'UPGRADE' Group

Forming

Upgrading the quality of life in Tyler County was the central theme of a March 22 meeting of a group of citizens calling themselves "Upgrade" (Upgrade Progress, Growth, Recreation and Develop Eastexas). This group of business, service, Chamber of Commerce, retired leaders and others, apparently met with a common goal to increase and improve the quality of life in Tyler County.

The group, which is seeking to be an unstructured organization not bound with preconceived ideas, met to initiate discussions and create a forum for ideas to accomplish this quality of life goal.

After a general agreement on the purpose of the meeting and future meetings, it was agreed that an open invitation would be extended to any and all citizens concerned about improving the quality of life in this area.

The next meeting of "Upgrade" will be held April 12, 1979 at 6:30 p.m. at the Dogwood Country Club, west of Woodville. Concerned citizens are invited to come and contribute their ideas to "Upgrade" the quality of life in our area.

A review of resources and assets in this area was made by Don Cole, he said, "So that an awareness of the potential and a fuller utilization of these resources and assets toward improved living and working conditions can be achieved."

Among the many resources cited were a favorable climate, abundant water and rainfall, rich soil, forests, rivers and lakes and clean air. Some of the assets included a tranquil atmosphere, ample open space, proximity to the Gulf and several major cities, an airport, railroad and highway systems, low taxes, schools, churches and Tyler County people.

A list of challenges to achieve in meeting the "Upgrade" goal was outlined by Chamber of Commerce President, Bub Byram and included expansion of retail trade and services, job opportunities, cultural and recreational activities, and increasing the awareness of potential growth and opportunities in this area. Also investment and reinvestment of capital for business and community improvements along with better utilization of newcomer and retirement talent was stressed by the Chamber President.

Jim Clark stated that the full economic potential of Tyler County is diminished each time products or services are purchased outside this County. He emphasized that business expansion, remodeling, new product lines and local customer support.

Here the girls are shown at Heritage Village dressed up in western wear to remind everyone to have a good time as Dogwood Week opens with trailrides, a parade and a full-fledged rodeo. KHS Band Earns Winning Note

The 1979 Kirby High School Band, under the direction of Barry W. Johnson, concluded UIL competition at 9 a.m. April 21, at Harding Jefferson High School on a winning note. Woodville was one of only two bands in Class AA to be awarded the Sweepstakes Trophy.

This honor was won by a unanimous decision for a first-place rating from each of three concert judges and a sightreading judge. The band had previously received First Division ratings from the three marching contest judges at Matching Contest, held in November of last year. It takes a first division in all three categories to win Sweepstakes.

The band performed three difficult selections, according to band director Barry Johnson: "Old Comrades March by Teike, First Suite in Eb for Military Band, by Holst, and Variations on a Korean Folk Song, by Chance."

Typical of the comments made by the judges about the band was one by Don Lawler (Director of bands Pine Tree): "Very good work on some challenging technical things. Your performance today shows some 'mighty' good work has taken place. Hope you are enjoying the good teaching and learning experience you are having. Flags Over Texas contest in May. The final event of the season will be the Annual Spring concert to be given in May.

School Accepts $1000

The Spurger School Board has accepted a gift of $1,000 from Mrs. Ethel Read of Hillister, Texas, for a senior Scholarship Fund.

The Scholarship Fund will be called the Harry M. Brown Fund in memory of Mrs. Read's brother, Harry M. Brown, of Spurger. The $1,000.00 has been placed in the Jasper Federal Savings & Loan, Woodville branch, and the interest each year is awarded to a Spurger High School graduate. The recipient of the award is a student that furthers his or her education in some field of agriculture.

The Spurger Board of Trustees accepted this award at their regular monthly meeting March 8, 1979. They express their appreciation to Mrs. Read for her gift to the students of Spurger High School.

Curriculum Post Is Meeting Topic Thursday 7 P.M.

Following a meeting of several concerned citizens recently regarding educational improvements in the Woodville Independent School District educational process and at the suggestion of School Board Trustee, Fred Sullivan, there will be a special informational meeting at 7 p.m. at the High School Library featuring Dr. Bennett Mullen from Stephen F. Austin University to discuss the hiring of a curriculum coordinator for the district.

Dr. Mullen, who is the Director for Human Development and a Professor of Secondary Education will speak specifically on the division of curriculum and implementations for staffing and instrumentation for programs relating to curriculum coordination.

The District is currently in search of a curriculum coordinator. According to the W.I.S.D. Superintendent's office, all faculty, principals, teachers and the general public are invited to attend.

New School Said Done By 'Christmas'

The Board of Trustees of the Woodville Independent School District met in regular session Tuesday, March 20, with seven items up for consideration.

Jack Stansbury, school architect, gave his monthly progress report on the construction work on the new high school. According to Stansbury, work on the first two buildings is progressing well. The lights have been hung, the carpeting is at the job site, the walks and the drives have been poured, and an erosion problem with the tennis courts is being worked out, he said.

Stansbury said that the work on the gym was "not progressing very well." The delay, he said, "has been caused by contract disputes with the building contractor." Stansbury indicated that possible litigation might be needed in that matter.

Also presented by Stansbury were several alternative ideas for the sign that will be located at the entrance to the school. Two main designs were presented, a wooden sign made of treated posts and wooden letters that would cost an estimated $1,200, and a fiberglass sign that is one piece and impact resistant at a cost of $3,000. The board favored the fiberglass sign and requested that the architect get color samples for further consideration.

When asked about a probable completion date for the school, Stansbury replied that he "couldn't see any way it could be finished by September." Christmas of this year would be a more likely completion date, he added.

The second item on the agenda was a request by Michael Thomason to address the board. Thomason failed to appear at the meeting.

Minutes of the previous meeting were accepted with one addition made by Fred Sullivan. He stated that the addition was an item inadvertently left off of the previous meeting's minutes.

The school financial statement was read and approved with no comment from any of the board members.

Tax assessor-collector Irmanon, in her February report, stated that receipts for the month of February were $45,087.53, with a total income for the month of $47,126.40. The total income for the year is $990,249.00, she added. The total current collections was $91,502.00, Mich. Hickman said, "is above normal."

