During the days that we observe with worship the birth of our Saviour, the pain, injustices, wrongs and selfishness seem less noticeable. God in his wisdom finds ways to transmit to us knowledge. He tries to tell us this feeling of brotherhood that we experience at this time of the year can be maintained and should remain with us during every day of the coming year.

State News

15-year public school system set as primary goal of the Education Commission of the State, according to Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon, chairman of the commission. The commission members, one of which is Texas Gov. Preston Smith, met in Dallas this week and came up with the proposal which would set two years of pre-school and two years of post-high school work included in the U. S. education spectrum. It is highly probable, under the commission plan, that a child could start to school at the age of 3, in order to give the disadvantaged child a chance to catch up early.

YESTER YEAR

Question: We have a strange-looking tin roaster. My grandmother says it was used to make peanut butter about 1830. Is that possible? ANSWER: Peanut butter or just plain mashed peanuts were first used in America during the mid-19th Century. It did not become a city dweller's food until about 1890.

Storekeepers and housewives became interested in making the new food. Small roasters and mills were available by 1900. Some grocery stores made their own peanut butter and sold it by the pound in full packed units.

What's Cookin'?

- Oven Beef Ragout
- 2 pounds beef round or chuck steak cut in 1/4-inch cubes
 - 2 Bouillon cubes dissolved in 2 cups hot water, or
 - 1 can consommé
 - 1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
 - Dash of Worcestershire Sauce
 - 1 package frozen green beans or peas
 - 1 can (3 or 4 oz.) mushrooms

Mix first four ingredients in a 2-quart casserole and bake, covered in moderate oven (350 degrees), for about 1 hour or until meat is almost tender. Add green beans or peas, breaking them apart as much as possible. Cover and bake another hour. Add mushrooms 10 minutes before end of last hour. Serve over cooked rice or Chow Mein noodles. Makes six servings.

Apple Fold Over

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup margarine
- 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
- 7/8 cup sliced apples
- 1/2 cup light brown sugar
- Dash of salt
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon water or lemon juice if apples are bland
- 1 1/2 teaspoon butter or margarine

Combine flour and salt. Cut in margarine until mixture is of the consistency of small peas. With fork, blend in sour cream. Knead lightly on floured board. Roll into 12 x 9-inch rectangle. Place on a cookie sheet. Mix together remaining ingredients, except butter, and spread lengthwise down center of dough. Dot with margarine. Lap edges of dough over filling and seal ends carefully. Bake in moderate oven for about one hour.

Pot Roast In A Package Dinner

- 1 pot roast, 3 or 4 pounds
- Bottled brown sauce
- 6 small onions
- 6 potatoes, quartered
- 6 medium carrots
- Salt and Pepper
- 1/2 bay leaf crumpled
- 1 teaspoon parsley flakes
- 1/2 cup tomato juice, or in a pinch, water

Place meat on a heavy piece of heavy-duty foil that is large enough to wrap both meat and vegetables and put a shallow pan beneath it. Brush with brown sauce and brown meat under broiler. Add vegetables and let them brown while other side of meat is browning. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, bay leaf and parsley. Add liquid. Seal the foil securely to hold in juices, but not airtight. Place package in a very slow oven and roast about 3 1/2 hours. To serve, place meat and vegetables upon a platter and pour gravy over them. Makes 6 servings, and some left over for sandwiches.

Pearadise Salad

- 3 cups all purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 cup margarine
- 1 cup light brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 cup raisins
- 1 cup chopped nuts
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Sift flour, salt, baking powder and nutmeg. Cream margarine with sugar; beat in honey and egg; stir in dry ingredients. Add raisins, nuts and vanilla. Mix well. Drop by teaspoonfuls on baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 5 dozen good cookies!

Nobody Loves A School Bus

The joy mid-January wind and rain thrust solidly at Jamie Ellis as he pushed through the schoolhouse door. Pushing to grip his notebook under one arm, he struggled deeper into his pockets. Checking his head against the lashing wet, he set long legs striding toward the bus parked at the grade school a block away.

The sidewalks were sheets of wind-torn rainwater. There were tiny ice patches forming thinly along the gutter edges and pulling out to shove the old bus hard to night, thought Jamie. If those heavy clouds hanging low on the mountains south of town meant anything, they might find themselves being a blizzard.

Following, he peered ahead, eyes narrowed against the blowing rain. There were exhaust streams along the line of buses. Dad would have the old "butcher bus" running too, heaters warming. Good thing—inside his boots, he started on toward the bus. He heard his name called and turned. Dad was coming hurriedly behind him. Worry was apparent in the gray eyes so like Jamie's own.

