Maxie Riley, 39, a native of Tyler County issued the following statement regarding his candidacy and intent to run for office:

"Maxie L. Riley of Woodville, today announced his candidacy for Commission of Precinct No. 1, Tyler County Texas, and stated his intention to file his formal application within a few days.

During his career, he saw service as a test pilot, instructional pilot, administrative officer, maintenance officer and was extensively involved in budget planning. In addition to serving in Viet Nam, he also served in Panama and Germany and received four Bronze Stars, 26 Air Medals and 3 Commendation Awards. Riley also stated that he expects to meet each and every citizen in Precinct No. One before the primary election, May 1, 1976.

Takes Classroom To Students

BEAUMONT—Lamar University believes in taking the classroom to the students just like Homer is presently doing. It saves gasoline and it saves time.

Lamar University professors teach off-campus programs in Jasper, Houston, Texas City, Galveston, LaPorte and Freeport. In response to demand from adults in these communities, the university's most experienced professors teach the courses.

Dr. George Parks, head of Lamar's fast-growing and nationally renowned music department, gets on his motorcycle and teaches conducting on Thursday nights in Jasper. Also teaching a music course in Jasper is George Beverly of Lamar's music faculty.

"We teach an 18-hour intensive music course in Jasper. It is the fifth straight semester I've been teaching there. It's been very successful," Dr. Parks declares.

The classes are run under Lamar's Office of Continuing Education with James Spencer as program coordinator.

Business Climate 'Best In Nation'

ASIAN—The Texas Manufacturers Association (TMA) announced today that the business climate in Texas has been ranked best in the nation in a 221-page study recently completed by the Farman Group, a subsidiary of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

The study, completed on behalf of the Illinois Manufacturing Association, used a rating system based on such factors as: labor laws, state use of government, labor costs and trends, state and federal tax rates, and state and federal government regulations.

Mr. Gray, president of TMA, noted that the lack of competition and the high cost of labor were the keys in Texas' ranking.

"The competition for industrial jobs among the states is increasing," Gray said. "Each 100 manufacturing jobs supported by nonindustrial jobs are the backbone of the state's economy."

Gray noted that TMA had been working since 1972 to build a better business climate.

"The state's unemployment rates are second lowest in the nation," Gray said. "Texas has the sixth lowest proportion of workers belonging to labor unions—13.8% compared to the national average of 27.2%."

State per capita tax for individuals in Texas is fourth lowest in the nation—$229.02 compared to a national average of $325.53.

"State and local per capita tax per individual in Texas is ninth in the nation—$48.77 compared to the national average of $77.05."

"The state debt per capita is 19th in the nation—$197.45 compared to the U.S. average of $282.49."

"State and local debt per capita is 20th in the nation—$185.00 compared to the national average of $289.18."

"Texas ranked 13th in the cost per capita of governing each person in the state—$13.62 compared to a national average of $18.26."

"Texas ranked 18th in its per capita cost for public education—$65.52 compared to the national average of $105.67."

Other areas covered by the study included characteristics of the population and attitudes of living in these areas. Texas was noted for its recreational facilities, medical care and student-teacher ratio.

"These rankings did not just happen," Gray said, "but are the result of TMA and other organizations across the state working to maintain an enviable business climate."

"We wish to commend each of these groups for their efforts, and encourage them to continue their work."

"We also wish to commend the legislature for their favorable attitude toward business and looking forward to working with them in the future to maintain our enviable position."

Maurice Fulton, president of the Farman Group, said that the study was completed as an objective a task as possible.

"I said the primary purpose in completing the study was to provide their company's clients with a feel for the business environment in states in which they might consider capital investments."

Other states ranked in the top ten for business climate include: Alabama, South Dakota, South Carolina, North Carolina, Florida, Arkansas, Indiana and Utah. All but Indiana have right-to-work laws which forbid compulsory union membership in order to be employed.

The worst ten states in terms of business climate are (starting at the bottom) New York, California, Massachusetts, Michigan, Delaware, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Oregon and Washington.

TREE SCENES

Heretofore, Dave Phillips, forester for the Texas Forest Service, received numerous requests for the potted pine seedlings on display at a Houston Educators meeting. Not able to give them away, he offered information on how to grow pine seedlings from seeds at home.

According to Dave, this seed can be obtained on a Sunday afternoon stroll in the forest. Squirrels and birds are constantly observing pine cones from their branches. The cones will soon open and allow the easy removal of the seed inside, by simply shaking the cone open. In the case of longest pine, the seeds are quite large and can easily be scooped on the ground.

The next step is drying and detaching the seeds from their wings. For a small quantity of seed, the best method of wing removal is to rub the seed together gently. This action detaches the wings which blow away, leaving the seed. Seed should be placed on a towel or dry cloth in a warm dry area such as the kitchen or hot water heater closet and allowed to cure for approximately one week. Improperly dried seed will be subject to fungus attack, and poor germination will result.