In further business, the board discussed the market value of land, seeking to reach a decision about whether or not to double current land values or to accept the values recommended by the School Tax Assessment Practices Board (STAPB). The school board "it was stressed by

Superintendent Linam, "does not assess taxes itself. All it can do," he said, "is make recommendations to the tax collector." Linam then stated that "most schools aren't going to use STAPB values."

His recommendation was that the present value placed on land for assessment purposes not be more than doubled. The board indicated that it agreed with him in this opinion.

The board also agreed that the present $3,000 exemption be recinded unless the $10,000 exemption currently in the House of Representatives is not adopted.

The regular session was completed with Linam's recommendation to the board of textbooks to be adopted under the Multiple List Textbook authorization.

The school board then went into executive session to act on contracts for teachers for 1979.

T-Wheeler

By Alan Miller

Remember when you went to baseball games years ago, there was often a young man who walked through the stands hawking scorecards? "Get your scorecard here. You can't know the players without a scorecard." Some one like him around today, who could explain the energy situation, with the same simple clarity that the scorecard identified who was playing left field?

What are we to believe? In 1973, the Arabs shut off the spigot, and a lot of us found gasoline stations closed, or at best, long lines of motorists waiting to top off their tanks.

The government, supposedly, declared a commitment, not unlike total war, to resolve the situation.

Today, we seem to believe that there is still no shortage. Yet, prices at the pump are inching up week by week, and the conflicting comments out of Washington leave us still wondering.

Is gasoline going to be a dollar a gallon? Will there be enough un-leaded gasoline to go around? Should domestic petroleum prices be de-controlled? Should we close the stations on Sundays?

The last point makes no sense. Most of us would be smart enough, in any case, to ignore the news on Saturday.

One gasoline consortium wanted to build a pipeline from Long Beach, California to Midland, Texas, and make oil from the Alaskan Slope available nationwide. They spent millions of dollars getting seventy permits to build the line, and were told by their attorneys that those permits could be "choked" in court for years by anyone who either didn't want the pipeline built, or the possibility

Senator Lloyd Bentson Watching Washington

We have known for some time that the government's decision in late 1977 to block the sale of Mexican gas to U.S. companies was a mistake.

In Mexico City—during the recent summit meeting between President Carter and President Lopez Portillo—we began to learn how serious a mistake it was.

President Carter was received very coolly, much more coolly than he would have been without this incident.

But the man most people blamed for blocking the gas sale, the man who bore the brunt of criticism from Mexican officials and newspapers alike, wasn't even in Mexico City for the summit.

Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger played the decisive role in stopping the 1977 gas sale. Then, in the weeks immediately before the two Presidents met, he made certain he would be a prime topic of conversation by downplaying our country's need for Mexican gas and oil. He maintained, in speeches and in congressional testimony, that the U.S. should be more concerned with developing domestic gas supplies than with buying foreign gas. He claimed that since this country now has a temporary gas surplus we don't need to negotiate with Mexico for theirs.

As Chairman of the Joint Economic Committee I questioned Mr. Schlesinger on the subject when he appeared before our annual hearings earlier this year.

We aren't facing an "either/or" situation. We can't say that we are going to either develop domestic natural gas or buy foreign gas. The fact is that we need both domestic and foreign gas supplies to meet our nation's energy needs over the years ahead.

As to my assertion that we don't need to negotiate now, since we currently have a natural gas surplus; I believe that a time of surplus is the only time to negotiate. We certainly can't afford to wait until we have our backs to the wall, until we are the verge of running out of gas and have no room to bargain.

As Senate Chairman of the U.S.-Mexico Interparliamentary Union, I was one of two Members of Congress invited to accompany the President on Air Force One as he flew to his meeting with President Lopez Portillo.

While the two Presidents were meeting I conferred with groups of Mexican officials who are counterparts in this country's Senate; representatives of the state-owned oil and gas company, and spokesmen for Mexico's foreign office.

In addition to a general feeling of ill-will, I discovered that the 1977 decision to block the gas sale will cost us in a very tangible way.

In conjunction with that sale, Mexico was planning to build a pipeline that would enter the U.S. at McAllen.

When the sale was stopped by the U.S. government the Mexicans stopped their pipeline 71 miles short of the U.S. border and diverted much of the gas planned for sale to the United States for use in their domestic petrochemical industry and for generating domestic electricity.

Originally, they planned to sell to the United States, a billion cubic feet of natural gas a day once the pipeline was completed and eventually increase that amount to two-billion cubic feet a day.

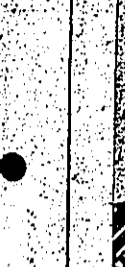

Now, though, the officials I visited who are talking about selling this country a maximum of only 500 million cubic feet a day.

Blocking that sale in 1977, then, could reduce the amount of Mexican gas available in our country by 1.9 billion cubic feet a day!

I came away from Mexico City with the strong feeling that both sides are now interested in consummating a natural gas agreement. There is a growing realization that such an agreement would be in the best interests of both nations.

I am confident that a contract for the purchase by U.S. companies of Mexican natural gas will be signed and approved in less than six months.

Clearly we cannot repair all the damage that has occurred as a result of what happened in 1977. It's too late for that. But it sense a growing determination to make certain that it doesn't happen again.

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

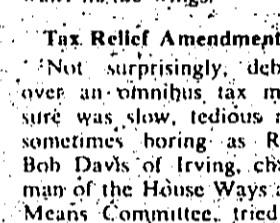

AUSTIN—A bill pertaining to foreign investment in Texas and particularly the purchase of farm land has been referred to the House Committee on Agriculture. Over six million acres of farm land in the U.S. is foreign owned. A majority of that land is located in the South and Southwest.

An major concern is that the land should be a friendly neighbor. Much of the trade amount of foreign investment in this country's agriculture is owned indirectly. According to a report by the Texas House Agriculture Committee, over 21 percent of the farm land in the United States has been owned by non-residents.

Devaluation of the dollar has caused a great increase in the purchase of American farm land by non-residents.

