TEC Offers Helping Hand

WOODVILLE—Designed to help employers and employees as well, the Texas Employment Commission of the "Third" Floor of the Tyler County Courthouse is providing a day-to-day need for persons interested in finding work as well as for those seeking workers.

According to Nellie Jernigan, the job development counselor for the T.E.C. here, the job market is slow at the present which makes her job even more important.

"People need to keep interviewing for work every just can't stop. I can help them by showing them job possibilities and can help them with their job interview."

"We need industries in Tyler County which will put people to work," she said.

There are many folks who are trained just for office work or who have applied for jobs just in that area. And, we have a lot of persons who aren't skilled at any job and who need formal or on-the-job training.

"The main thing I would like people to know is where to locate us when they are looking for work. We have a file of job possibilities and can generally point a client in the right direction."

The third floor office is open each day from 8 a.m. till 12 noon from 1 p.m. till 5 p.m. Mrs. Jernigan can be reached by calling 283-3714.

Stop The Shoplifter

Last week an envelope arrived in the mail at the Woodville Brookshire Brothers store. Inside was a piece of paper with "manager" printed on one side. On the other were printed these words:
"For the lies I told I can only ask forgiveness. For what I took I can repay with interest. I am very sorry."
Also in the envelope were 10 $20 bills.

This was an unusual case by all means, but it comes as a time when we should be especially mindful of the damage caused by shoplifting and other swindles. With the Christmas season shopping crowds also come increases in shoplifting. And it is not just the poor who cannot afford to pay for the items who resort to this. According to Woodville Police Chief Gary Mattingly, quite a few of those caught shoplifting have the money to purchase the items.

Also, the shoplifter usually is risking so much for so little. Shoplifting a carton of cigarettes could cost him or her up to $200; stealing a transistor radio may land the shoplifter in jail for six months. It is not a winning proposition.

Then, there is the cost to the rest of us. Losses due to shoplifting must be made up by higher prices to be paid by the non-shoplifter. Why report a shoplifter? Because, he is stealing the money right out of your pocket.

If you see someone shoplifting, remember what they took and where they put it. Then report this to a store employee. You do not have to be involved in the prosecution of the person, if the store personnel have this information can stop the shoplifter with the stolen goods.

For all of us who bundle our clothing into boxes and bags, and dutifully travel to the laundromat once a week an era has passed. Yes, along with the 5-cent cigar and gasoline price wars, the 25-cent wash is no more.

I know it was coming, but I hadn't had hoped that the change would be longer in coming to Tyler County. I had seen the change come in Austin, the fiery protest letters and talk of washing boycotts by the angry laundromat users, but it had been all so far away.

On arrival in Woodville last May, I was pleased to notice that for one U.S. quarter, one's clothes could be agitated into sparkling cleanliness. Then, for only another 25¢, you could get the pleasure of watching them be dried and fluffed. That's pretty near as good as anything you can get in your neighborhood.

And what's more, the laundromat was the best place to gather news. A reporter could probably find out more at any of the local laundromats than in a press conference. Why all you'd have to do is conceal a tape recorder in your box.

A businessman explains: "I know that American industry is coming up with new chemicals, and that some of them might be carcinogenic. I also know that testing a single chemical to see if it causes cancer requires two years of laboratory observation before an opinion can be given. However, new tests—the most prominent being the Ames test—are being developed which use bacteria for test animals. This test is far less costly and because simple or-

FIRE EARLY TUESDAY
About 6 o'clock Tuesday morning the town was aroused by the fire alarm, which consisted of six gun, auto horns and wild yells, and a crowd soon gathered at the blazing home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Rawls. Mr. Rawls had lit a gas heater and gone to the water, and no doubt the draft from the open door caused the flame to get out of control and the stove blew up. It was a real windy morning for East Texas. Rainy and cold and windy and very little was predicted for the evening, the Pastor, L.E. Gower, is in Brenham attending annual conference.

Q: Before I moved to Texas in 1970, I had a will executed in Illinois, where it is on file. Is this will valid in Texas?
A: A will prepared in other states generally are valid in Texas. The difference in each state's laws, however, could affect both the cost of probate and the decision on designating beneficiaries. For example, Illinois law does not allow you to appoint an independent executor in your will, which is allowed under Texas law, and can reduce probate expenses and restrictions. And, Texas community property laws might change the choice of beneficiaries selected by a married person.

Q: I obtained a default judgment against someone to collect a debt. They have kept their checking account inactive to prevent me from obtaining those funds to satisfy the judgment. Could I hold a lien against the proceeds of their bank account if they sell their home and move to another apartment?
A: The family homestead is exempt from all general claims of creditors. This exemption also extends to funds obtained from a sale of the homestead within a six-month period of time. If a debtor sells his home, deposits the proceeds into a bank or savings account, and then purchases a new homestead, the homestead exemption has been abandoned, and a creditor can move to establish a lien upon the funds to satisfy the debt.

Swine Flu Vaccine Coming Slowly

Vaccine for the national swine flu immunization program is arriving slowly and in small quantities, but ample amounts are expected by late November, according to the Texas Department of Health Resources.

Lon Gee, health program specialist for the Department of Health Resources Immunization Division, said, "as of the eighth of October, the Department has received a million and a quarter doses of vaccine for use across the state. One million doses may sound like a great deal, but there are more than 12 million people in Texas."

Ge said that the delay in the vaccine program stems from the national level. "Because the elderly and chronically ill are a high risk group and we need to reach them first, large public clinics for the children have been scheduled later."

Ge said, "For healthy children under age 18, recommendations have not been received as to what dosage the vaccine can be given. However, we expect to have some recommendation from federal sources later this month or in November. We will schedule the program for healthy children when we receive the final recommendation following the results of all the field trials that have been made with the vaccine. The decision will be reached by federal authorities at the national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., where the nationwide campaign is being coordinated."

Reports received by the state health department from local public health officials would have vaccine waiting for us to find someone to give it to."

Two major types of vaccine are involved: a bivalent, or combination vaccine, that protects against both the New Jersey (swine) flu and the Victoria strain of Asian flu; and a monovalent vaccine against the New Jersey flu only. The bivalent vaccine is intended for persons over 65 years old, or individuals of any age who are chronically ill. The monovalent vaccine will be administered to the general public.

Good Marriage Requires Work

COLLEGE STATION... and they lived happily ever after."