Pine seeds have to go through a dormant period before germination is triggered. This is accomplished with your refrigerator and a bag made of cheesecloth. Place the seed in the bag in a refrigerator at approximately 35 degrees Fahrenheit for 20 to 30 days. A period of dormancy will be experienced similar to winter. The cheesecloth, unlike glass jars, plastic bags or cans, will allow the escape of moisture that could damage seed.

As soon as all danger of outdoor frost has gone, the seed must be planted. First, scratch the seed coat slightly to allow for quicker germination upon contact with the soil. Potting soil, or a good mixture of sandy loam and pot played in a pot, will also pamper the seedlings along. The pots should be kept in the sunlight and the soil should be moist to the touch. The small seedling can easily be transplanted the following winter.

Next time you need some trees, try this little project. It is enjoyable, and it can save you money. For more information on planting of pine seedlings, write the Texas Forest Service, College Station, Texas 77843.

and in some community programs. Through the Federal Social Security Act, the Texas Department of Public Welfare has received money from the federal government to fund various institutions and community centers, as well as the Texas Rehabilitation Commission for services to the mentally ill or retarded, alcoholics, and drug abusers.

The complexities of these movements of money and personnel can be seen in the categorical budgeting and administrative fragmentation of personnel. The community center, for example, receives federal funds through the Bureau of Prisons. They also receive major grants through the State Department of Health. The Texas Commission on Alcoholism provides counselors for MIMM institutions and contracts with MIMM centers for services in several regions. The Department of Community Affairs also has contracts with community centers for drug abuse programs. The Texas Rehabilitation Commission provides counselors and funds for treatment at MIMM institutions. In special education programs of school districts.

Shivers Library In Houston System

Forty-two libraries in the Houston area are served by the Houston Area Library System. The system membership for the fiscal year that began September 1, 1976, is 42 libraries. A total of 86 percent of all Texans are served by these 42 libraries. They are participating in activities to improve public library service in the region.

One of the libraries qualifying for membership in the Houston Area Library System is the Allan Shivers Library in Woodville.

The law was amended in that year to prohibit sending state officers to TVC. In the last Legislature changed to back again to the TVC. "This is an expensive game. Institutions cost a lot of money to run, particularly when they deal with kids ranging from murderers to inmates.

figures for 1975 as of yet. Through the kind of bureaucracy, the system is almost guaranteed to make inefficient use of the money allocated to it.

"And it appears that this system is no easier on the people it serves, or the agencies that administer the programs. It is on the taxpayers who finance it. Texas are remarkably lucky in having dedicated and concerned public servants working for us. Unfortunately the system of budgeting and administrative fragmentation frustrates good intentions and efforts. It's a game in which everybody loses.

"In 1959, when the Legislature first wrote the law to govern the State's juvenile institutions, Governor Sul Ross advised the Legislature that neither those who cannot be reformed, nor those who need no reformation should be committed. He said that hardened criminals should go to prison and the mentally handicapped to mental facilities. He said that the schools and no parent should be able to deposit an unwanted child there. What he was advising against was allowing the inmates to become last man first game of that instator over people nobody wanted to deal with. And it started to happen as soon as that institution was opened, and in one year it had a 100 percent increase in inmate population. It happens to all of our institutions today. In 1972, for example, 100 percent of the TVC inmates were sent for violent crimes, and 100 percent of the inmates were sent because they were violent, unmanageable, or some other type of status offender.

Women Prefer Ford In Beauty Salon Poll

ST. LOUIS, MO.—President Gerald R. Ford received the most attention from the nation's women in a recent presidential preference poll, conducted by the National Business and Consumer Interests Association.

Of the more than 14,500 women polled in the nation's beauty salons, over 4,300 women voted for President Ford's name as the person they would most likely vote for in the 1976 Presidential election were held today.

The poll was conducted throughout 39 states and the District of Columbia between Oct. 18, 1975, and Nov. 15, 1975.

Following President Ford's 4,337 write-in votes were the following:

Undecided—2,783 votes (19%); Ronald Reagan—2,227 (05%); Alabama Gov. George Wallace—1,068 votes (7%); Sen. Edward Kennedy—892 (6%); Sen. Hubert Humphrey—827 (6%); Sen. Henry Jackson—353 (2%); Sen. Frank Church—74; Sen. Birch Bayh—73; Jimmy Carter—52; Rep. Barbara Jordan—41; Richard Nixon—37; Sen. Howard Baker—36; Sen. Lloyd Bentsen—34; Florida Gov. Reubin Askew—30; Sen. Charles McNamara—29; Sen. Charles McClellan—28; Sen. George McGovern—5; Shirley Temple Black—4; California Gov. Jerry Brown—12; William Buckley—12; Walter Cronkite—12; and Sen. Lowell Weicker—12.