According to many farmers, as a state and as a nation we are a number of problems with non-resident farm affected or not.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

AUSTIN—If you aren't convinced that teachers are being paid in Texas to perform the delicate and crucial task of training young minds, then you should have been in the Senate chamber at midweek.

Unfortunately, you might not have been able to find a seat as more than 3,000 teachers stuffed themselves into the Senate gallery for the beginning of school finance hearings.

Teachers came from every nook and cranny of the state. Some sat several hours in the cramped gallery and then drove most of the night to make it back to their classrooms by the next morning.

If anything else, the teachers proved they are angry, determined and tired of dragging out better wages and one teacher from West Texas.

"We're furious," declared another teacher from Dallas. "Even Republicans are upset."

Gov. Bill Clements, the first Republican governor in more than a 100 years, proposed no new rates for public school teachers. Most teachers derided the Legislative Budget Board's 5.1 percent hike in salaries as "minimal."

"I think Clements is just getting even with teacher

Unlil that issue can be resolved, a school finance bill waits in the wings.

"Tax Relief Amendment," a surprisingly, debate over a stimulus tax measure was slow, tedious and sometimes boring as Rep. Bob Davis of Irving, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, tried to explain the committee's bill that would reimburse local school districts $421.7 million over the next two years to replace revenue lost by tax exemptions.

Maybe, first a school district would reimburse local school districts $421.7 million over the next two years to replace revenue lost by tax exemptions.

Estimates vary, but a realistic amount of how much your school taxes might go down is just over $40 a year.

Maybe, first a school district would reimburse local school districts $421.7 million over the next two years to replace revenue lost by tax exemptions.

More debate is undoubtedly ahead on the tax relief amendment bill. And then more arguments in the Senate.

House members have introduced 100 amendments to the Ways and Means bill. And then more arguments in the Senate.

More than sixty days of the 140-day session, have passed. And even though with any child's notions that their struggle for fair and decent wages would be an easy one.

And it will probably be a long wait before the teachers know what good or bad awaits them because only this week did deliberations on the voter-mandated tax relief amendment begin on the House floor.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White - Attorney General

AUSTIN—On top of the difficulties in the future, our consumer complaints received by attorneys in following guidelines for Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division, as usual, likelihood of trouble:

If the need for major repairs arises, get at least three estimates in writing under which an auto repairman will pay $10,000 in parts and repair costs, including the labor charge per car, and the estimated number of hours it will take for the job.

Make sure the estimates cover the maximum cost you could be charged for entire job.

Get the completion time and date in the estimate.

Be sure the estimate states whether rebuilt, reconditioned, or secondhand parts will be used.

Also be sure the estimate notes that you are to be called before any work not covered in the estimate is done, or if there may be an increase in cost and you are to be called after you and the repairman have signed it.

If you receive unsatisfactory repairs, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division in Austin, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, El Paso, Lubbock, and McAllen, or call your district or county attorney.

CLOWN LOACHES—A peaceful scavengers seldom attaining more than 2" in length. Pete's are up to 6"

ARMOURED CATFISH—These little fish are usually found at the bottom of the aquarium.

Woodville Man Resides With Over 600 Fish

BY JIM POWERS

A Plecostomus in every living room! That is the wish of Dr. Olen "Pete" Pederson, a professor of Audiology at Lamar University. At his home two miles south of Woodville, Pete has a hobby that is shared by many other people today, he keeps fish. That, however, is where the comparison ends. The typical idea that many people have of an aquarium is a ten gallon arrangement with some gravel, a filter, and perhaps a dozen small fish. Not Pederson though. Filling his livingroom, then spilling into his den are eight aquariums ranging from the largest, at 135 gallons, through a 125, two 55's, two 29's and two 10 gallon tanks. All of these aquariums are filled with unusual and interesting fish.

According to Pete, his interest in the hobby of fish keeping began in 1956 with a small 15 gallon tank and the usual assortment of small, colorful fish that seems to be most popular.

"My interest quickly grew," said Pederson, "so I bought a 50 gallon aquarium and filled it with Oscars. Oscars are of the Child family and do not get along together when they mature. My idea was to get a mated pair and raise them. After a long process of getting some twenty fish culled out to the two best ones, I came some one day and found that the male had killed the female. In disgust, I sold all of my aquariums the next day.

"The seed of interest had been planted, though," he said, adding that "two or three years passed with only occasional visits to fish stores to look over the stock."

"Finally, in about 1960, the bug bit again and I went out and bought a couple of 29's," Pederson said. "From there, it just got out of hand," he added. "From this small beginning Pete has created a hobby that has spanned twenty three years of experimentation and "success". He now has, by his estimate, about six to seven hundred fish, comprising 60 different species. When asked how much he had invested in his hobby, Pederson replied, "as of the beginning of this year, I had about $5,000 tied up in fish and aquariums."

"The single most important piece of advice that I can give a newcomer to the hobby," reflected Pederson, "would be to tell them that keeping fish properly is not an inexpensive hobby. There is much more than a tank, some water, and the fish. The support equipment alone," he added, "will cost more than the aquarium and fish combined. Not only do you need gravel, but also a filter, an air pump, a heater, food and medication for the fish."

"When asked to name three things that would insure success with the hobby, Pederson gave the following suggestions:

"First," he said, "go with the biggest possible aquarium you can afford from the beginning. They are more stable to temperature change and more disease resistant."

