The Tyler County BOOSTER

VOLUME 47 NUMBER 49 WOODVILLE, TEXAS AUGUST 14, 1975

Top Of The Morning

By Raleigh Lamb

"When people say, 'There is a peace and security,' they mean sudden destruction will come upon them," ... I Thes. 5:3

The Tyler County Chamber of Commerce project to sell tickets for the Sundown Theatre production "Beyond The Sundown" was an overwhelming success, according to chamber president John Kenner.

The Chamber sold approximately 1,100 tickets for the Tyler County night show. This is almost double the number of tickets sold by any other county for their special night.

Woodville and Tyler County residents have always supported the Indians in all of their endeavors to develop tourist attractions at the reservation. The Tyler County Chamber of Commerce and everyone who purchased a ticket to the play are to be commended for their support.

There is a lot of speculation at this time by political writers as to who will be the democratic nominee for president and vice-president next year. One writer, John Roche, believes Hubert Humphrey will be the nominee for president, with Lloyd Bentsen in the number 2 position. Roche discounts a Kennedy spot on the ballot because a Gallup poll showed "President Ford walking all over Ted Kennedy."

We would rather see Bentsen in the number 1 spot with Humphrey in second place.

If Humphrey is the choice for democratic party nominee for president, it will be because he is the best man for the job. For vice-president, the democrats will be looking for a southerner or southwestern person generally, and, in particular, a man who can persuade Texas to vote democratic in 1976.

Woodville School Registration

Registration will be held for all Kindergarten and first grade students who have not pre-registered. Registration will be held Thursday, August 14, from 8:00 A.M. to 11:00 A.M. in the Woodville Elementary School cafeteria. If your child has never attended school in the Woodville Public Schools, birth certificate and health record will be needed for registration.

The Woodville Public School Kindergarten is operated on the half-year plan, with all children who are five before March 1, 1975 eligible to attend the first half of the year, and all children who are five after March 1, 1975 eligible to attend the second half of the year.

Thicket President Says—

National Preserve Timber Cut

Howard Peacock, President of the Big Thicket Association, said recently that small lumber companies are cutting timber in the Big Thicket National Preserve.

Cutting is in progress on four tracts within the 14,000 acre Big Sandy Unit in the northwest area of the preserve near Livingston, about 60 miles east of Houston. Peacock said.

"I consider this an extremely serious threat to the thicket," said Peacock, administrator of the Bates College of Law at the University of Houston. He said he will ask the National Park Service vice and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to halt the cutting.

A bill designating 84,550 acres in east Texas as the Big Thicket National Preserve was signed into law last October. The Corps of Engineers is currently mapping and surveying the area and is also charged with land acquisition, which will not begin for two or three years, Peacock said.

Boundaries have been set but the bill that was passed did not provide funding for land acquisition.

Congressman Bob Eddhardt of Houston and Charles Wilson of Lufkin have introduced a bill in the U.S. House of Representatives that would provide for the immediate transfer of the land to the federal government.

Landowners would continue to operate on their property until the government pays them for it, but no cutting would be allowed.

The Big Sandy Unit, second largest in the preserve, is noted for its climax tree forest of beech, loblolly and magnolia. A climax tree forest is an ecological phenomenon in which the tops of trees meet to block out all light, thus preventing the growth of underbrush.

Micky Johnston of Batson, a past president of the Big Thicket Association, said the Texas Forest Association, to which most major timber companies belong, has declared a moratorium on cutting in the preserve.

"It's the small hardwood mills that are doing the damage," he said.

In an unprepared speech, the Senator discussed with the Lions and their guests, the

Mayor Signs Proclamation

Shown above is Woodville's Mayor Grady James signing a proclamation designating August as Family Unity Month. The proclamation reads as follows:

WHEREAS, the most important unit in society is the unified family; and

WHEREAS, the unity of this great country, the United States of America, depends so much upon the unity in the home; and

WHEREAS, the leaders and public officials throughout this country are concerned with the increasing number of broken homes, and its effects upon the people as a whole; and

WHEREAS, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints has originated the "Family Home Evening Program," which aids in bringing about a unified family through weekly family get-togethers of fun and learning,

NOW, THEREFORE, I GRADY JAMES, MAYOR OF THE CITY OF WOODVILLE, IN THE SOVEREIGN STATE OF TEXAS, DO HEREBY PROCLAIM THE MONTH OF AUGUST 1975 AS

FAMILY UNITY MONTH

in the City of Woodville.

