The Tyler County BOOSTER

Vol. 50 18 pages Thursday, Sept. 22, 1977
No. 38 3 parts Woodville, Texas 75979 15

Allison Resigns Post

County Attorney Jim Allison made public his plans to resign from the office of County Attorney, following an executive meeting during Friday's, September 16, special called Commissioners court session. The resignation will take effect October 1, 1977.

County Judge Allen Sturrock, in outlining Allison's reasons for his decision said, "I appreciate Mr. Allison's concern for the county," adding, "He's bogged down in his private work and feels he's unable to give justice to that and the county both." Sturrock went on to say that he felt Allison was a "good man for saying so."

Commissioners expressed their concern about Allison's leaving the office but accepted his resignation with out further discussion. During an emergency called meeting which followed, commissioners named former Tyler County Attorney Royce Brockman to fill the post until the next general election in 1978.

Brockman, who is "semi-retired," served as Tyler County's Attorney for several years and also as Woodville City Manager. In accepting the appointment Brockman told the court that he appreciated the vote and felt that it was a vote of confidence. He expressed his desire to "make all of you a good county attorney."

Brockman will take office October 1 at 12 a.m., swearing in ceremonies are scheduled for Friday afternoon, September 30.

In other morning business, Gary Hennigan, representing the Department of Public Safety, requested that commissioners approve the purchase of a new radar system, "Kustom's Moving Radar, KR-11," for department vehicles.

Hennigan indicated to the court that the present radar system was getting old and beginning to need many repairs and that the radar detectors such as "Super Snooper" and the "Fuzz-buster" that many privately owned vehicles have, offset the purpose of the speed control systems.

Hennigan also said that 85 percent of all traffic arrests were due to radar. He speculated that with the new system, DPS officers will be able to write more tickets because the KR-11 can not be detected by privately owned radar devices.

Labeled as a "highly sophisticated type of radar," Hennigan said he felt that it would pay for itself within a year.

Commissioners voted to advertise for bids for a new radar system meeting the required specifications that will be available through the county clerk's office.

Commissioners also voted to approve payment of the county bills as presented to the court by County Auditor, Ann Fondren, at a total of $21,409.24.

In other county action commissioners voted to:

- Advertise for bids for a copying machine for the courthouse. Gary Kelton, representing Xerox, presented to the court what he felt would best meet the counties needs.
- Go into negotiation concerning the selling of garbage equipment.
- Approved expense incurred for the assistant county auditor to attend Auditor's seminar in Brownsville, September 28, 29 and 30.
- Tabled, for further study of legalities concerning the use of Sheriff's Department car in Colmesneil, for newly appointed law enforcement officer for the city and.
- Advertise for bids for bulletin boards for the courthouse that are glassed and locked. Cost to the county will be under $300.

Serving Tyler County Better

KAISER JEEP AMBULANCE RECEIVED--A 1 1/4 Ton Army Jeep was received by Tyler County Civil Defense Director Austin Fuller, (Left), recently from the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency which operated through the Defense Property Disposal Office in Austin. Fuller said the vehicle's use has not yet been fully determined but it is being maintained by a member of the Woodville Volunteer Fire Department, Alva Cook, shown in the Drivers seat.

DETTA Meets Sept. 23

Members of the DEEP EAST TEXAS DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION will enjoy a new experience as we attend our September monthly meeting at Kirby's Bear Man's Bluff Lodge in Hardin County.

The lodge is located 4 1/2 miles north of Silsbee on Hwy. 92, then approximately 4 miles east off of 92. This meeting will be held on Friday, September 23, 1977.

Kirby and its related units, Walker-Kurth Lbr. Co. & Southwestern Improvement Co. comprise the forest product business group of Santa Fe Industries. Kirby & Southwestern Improvement Co. owns 630,000 acres of heavily timbered, high quality timberlands in Texas & Louisiana. Their unique & constantly renewing resource is one of the most productive forest lands in the Nation; here wood is grown, harvested, processed & rejuvenated in ever increasing quantities.