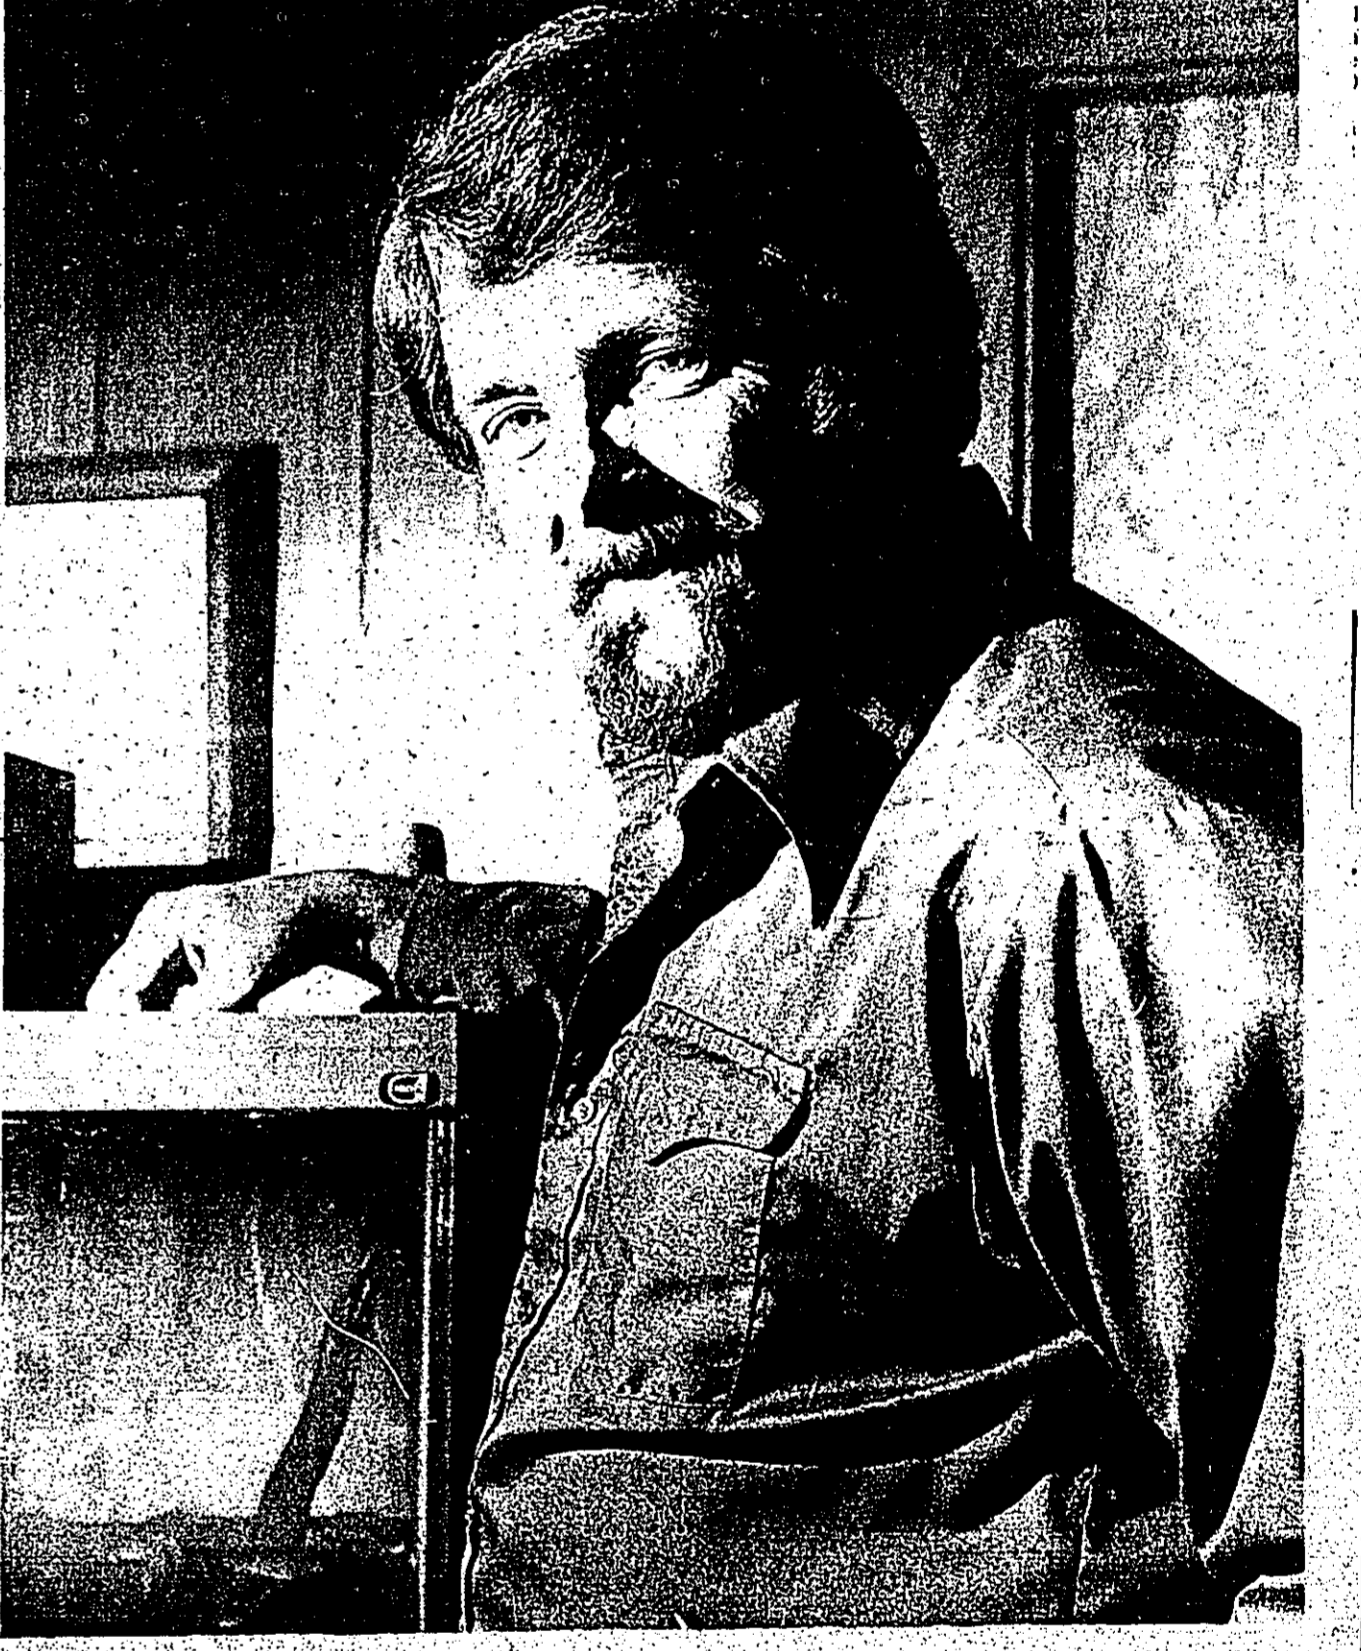

"Secondly," he added, "I would buy only the most excellent fish. This is to avoid the small, colorful fish that most beginning fish hobbyist start with and lose so quickly. A better choice would be scavengers, cels, or gouramis."

