Kirkpatrick

Kirkpatrick Seeks 88th DA Office

George Kirkpatrick, Jr., of Silsbee, this week announces his candidacy for the office of District Attorney of the 88th Judicial District of Texas, comprised of Hardin and Tyler Counties. He is competing his fourth year as County Attorney of Hardin County, and has been a practicing attorney for 15 years, with offices located in Kountze. He is the son of Mr. & Mrs. George Kirkpatrick, of Hillster, Texas.

In making his announcement, Kirkpatrick said, "I believe that my experience as a practicing lawyer and as an elected public official qualifies me to serve the people well. I intend to cooperate fully, at all times, with grand juries, the District Judge and law enforcement officers, and to dispose of the cases fairly and with vigor. The same fairness will be given defendants, lawyers and their clients. They will be given full consideration of the office. I am a firm believer that an elected official owes it to his constituents, as well as to himself, to direct all his efforts toward the duties he has been chosen to perform. If elected to the office of District Attorney of Hardin and Tyler County, Texas, I will sincerely strive to do this and to maintain this office with dignity, aggressiveness and enthusiasm; never forgetting the compassion I feel toward all persons, regardless of race, color or creed."

Following his high school graduation, he attended Lamar University and Baylor University Law School, before earning his BS degree from Sam Houston State University in Huntsville. After his discharge from the Army, he studied law in the offices of Joe Tonahill, of Jasper, and R.A. "Dick" Richardson and Dwayne Overstreet of Kountze. He was admitted to practice law in the State of Texas by the Supreme Court in 1961.

At the age of 41, he is a family man. His wife, Jo Ann, is a first grade teacher in Silsbee and his son, George Allen, 15, is a freshman at Silsbee High School.

The Tax Assessor Collector also reminds persons who became 85 as of Jan. 1, 1976 to be sure and sign at her office for the $3,000 Homestead Tax exemption. She said the deadline date was April 30, 1976.

Mrs. Tolbert also reported that certificates will be mailed, during February, for all citizens who have already registered and those who have voted within the last three years. This group also includes new residents and 18-year-olds.

Mrs. Tolbert encourages all persons who have not registered as yet to do so at her office.

Browder Is Candidate

San Jacinto County businessman, Jim Browder, 35, has announced his candidacy for the office of State Representative, 10th Legislative District, in the May 1st Democratic Primary election. District 16 includes Liberty, Polk, Tyler, San Jacinto and Trinity counties.

Browder states, "The economic and social development of Texas, especially East Texas, has reached a critical point. Simultaneously, the citizens of this state are faced with impotent and groping government at all levels. Each day we are reminded of misconduct or scandal at some level of government. Watergate, Shapston and Duval County have become household words with each pointing an accusing finger at some political office holder. The public's attitude of disillusionment and mistrust prevails. The challenge is clearly defined. No longer can we place our trust in big business and "special interest groups" to select and elect our representatives of government. The responsibility is ours alone and it must be accepted by all if our democratic form of government is to survive.

Jim Browder was born in Polk and reared in San Jacinto County. His wife, Carolyn, is a native of Cleveland. They now live in San Jacinto County with their children, Brad, 12, Alyssa, 11, and Lorena, 8.

Browder is a graduate of Sam Houston University and has served in the U.S. Marine Corps and U.S. Air Force. He has worked with various special governmental agencies relating to youth development and economic opportunity for the underprivileged. Also, Browder has been active in area civic improvement associations. He is a small businessman with experience in Banking, Real Estate and Insurance.

Browder states that if elected, he will strive to provide realistic, rational representation for the citizens of this district.

Congressman Wilson said a longer policy statement would be forthcoming as the primary date of May 1 draws nearer.

Wilson said he hoped "For the support and encouragement of all the voters in Precinct 3."

Petticoat Politics

by Jerry Wilson

With ice and snow on the ground, life is beginning to return to normal in the nation's capital. Since Thanksgiving, are out of sight at last.

Leaving from home in Texas on New Year's Eve, we joined a group at Andrews Air Force Base, and began a 13 day trip at the invitation of Chairman Morgan of the House International Relations Committee of which our Congressman is a member. The spokesman word was that the U.S. State Department has asked the Chairman to lead a delegation to certain countries for discussion and to show U.S. support. Any my spouse was one of the five Democrats and five Republicans.

And with the group was Max Friedlander from the White House, a State Department representative as well as Air Force and Navy. At 7:00 a.m., as we boarded the Air Force plane, we quickly were up for. For, it was no ordinary plane, but the one Secretary of State Kissinger's jet. And before him, both President Johnson and Kennedy.

