding dwarf plants which are very adaptable to limited planting areas such as the planter. The juniper today has a wide choice from which to choose, yet her choice must be made in regards to the growth conditions of the planter. Is the planter well drained, deep or shallow, in sun or shade?

Do not over plant. Allow ample room for ultimate plant size and eliminate later pruning or removal of plants. Keep the plantings simple, neat and attractive, yet avoid monotony.

Due to location, some planters are not indicative to the best plant production. Those beneath overhangs of the home receive little rainfall and must be watered manually. Planters against west brick walls radiate summer heat and become much too hot for many types of plantings. Many planters have poor drainage and others have inadequate soil.

The spring time gardener who prefers the air-conditioned home to summer gardening should choose plants which demand very little care and attention such as dwarf yucca, hollyhock, daylilies, dwarf hollyhock, confederate jasmine, liriope, aspidistra or dwarf barberry.

The sunny planter may include yucca, dwarf mandarin, yucca, dwarf pyracantha, dwarf juniper, liriope, daylilies, dwarf hollyhock, dwarf pomegranate, silver mound dwarf bayberry, confederate jasmine, or Japanese purple honeysuckle.

Planters in shade may be enhanced with aucuba, fatsia, fuchsia, fuchsia, monarda, Indian hawthorn, English ivy, dwarf azalea, ajuga or holly fern. For the planter which receives sun and shade, or partial sun or shade, the gardener may choose from dwarf yucca, dwarf hollyhock, Indian hawthorn, Helope, vibex, confederate jasmine, Japanese black pine, dwarf sasanqua, or Japanese purple honeysuckle.

Plant choices for the planters are numerous, yet the gardens success with the planter depends on the proper choice for the existing growth conditions. Every planter should be attractively planted so as to require low maintenance and at a reasonable expense.

Revelations of a register tape—Are you puzzled by your food bill? Does it seem to get bigger and bigger every time you set foot in the grocery store?

There's a natural tendency for us to blame food process for growing grocery bills. And they are partly responsible. But the size of the register tape total depends a lot on consumers, too.

In recent years food prices have risen along with the cost of just about everything else on the family budget—housing, transportation, medical care, and personal services. But food costs haven't risen as much as family income.

When we bring home more money, as most of us have been doing, we often spend some of it at the grocery store for higher valued foods—better cuts of meat, gourmet items, and convenience foods.

These actions help to inflate the size of the family food bill, but the size of the family itself can blow it up even more. Every baby, every birthday, boosts the bill. A moderate budget of say $20 a week, will be enough to pay for all the food a family eats at home. But add to small children to the family and the bill jumps to around $30. When they are in elementary school, the total is closer to $35. And with two teenagers, it's a whopping $40.

Of course, these estimates don't include the nonresident nibblers—your children's playmates, the neighbors who stop over for coffee, the weekend house guests.

Your changing family and your changing tastes are clues to your changing food bill. So are foods themselves. Many "mod" foods include Chef services, that help a novice cook turn out delicacies. Maid service that cut preparation and cooking time. Nutritional expertise that boosts the vitamin and nutrient content of many foods.

Better refrigeration, industry and government research, and faster farm to store travel have played a part in improving the quality and wholesomeness of modern foods.

Few of us, notice these improvements, although we may feel their impact—also show up in our food bill. Food is produced outdoors. Thus, supplies depend heavily on nature. When production is cut by bad weather or insect pests, or livestock disease, it can mean a higher cost for us. Fortunately for the consumer, this doesn't happen as often as it used to. Farmers have found ways to whip some ill effects of weather, with irrigation to overcome drought and faster harvesting methods to get crops out of the field in a hurry. And scientists have developed plants that can resist disease and bugs, and medicines that keep livestock healthy.

Only two decades ago, 25 cents of the consumer's take-home dollar went for food. In the late 1950's it was 21 cents. Today it's about 17 cents.

Gulf States To Conduct Research

Gulf States Utilities Company, in cooperation with three other investor-owned electric utility companies serving Louisiana, is planning an extensive research study to determine how heated water used by power plants can be beneficial to plant life and the fish in streams and bays.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Letter to the Editor No. 1 (because it is the first one I have ever written): Normally, when you pay for your ad, you feel that you have done your bit, but this time I think you deserve a little more than cold cash. The ad that you ran on my "Texas Bake Pan" has brought amazing results.

In one week, the Museum has taken orders for over 100 bake pans and they are still calling in and coming by in person. The local response has been wonderful, but we are getting orders from Dallas, Beaumont, Port Arthur and Houston. At our last count, about 12 cities outside of Woodville are represented.

Needless to say, we are happy. Thanks for your wife coverage. Clyde E. Gray Heritage Garden Museum

Gulf South Research Institute, will be jointly funded by GSU, Louisiana Power and Light Co., New Orleans Public Service Inc., and Central Louisiana Electric Company. Dr. James Stone, a biologist who heads GSRI's Environmental Sciences Department in New Orleans, will be the principal scientist involved in the three-year project. Work on the project is scheduled to begin this month.

Cost of the research program will be approximately $40,000 a year. In addition to the four utility companies, Trunkline Gas Company of Houston will contribute to the cost of the project for the first year.