As wood converters, they utilize 100 percent of each log harvested to manufacture plywood, lumber, particle board & industrial wood components. The wood residue from these processes is used to generate steam required for plant operations in Silsbee & Bon Wier, Tx. The newly inaugurated wood fuel system at the Silsbee power plant provided significant cost savings during 1976. More than 77 complex were derived from the lower cost wood fuel, while 100 percent of Bon Wier's steam requirements were met through use of fiber residue.

During 1976, forestry programs were greatly accelerated to further assure perpetual and increasing yields of wood fiber for the demanding years ahead. Over 8.8 million seedlings were planted on 14,300 acres. Sophisticated genetic programs continued in the development of "Super Trees." A sustained yield sawtimber harvest of 133 million feet was made, meeting 94 percent of manufacturing requirements. They have the enviable position of being able to furnish nearly all of our wood fiber requirements from their own timberland.

The lands of forest product companies in the South suffered, once again, from devastating attacks by the Southern Pine Beetle during 1976. More than 10,000 acres of their lands were infested.

Kirby foresters, in cooperation with government and other private foresters, launched a precedent setting attack to both control the beetle infestation and salvage the dying trees before they decayed. Over 39 million ft. of such timber representing nearly 90 percent salvage recovery was utilized in Kirby plants during 1976 turning a potential multi-million dollar loss into saleable forest products.

The Federal Government has instituted a land acquisition program for the Big Thicket Preserve since President Carter approved funding for the Preserve. Even though no Kirby Lands have yet been purchased, we continue to honor a self-imposed moratorium from operations on the approximately 13,000 acres included in the boundaries defined by the Interior Department.

Bobby R. Doughtie, Vice President-Administration & Secretary of Kirby will be presenting the program. He will bring us an up-date on Kirby's developments and on their future growth in East Texas.

Doughtie received his BBA from Sam Houston

University in 1956. He attended the University of Southern California and also Stanford University.

He is associated with the Texas Forestry Association, the Forest Industries Committee and is also a member of the Tax Executive Institute. Reports from federal, state and county leaders will also be made during the business session. Progress reports from Committee Chairman will be included.

All members and prospective members are invited to attend. The Deep East Texas Development Association Office, which is located in San Augustine, is open three days a week, Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m.

COG To Meet

The Deep East Texas Council of Governments will hold a public meeting on Thursday, October 6, at 7 p.m. in the Community room, First National Bank of Jasper, 301 East Houston Street, Jasper, Texas, 75951. The meeting will be open to all the residents of Jasper, Newton and Tyler Counties.

County Closeup: Your Auditor

by Trish Browning

Auditor Ann Fondren

Speaking of the County Auditors duties and the variations of the job, Tyler County Auditor, Ann Fondren said "To me the challenge makes the job," adding, "There is something different everyday."

The county auditor is the overseer of the county funds on which they have to operate. She sets the budget, keeps the office straight on finances and advises the office when they are overspending.

"I feel that my main responsibility is to see that taxes are kept as low as possible, and that the county tax payers are not taxed unnecessarily. So we (county offices) must try "she emphasized" to get the most for every dollar and keep expenses down."

The county auditor sets up a system of bookkeeping in each county office that collects money, funds, fees or other property for the use of, or belonging to, the county.

It is the auditors responsibility to double check or audit what each bookkeeper in each office has reported. She keeps up with cash received and bills incurred in each office. Each month when the bills are turned into the auditor's office, it is her duty to see that it is a "legal" county bill. She checks the amount and what the payment is for, checks to be sure no sales tax have been added or that the bill was not submitted earlier and already paid.

Once the bill is labeled "legal county bill" she recommends to county commissioners that the bill be paid.

As county auditor she also handles government and state grants such as Housing and Urban Development, Aging and Child Welfare.