This is a dream-and goal of all married couples. But it doesn't happen automatically. Good marriages require work on both partner's parts to achieve happiness, Dorothy Taylor, a family life education specialist, says.

"It is true that in the past, and even today in many parts of the world, not much notice had been taken of the private dreams of the bride and bridegroom. Often the family has arranged the marriage for its own convenience."

"But even when young people were used as pawns in a game, or when marriage was judged only by the number of sons, men and women still dreamed their own dreams about happiness in marriage. These dreams have been passed down from generation to generation, in love songs and love stories," she said.

More Money Available To 65th Legislature

AUSTIN-Comptroller Bob Bullock announced Tuesday that the 65th Legislature will have available to it $6 billion more when it convenes in January than did the last legislature.

Bullock unveiled his revised estimate to Legislators and other state officials attending the LBJ School of Public Affairs in Austin, Legislative Conference at the Joe C. Thompson Conference Center.

For specific programs, he explained.

"Due to a boom in the Texas economy," said Bullock, "we have increased our estimate of the general revenue cash surplus to $6 billion. That's a lot more money than was in the till on Aug. 31, 1977, the last day of the current

About Management Plans

Forest Service 'Optimistic'

LUFKIN-While the threat of a permanent injunction looms over the National Forests in Texas that could delay critical management practices, the U.S. Forest Service remains optimistic and is proceeding with its orderly schedule for developing land management plans for the National Forests.

Concerns of the public are being solicited as part of a data collection process going on in preparation for the San Jacinto Planning Charrette where Forest Service managers will team up with public participants on January 28 in a weekend session to jointly develop a ten-year management plan for that portion of the Sam Houston National Forest.

Forest Service officials are asking the public to send written statements of concern directly to the Supervisor of the National Forest in Texas, P.O. Box 969, Lufkin, Texas 75901, by December 15.

A review in the proposed plan are future timber production, recreation uses, wildlife improvements, watershed protection, and forage production, as well as all other amenities of the forest environment.

The San Jacinto Charrette will be held at Waterwood National on the shore of Lake Livingston where food and lodging will be available for all interested persons who wish to participate.

It is at this public Charrette that all issues of concern will be discussed and analyzed along with the potential of the Forest resources to evolve the best management alternative possible.

The San Jacinto Unit

being planned for covers more than half of the Sam Houston National Forest, comprising 58,119 acres of federal forest lands located east of Interstate 45 in San Jacinto and Walker Counties, north of Houston.

All that portion of the Sam Houston National Forest located to the west of I-45 was previously planned for the help of 200 interested participants in a similar public planning session in September, 1974.

The results of this public session were published as the Conroe Unit Plan and Environmental Impact Statement in July 1975, but is now being held in abeyance under litigation of a suit filed by the Texas Committee on Natural Resources in the U.S. District Court in Tyler. While the merits of the case will be argued in the Federal Court in Tyler on December 6, the Forest Service maintains that involving the public in a planning charrette is the best way to insure that the forest resources will be planned and managed in the public interest.

On completion of the San Jacinto Unit of the Sam Houston National Forest, the schedule calls for similar planning on the Angelina National Forest next year and the Davy Crockett National Forest the following year.

A draft of the master plan for the Sabine National Forest will be released shortly as a result of the public session conducted on the shore of Toledo Bend in October of 1975.

ACCENT ON HEALTH*Health Department Gets New Office

In recent years, people who have had business with the Texas Department of Health Resources may have had a hard time finding the right office. Now, all that is about to change.

Besides the main headquarters building in north Austin, the state's public health agency has continued to occupy its original headquarters in downtown Austin plus rented offices in eight different locations.

This month, however, the last of three new facilities have been completed at the main headquarters complex, re-uniting all of the department's central personnel at one location.

The first of the new buildings is to be completed and occupied by a service and warehouse building. The facility includes the agency's extensive printing facilities, literature warehouse and distribution office, file library, and more than a dozen repair and maintenance shops.

A second new building, occupied about a month ago, was designed specifically for the agency's vital statistics section. Some 20 million birth, death, marriage, divorce, and other essential records are housed in the facility, which is designed with special environmental controls for the optimum preservation of these irreplaceable records.

The largest of the three new buildings has just been completed. It is an eight-story office tower containing some 108,000 square feet of space. Personnel began moving into the new building on November 15th.

The total cost of the three-building complex was set by the 64th Legislature at $75 million. According to Audrey Smelser, the director of the agency's Medical Facilities Planning Division who has coordinated the construction program, the equivalent office and service facilities would have cost the state about half a million dollars a year in rent alone.

"Of course, there are other costs involved in reuniting," Smelser said. "Especially in scattered locations like we've had. The cost of courier service, mail service, telephone mileage—costs of this nature are not reflected in the cost of rent."

While personnel are still moving into the new office building, plans are being made to remodel the interior of the other facilities in the main headquarters complex, Smelser said. "This will involve partition changes and interior painting, minor work of this nature. Nothing major is involved. We anticipate completing all of this work by next April."

Meanwhile, the original state health department building on East Fifth Street in Austin, has been turned over to the State Board of Control for re-assignment to some other state agency. The four-story, white stucco building, across the street from Austin's main fire station has become a familiar landmark, and Smelser says, "Still has many good years of use left in it."

The new facilities not only will eliminate costly rental charges and other expenses, but also will boost the agency's productivity, Smelser believes. He says, "One's environment and working conditions certainly have a profound effect on one's efficiency. Under the crowded conditions, the Department has worked with in the last several years, there are obviously a lot of problems, and it's just not very conducive to efficiency and productivity."

NORTH CHARLTON WOODVILLE, TEXAS

TSTA To Seek Teacher Raises

AUSTIN—The Texas State Teachers' Association will present a balanced, comprehensive school finance program to the 65th Legislature in January, including all three elements of the Milburn Foundation School Program, TSTA Exec. Secy. Caille W. Smith said Tuesday.

"From its inception, the Foundation School Program (FSP) formula has contained three basic elements—salary, maintenance and operation, and transportation," Smith pointed out.

"TSTA has never asked for an increase in one of these without increases in the other two, because it is a total program," he said.

The TSTA Legislative Committee met Sunday (November 21) to consider a school finance plan, among other things. The decision will be made within a week or 10 days, Smith reported. No specific salary request has been adopted.

