Just about the time you believe you have the folks in Washington figured out up pops another press release.

The latest is from the energy boys, and they are trying to figure out what good use all those gas rationing stamps can be put to.

You remember that little twelve million dollar item Washington got into, when the OPEC people quadrupled the price of oil?

We hit the old panic button, and printed up several billion gas stamps, fearing the worst.

Now, with hardly anyone driving fifty-five or under, and the House and Senate hopelessly snarled on any kind of energy legislation, we are apparently going to print another hundred million stamps. Two million went, and so we can put together a gas rationing program.

Just in case we need it in the future.

Of course, the Department of Energy has a ten billion dollar budget, and 19,000 employees. Maybe they just need the extra work.

Or maybe it's the White House's way of getting our mind off the Panama Canal.

Speaking of which, you have anything in particular that's stirred up the emotions the way that little controversy has?

You think the Japanese had just clobbered Pearl Harbor?

All the Senators are in the spotlight, and this looks like a non-win situation, no matter which way they jump. The filibusters will go on and on, with a vote taken in a month or two.

Remember Congressman Charles Wilson's view, it is much too about nothing.

He says the Canal cannot be defended, that our largest aircraft carriers can't get through the locks. None of the superlanders can negotiate it, and we ought to give it back to Panama and forget it.

Of course, there are more than a few in Capitol Hill who share Mr. Wilson's view. But he's in kind of an enviable spot. He doesn't have to vote on the treaties; it will all come out in the wash one way or the other.

As for gas rationing, in case you've got your mind made up on what we should do with the Canal, there is a whole warehouse full of coupons in a mine shaft in Colorado.

Wonder if Secretary Schlesinger will let us drive seventy miles an hour again, since we are supposedly going to have less gasoline to burn?

Wilson Proposes

New Federal Court

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Congressman Charles Wilson (D-Tex.) has announced that he is introducing legislation for the purpose of creating a new federal court—the Lubkin Division in the Eastern Division of Texas.

"The Second Congressional District of Texas is the only one in Texas which doesn't have a Federal Court," said Wilson. "And there is no doubt in my mind that the Lubkin Division in the Eastern Division of Texas is increasing rapidly."

Wilson said that he recently adopted a unanimous resolution calling for the creation of a Lubkin Division which also has the endorsement of the Texas Chamber and Area Citizens.

"The distance between the courthouse in Beaumont and the courthouse in Tyler is more than twice the distance between any other Division and its seat of government," said Wilson. Wilson's bill has been referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Notes From An Oldtimer

By PHEBE ARMSTRONG

In dictating his "memories" to me, my father's first sentence was: "The history of any town is the story of the people who lived there."

Woodville has always had its share of "characters".

As the old ones leave or fade away, new ones come on the scene.

As it was with Mr. P. J. Hunter.

Mr. Eastman was Superintendent of Schools before

Mr. Hunter came. Mrs. Eastman, a quiet, pale-faced woman, taught private kindergarten on the stage of the old frame building's auditorium. Mary Barclay (late Dismuke) gave piano lessons in a little anteroom of the auditorium. Miss Muris Triplett taught first and second grade. Mrs. Triplett's husband, John Reid, had third and fourth. Other teachers might come and go but these were regulars; they would be there when a youngster started to school. He knew what to expect.

Then Mr. Hunter came to replace Mr. Eastman. Not being privy to the personnel discussions of the School Board, most didn't know a thing about him. He had a way of talking that sounded like Latin. When they heard it, the two men spouting Latin at each other, they knew something big was about to happen. The children were duly impressed and were sure Mr. Eastman and Mr. Hunter were "conversing" in Latin. They might well have been since both were fine Latin scholars; but again, they might simply have been quoting. One thing is certain, though, and that is that Mr. Reid knew the difference. From that moment, however, they knew the new superintendent wasn't going to be any pushover. And they were right!

The word "educated" has been used so loosely here of late that one should be invented to describe the kind of teacher Mr. Hunter was. He was brilliant almost to the point of genius himself and everybody else else probably didn't realize it, involving the quality of education and the Woodville schools.

The students behind his back, of course affectionately dubbed him Peter Isaac. His real name was a little less prophetic, Percy Isaac, I believe. He could frighten kids out of their skins when he wagged his ears at them; he could be as gentle as a mother hen when he was explaining something difficult to a child who was really trying to learn.

Mr. Hunter had taken his Master's degree from the University of North Carolina at a time when that meant more than a PhD would from most universities today. He said he had been offered the chair of English at one of the State Normal Colleges, but he wasn't about to drop high school English into college students' heads. He preferred to continue with the contacts in the field of education and the Woodville schools.

The students called him Isaac, though, because there exists a large geographic area with a heavy concentration of population around Lubkin, which is the county seat of Lubkin and the judicial divisions to which it is assigned.

"The distance between the courthouse in Tyler and the courthouse in Beaumont is more than twice the distance between any other Division and its seat of government," said Wilson. Wilson's bill has been referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

enjoy the highest scholastic rating of any B Class high school in Texas.

Next, he wanted to consolidate all the rural schools in his district with the Woodville school. That was done in 1926.

He was a strict teacher and he demanded perfection of others. If he didn't like the way a textbook was written, he dictated his own version. Notebooks were filled with his lessons that always made more sense.