Training Program To Start

AUSTIN—State Senator Roy Harrison and State Representative Perry Tamm have announced a training program to be conducted for National Pipe and Tube Company in Liberty.

More than 350 people will be trained in all craft skills phases related to the industry. Classes begin January in Liberty, instructors will be faculty from Lamar University and supervisors and key personnel from the industry.

Industrial Start-Up Training is a service offered through the "Texas First" program initiated by Governor Dolph Briscoe to offset the recession in Texas by promoting economic development.

The Texas Industrial Commission, Texas Education Agency and Texas Employment Commission worked with the corporate staff of National Pipe and Tube Company to develop special skill training classes to meet the specific needs of the company.

In the past we have required security equal to twelve times the amount of tax money we estimated a business would handle in a three-month period.

We have now reduced that to one and a half times the estimated tax liability for those businesses which report quarterly. For the very large taxpayers who are required to report monthly the security requirement will now be figured at twice their estimated monthly liability.

This has been made possible because we are now doing a much better job of getting the development accounts before the tax due exceeds the posted security.

In fact, the security requirement came into force at the first of 1974 just because delinquent accounts had gotten out of hand.

We are now knocking out delinquent's debts within 15 days after they are due, so we can get the development fund. That's early enough for most delinquents to work out some payment agreement before they get in completely over their heads.

Here is how the security requirement works: when a new business applies for a sales tax permit, we estimate what their sales will be and therefore how much tax money they will be handling.

For instance, if we estimated that a new small business will report quarterly taxable goods worth $2,000, then the security requirement will be $26,000 and they will handle $1,500 in state and city sales tax money.

Under the old system it would have been $3,000.

We accept several kinds of securities: state bonds, cash letters of credit from banks and assignments on savings accounts.

If a business can afford it, the assignment of a savings account is the best plan because it lets the owner continue to draw interest on the money as the money stays in the bank's savings account or credit union on the owner's choice.

Currently on the books we have savings assignments worth $13 million from some 30,000 businesses.

Many new businesses, though, don't have that kind of cash and have to buy securities from us. We have a revolving account to do with the interest on these bonds. The premium costs which may take two or three percent to get are according to the size and type of business and the owner's reputation.

We currently have about $25 million in securities from the security fund. It's 12,000 businesses.

We release the security after two years if the business has a clean record as a taxpayer.

Texas Taxes

By BOB BULLOCK, State Comptroller

Austin—It is pleased that we can reduce the sales tax security requirements on many new businesses opening every day in Texas.

The security requirement in the state's way of making sure a new business sends in the sales tax money it collects from its customers.

In the past we have required security equal to twelve times the amount of tax money we estimated a business would handle in a three-month period.

We have now reduced that to one and a half times the estimated tax liability for those businesses which report quarterly. For the very large taxpayers who are required to report monthly the security requirement will now be figured at twice their estimated monthly liability.

This has been made possible because we are now doing a much better job of getting the development accounts before the tax due exceeds the posted security.

In fact, the security requirement came into force at the first of 1974 just because delinquent accounts had gotten out of hand.

We are now knocking out delinquent's debts within 15 days after they are due, so we can get the development fund. That's early enough for most delinquents to work out some payment agreement before they get in completely over their heads.

Here is how the security requirement works: when a new business applies for a sales tax permit, we estimate what their sales will be and therefore how much tax money they will be handling.

For instance, if we estimated that a new small business will report quarterly taxable goods worth $2,000, then the security requirement will be $26,000 and they will handle $1,500 in state and city sales tax money.

Under the old system it would have been $3,000.

We accept several kinds of securities: state bonds, cash letters of credit from banks and assignments on savings accounts.

If a business can afford it, the assignment of a savings account is the best plan because it lets the owner continue to draw interest on the money as the money stays in the bank's savings account or credit union on the owner's choice.

Currently on the books we have savings assignments worth $13 million from some 30,000 businesses.

Many new businesses, though, don't have that kind of cash and have to buy securities from us. We have a revolving account to do with the interest on these bonds. The premium costs which may take two or three percent to get are according to the size and type of business and the owner's reputation.

We currently have about $25 million in securities from the security fund. It's 12,000 businesses.

We release the security after two years if the business has a clean record as a taxpayer.

Gather Tax Records Early This Year

AUSTIN—Ever have to hunt for a misplaced wallet or purse left before leaving the house? It has to be one of life's most frustrating experiences.

Similarly, the last-minute search for records needed to fill out tax forms can be just as frustrating—particularly when the search begins on the evening of April 15th. For example, a taxpayer who hasn't had the time to gather records of all charitable contributions or medical expenses could be overlooking items making errors in his or her return and shortchanging himself or herself at tax time.