There is little disagreement between TSTA and school finance proposals made by Governor Dolph Briscoe on November 1, "except for his omission of salaries as part of the State's continuing educational accountability and his recommendation for a ceiling on local ability to improve the state minimum program," the TSTA leader noted.

"We want to work WITH the Governor, members of the Legislature, and other state officials, for the betterment of the total public education program," Smith declared.

Governor Briscoe's proposals November 1 dealt with maintenance and operations as well as transportation but left out salaries. On November 19 the Governor said he would not recommend the state funds for teacher pay increases, but would leave that to local districts.

In his original proposal, however, Briscoe said he would not sign a school finance bill unless the local school tax limit was cut from $1.50 to $1 per $100 property value. In fact, the Governor stated that he would "enable the local district to either hold the line or reduce its property taxes."

Smith doubted that local districts could increase salaries or anything else within that financial straitjacket.

Three principles will be embodied in TSTA's salary request:

—Bring Texas teachers at least up to the national average.

—Recognize the ravages of inflation and cost-of-living increases.

—Expand the present 10-step salary schedule to 12 steps.

"It is people-trained, experienced, talented, and dedicated people who are the heart and soul of the school system," Smith declared.

Salary is the largest part of the FSP cost, Smith pointed out. "Because people make the system work. For the State to suddenly shirk its accountability in this vital area is unthinkable."

A special problem faces the career teacher with long service. Even after 30 or 35 years of teaching, a Texas teacher on the minimum schedule receives less than $14,000 a year, Smith said.

"If the 65th Legislature does not grant an increase, more than 25 percent of the teachers will be frozen at their present salary, the TSTA leader explained. By the second year of the next biennium that would increase to more than 50 percent."

The November 1 report from the Governor's Office of Education Resources stated that "a basic principle of education is a responsibility of the State as a whole rather than the individual districts."

The report acknowledged that "as educational costs have risen, State support has not kept pace."

Briscoe echoed that sentiment in his address that day to legislators and school administrators. "He also stated that the process we must reformulate that have gone on well in years past."

Smith noted: "Governor Briscoe's latest indication that the State should not share the cost of increasing teacher salaries to keep up with existing inflation, which is reflected in other areas of government spending, represents a step backward. It is a sad statement of the fact that the State is not meeting its responsibility."

COMMISSIONERS COURT REFUSES AUTO REQUEST

Sheriff Vehicle Is Needed for Ample Law Enforcement

EDITOR'S NOTE: We believe that petty politics should never enter into a decision when the issue is for the good of the people. We believe that Sheriff Lewis Craven is entitled to equipment that is necessary for the full protection of the citizens. Need has been established, we think, and therefore the people should rally his cause regardless of political leanings. We further hope that the Tyler County Commissioners Court will reassess their decision and provide the vehicle which has been requested.

A plea for a new sheriff's car was presented again at the Tyler County Commissioners Court Monday morning. Sheriff Lewis Craven renewed the request for a vehicle to replace a 1973 Pontiac which, he said, was almost beyond use. It now sits unused. He stated that a new deputy was being added to the force and the car would be needed more than ever.

The most vocal opponent to the move was Leon Fowler, Precinct 3 Commissioner. He said he did not think the sheriff's department had cooperated with the commissioners.

The sheriff furthered his case by saying that he didn't want to see the entire 1977 budget spent on maintenance of the old car. Also, he added, the 1974 Ford used by his department would need major repairs soon. He stated the other autos used by the patrol were in good shape.

Sheriff Craven told the commissioners that they may not like him personally but to consider the interests of the people. Commissioner Fowler admitted that he had "ill feelings" for the sheriff but that he would work for the best interests of the county.

County Judge Allen Sturrock asked Craven if he would need to replace any of the other vehicles in 1977. Sheriff Craven said that he did not believe so if the Ford could be maintained.

The sheriff told them that the 1973 Pontiac had 130,000 miles on it and had bad brakes and transmission as well as other defects.

The county judge remarked that there was only $2254 left in the revenue sharing fund for this year. Craven suggested that the auto could be purchased from the jail fund and paid back out of revenue sharing next year. The commissioners turned down that idea.

After a brief recess Commissioner Bo Jordan moved that the county ask for bids on a new car for the sheriff. However, no one seconded the motion and it died.

Later in the meeting the sheriff requested authorization for the departmental secretary, Sue Nerren, be made a deputy with powers to serve civil papers and other functions of a deputy. This motion passed by 3-1 with Fowler casting the dissenting vote. Craven asked the move so that his regular deputies would have more time to devote to the criminal elements.

Medicare Deductible Is $124, Starting Jan. 1

The Medicare hospital insurance deductible will be $124 starting January 1, 1977, according to social security officials here.

"A Medicare patient who goes into a hospital and starts a benefit period after December 31 will be responsible for the first $124 of covered hospital expenses," a spokesman said. The 1976 deductible was $104. Under the Medicare law, the amount of the deductible is tied to the average cost of one day's stay in a hospital.

"The increase to $124 for 1977 is a result of a review of hospital costs during 1975," the spokesman said. "However, the present $104 deductible remains in effect throughout any benefit period that started in 1976 even if the period of hospitalization goes into 1977." Under the law, the increase in the deductible means there also will be increases starting January 1 in three other amounts Medicare patients pay for covered care.

For a hospital stay of over 60 days, the patient will pay $31 a day (up from $26) for covered services furnished on the 61st through the 90th day. For a post-hospital stay of over 20 days in a skilled nursing facility, the patient will pay $15.50 a day (up from $13), for the 21st through the 100th day. For respite days used after 90 days of hospital care in a benefit period—Medicare pays for all covered expenses except for $62 a day (up from $52).

Medicare hospital insurance helps pay for hospital stays and certain post-hospital care of people 65 and over, disabled people under 65 who have been entitled to social security disability benefits for 24 consecutive months or more, and many people who have permanent kidney failure.

LATE SANTA SHOPPING SCHEDULED NEXT WEEK

EDITOR'S NOTE: We regret that the STAR was kept completely in the dark about the merchants plan for late Christmas shopping. It is also regrettable that we cannot receive fair and impartial treatment in a community we serve. We are reprinting the following article about the event from the TYLER COUNTY BOOSTER so that we may inform our readers and help publicize the merchants effort.

Woodville merchants are preparing for a holiday late shoppers night to be held Friday, Dec. 10, from 4 till 9 p.m. with Santa Claus, Christmas Carols, and a "Free" kiddie movie for the youngsters.