If there was a particularly hard passage in Latin, he quietly handed some student his own scrawled translation to be studied and shared with the rest of the class. It might have been easier to translate the Latin than to go into Latin translating.

There were there dropouts, but they probably had more real education than most of the high school graduates and some college graduates have today. Those who stuck it out to the end had a diploma to be proud of. They would learn there wasn't much they would study in college that they hadn't already heard about from Mr. P. J. Hunter.

Forest Ideas Sought

LUFKIN—Public input is being solicited in the management of the Angelina National Forest for the U.S. Forest Service's 100th anniversary period.

The Angelina National Forest is comprised of 155,617 acres of federal forest lands spanning portions of Angelina, San Jacinto, San Augustine, and San Augustine counties in East Texas.

Local citizens are being asked to submit ideas on the multiple uses of the forest—timber, range, watersheds, wildlife and outdoor recreation potential. Wilderness inventories will be conducted by the National Forest Management Act of 1976.

Public concern will be demonstrated as new management alternatives by interdisciplinary teams of U.S. Forest Service specialists.

Rule of Life (1)

By what rule of life do you live? Consider these guiding principles:

MIGHT MAKES RIGHT. It is the yardstick of gangsters and world conquerors. Alexander the Great is honored as a role model for those who believe that might makes right in life and ambition. Also, organic evolutionists are forced to accept this rule. The idea of the survival of the fittest is just another way of saying "might makes right."

DO NOT WANT THEM TO DO TO YOU. The rule has much to commend it. A person living by it would not steal, lie, murder, etc. because he would not want these done to himself. However, this principle is negative and consequently does not suggest a positive way of life.

DO NOT HURT THEM IF THEY CAN DO TO YOU. Sometimes in trying to get ahead in life people use this principle, even though they know it will hurt someone. They might not commit murder but would not shrink from doing other things like robbing a bank or breaking a window.

EVE FOR EYE. In the Old Testament men were allowed to inflict the eye for an eye, tooth for tooth of punishment. Many times been seen on this rule except we've forgotten that there are proper 400 lashes for tongue, vengeance.

GOLDEN RULE. "Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets." (Matthew 7:12) This is the concept in the rule of law. "Thou shall love thy neighbor as thyself." (James 2:8) While the rule of law is mentioned in a discussion of principle (James 2:1-10) it does not seem to bear on one's treatment of humanity. However, the golden rule affects all of us.

There are at least three ways in which the golden rule is superior to all others 1) it contains both positive (what you do to others) and negative (what you would not do to others) features where as the other rules do not. 2) the rule is more universal than the one included in this rule. 3) it uplifts individuals, thus, society.

May we choose to live by the golden rule. It presents the highest level of conduct known to man. It will be discussed more fully next week.

A Home Insulation Checklist

By RONALD WATTS
Energy Management Specialist

How do you know if your home needs insulation? Some experts say that eight out of ten homes in the United States are not adequately insulated. Insulation is important to your body's comfort. Check a few things for yourself:

Check the area for thickness of existing insulation. If it is less than 6 inches, you may need additional insulation.

Ventilation to permit air circulation.

Weatherstripping doors and windows.

Do your curtains move during a wind storm? This would indicate that there is no insulation around the windows that should be sealed.

Ramblin'
'Round
Rockland

By ALOHA FREELAND
Hello again, from Rockland, where it seems we are having more fun at the party to someone at the loss of a loved one.

This time it's to Al DeRamus, who has passed away. His son, Vernon DeRamus of Houston, died Feb. 6. We find that Mrs. DeRamus has been there since her son's death three months ago, which she has lost in less than four months. Her son, Vernon DeRamus, was the latter part of October, and a grandson died in December. Our prayers certainly are with you.

We are sorry to report the misfortune of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Graham in the loss of their home and all their possessions after midnight on February 5. Our prayers certainly are with you.

Visitors to the home of Mrs. Ginn Davis came for the celebration of her birthday, went Tom and Ginny Davis, her son and grand daughter from Houston, and Dean and Beulah J.P. Dean of Colmenland and Ralph Dean of Rockland.

We are sorry to know that Bert Bowles suffered a bad fall and broke his spine in a car accident while cutting firewood. We trust his leg will soon be O.K.

Wesley and Mrs. Brooks were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Freeman and family of Lufkin and Mrs. Joe Connor and sons Chad and Wesley Bowles.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dean and sons of Houston were Saturday visitors with his father Ralph Dean.

The Rev. and Mrs. D.J. Givens of Groves were visitors last week with Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Givens Jr.

The Baptist Church sponsored its annual Sun-dance last Sunday with several special guests including Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henderson and their brother, Jack, who came to give them a special service.

An interesting Bible Study on Sunday evening was held by Mrs. Edna Freeland in the light of Coleman lanterns and candle lamps since the electricity was off. It reflected that the power outage has been tremendous for donations for new cushions at the Baptist Church. We are truly grateful.

Happpily, on the 18th, Cotton Williams, on the 19th, Mr. W. Leo Wallace on the 20th, Mrs. Leon Williams on the 21st, and Michael Sowell on the 23rd.

Guess this is about it for this week. See you next time.