GSRI study will be unique in that it will assess both the direct and indirect effect of temperature changes of water on fish and other water life. Stone explained that both the direct effects of temperature on fish populations and the indirect effects caused by changes in natural food available will be investigated. He said, "Results will be used to determine the temperature level at which these changes affect the fish population, and the validity of these predictions will be tested under field conditions."

The research is needed to provide basic information so that Louisiana's utility industries may meet the standards now being established by the State Stream Control Commission and the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration.

The project is aimed specifically toward the utility companies' need for knowledge of the biological effects of thermal discharges into water. Results of the study will help the companies in their current operations and will aid in the design of future plants.

Don Adams Report

By State Representative DON ADAMS

One of my first legislative reports dealt with obscenity, and before we came to Austin last January, I told my wife that I wished there was something we could do to remove the influence of obscene books, magazines and movies from our young people. I have been given that chance.

Last Tuesday night my Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence heard six proposed laws dealing with this very serious subject. The Chairman of the Committee assigned all six bills to a three-man subcommittee composed of Representative Davis and Pendleton and your Representative.

We have a very hard task ahead of us because the Supreme Court of the United States has made it very difficult to write laws regulating this field. Generally the Supreme Court has said:

(1) You cannot charge anyone with a crime of obscenity if the material is shown in a private home.

(2) You virtually cannot charge anyone over 18 years of age with an obscenity crime.

(3) You can regulate what is shown to minors under 18 years of age; and

(4) You can regulate material showing perversion.

A little about the Committee hearing: The Committee met at 7:30 p.m., and was in session until about 10:30 p.m., hearing witnesses and viewing evidence. There were several books and magazines introduced into evidence which were the most obscene, lascivious and lewd pieces of literature I have ever seen. These books and magazines literally offended your sense of decency, and they were bought from a public newsstand. They were public property to be seen and purchased by anyone who could afford the price.

The only witness who appeared against the bill was a representative of a moving picture industry. I told him my real regret was that the movie-makers and book-publishers did not live in Texas so that we could regulate the source of this problem.

If my subcommittee listens to your Representative, we will produce some strong legislation regulating this problem as far as it will be Constitutional. It is my hope the bill we report favorably will pass both the House and Senate without amendment.

Your opinions and feelings on pending legislation are very valuable to me in determining what I do as your Representative and how I vote on legislation; therefore, I ask you to continue to write me, I have tried to honestly answer each and every letter sent me, and have always made every effort to see and talk to everyone who has wanted to talk to me or see me. My door is always open to anyone, and if you are in Austin, please come by.

Fascinating FACTS

WHAT IS THE LARGEST CITY IN THE U.S.?

New York? Los Angeles? Now we're not talking about population—we're talking about size—square miles occupied by a city. Do you give up? Well, the largest city in the United States, according to the latest figures, is Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. This shimmering city covers an area of 631,168 square miles. That's a large area—it's about the size of the South Pacific Islands of Guam and Okinawa put together.

In our place-of-business, we may not cover the largest floor area in the world, but we do take pride in offering you the best available service, quality and real honest-to-goodness value. Serving you is our business.

KVLL CORNER

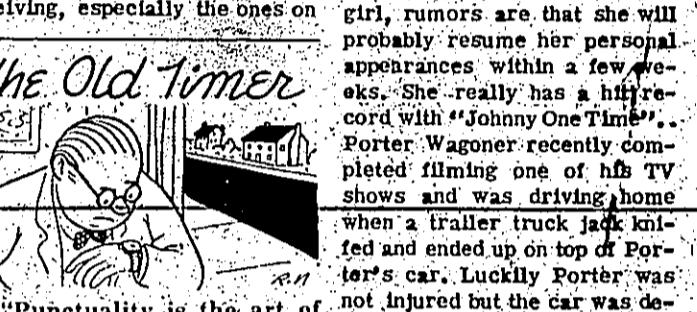

By ORVIS WOODS

It's press time again and I'm late as usual, but it seems as though it was only yesterday that I was writing my last column. Things have settled down a bit and not quite so much happened this time. However, I think I have enough information to hold your attention for the next few minutes anyhow.

(If you are a slow reader, I understand that the Spurger Country Music Show was a success again. I didn't get to make it this time, but I've been informed that there is to be another one soon.

I had a nice visit with KTRM D. J. James Brazier, a white back. James handles the evening show at the famous KTRM radio station in Beaumont. He is a mutual friend of Wiley and myself. James worked at KTRM in Jasper for 13 years before moving to the big city radio.

I hope you are enjoying the coverage how late the other fellow is going to be.

"Punctuality is the art of guessing how late the other fellow is going to be."

Four new directors for district five were also elected to three year terms; they are B. W. Briggs, Orange; C. R. Dollinger, Beaumont; F. W. Hayes, Jasper; and Leroy Hardy, Trinity. The directors elected C. Quentin Abernathy of Gladewater as president. Tyler was selected as district five for 1970 and Dallas for 1971.

Their children, Mrs. Pauline Moore, Mrs. Pat McNeill and Jamie Davis, with their children, on Saturday evening the Eastern Star ladies served a delicious dinner to the Masons of the local lodge. Following this part of the evening's activities, the group retired to the lodge building where the ladies enjoyed a good program presented by the men.

On Saturday afternoon the ladies of the community attended a lovely shower at the education building of the Baptist church with friends as group-hostesses. The honoree was Jeanie Hebert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Hebert, who will be married to Richard Wayne Rose of Beaumont on the evening of April 25 at the Baptist Church.