A cooperative effort sponsored by the Woodville merchants in order to provide "Mom and Dad" Christmas shoppers a "free" shopping ed. night has for the last few shopping nights been Christmas the excitement is building as further plans develop for the event. Merchants are also getting ready to have the Santa Nick who will tell the kids what they're dreaming of for Christmas.

Scheduled as special events for the night are a special kiddie movie to be shown at the Pines Theater in Woodville where a child may be admitted for just a "can of food" which will in turn be donated to the County Welfare Department for dispersal to the needy of the area. The movie theme will be a "Walt Disney" type and will be directed to elementary school age children. Parents are asked to deliver their kids to the theater by 6 p.m. on the night of the December 10, then take advantage of the shopping toys offered by the Woodville central business district merchants. The children will be supervised while the show is underway a spokesman said.

Merchants have indicated that holiday merchandise will be marked down to holiday low prices to further add to the appeal of the event.

Santa Claus will make a tour of the Woodville elementary schools on the afternoon of the 10th then make a final arrival at the Courthouse square stop a Woodville Volunteer Fire Department Firetruck after a belling musical ride through the streets of Woodville.

Children are asked to bring their Christmas lists to Santa's Hat, which will be located on the corner of Highway 190 and South Chatham on the Court house square. Pictures will be made of each child with Santa Claus with the proceeds from the cost of the photo going to the retail merchants committee.

The Santa's Hat will be donated for use by Santa by United Portable of Woodville and will be placed on the Square this Friday, December 3, as a reminder of the upcoming event.

