He saw that it was occupied by three young boys, and when the light changed the driver killed the motor twice in an attempt to start again, making Sumrall suspect that the driver was not familiar with the

He stopped them on East Highway 190 near the Southern Pacific tracks n One of the boys attempted to hide a pistol, and Sumrall brought them back to the sheriff's office... None of the three had any identification, Sumrall said.

Sumrall called the Department of Public Safety office in Beaumont to have them check the ownership of the car. He was immediately informed that the car had been stolen earlier in Houston.

The boys were arraigned Tuesday morning before Justice of the Peace Joe Loggins. Houston police notified the car's owner who picked it up Tuesday morning.. The pistol in the boys' possession belonged to the owner of the car.

Houston police told Sumrall that they would notify the boys' parents to come after them.

30 YEARS IN EAST TEXAS

Custodians of the forest

East Texas' forests have long been the backbone of its economy. And, for three decades, Southland has been a vital part of that economy because wood is the lifeblood of our business ? . . paper.

Although most of our wood comes from private landowners, we maintain timber resources of 400,000 acres. These lands, made up of small tracts scattered throughout East Texas, represent our reserve for future growth while insuring our mills of a dependable supply of wood.

On our lands, we try to bring together the two great purposes of the land . . . to serve the need for jobs and payrolls and to meet the recreational needs of the people. Southland carries out intensive forest management practices such as regidlar planting of seedlings, fire prevention, insect and disease control, and scientific harvesting. At the same time, we've opened 250,000 acres to hunting and leased other lands for cattle grazing. We also operate an 800-acre lake near Lufkin for public fishing and wildfowl protection, maintain 1200 miles of roads and bridges, and have made land available for parks, nature trails and other public uses. Good forest management is another reason why Southland has become a symbol of today's growth in East Texas.