"Finally," Pederson said, "buy only the larger, older fish." "They are harder and will survive much better."

Pete Pederson's hobby of fish keeping has become a form of self-expression for him. The large and active fish he keeps are a reflection of the energy and enthusiasm that he exudes on first meeting him. He is always willing to help the beginner with any problems he may have.

"I'm kind of hard to find home," he said, "because of my work. But if anyone can catch me at home, I'll be glad to let them see the fish."

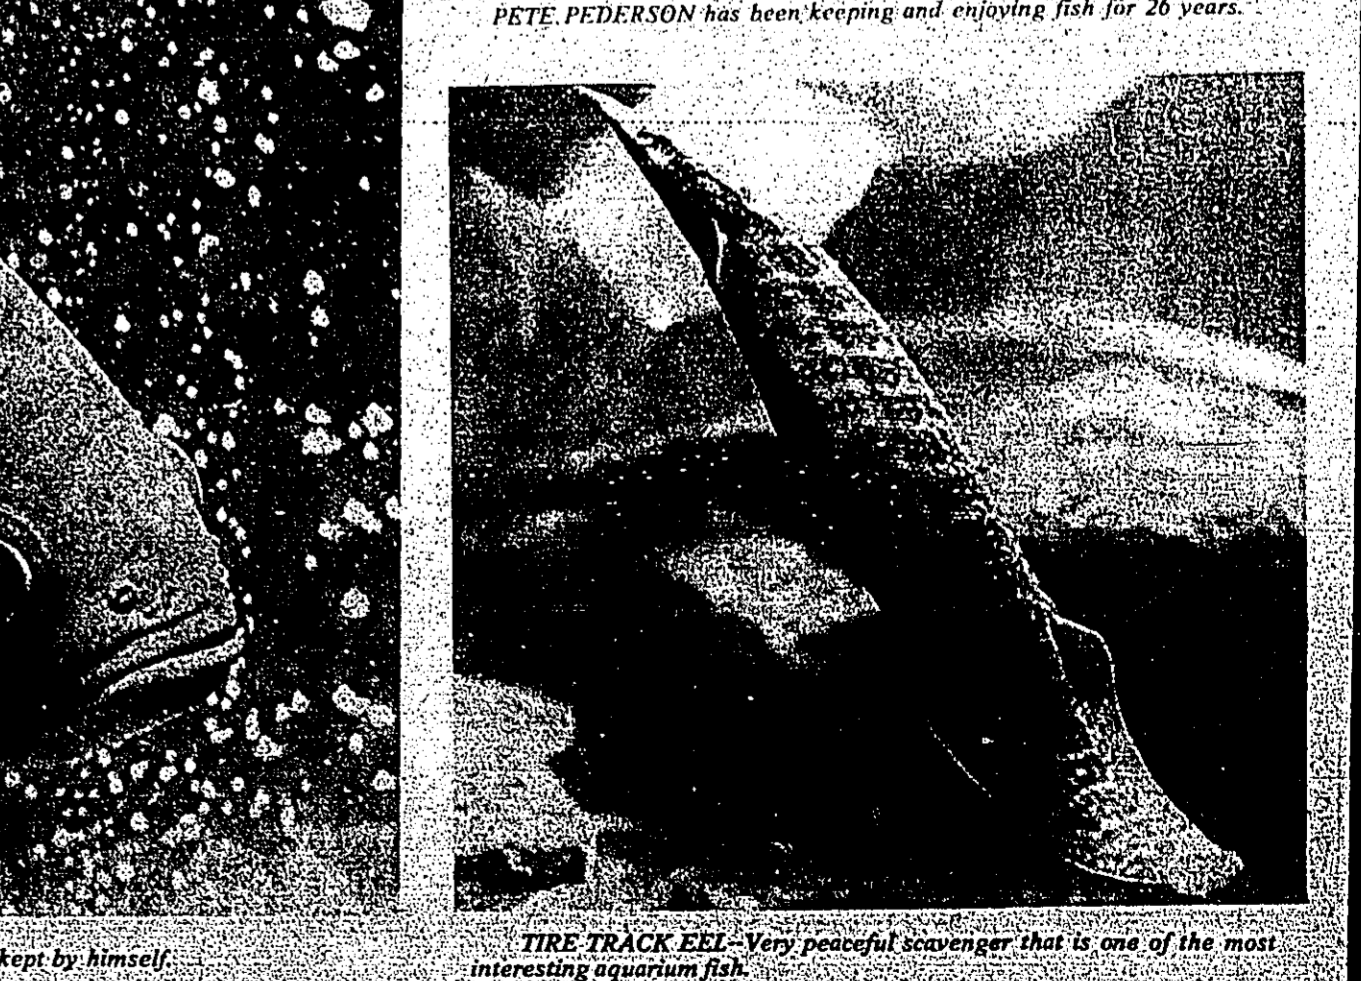

Even if one has no interest in fish, the sight of 600 of them in one man's livingroom is worth seeing.

PETE PEDERSON has been keeping and enjoying fish for 26 years.

OSCAR—A large Child that attains a maximum length of 12". Very quarrelsome and must be kept by himself.

TIRE TRACK EEL—Very peaceful scavenger that is one of the most interesting aquarium fish.

'Cash Gap' Doesn't Mean Out Of Money

AUSTIN- State Comptroller Bob Bullock Tuesday said a "cash gap" would put the state's general revenue fund in the red sometime this week in spite of the fact the state has a huge cash surplus on hand... The state isn't broke, going broke or breaking the budget, Texas has sufficient funds to meet its financial obligations as far from being "bankrupt," Bullock said.