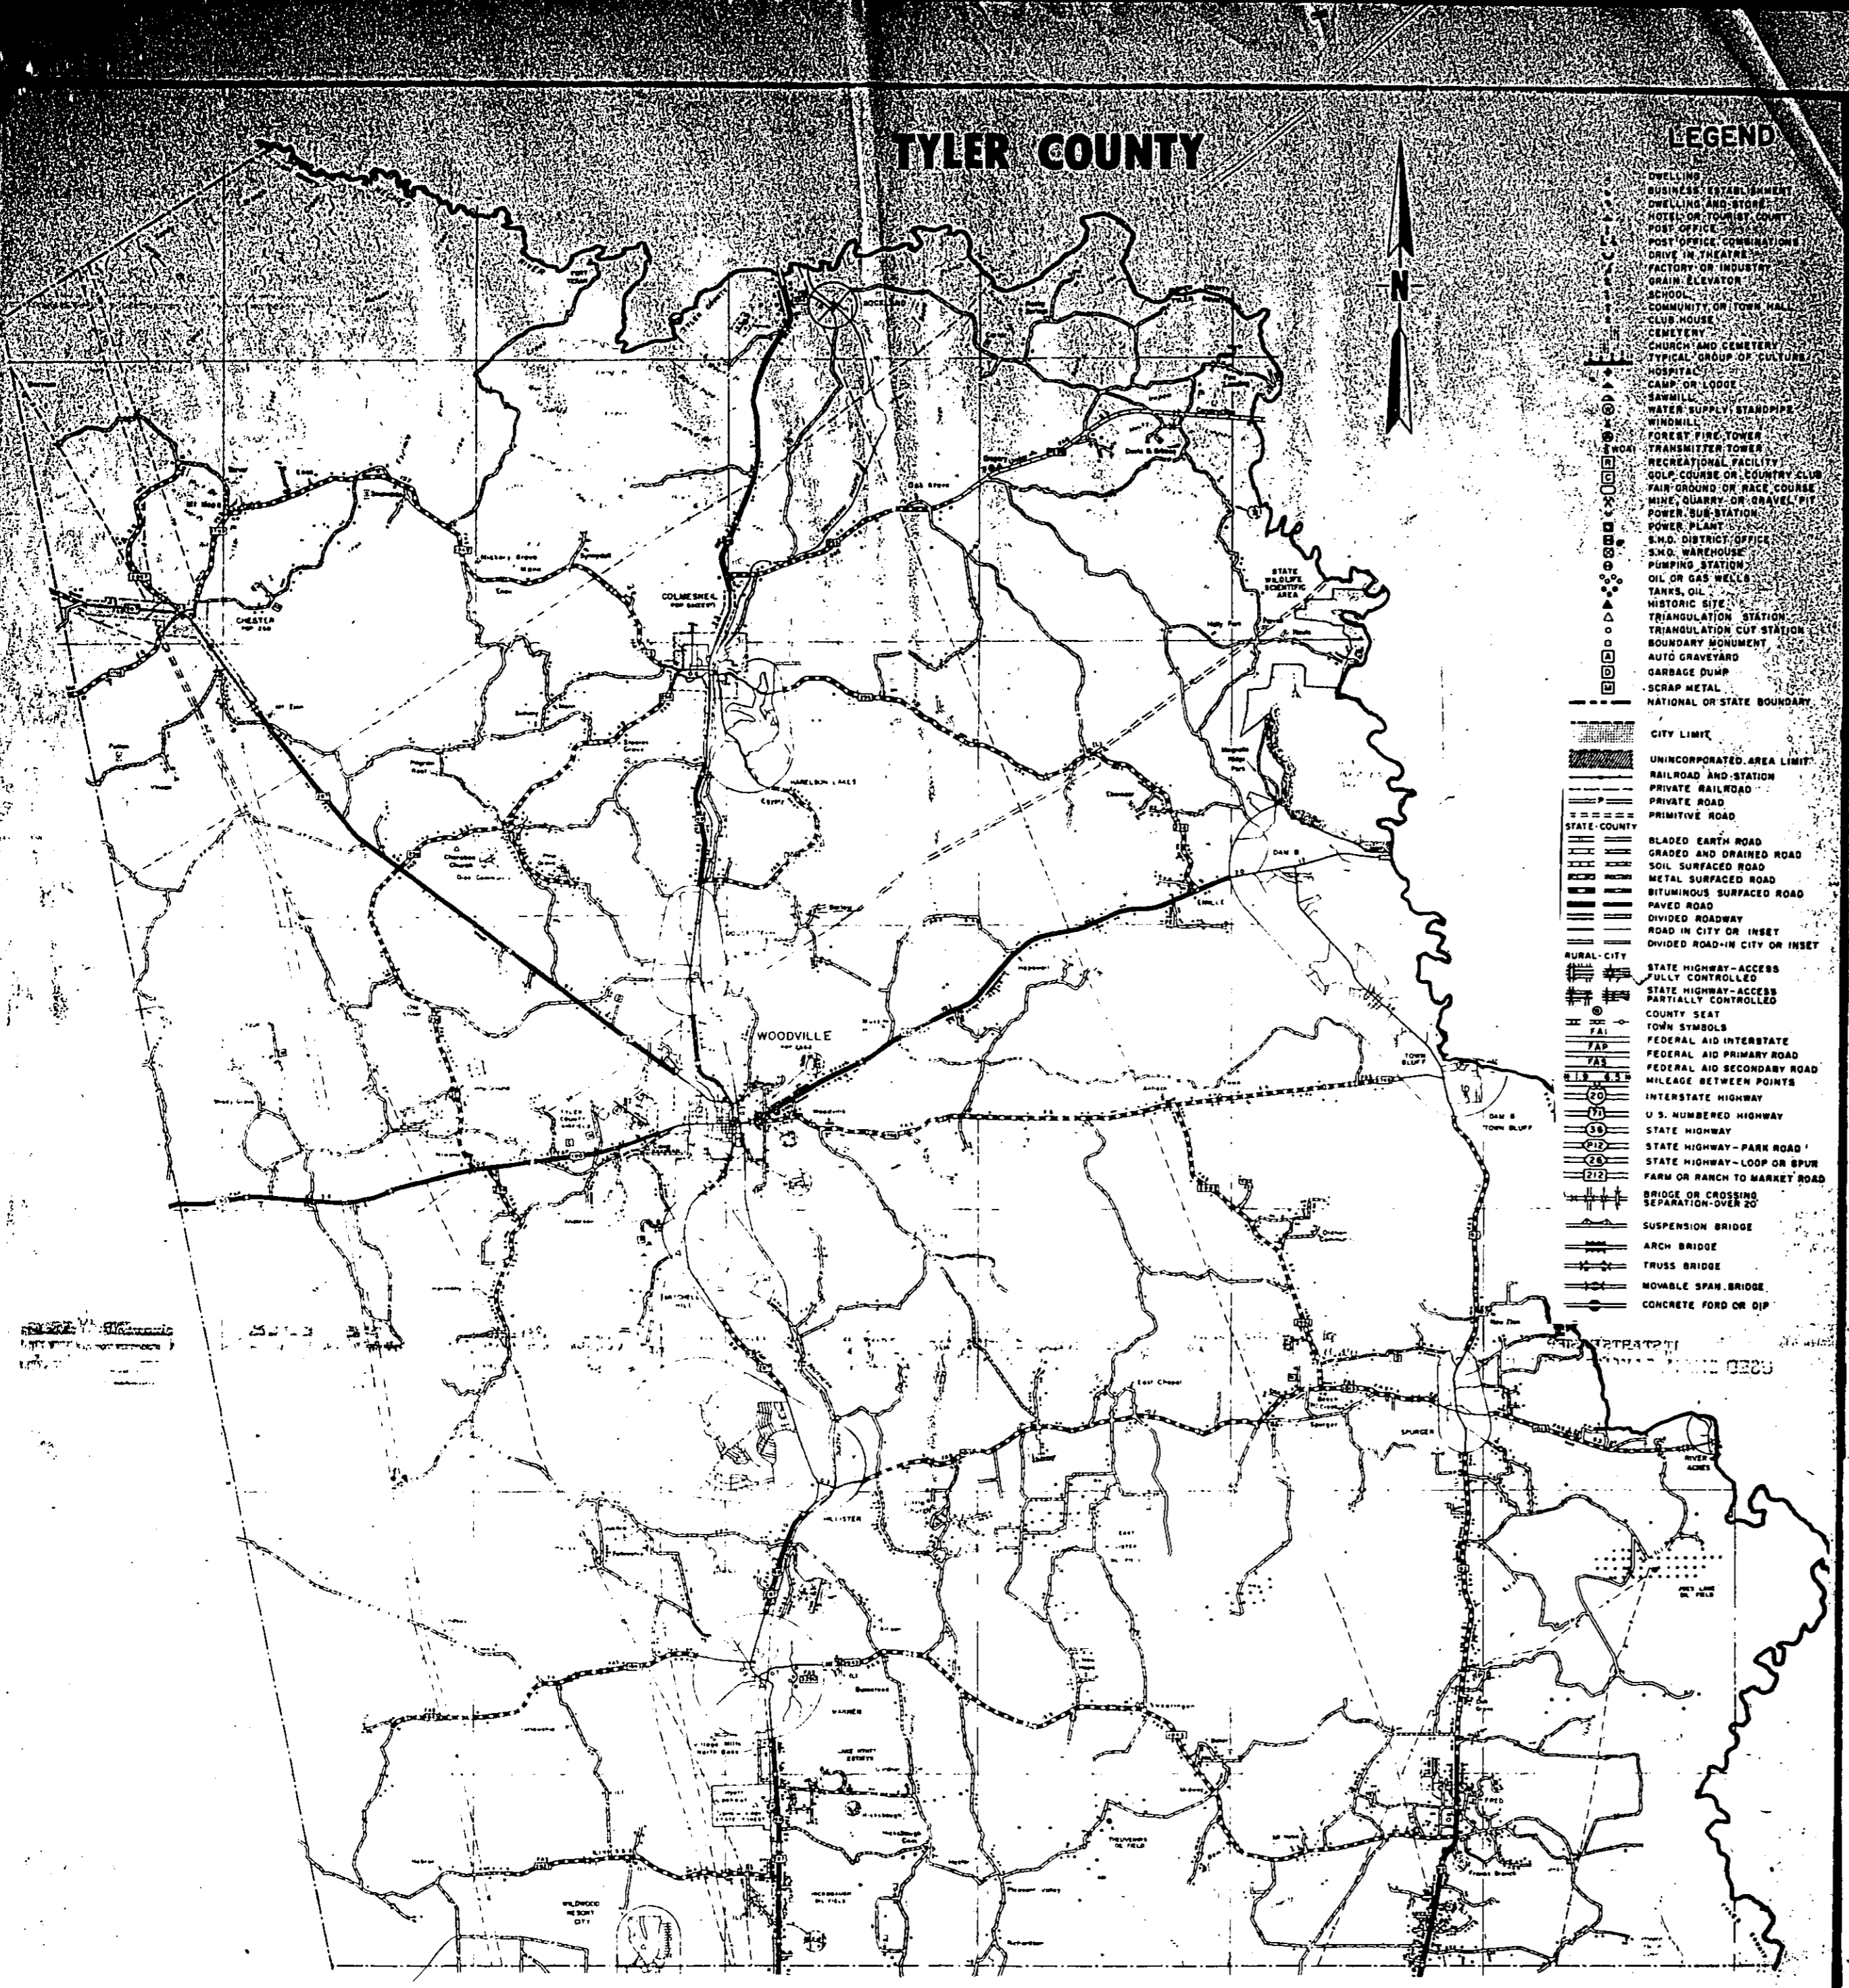

Special musical events are scheduled from 4 p.m. till 9 with Christmas Carols from many of Woodville's Churches being invited to perform on a flatbed truck to be parked on the west side of the Square. Bright lights will warm up the singers as they sing popular Holiday songs. Some groups will proceed from store to store staging inside the buildings.