A 747 jet named the satellite communication and security area. Telephones, televisions and a section for the President's private bedroom made me realize that this was no ordinary trip.

The itinerary, two days in each country. The itinerary: Tehran, Iran; Athens, Greece; Belgrade, Yugoslavia; Rome, Italy; Paris, France; London, England; and back to Washington, D.C.

There is no way to recall so many experiences, in Cyprus, the inner city is still practically still. The President and Mrs. Sagan invited the group out of the city for a meeting at their villa, where he stressed his wish of peace. But, emphasized recognition of the Palestinians. Israel's schedule was typical of the entire trip. On the plane, the men headed to the American Embassy in Athens, we quickly were up for. For, it was no ordinary dinner, a briefing by the Chief of Staff Gur. After dinner, questions and answers from Mrs. Doyne. Next morning, off to Iran. In Tehran, the group rode in cars with bullet proof glass and guards. The wives weren't allowed out of the hotel. The men met with the Shah.

At 8 a.m. the next morning, we were "climbing into Israeli helicopters" heading to the Golan Heights. After the hour's flight, freezing wind greeted us as we changed into buses for the drive to Yotvata, my first view of the disputed city of Knesset, only a few miles down in the valley. Back in the helicopters, across the Sea of Galilee and the green Jordan Valley that Israel turned from a swamp into fertile farm land to Jerusalem. Lunch in the Knesset (Parliament) where at each table was seated an Israeli hawk and a dove.

The hour's drive back to Tel Aviv where the men headed to a meeting with Defense Minister Peres. Wives dressed for dinner. Before the dinner, a briefing by the

Bro. and Mrs. Duil Patrick of Katy Church in Colmesneil returned Sunday from a visit to Baptist mission fields in the Valley. Spending the night in the home of a missionary in Hartigan, they spent much time in missions around Brownsville and Matamoros, Mexico. The visitors were greatly impressed by the work which they saw and stated that this should prove an incentive for more sacrificial giving for the missionary cause. Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Fendland spent Sunday in Zavalla with his mother, Mrs. Carrie Holt and visited her in attendance with the Rev. J. L. Smith, pastor of the Methodist Church. THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNORS REPORT

AUSTIN—in working with the Texas Legislature, I have been involved in the consideration of a number of issues which can be described as women's issues. These questions include the Equal Rights Amendment, the ability of women to obtain credit, laws and procedures concerning rape, the availability of day care, abortion, and others.

Perhaps in no way are the problems of the American woman brought into clearer focus than in a review of the position of women in today's work force.

Although more attention is being placed on the discrimination which has faced women in the work force, actual progress has been depressingly slow. In fact, although more women are entering the labor market, the average salaries and the status of their jobs, if anything, falling behind that of men.

Recent studies by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education and the President's Council of Economic Advisors both emphasize the fact that women's progress toward job equality with men has been sadly little. Women still make less than men holding the same jobs.

Today, nearly 40 percent of all workers are women, compared with 31 percent in 1953. What is especially interesting is a study of the prevalence of working women in certain age groups. For instance, 39 percent of all young women aged 20 to 24, the prime child-bearing years, are working. In 1970, of all working women—32 percent were classified as clerical employees and 14 percent as blue collar workers with semi-skilled jobs like packers, warehousemen and sewing machine operators.

Women have had little success in breaking into the high status professions. In 1970 they made up 28 percent of college faculties, about the same proportion as 40 percent of managers of manufacturing firms were women, slightly less than 20 years ago, and the percentage of women dentists is 2.5 percent, some higher now than in 1910.

Women are also the most vulnerable to unemployment. In August of 1975, the unemployment rate for females was 48 percent higher than that of males. The major unemployment problem of women is the refusal of many employers to consider them for other than a traditional "women's" job.

Obviously, there is much that society, government, and employers can do to improve the career outlook of women.

LIBRARY NOTES

The patrons of Allen Stevens Library, both students and adults, are requested to make more closely the due dates of books checked out so that reminders from the library staff will not be necessary, according to Mrs. Caudle Sullivan, library director.

The increase in postage rates is having a definite effect at the library, and this is certainly a good time to see to help the library in a very simple fashion. Mrs. Sullivan advised books may be returned by bringing them in or by calling with the following information: date due, title, and borrower's card number.

