A return to old-fashioned soap for household and commercial cleaning tasks is simply not possible. U.S. supplies of fats and oils are inadequate—to—furnish—raw materials for the large quantities involved. This new demand would have an impact on world food supplies, especially in undeveloped countries.

Most detergents and cleaners on the market today containal ecrtain amount, of phosphates. However, a few of these products, such as Miracle White Powerizer Super Cleaner, have a lower phosphorus level than others. This particular product enables you to use only half the amount of detergent you would normally use. This in itself is a further help in fighting pollution. Get a free stain removal chart. write V.