Plan Kitchen Carefully

COLLEGE STATION
 Look at kitchen location when building a home, planning a new or remodeled kitchen, or evaluating the kitchen in an existing home or apartment. Par Seaman suggests:

1. Max. Seaman, a housing and home furnishings specialist, is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

 Consider kitchen location when studying home sites and plans for energy efficiency, she advises.

"Today's energy-efficient homes may result in windowless north walls, which may not be a desirable kitchen location unless a pleasant view and natural lighting come through east or south windows."

PLANNING
 Keep family living patterns and dining area location in mind, the specialist says.

Make sure the kitchen is accessible from both the service and guest entrances, but preferably out of view of the main living area.

Look for a direct route for bringing in groceries and avoiding having to carry groceries more than 30 feet. No more than two doors are recommended in a kitchen with one wide enough for moving in appliances.

Fruit Crop Looks Good

COLLEGE STATION, Texas — Prospects for a good Texas fruit crop appear excellent for the 1979 season, says a horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Weather conditions for deciduous fruit trees have been good, points out Dr. Thomas S. Handwerker. The long, cool winter has allowed trees to accumulate enough chilling units to break rest, and warm spring temperatures have stimulated growth.

Bloom in fruit trees usually develops about three weeks earlier in the southern part of Texas and progresses north. Warm temperatures in the state have compressed this normal pattern of bloom development and will result in a more uniform bloom period.

Handwerker gives the following regional report on the Texas fruit crop based on information from county and area Extension staff.

Southern Texas: Peach trees are past full bloom. Charles Gaskin, Frio County agent, reports that commercial peach growers will begin to apply the "petal fall" spray this week. Peach trees are past full bloom and are beginning to leaf out. But in pecan trees are just beginning to grow.

Central Texas: Most peach trees are in the pink bud stage although Herman Collier, Llimestone County agent, notes some early varieties are in bloom. Commercial peach growers are finishing the "pink bud" spray, but heavy rains are interfering with vehicle traffic in some orchards. Jack Smith, Gillespie County farm demonstration assistant, reports his early peaches are past full bloom while summer varieties are in full bloom.

He expects petal fall around the first of next week. Apricot trees are in full bloom over the area while plum trees are in petal-fall. Peach trees are just beginning to bloom, but pecan trees are still dormant.

Trans-Pecos: Vernon Sikes, area horticulturist at Fort Stockton, reports peach trees in full bloom. Apricot and plum trees are in petal-fall. Peach trees are in the white bud stage and apple trees are still dormant. Late spring frosts still pose a serious problem while trees are so vulnerable.

East Texas: Peach trees have just begun to break rest. Jimmie McDaniel, Smith County agent, says early varieties are in petal bud and full bloom is expected this week. Peach and apple trees are just beginning to bud out. (Hill-damaged) some bars and buds during the winter. Gene Lee, Camp County agent, reports early peach varieties in full bloom. Commercial growers are applying the "pink bud" spray for insect and disease control. Plum trees are in petal fall while apple trees are just beginning to grow. Farther north, Gordon Hall, Denton County horticulturist, notes apricot trees in pink bud. Peach trees are just beginning to break in the area. Commercial peach growers are finishing dormant oil spraying to control scale. Peach, apple and pecan trees are still dormant.

Far West Texas: Early peach varieties have just begun to bloom, according to Kyle Smith, Gaines County agent. Apricot trees are in full bloom, but all other fruit trees appear to be dormant.

Fruit trees in commercial orchards and home plantings are prime for a "bumper crop" this year, says Handwerker. "Now is the time to protect developing young fruit from insect and disease damage by timely spray applications." Secure a spray guide from your local county Extension office.

Tax Book Offered

Publications on just about any Federal income tax subject are available to taxpayers free of charge, according to the Internal Revenue Service. The IRS stresses that the answers to most questions asked by taxpayers can be found either in the instructions that come with the tax forms or in one of the many publications which zero in on specific subject areas. Medical deductions, moving expenses, benefits for older Americans, and child care are among the topics.

Ninety publications are available and may be obtained from IRS by using the order blank in the tax package, or by contacting local IRS offices.

Sales Tax Falls Behind

AUSTIN—State Comptroller Bob Bullock Thursday said rebates on Texas cities of the local one percent sales tax for the first three months of 1979 have fallen slightly behind the first quarter of 1978.

The dip in city allocations as well as a similar drop in the collection of the state's four percent sales tax is not likely to affect overall state revenue this fiscal year, he said.

However, "I'll be watching tax trends and receipts closer than a hawk watches a sparrow, and plan to give the Legislature an updated revenue estimate for the next two fiscal years in the next 15 to 20 days," Bullock said.

Bullock said more than 95 Texas cities will share $56.5 million in sales tax rebates during March.

He said 1979 rebate payments to cities from the first of the year total $100.3 million, compared to 1978 payments of $101.4 million over the same period.

Bullock said late returns that have not hit the Comptroller's accounting system and not sluggish retail sales during the reporting period seem to be the chief culprit for the downturn in rebates.

Bullock said the Comptroller's office had about 2,400 returns on hand that weren't processed for the March allocation.

Houston will receive $11.2 million in rebates, bringing the city's 1979 payments to date to $28.3 million, about the same as last year's payments to date.

Dallas will get a check for $6.6 million, pushing the city's 1979 payments to $11.3 million, a two percent drop in rebates over the same three-month period last year.

Hunting, Fishing Future Revisited By TP&W Officials

AUSTIN—Both the promise and pitfalls in Texas hunting and fishing future were explored this week when Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials spoke to the Texas Outdoor Writers Association at their annual meeting in Austin.

Increased demand for hunting lands, habitat destruction and escalating lease prices were some of the problems discussed by Wildlife Division Director Ted Clark.

Clark said much of the state's white-tailed deer habitat loss is irreversible, but some could be offset by better utilization of the available habitat. "We know that some areas are over-hunted, but there also are vast areas which are under-utilized, and in some cases not hunted at all," Clark said. "I feel it's a problem of getting the hunters who currently don't have a place to hunt or who cannot afford an expensive hunting lease onto under-utilized hunting lands."