Shoppers are reminded by the Woodville merchants to shop here first for their Christmas gifts instead of spending huge amounts on gas needed to get somewhere else, when most of the merchandise is right here in town.

An official schedule of events will be published in the TYLER COUNTY BOOSTER next week with more information about programming for the late night shopping spree and information about the "Free" Kids' Fashion Show for the little ones. Radio events on KVLL will also appear to alert smart Tyler County Shoppers of this money saving holiday fun event.

Mailing Deadlines

The Postal Service today advanced its suggested Christmas mailing deadlines for domestic parcels and letter mail to December 3 and 10, respectively, in anticipation of an exceptionally high mail volume.

Citing the impact of greatly increased mail volumes generated by the 15-state United Parcel Service strike in the East and South, and its residual effect on other parts of the country, the Postal Service said it is compelled to ask the public to mail even earlier than normal.

The Service said that because of the dedication of its employees, many of whom have been working long hours, it has had little trouble handling the increased mail volume since the parcel strike began in mid-September. It expressed confidence it will continue to be able to cope with the increase, with the cooperation of the public and major mailers.

Parcel volume has already more than doubled in the strike area and is up significantly nationwide, and letter mail is also on the rise, the Postal Service said. It said most of the increase, to date, has been from large volume business mailers, who presort their mail and deposit at scheduled, non-peak hours in plans prepared to handle it. For example, the Service said it is working closely with shippers of perishable goods to handle millions of gift packages normally moved by other shippers.

As Christmas nears, however, more and more of the general public, deposited at neighborhood post offices, branches and stations, on top of the already unprecedented business mail volume, the Postal Service said.

As a result, the Service said, while priority will be given to letter mail, many postal facilities normally dedicated to letter mail may have to be used to prevent an unmanageable backlog of parcels.

Therefore, the Postal Service said, it strongly urges the public to deposit their parcels by December 3 and their letters and greeting cards by December 10 to assure delivery by Christmas.

It asked that customers mail as early as possible, use proper packaging materials and techniques, and properly address and ZIP Code their mail.

The previous suggested mailing dates had been December 10 for domestic parcels and December 17 for letter mail.

Suggested mailing dates for international mail are unchanged. However, customers were strongly urged by the Postal Service to deposit overseas packages and greetings immediately, and to send them by airmail if they want to assure delivery by Christmas.

Forest taxes totaled

Current ad valorem taxes paid to various local government agencies in East Texas by nine forest industry members of the Texas Forestry Association totaled $12,281,000 in 1975, compared to $12,821,000 in 1974.

"East Texas tree farmers pay ad valorem taxes on each acre of timberland to several different taxing jurisdictions," said E.R. Wagner, executive vice president of Texas Forestry Association in Lufkin.

"School districts receive the largest share of the timberland owners' tax payments. State, county, road districts, water districts, hospital districts and other local taxing jurisdictions received their share of the timberland tax payments."

The ad valorem taxes paid by these nine TPA industrial members, who own approximately 30 percent of the commercial timberland of East Texas, was in addition to their payment of income taxes, state taxes and franchise taxes. Approximately 150,000 other East Texas timberland owners pay additional ad valorem taxes. Also, the 161,850 employees of timber-based activities in Texas contribute large sums in their own tax payments.

Wagner said ad valorem taxes on timberland, like other costs, must be paid out of the productivity of the property. "Taxes paid on young timber are an advance paid to the taxing authority before there is an income to meet it. These farmers pay ad valorem taxes every year for 40 years while waiting for their trees to mature as a source of raw materials and permanent payroll, but also other resources of the forest which cannot be tagged with a dollar sign."

"These include recreation, watershed protection, soil conservation, air purification, food and cover for wildlife and the prevention of stream siltation. Unwise tax policies might well be the ruin of tree farmers if these many assessments become too high. Any tax policy that discourages reforestation and good forest management is not in the best public interest," Wagner said.

BY Bryan Loving

For many years I have been concerned about our old people. It seems to me that for every old person that is sent to the old folks home, a piece of America goes with him. What most never realize is that they have been around a lot longer than the ones who are putting them out to pasture.

It is understandable if the person being put out to pasture wants to be. If so, he should be allowed to visit the home prior to his going and should choose the place and not have it chosen for him.

Many old people think they are a bother. Before they go they should be assured they are not going just to get out of someone's way.

Old people are smart in the ways of the world, probably smarter than you think. They been down the road of life and have many experiences to be learned. I know that there is something to be learned from every person you come in contact with. More so in the case of older folks that in younger people.

If they are put away from people, who will listen and learn from them? Please don't forget that they are people too. Treat them as you would treat yourself.

Restory office work begins
WOODVILLE — Construction preliminaries have begun for the new restory-office building for Our Lady of the Pines Catholic Church that will also include enlargement of the parish hall.

Completion of the project is scheduled for late April, 1977, when an open house and blessing of the new facilities will be planned.

Ceremonial ceremonies for the building were Sunday with the Rev. Benue Patisio, pastor, turning the first shovel of soil. Also taking part in the turning of the soil ceremony were William Edwards and Natalie Nichols, members of the parish building committee.

Architect for the new plant is Don R. Cole of Woodville. Construction bids will be taken soon.

Burning Guide Is Activated

Firefighters throughout Texas have a new tool to help them prevent and control grass and brush fires.

The National Weather Service is now issuing an outdoor burning guide as part of its daily agricultural weather forecast entitled Farm Weather Operational Information. These forecasts are sent over the Weather Wire to major news media throughout Texas.