"What's up, Dad?" He started on toward the bus side his father. Mr. Ellis caught his arm and pulled him to a stop under the straining bare branches of an elm. "Can you take the bus home, Son?" he asked worriedly. Jamie nodded, dark brows drawn over puzzled eyes. "Well, sure—I guess so. You have a soil conservation meeting or something?"

Bill Ellis bent his head sideways as the wind raked it. "I had to bring her to the hospital this afternoon. I want to stay with her tonight." Jamie twinged around, startled. "What's wrong with her, Dad? Maybe I should stay in too."

Mr. Ellis shook his head. "Mom has flu, but she'll be home in a few days. I've decided to get another driver on such short notice, and the livestock at home will need door, he reached for her hand to help her in. "Where's your dad, Jamie?" she asked, pushing back her curly hood. "Mom's in the hospital," he told her. "Oh, I'm sorry. Is it serious?" She had a way of catching her lower lip between her teeth when she was distressed. Her eyes expressed her concern. "I don't think so. Anyway, I'm your chauffeur for the time being. She smiled sympathetically.

Because of the storm and weekend visits in town, only 20 passengers were aboard. Jamie, checking off names, made sure everyone was accounted for. He released the emergency brake after shifting into gear, glanced back to see that everyone was seated, and signaled a left turn to leave the bus parking area. Gently and smoothly he eased the big vehicle into the street, keeping a sharp lookout for children.

Once away from the school, there wasn't much traffic. Funny how on storm-threatened winter evenings people seemed to hurry home early to close their houses against the night. Even the kids seemed unusually subdued. There was little of the normal chatter and key-up laughter.

When Jamie glanced in the mirror, his eyes lingered oftenest on Kathy Andrews. She sat near the window, staring thoughtfully out. Her father had bought a neighboring ranch in August, and Jamie had met her for the first time on the bus ride to school. She was slim and graceful, with hair the color of the tops of Mom's homemade bread—warm, golden brown. She was quick to smile and fun to be with.

Whenever she and Jamie had dated, she seemed perfectly content in Dad's old pickup, stirring his coffee. "I know—no car this year. But we can make to with the old pickup a while yet. Maybe next summer."

"Next summer? Dad, I'm a senior this year. There'll be all kinds of activities, and I'll need a car. You can't take a girl to a dance in a pickup!" "Now, Jamie, don't argue. Mom had said so." "I'm sorry," Dad said. And Jamie knew he meant it. But that didn't give them the long-suffered car. He saw Kathy hurrying toward the bus, arms full of books. Swinging open the door, he reached for her hand to help her in.

Dear Clara:

DEAR CLARA: I know in social telephone calls, the caller terminates the call, but does that apply to business calls?

DEAR IN DOUBT: If your employer calls you, he terminates the call, but if someone on your business level or below calls you, you need not wait for them to terminate the call. You may be as crisp as necessary, never forgetting courtesy of course, such as "Thank you" or "I will take care of the matter right away," will be sufficient to terminate the call.

DEAR PUZZLED: You should refer to another woman customer as "that lady."

DEAR CLARA: In going to an engagement party for my daughter-in-law to be, should I take a gift? If so, what type of present is suitable?

DEAR MOTHER-IN-LAW TO BE: Engagement parties are usually surprises at which the announcement is made, and not necessarily the one who bravely charges straight into the line of fire. It is rather the one who knows how to take cover and to prolong his value to both army and country by remaining unharmed.

DEAR CLARA: My husband and I are retired, and the inflationary spiral leaves us with little extra money. The wedding and graduation invitations sometimes are a burden to us, yet we appreciate them and want to do something for our friends' children. Would it be proper for us to offer our services, such as decorating the home with flowers from our lovely garden, or making sandwiches, or other refreshments at the wedding reception or the graduation tea?

DEAR RETIRED: I think gifts of time and talent lovingly offered would be gratefully received and appreciated.

DEAR CLARA: I have a swimming pool with a swimming accelerator to make any headway against the wind as they push it seaward. The gas came from every direction. They buffeted the swimming pool, holding them back. A half mile from the high-water mark, the first snowflakes arrived. They were plentiful but tiny at first. Jamie was glad to be near the turnoff. Within minutes the 8 miles back across the flats would be a swirling hurricane of white with visibility zero.