Another problem facing the Wildlife Division is that of insufficient appropriations to fund wildlife restoration programs. "We operate on money provided by the sportsmen," Clark pointed out, "through license fees and federal excise taxes on sporting arms, ammunition and the like. We are eligible for federal reimbursement on most wildlife activities, but we have to put up the full amount to be eligible for the 75 percent reimbursement in federal funds. The federal money reimbursed goes back into our Special Game and Fish Fund Number Nine where it loses its identity and becomes available for appropriation by the Legislature."

Insufficient appropriations to make use of available federal funds caused approximately $900,000 to revert back to the federal treasury Nov. 1, 1978. "Furthermore, it appears we will lose an additional $1.2 million because of the same situation by Nov. 1, 1979," Clark added.

Clark gave several areas as examples of programs which could benefit by this additional financial support. "We have approximately 16.7 million acres of unoccupied pheasant range," Clark said. "At the present limited rate of stocking we would need 75 years to complete the project."

He said restoration of the eastern turkey to its former range holds just as much promise as the pheasant program, but at the present rate of stocking it would require 30 years to occupy the available habitat.

White-tailed deer, mule deer and pronghorn programs also are faced with the dilemma of having available habitat but insufficient fiscal resources to expand the game populations.

Clark also stressed the ever-growing need to harvest antlerless and spike buck deer over most of the present deer range. "White-tailed deer are declining," Clark declared, adding that in the Edwards Plateau and even in the famed South Texas brush country deer are overpopulated, and putting too much pressure on the available cover and forage.

"Control of the buck harvest is not the only answer," said Clark. "We have urged landowners and hunters to harvest more antlerless deer and we are looking into other alternatives such as special antlerless seasons to come to grips with this problem."

Fishermen also are facing a changing situation in Texas, as pointed out by Fisheries Division Director Bob Kemp, but Kemp said he sees cause for great optimism in the near future.

"I believe the best fishing we have ever had will be a reality in the 1980s," Kemp predicted. "In fact, I think the 1980s will be the 'golden age' of fishing in Texas."

Kemp said his optimism is based upon the results of work done during the 1970s, which saw the emergence of the striped bass as a major freshwater gamefish, increased catches of the Florida strain of largemouth black bass in the 10- to 11-pound class, and a reproducing population of smallmouth bass developing across the state.

Kemp told the writers these new fish were needed because of the evolution of Texas reservoirs. "In the 1960s, we had a multitude of new reservoirs which were outstanding bass lakes. At that time fishermen just went from one new lake to the next, because there seemed to be new bass lakes emerging all the time," Kemp noted. "But now we have a lot of older lakes which don't have the habitat to maintain high bass populations, so we have to rejuvenate the fishing by bringing in new predator species."

Kemp said striped bass have "turned fishing around in this state" by virtue of being a large, hard-fighting game fish which can be caught with a variety of methods. The state record is broken with regularity, and now is up to 32 pounds, 12 ounces, he said.

Kemp also predicted that a new state record largemouth bass will be caught soon which will exceed the 13-pound, eight-ounce fish which has held the title for 36 years. And Kemp confidently predicted this state record fish will be one of the Florida bass stocked by the department.

Also appearing before the writers from the department were David Palmer, director of field operations for the Law Enforcement Division, who gave an overview of law enforcement problems faced by the state's wardens, and Mark Gosdin, head of special studies and system planning for the Parks Division, who reviewed new park acquisition.

Eat Lighter For Lent

By LIZ RACKLEY
County Extension Agent

Eat lighter for Lent if you're looking for a low-calorie diet. Lenten favorites have lost their appeal.

Low-calorie "cheeses," along with raw fruits and vegetables, pack a lot of nutrition in lighter-than-spring salad menus.

Plan menus around low-calorie, dairy products and early spring fruits.

Low-calorie dairy products include cottage, ricotta and neufchatel cheeses and low-fat yogurt.

Early spring fruits include strawberries and the ever-faithful banana.

Apples and D'Anjou pears are plentiful and high quality, fresh out of storage. And don't forget the myriad of canned fruits — peaches, pineapple, apricots, and mixed fruits.

If packed in heavy syrup, just pour off the syrup and use for fruit punches for active children of normal weight.

Dairy products are our leading source of calcium needed for bones and teeth. They also offer high-quality protein, riboflavin and many other nutrients.

Fruits are valuable chiefly because of the vitamins and minerals they contain.

Strawberries are a rich source of vitamin C, needed for healthy gums and body tissue.

Apricots are rich in vitamin A, needed for growth, normal vision and a healthy condition of the skin.

Fruit is also an abundant source of fiber, needed for proper elimination.

Highlight Lenten menus with these sparkling low-calorie salads:

Quick and Easy Salad Bowl
1 large can regular or dietetic fruit cocktail
2 apples, unpeeled, chopped
2 oranges, sectioned
2 bananas, diced

Fruit Salad Dressing
1 minced clove garlic
1/2 cup vinegar
1/2 cup orange juice
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon sugar
1/8 teaspoon pepper

Let garlic stand in vinegar for 1 hour. Strain and add remaining ingredients. Shake or beat well and refrigerate. Shake before serving. Makes about 3/4 cup.

Educational programs conducted by The Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, or national origin.

Don Adams Is Mr. East Texas 1979

Donald Gilbert Adams was born on December 18, 1938, in Jasper, Texas to Judge T. Gilbert Adams and Mrs. Dess. Hart Adams. He attended Jasper public schools, Schreiner Institute, and Baylor University. After graduating summa cum laude from the Baylor University School of Law, he practiced law in Lubbock before returning to form a partnership with his father, Judge Adams.

Adams was elected to the House of Representatives in 1968 and 1970 where he was the only freshman House member appointed to a study of the Texas Penal Code. During his second term in the House, he served as chairman of the House Committee on Local and Consent Calendars. In 1972, Don Adams was elected to the State Senate and re-elected without opposition in 1974. In 1975 he was appointed chairman of the Senate Administration Committee and in January 1977, Lt. Governor Hobby selected Don Adams to be Vice Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. For nine years, Don Adams has been an active participant in the legislative process as an author and sponsor of major legislation of state-wide impact.

and numerous local bills designed to serve his district. During his second session in the Senate, Adams played a key role in the formulation and passage of the Texas Public Utility Act and major state legislation. A long legislative struggle was culminated in the 65th Session with the passage of the first comprehensive Firemen's Pension Act which was needed to guarantee the sound development of pension funds of thousands of firefighters. As an active member of the Senate Jurisprudence Committee, Adams has long been involved in legislative work on the Texas Family Code and Code of Criminal Procedure.