Tyler Countians Pack Sundown Theatre

Any unsuspecting visitor coming to Tyler County on the evening of August 7, might have had difficulty finding anyone to visit because the majority of them were comfortably seated in the 1,545-seat Sundown Theatre for the 38th performance of "Beyond The Sundown," the new outdoor drama at the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation located 16 miles west of Woodville.

August 7 was designated as Tyler County Night, promoting the civic-minded Tyler Countians to make a special community effort to attend in large numbers. As a result, the largest attendance for the season was recorded. Tickets distributed at several merchants in Woodville were sold out hours in advance.

The tremendous response was matched only by the spectacular performance of "Beyond The Sundown," the new outdoor drama at the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation located 16 miles west of Woodville.

In Speech To Lions and Steering Committee

Senator Bentsen Gives His Views

U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen, visiting in Woodville last week, told the Tyler County Steering Committee that he doesn't need a more liberal image to win the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

Landowners would continue to operate on their property until the government pays them for it, but no cutting would be allowed.

The Big Sandy Unit, second largest in the preserve, is noted for its climax tree forest of beech, loblolly and magnolia. A climax tree forest is an ecological phenomenon in which the tops of trees meet to block out all light, thus preventing the growth of underbrush.

Micky Johnston of Batson, a past president of the Big Thicket Association, said the Texas Forest Association, to which most major timber companies belong, has declared a moratorium on cutting in the preserve.

"It's the small hardwood mills that are doing the damage," he said.

In an unprepared speech, the major issues with which the United States Congress has been faced and which, in his opinion, are the most critical at this time.

He stated that in approaching a bill presented to the Senate, he first studies and informs himself about the bill and then votes only for a bill if, in his opinion, the bill is good and that our Country can afford it.

Those issues which he considered to be most critical and his stand on each are as follows:

1. The Economy-Senator Bentsen stated that although President Ford has promised there would be no recession, that we have experienced the greatest rate of inflation since the Civil War and are still operating with more deficit than this Country has ever known. To stress the fact that he has tried to help solve the economy problem, he spoke of the latest Agricultural Bill, which was passed, but although voting the same, the President has not come up with a bill of his own. Some few people are now on the farm, the Senator stated that the farmers have lost their political power and that no one in Washington is paying much attention to them.

2. Housing-The housing industry is in a great depression mainly because of the high interest rates which have prevailed for much too long.

3. Energy-Senator Bentsen was one of the leaders in the fight to retain the depletion allowance since, as he said, the depletion allowance is necessary to attract risk capital for new oil and gas exploration.

4. The Plight of the Cities-The credit standing of so many major cities have been destroyed because of their many financing problems and it has been almost impossible to market their municipal bonds to finance city projects.

5. Energy Policy-for a Republican Energy Policy, for a Democratic Energy Policy, but that what we needed and were looking for was a National Energy Policy.

6. The Creditworthiness of the United States-Governor Bentsen stated that the Country was not looking for a Republican Energy Policy, nor a Democratic Energy Policy, but that what we needed and were looking for was a National Energy Policy.

7. The Credit Standing of the United States-The Senator stated that the credit standing of the United States has been destroyed because of the many financing problems and it has been almost impossible to market their municipal bonds to finance city projects.

8. The Senator favors a Federal Finance Plan, which after being shown a very austere budget, the agency could supply short term money to a distressed municipality.

The Senator spoke little on his presidential aspirations but did state that the history of our country is such that after each adversity or problem period, the United States has become greater and that it can do the same in the future provided it is able to have good, strong leadership.

He further stated that he was only one of four possible candidates who had qualified for the presidential primaries in all 20 states, every primary is held.

quisitely delicate yet strong and durable. "Moon Mist" is dishwasher safe. Main-resist, chip-resistant
It's a child-safe piece you'll proudly use for years and years.