Purpose of the outdoor burning guide, which was developed by the Texas Forest Service, is to inform the public and local fire departments of periods when wildfires might occur and when the possibility of natural cover (grass and brush) fires become critical.

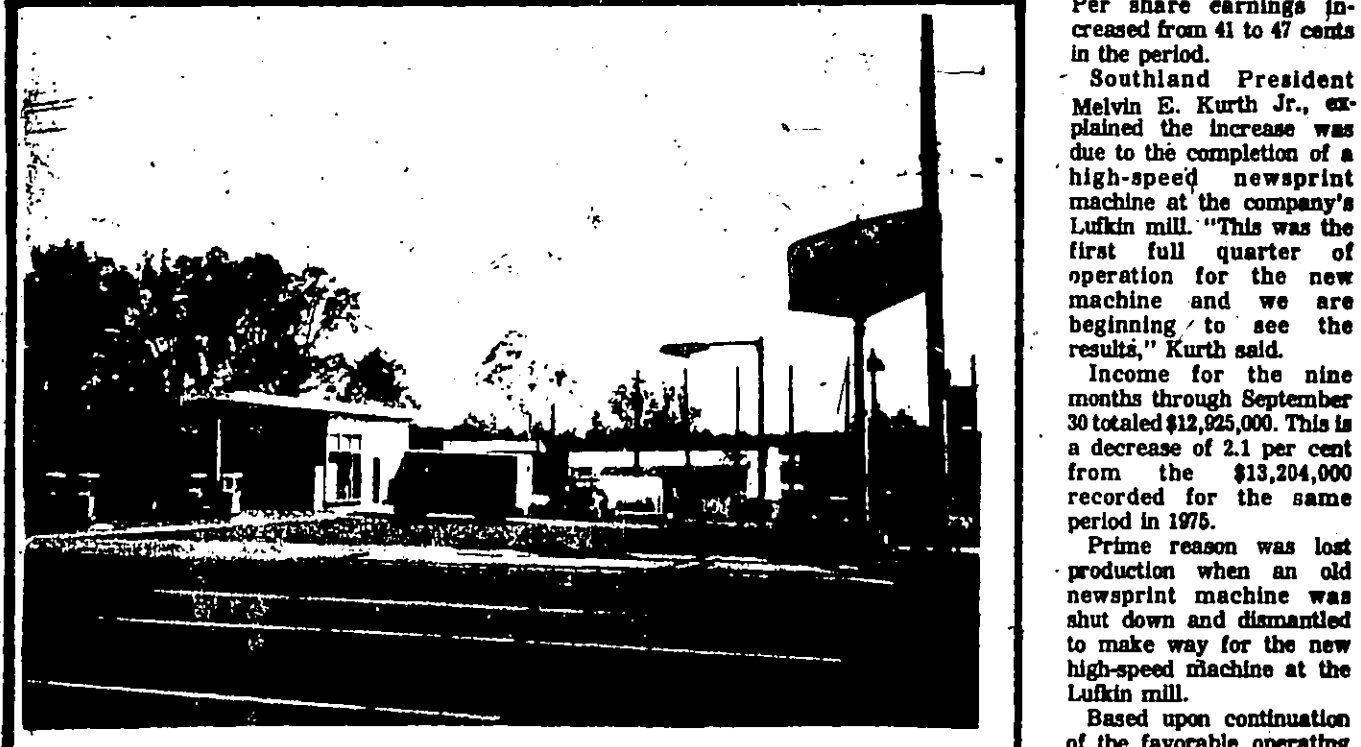

It will warn farmers and ranchers about hazardous periods when outdoor burning is not safe, officials said.

So far this year 8,861 range and forest fires have been recorded in Texas. An estimated 40,000 additional fires were not recorded, according to Pat Ebarb, head of the Forest Fire Control Department, Texas Forest Service, Lufkin.

Ebarb is a former Kirbyville resident. He headed the TFS facilities at E. O. Stecke State Forest there.

Ray Jensen, director of the Environmental Studies Service Center at College Station, said, "We are pleased to be able to provide this added service to the people of Texas. Much of our present forecasting data are easily adapted to this effort."

Since fire danger season in Texas is generally during the dormant growing season, this new advisory should be helpful in extending agricultural

Fall Season 'Great'

Few Texans will dispute that the fall season in our state is a great time to enjoy the outdoors.

This is true not just for fishing and hunting, but for camping too.

It is a lucky man who has a couple of days set aside for his family to take a mini-vacation camping trip.

If he can time his trip to avoid any of the wet cool fronts which blow in at this time of year, he can generally expect a great weather. The nights will be cool enough to make a campfire inviting and the warm, sunny days will be perfect for a variety of outdoor activities including hiking, fishing and even hunting in certain areas.

And, from the coastal beaches to the canyons of West Texas and from the rugged Hill Country to the colorful forests of Southeast Texas, the fall scenery is unbeatable.

A big plus for fall camping is the absence of the big crowds in our many state parks which are ideal for a tent camping vacation. Because the summer rush is over, the better campsites will be available and the fall crowds in our many state parks will be able to find a tent camping vacation. Because the summer rush is over, the better campsites will be available and the fall crowds in our many state parks will be able to find a tent camping vacation.

SOUTHLAND INCOME UP

HOUSTON—Southland Paper Mills, Inc., has reported a 15.1 per cent jump in net income for the three months ended Sept. 30 as compared with the comparable quarter in 1975.

It was the most profitable quarter in the company's history. Net income for the quarter reached $2,077,000 on revenues of $49,498,000 as compared with $4,419,000 on revenues of $43,306,000 in the third quarter of 1975.

Per share earnings increased from 41 to 47 cents in the period.

Southland President Melvin E. Kurth Jr., explained the increase was due to the completion of a high-speed newsprint machine at the company's Lufkin mill. "This was the first full quarter of operation for the new machine and we are beginning to see the results," Kurth said.

Income for the nine months through September 30 totaled $12,025,000. This is a decrease of 2.1 per cent from the $12,294,000 recorded for the same period in 1975.

Prime reason was lost production when an old newsprint machine was shut down and dismantled to make way for the new high-speed machine at the Lufkin mill.

Based upon continuation of the favorable operating and product demand trends evidenced during the third quarter, Kurth said he is guardedly optimistic about the results for the full year.