Your Weekly Horoscope

JANES (March 21-April 19) not quite ready, psychologically, rather than physically. In such cases, it takes time for matters as a lifetime alliance to ferment in the mind until it is ripe for the trying. And then, there often arises an objection that may have to do with finances. There must be complete accord as to who provides for whom before a decision is made (16th).

LIBRA (Sept. 23-October 23) Do it your way. You, and you only, must be the judge as to how to run the house, balance the budget, and choose the safest investments (9th). If you allow someone else, even a close associate, to make up your mind for you, the risk of loss is backed up by the possibility of other unpleasant consequences (11th). Splendid opportunities to make progress toward a higher position, or the development of a closer tie with energetic collaborators, should not be knapped at the door on 13th.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The good soldier is not necessarily the one who bravely charges straight into the line of fire. It is rather the one who knows how to take cover and to prolong his value to both army and country by remaining unharmed. Taurus who have learned the lessons of existence by withholding their oracles, and leading now to find protection from them, are far better equipped now to face the future with growing self-confidence (9th). This philosophy can be applied in friendships as well as in directing one's efforts toward attainment of success and the benefits of privileges that usually accompany it (16th). This, in many instances, can become a lifetime job.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21) Go on the offensive. Those who are attending classes at the great institutions of learning should be contributing their own efforts toward the growth of learning and technology growing. It will be the intelligent individuals who will have absorbed all the knowledge available and who will be the ones best fitted to rule and lead. One can waste exceptional talents will also find their place which they take the trouble to do the necessary. An important step is to acquire well-to-do and influential friends when the occasions arise (9th-12th). For those who are young enough, and unwed, marriage could provide steppingstones.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It is not so important. To the many exponents of a faster pace of life, the present is the future. The Sagittarius who are planning to make a change of residence or housing conditions would do well to go into each offer very carefully with the aid of competent counselors (13th-15th). The same may be said of others who like to make dividend-paying investments. Avoid rashness.

CANCER (June 22-July 22) Keep talking. While a retrograde Mercury is not conducive to making first decisions, there is nothing that says that subjects of mutual interest cannot be discussed. Standings can be reached as well as tentative agreements, and the formalities left for more propitious periods (9th). Be wary of changing jobs on promise that it hides nothing (11th-14th). Also obtain information from competent authorities if you are conscious of symptoms which you cannot identify. Prompt attention to minor afflictions makes it easier to eradicate them. Do not allow yourself to be inveigled into adopting strange views and philosophies by dubious characters.

LEO (July 23rd-August 22nd) Be self-reliant. In instances where success hinges principally on individual initiative, there appears to be little doubt as to the final favorable outcomes. But in cases where everything depends on teamwork, the task will be far more complicated (9th). Leo may justly feel that they are natural-born leaders. But try to convince associates that this is so requires unusual powers of persuasion plus the patience of Job (11th-14th). Despite a retrograde Mercury (6th thru 25th), there is much progress to be made in your vocational field. New knowledge acquired and experience gained are wonderful assets that will enable many Leos to make giant strides later on when it will be full speed ahead (13th-15th).

VIROO (August 23-Sept. 22) Gather the ends. You have had your cues during the previous quarter. There is nothing left to do but to follow up to their natural conclusions, but without applying undue pressure. When a person of circumstance refuses to give, use reason or gentle persuasion and nothing else (9th-15th). If two persons are contemplating marriage, it appears as if one of the principals is AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) It takes something. It requires an unusual event or encounter, or some strange experiences shared for any length of time, to establish the elements for genuine friendships. Only in cases of ultra-perceptive persons, is it possible to walk up to an utter stranger and, without a word, to make a connection with individuals who outrank you should be preserved no matter what opinion of them you may hold.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) You never know. Those who have not yet tied the marriage knot, deliberately or because of a late start, may now become alert, may now find the near future (9th), which it should when both parties truly are in love (13th-15th). Neighbors and kindred could be somewhat problematical with their dark views or meddling ways. Conserve resources.

Planting Directions for Dogwood trees.