That's why the Internal Revenue Service urges taxpayers to gather their records now, so they will be ready to fill out their returns when their tax package arrives in the mail around the first of the year and have all outstanding records on hand.

Of course, there's always been an added advantage to getting an early start on taxes. Persons who file their returns in January can expect their refunds in less than six weeks, while taxpayers who file later can experience record waits of as long as eight to ten weeks.

For instance, if we estimated that a new small business will report quarterly taxable goods worth $2,000, then the security requirement will be $26,000 and they will handle $1,500 in state and city sales tax money.

Under the old system it would have been $3,000.

Branding Takes Modern Twist

AUSTIN—The old branding iron, one of the time-honored symbols of the West, has a modernized version. Wildlife biologists of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department this year have been testing techniques of branding whitetail fawns by using freeze branding instead of iron.

Freeze branding was developed in 1966 for use in the cattle industry. The process kills hair pigment but not the hair itself, which grows out permanently white. Good results were obtained in Louisiana and Arizona with small numbers of adult white-tailed deer, but little work actually had been done on finding the best methods of application for deer.

Potential benefits of freeze branding in deer management studies are many. With steel identification marks as ear tags or collars, there always has been the possibility that animals might lose them or have their growth stunted by them. Also, collars with radio transmitters, often malfunctions. The brands, easily visible from 50 to 100 yards, provide far greater flexibility in monitoring studies.

In April and May of this year P&W biologists captured a total of 111 fawns on ranches in Colorado and Montana.

At this location, dry ice and alcohol, which do not require elaborate equipment, seemed to be the preferable method. Also, indications are that the four-inch brand is too large. Since the brands grow along with the fawns, a smaller iron seems advisable.

Biologists at the Kerr Area feel that by next year the freeze-branding technique will be perfected. Then freeze branding can be fully utilized as a valuable tool in the management of white-tailed deer in Texas.

What About The Millennium?

Will there be a thousand year reign of Christ?

Read Rev. 20:1-6 and consider the following things which cannot be found therein: 1) the second coming of Christ, 2) a bodily resurrection, 3) a reign on earth (this has to be assumed), 4) the literal throne of David, 5) Jerusalem of Palestine, 6) you are not mentioned in Rev. 20:1-6 (note: it says, could of them that were beheaded - have you been or do you anticipate being beheaded?), 7) Christ on earth (where is the passage that will put Christ on earth again?). Just look at these things that have been added to this passage. Rev. 22:18 places a curse on those who would add to God's word. Col. 1:13 says that some had been "translated... into the kingdom..." If the kingdom were not in existence how could they be translated into it? Millennialist deny that passage and Mark 9:1 where Jesus says, "...some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death, till they have seen the kingdom of God come with power." Either the kingdom came in the first century or there are some pretty old people around.

Millennialism, in some cases, involves two resurrections a thousand years apart. John 5:28, 29 says "...the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice, and shall come forth..." Note carefully that Jesus says that the hour is coming when all in the graves are going to come forth. No room for a thousand year reign.

The resurrection will take place when Jesus comes again. (1 Thess. 4:13-18; 1 Cor. 15:24-27), all will be raised to be judged and receive final regards.

gords coudees. The animals were shorn in the areas to be branded, by electric clippers with a special freeze-branding blade. Isopropyl alcohol was used to clean the clipped areas, facilitate heat transfer and prevent the branding iron from sticking to the skin. Two methods were used to cook the branding irons -- liquid nitrogen and a mixture of dry ice and alcohol. The four-inch, copper freeze-branding irons were applied experimentally for various lengths of time.

This branding is apparently painless, judging from reaction of the animals, and there have not been any instances of does rejecting the branded fawns. The fawns treated at that time were released at their capture sites on the open range.

In mid-June, freeze branding was carried out on the P&W's Kerr Wildlife Management Area on deer already confined in six 1/2-acre pens for a genetic study. In all, 15 randomly spaced fawns were freeze branded here, at different times. As in the earlier experiments, the time of application of the branding iron was varied to evaluate best results. In one case, the area to be branded was not shorn beforehand for purposes of comparison, and the alternate methods of freezing compounds were used.

At this location, dry ice and alcohol, which do not require elaborate equipment, seemed to be the preferable method. Also, indications are that the four-inch brand is too large. Since the brands grow along with the fawns, a smaller iron seems advisable.

Biologists at the Kerr Area feel that by next year the freeze-branding technique will be perfected. Then freeze branding can be fully utilized as a valuable tool in the management of white-tailed deer in Texas.

How confidently he sleeps. Mother and Daddy are in the next room. Teddy Bear is right beside him.

We also desire a feeling of confident security. We want to do good and live with honor in this life; free of the fear of falling into sin. God wants this for us. And He sees and knows how hard we try.

In the New Testament, Jude writes: "God is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy."