★ Renald Reagan suggested recently that it may be necessary to change the name of the Republican party if the party is to survive. "I want to enlist support among the growing numbers of independents and disappointed Democrats for a new Republican party," Reagan said. "If that requires changing the name of the Republican party, I'll even do that."

★ Unions poured a minimum of $8,265,886 into the 1976 congressional and senatorial campaigns, with the overwhelming majority of contributions going to Democrats. Analysis by Americans for Constitutional Action shows that labor spent $3 million on Senate candidates and $5.2 million on House candidates. On the Senate side, the biggest recipient was California's John Tunney ($205,780), who was unseated by Republican S.I. Hayakawa. Sen. Harrison Williams (D.-N.J.), chairman of the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee, was re-elected with the help of $179,864 in union gifts. An almost identical amount ($179,277) went to Daniel Patrick Moynihan, who defeated James Buckley in New York.

★ On the House side, labor lavished $61,477 on Massachusetts' Tip O'Neill. The veteran Bay State Democrat faced only token opposition but he is slated to be the new speaker. Labor also spent heavily in Texas to capture two GOP House seats. In Dallas, they gave liberal Democrat Jim Mattox $57,000, enabling him to pick up the seat vacated by Republican Alan Steelman. And in Houston, the unions spent $55,848 on liberal Bob Gammage, thus assuring his razor-thin victory over Republican incumbent Ron Paul.

★ Treasury Secretary William Simon wants the government to "level with the people" by painting an accurate view of its financial condition. Simon says the Treasury should scrap the traditional method of tracking outlays and revenues and instead keep its books like a business firm, using the accrual accounting system. Such a system would show the current budget deficit at $152.1 billion, Simon says, and would provide a much truer picture of the government's financial situation.

★ In June, the United States vetoed Angola's United Nations membership on the grounds that "massive numbers" of Cuban troops remained in the country. Last week, U.S. Ambassador William Scranton tossed in the towel and Angola was admitted to membership in the world body with the U.S. abstaining. Scranton admitted that there were "serious doubts about the true independence of the current Angolan government." He noted the continued presence "of a massive contingent of Cuban troops." But the United States had decided to acquiesce on the question of Angola's membership. Scranton explained, "out of respect for the sentiments expressed by our African friends."

★ Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D.-Mont.), who is stepping down after four terms, is under consideration as the new Administration's envoy to Peking. Nothing could gladden the Red Chinese more. Mansfield is an old China buff who has visited the mainland six times as a guest of the government. Only last week, he filed a report with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee urging that the U.S. sever diplomatic relations with Taiwan. Mansfield went on to say that U.S. treaty commitments to Taiwan should not be allowed to stand in the way of normalization of relations with Peking. "Treaties are not forever," he said.

★ The White House has quietly cashed a hard-line career ambassador and replaced him with a Wisconsin businessman who provided key support in President Ford's primary campaign against Ronald Reagan. The appointment of Jack B. Olsen as ambassador to the Bahamas—replacing the highly respected Seymour Weiss—was made quietly in mid-November. Why the lame-duck appointment? Evans and Novak quote one senator: "Because it will give the guy a few months of golf in the Caribbean at the right time of the year and the title of 'ambassador' for the rest of his life." Moreover, it repays the President's debt to Olsen, who provided all-out support during the Wisconsin primary.

★ News from behind the Bamboo Curtain: A man was executed recently in Changsha, the capital of Hunan Province, for "crimes of counterrevolution." His offense: defacing a wall poster proclaiming Hua Kuo-feng's appointment as Communist party chairman.

From the TAP Kitchen

OLE FOR ENCHILADAS—When you're looking for something easy but delicious to serve, try Stacked Enchiladas, suggests the Texas Department of Agriculture home economist. Instead of rolling the beef and cheese inside tortillas, place the filling between flat tortillas. Topped with avocado, Stacked Enchiladas are an attractive main dish.

STACKED ENCHILADAS

1/4 cup finely chopped onion
2 Tbsp. cooking oil
1 Tbsp. flour
1/2 cup milk
1 (4 oz.) can green chili peppers, drained and chopped (not jalapeno peppers)
1/2 tsp. salt
2 cups diced cooked beef or 1 lb. ground beef
2 medium tomatoes, peeled and chopped
8 corn tortillas
1/2 cup cooking oil
1 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese (4 oz.)

Cook onion in 2 Tbsp. cooking oil until tender but not brown. Blend in flour. Add milk, chili peppers and salt. Cook, stirring constantly until thick and bubbly. Stir in beef and tomatoes; heat through. Keep warm. In small skillet, heat tortillas in 1/4 cup oil until limp, about 15 seconds per side. Drain on paper towels. Place a hot tortilla in a 9x9x2-inch baking pan. Top with about 1/4 cup beef mixture and a small amount of cheese. Repeat with remaining tortillas, beef mixture and cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for about 20 minutes, or until enchiladas are hot. To serve, unstack or cut into wedges. Garnish with avocado, jalapeno peppers or onion, if desired. Yield: 4 servings.

Sack a Turkey For Holiday Dinner

AUSTIN—If you want to serve baked turkey for a special holiday meal, but are afraid the meat will turn out dry and unattractive, don't despair.

The Texas Department of Agriculture home economist suggests the following method of preparing turkey. With no basting and careful watching, the turkey will be tender and golden brown.

Turkey-in-the-Sack

1 tsp. pepper
2 tsp. salt
3 tsp. paprika
4 tsp. hot water
1 cup peanut oil
1 turkey, 14 to 16 lbs.

Combine pepper, salt, paprika and hot water. Let stand at least 10 minutes.

Add peanut oil and mix thoroughly. Wash and dry turkey. Rub peanut oil mixture into inside and outside of turkey. Truss as desired. Pour remaining oil and additional oil into large paper sack, (type used in grocery stores). Rub oil into inside of sack until every pore in every inch of the sack is sealed. Place turkey in sack, breast up. Fold over end of sack and tie securely. Place on cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for approximately 10 minutes per pound. Before removing from sack, place in a large pan to catch drippings. Let stand 20 minutes before opening sack. Since the sack is airtight, the turkey is cooked by steam; therefore, be careful when sack is opened.

★ The University of California Board of Regents has decided to appeal the California Supreme Court ruling that struck down the university's special admissions programs favoring racial minorities. Civil rights groups had urged the Board not to appeal, fearful that the U.S. Supreme Court may now declare that similar programs throughout the country constitute "reverse discrimination" and are thus unconstitutional.