Any grant given to the county is handled from the auditors office.

Although the county auditor is not in the position to make county policy, many times it is her recommendations that help set the pace. The auditor is the "cornerstone" of the county since that office is directly involved with every other county office. She can recommend that a certain tax be raised or lowered depending on how funds are running for that year. She knows where every dollar is coming from and where it's going.

It is also the responsibility of the auditors office to inform the public about the county's financial position. Ms. Fondren has her own way of keeping the public informed.

"Once a year I take on a project which I feel we ought to be doing to keep the people informed on how county funds are spent."

The latest public information project takes the form of a budgetary monthly report, printed with all the county offices finances for the month.

"This way each office know exactly where they are overspending or underspending which ever the case may be."

It is her responsibility to not let any office "Go in the red."

Once the funds are spent, the particular office must go to the county commissioners and request additional funds on which to operate for the remainder of the year. If no additional funds are available the office must shut down, that means laying off personnel and in other words "a complete mess," she said.

To qualify for the office of County Auditor, the person must be a resident of the county for two years, have good moral character and intelligence, be competent in public business details and have at least two years experience in auditing and accounting.

Before being appointed county auditor by 88th District Judge Clyde Earl Smith, Ms. Fondren was assistant auditor for six years. "I didn't particularly like math in school, but this position is so interesting, it makes math fun."

Ms. Fondren is the first woman auditor for the county of Tyler. To keep up with the constant changing laws, she attends the various seminars given throughout the state. "They give you initiative and make you want to come back and do a 'jam-up' job for your county," she said, adding that "nothing is routine, once you think you know it all the laws change."

"I want the public to feel free to come into my office and ask questions about how their tax dollars are being spent," she said.

Persons interested in learning more about the operation of the TYLER COUNTY AUDITOR'S OFFICE are asked to write ASK YOUR COUNTY AUDITOR, Ann Fondren, c/o THE TYLER COUNTY BOOSTER, Box 15, Woodville, Texas 75979. Each issue will be distributed by THE COUNTY AUDITOR.

MHMR Volunteers Are People Helping People

The Deep East Texas Mental Health Mental Retardation "Volunteers" Services Program is a program of people helping people.

Mrs. Gwen Cunningham, Volunteer Services Coordinator, works with the MHMR staff and the communities in establishing volunteer services in each of the mental health, mental retardation and alcoholism programs operated by this agency in the 13 county Deep East Texas Region.

"The purpose of the Volunteer Services Program is to provide volunteer support throughout MHMR based on the needs of each program unit," said Mrs. Cunningham.

"It is the purpose of this program to augment the endeavors of the MHMR staff in providing services to clients. A volunteer, a person can be a tremendous asset to the staff by increasing the number of kind services provided to clients. Volunteers are not a substitute for paid staff. Rather, they add new dimensions to client services which could otherwise not be provided."

The programs consist of central administration offices, outpatient clinics for persons with mental or emotional problems, counseling centers for those with alcohol or drug abuse problems, developmental centers for retarded children and young adults not served by their local school systems, sheltered workshops for retarded adults and a halfway house for retarded adult males, and one for adult male alcoholics and the mentally ill.

According to Mrs. Cunningham, "Volunteers need not be specialized, just special. Being a volunteer means caring for the being involved with another human being. Often, a volunteer or a staff member is the only one for a person's life who cares enough to listen to the things that are important to a client."

Some of the areas in which volunteers may serve are the following: clerical, greet and visit with clients in the clinics, provide transportation or drive MHMR vans, work with children in a developmental center, work with adults in a sheltered workshop, teach arts and crafts, and furniture refinishing, provide refreshments for parties, become involved in the "Adopt a Friend" program, be a client advocate, accompany clients and staff on field trips, make home visits, assist with special mailings, be a story teller to retarded children or serve as a tutor to a child or an adult.