The book drop at the Dogwood Street entrance is available 24 hours a day, and the library is open 30 hours a week. Tours of the museum and xeroxing are available Mondays through Fridays from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., and Saturdays from 9:00 to 5:00.

EASTEX's Felix Hammack Asks For Congressional 'Freeze'

FORT WORTH—"Congress should freeze the effluent and receiving water standards for industrial point sources at 1977 levels," according to the American Paper Institute, "until all systems in both the public and private sectors have substantially reached these levels, and the results have been evaluated."

The American Paper Institute is a national trade association of the pulp, paper and paperboard industry.

Appearing before a regional hearing of the National Commission on Water Quality here on Jan. 12, APTI spokesman Felix M. Hammack, President of the Eastex Division of Temple-Eastex Incorporated said, "We in the pulp and paper industry consider the 1985 interim goals desirable, and support the findings of the draft report by the National Commission on Water Quality which indicates these goals through compliance with the 1977 effluent limitations."

Hammack said moving to 1985 limitations rather than 1983 goals will be counter-productive because the improvement in the nation's water quality will be relatively slight, while the economic costs and social losses would be tremendous.

"Before considering enforcement of the more restrictive 1983 limitations, we need to know more about environmental trade-offs. Independent studies indicate that at a certain point, removal of one pollutant results in an increase in another type of pollutant."

Relevant to this hearing, Hammack said that the 1977 level of compliance by all sectors is substantially completed and that other areas of natural gas as a boiler fuel, the conversion costs will be enormous, and as in the case of environmental control, while the economic costs and social losses would be tremendous.

Hodges Gardens To Open Feb. 1

Hodges Gardens, west central Louisiana's famous "Garden in the Forest," which has been closed since Christmas for repainting and restoration will reopen Sunday, February 1. Located on U.S. Highway 171 approximately halfway between Lake Charles and Shreveport, the nonprofit gardens are the result of a vast ecological effort by the late A.C. Hodges, pioneer conservationist.

Among the February blooms visitors can expect to see are camellias, pines, narcissus, crocuses, anemones, irises, ranunculus, foxglove and lilies of the valley. Flow-ering trees and shrubs will include hickory, crab apple and bridal wreath.

Full day is not too long to spend in Hodges Gardens with its ten miles of paved roads and many attractions that can be seen by leaving the car. Besides the four-level formal gardens and Louisiana's largest wildlife refuge, species protected in the confines of the 4,700 acre parkland are native and migratory birds, waterfowl, elk, deer, black squirrels, wild turkeys and bald eagles.

The gardens are open from 8:00 a.m. until sunset daily. Admission is $3.00 per person with children under 12 admitted free when accompanied by parents. There are special group rates for bus tours of 10 or more persons.

Hodges Gardens will have a new full color brochure out in February which can be obtained free by writing P.O. Box 321, Many, La. 71449.

'Southern Living' Completes Decade

Southern Living, an unusual success story in U.S. magazine publishing, completed its first decade with its January 1976 issue.

Launched in February 1966 with 20,000 subscribers, the magazine has grown to 10 million in 1975. Circulation climbed from the original 200,000 to 1,250,000 in 14 southern states.

Commenting on the magazine's growth, Emory Cunningham, president and publisher, said, "A large group of highly literate southerners were ready for their own magazine, but prior to Southern Living no major monthly was giving serious coverage to the suburban and urban south. We believed a positive approach to a particular life style in this region would strike a hot spot of enthusiasm, and it did."

Cunningham, a key figure in launching Southern Living, has been named Magazine Publisher of the Year for 1975 by the Magazine Publishers Association, New York.

The 166-page January issue of Southern Living includes a 50-page section on "The Future of the South."

O'Rourke Is Candidate For Railroad Commission

AUSTIN—Declaring that the recently signed federal energy bill is "aimed at draining Texas' non-renewable petroleum resources," Texas Railroad Commission candidate Terence O'Rourke today officially filed for that post—and brought his filing fee here in two oil barrels to emphasize the state's plight.

"Informed people throughout this country wonder how such a misguided federal energy program could occur," O'Rourke said.

"The answer is that a group of 'outsiders' in Congress, some mindless big game hunters in the Executive branch and some gutless politicians in the non-producing Eastern states have come up with a short-term scheme to deprive Texas of its energy resources and pay the Arabs with the revenues," he added.

O'Rourke, a Houston attorney and former Texas assistant attorney general was the first announced candidate for the Railroad Commission seat being vacated by Commission chairman Ben Ramsey.