- Do not handle plants by top-handle by ball of earth only. Select a shady or semi-shady location.
- Dig hole 12 inches wider and 8 inches deeper than ball of earth. This will provide a 2" basin around tree to catch rainfall.
- Mix soil with one-half peat moss or miracle mulch.
- Put mixed soil 6" in bottom of hole.
- Place plant in hole and fill soil mixture one half way up ball of earth.
- Water generously.
- Finish filling around ball of earth with soil mixture. Ball of earth should not be covered deeper than one fourth inch on top with soil (excluding mulch).
- Water again generously.
- Mulch with peat moss, miracle mulch or pine straw one and one-half inches deep on top of ground around plant extending out approximately six inches past diameter of plant top.
- Place four moat balls one half inch below ground level and two inches from trunk of dogwood.
- Dogwoods should be watered thoroughly once each week during hot weather (April through September) and as needed for remainder of year.
- After planting dogwoods, wrap stems of plants with two ply of heavy paper up to first limb beginning at the ground. This will help prevent borers from damaging the plant. This paper should be left on the plant for one year.
- Another way to avoid borers is to spray an application of Malathion (diluted as directed by manufacturer).
- When matching your trees each year, concentrate on the area under the outer leaf drop, keeping mulch at least a foot away from trunk. Mulch placed too close to trunk may cause ground rot.

IMPORTANT NOTE

Due to the texture of our local soil which does not retain moisture very long, dogwoods and no 11 waterings are the most important requirements in the successful growing of dogwood trees.

Household Hints

Disinfectants, fancy mops and other modern innovations are time and money wasted in an attempt to produce a sterile floor. The old fashioned scrub bucket and soap still produces more cleanliness at a very much savings in cost.

When cooking rice, allow 1/4 cupful of uncooked rice for each serving.

For dusting a beard or cutting pin with flour, try a clean new powder puff. Place it in a plastic bag and keep it for that purpose.

To measure 1/2 cup shortening easily, fill cup with 1/2 cup of water then place enough shortening cup to make one cup full. Drain off water and you will have correct measurement.

Thanks to Mrs. Jim Sturrock for the tips on Household Hints last week. We invite reader participation!

"CROSSING THE BAR" By Terryann

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning
of the bar,
When I put out to sea.

Doucette Notes

Such a tide as moving seems a sea,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from deep
Turns again to foam.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness
of farewell,
When I embark;

For though it leaves me soured
Of Time and Place,
The Flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face
When I have crossed the bar.

Such a tide as moving seems a sea,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from deep
Turns again to foam.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness

When I embark;

For though it leaves me soured
Of Time and Place,
The Flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face
When I have crossed the bar.

Spurger Wallops Big Sandy

Spurger downed Big Sandy Tuesday night at the Spurger gym. This was a district win for Spurger, and was a fine display of team and coaching efforts. Willis, with 35 points, led Spurger scoring, followed by Jim Brown with 15, Oscar Grissom with 10, and Mike Jordan with 6. Spurger showed an "up and at 'em" offense and a sharp defense, with the coach using a free rein in displaying the talents of his players, in that others getting into the game were Raymond Jordan, Bobby Martin and Benford Hicks. Next game for the Pirates is with Leggett at Leggett on Friday night.

WALKER PICKED COACH OF YEAR

Dallas — Harry (The Hat) Walker, who led the Houston Astros to their first 500 season ever and 10 victories in 12 games over world champion New York last season, has been named 1969 Texas Pro Coach of the Year by the Texas Sports Writers Assn. Under Walker's guidance, the Astros finished the season with an 81-81 record after getting off to a miserable 4-20 start. Walker led the Astros only two games out of first place as late as September 11. Walker edged Dallas Cowboy coach Tom Landry.

PGA tour gets richer prizes

NEW YORK — Prize money on the 1970 Professional Golfers Association tour will be worth $6,854,597, an increase of 10 per cent over last year, the PGA announced Monday. Last year's total was about $6,250,000. The 1970 tour opens Jan 8 with the $100,000 Los Angeles Open. In all, 43 events with purses of at least $100,000 will be up for grabs. Four new events have been added, including the lucrative $300,000 Dow Jones Open on Aug 27-30 in Clifton, N.J. The others are the $200,000 National Four-Ball championship at Ligonier, Pa., July 23-26; the $200,000 Kiwanis Open, Klamath Lake, N.Y., Sept 24-27; and the $130,000 Sports City Open, Pine Plains, N.Y., Sept 10-13.

PGA Switches To Point System

NEW YORK — A point scoring system will replace official money earnings in determining automatic exemptions and other privileges for the 1970 Professional Golfers Association tour, the PGA Tournament Players' Division announced Monday. In most competitions with prize money in excess of $100,000, the winner will get 120 points, the runnerup 90 points and other place-winners will receive points graded down to one point for 70th place. The total points for the year will determine which 60 players are exempt from qualifying for tournaments the following year. Bonuses of 25 points will be awarded to winners of the PGA, U.S. Open and Tournament Players Match Play Championship, which will be inaugurated in 1971.