"The list is endless. If some of these opportunities are of interest or if one has a special skill or talent, we would like to talk to him or her about being a volunteer," said Mrs. Cunningham.

Volunteers receive proper training for the job and adequate supervision. They respect confidentiality regarding MHMR clients and abide by MHMR rules and policies.

"Volunteers donate time varying from daily to on a weekly or monthly basis. The frequency depends upon needs, the type of volunteer service and time one has and is willing to give."

Member of the Regional Volunteer Services Advisory Committee are Jack Calhoun, chairperson, Polk County; Mrs. Pat Baskin, Angelina County; Mrs. Winnie Jones, Hardie County; Mrs. Florence Anderson, Nacogdoches County; Raymon Lacy, Newton County; Mrs. Pimble Atkinson, Shelby County; and Mrs. Mary Demery, Trinity County.

Volunteer programs have been established in the county seats of Angelina, Houston, Jasper, Nacogdoches, Newton, San Jacinto, Shelby, Trinity and Tyler Counties.

MHMR also has volunteer programs in Silsbee in Harris County and in Kirbyville in Jasper County.

The services are listed in telephone books under Deep East Texas Regional Office. Further information can be obtained by writing the MHMR Central Office, P.O. Box 1213, Dallas, Texas 75201.

Account On Health

In the current school year, more than one million children will undergo hearing screening. The Department of Health is making sure that the equipment used is accurate.

Early in August, the Department took charge of new mobile laboratory to be used in "rolling" audiometers, the sensitive device used to test hearing. The new van has a sound proof room at each end where technician and his assistant can test the audiometers. The reports are made out in the van.

The special van will be used on locations throughout the state, such as local health departments and schools. The van is equipped with air conditioning and heating, a dehumidifier, a built in burglar alarm system, and carries its own diesel generator in case a power outage occurs. The van is available. The van will be sent to a central location in a city, and then the audiometers from the school, doctors offices and hearing clinics can be brought to it for testing.

The need for such service was brought out in a survey made by the Department. The results of a survey made of 1471 school-owned audiometers checked for sound pressure, frequency, level, frequency distortion, mechanical hazards, and shock problems. All audiometers must meet standards set by the American National Standards Institute.

All Health Department audiometers, those used in training and those loaned to schools for screening, are checked regularly. Audiometers owned by the schools are checked once a year by the Department.

The Department instituted hearing and vision screening programs for children more than 20 years ago. Operating through the Mental and Child Health Division the hearing and vision conservation programs are part of a continuing effort aimed at ensuring accurate and complete screening of the state's pre-school and school-age youngsters.

Workshops conducted over the state train public health nurses, school nurses, and volunteers in the techniques of screening children for hearing and vision problems. Schools actually do the testing with equipment they own. A limited supply of audiometers is available on loan from the Department to a temporary basis to school systems and local health departments needing equipment to start new programs on a pilot basis.

The schools report their screening results on a voluntary basis for compilation, and the record has been very encouraging.

Reports for the 1975-76 school year show that hearing screenings numbered 1,129, 350 children, and vision screenings numbered 1,460, 408. For hearing, 2.3 percent were referred as a result of hearing screening, and 6.9 percent who received vision screening were referred to medical specialists. Actual treatment for hearing referrals numbered 1,134 for hearing and 48,420 for vision.

Dr. P. Cliff Price, chief of the Bureau of Personal Health Services, said more than two million children will undergo hearing or vision screening in the public schools this current school year.

Children with hearing and vision losses are frequently regarded as slow to learn, inattentive, and often quite vague. These children may be characterized as over-aggressive or under-assertive in school and are frequently identified as problem children.

Sensory of physical impairments in school and the full development of school-age children.

State officials emphasize that the screening programs being carried out across the state will not detect all medical problems. They urge parents to identify all children with marginal impairments, and to have them tested by a specialist. It is important to follow up on these tests to make sure that the child's hearing and vision are properly treated.