In 1974 as a member of the Senate Administration Committee, he served as an elected delegate to the first Texas Constitutional Convention since 1875. As Chairman of the Senate Administration Committee, he was charged with directing preparation of the rules of the Senate for the first Senate impeachment trial in over forty years; he also was Chief Senate Prosecutor in the legislative procedure to address Supreme Court Justice. In 1978, he resigned as a member of the Texas

Senate to become Chief Legal Counsel to the Governor of Texas. Four days after assuming that position, Governor Dolph Briscoe appointed Don Adams as Acting Director of the Governor's Office of Migration Affairs when the Director of that agency was indicted. Adams served as Acting Director of the agency for approximately three months. In May of 1978, in addition to his duties as Chief Legal Counsel, Adams was also given the responsibility of Appointments Secretary to the Governor. Don Adams has been involved in his community and church all of his life. He has been active as a member and leader of his local bar association, Kiwanis Club, Chamber of Commerce and First United Methodist Church. In 1970 he was honored with a testimonial tribute from the Texas Firemen's and Fire Marshals' Association Directors of Jasper Federal Savings and Loan Association. He recently celebrated his 15th wedding anniversary with his wife, the former Linda Cullum of Wickett, Texas. They have three children: Donny, 9; Debra, 6; and Dinah, 5. Adams was selected as one of the Five Outstanding Young Men of Texas. He was also a member of the Board of Directors of Jasper Federal Savings and Loan Association. Creativity With Crepe Paper

Text and Photos By D. Morey Sitton

Due to the hundreds of thousands needed, petals for all flowers are "mass produced." Crepe paper is stacked between plyboard, the petal shape is stenciled, the stack is nailed together, then each shape is cut with a band saw. The wisteria stencil, shown above, is cut and ready to be separated by volunteers. The petals shown around the stencil have been shaped and are ready to be joined into clusters.

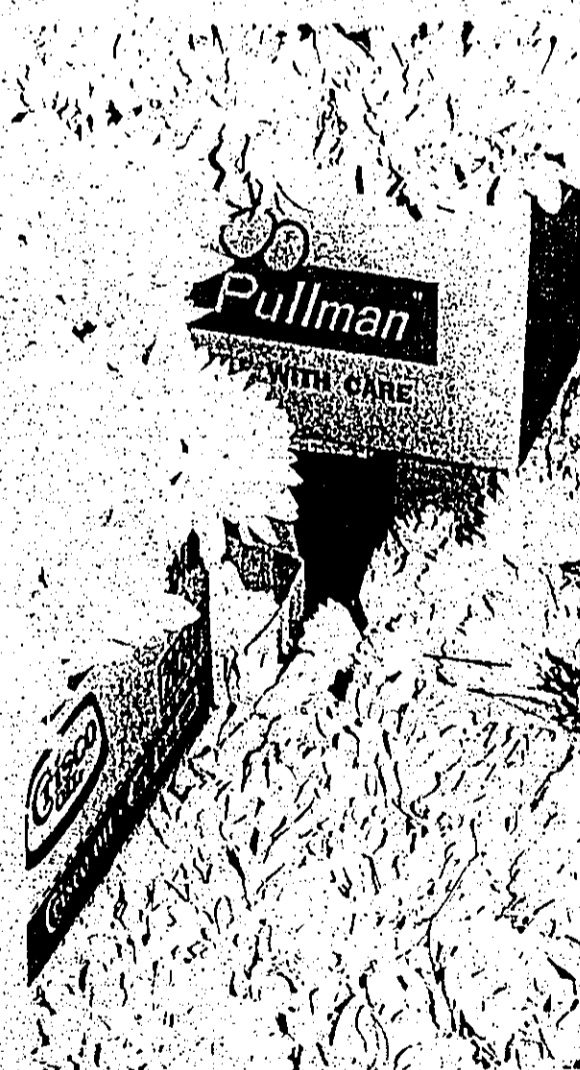

Each February in Tyler County, with trees still bare with winter, spring begins to appear in the hands of hundreds of volunteers. The phenomenon, now a well rooted tradition in Tyler County, is the making of hundreds of thousands of dogwood blooms and other colorful spring flowers native to the area.

The flowers, used to decorate the amphitheatre for the Dogwood Festival coronation and pageant, include pink and white dogwood, magnolia, yellow jasmine, lavender wisteria and four shades of azaleas.

The process begins in January, when the petals are stenciled and cut. First, from 12 to 20 packages of crepe paper are stacked together at one time between 2 pieces of plyboard. A stencil of the petal shape is then applied to the top sheet of plyboard; in the case of the dogwood, each stencil marks 18 petals. Next, nails are driven in the center of each of the 18 petals, through the entire stack of crepe paper and through the plyboard. Once secured in this manner, petals are cut out by a band saw. The nails and plyboard are removed and the crepe paper, now cut, is ready to be separated by the volunteers. The cutting process itself takes one month.

For the next 2 months, flowers are constructed, by hand, by volunteers, who, two weeks prior to the pageant, begin attaching the blooms to shrubbery. The effect, strikingly realistic, is of spring in full bloom: delicate, colorful and breathtakingly beautiful.

Anyone interested in volunteering for flower making for next year's celebration can contact Dixie Jarrott at 283-2003 for information.

As the Dogwood Festival nears, stacks of crepe paper flowers grow. Hundreds of volunteers throughout the county begin constructing the flowers, by hand, in early February.

Volunteers throughout the county spend two months constructing dogwood, magnolia, wisteria, jasmine and azalea blooms from crepe paper. The blooms, like the cluster of dogwoods, shown above, are used to decorate the amphitheatre for the Dogwood Festival pageant and coronation.

How To Make Dogwood Flowers

To make dogwood flowers at home, begin by drawing the outline of one petal on a package of folded crepe paper. Cut through the entire package, then separate petals.

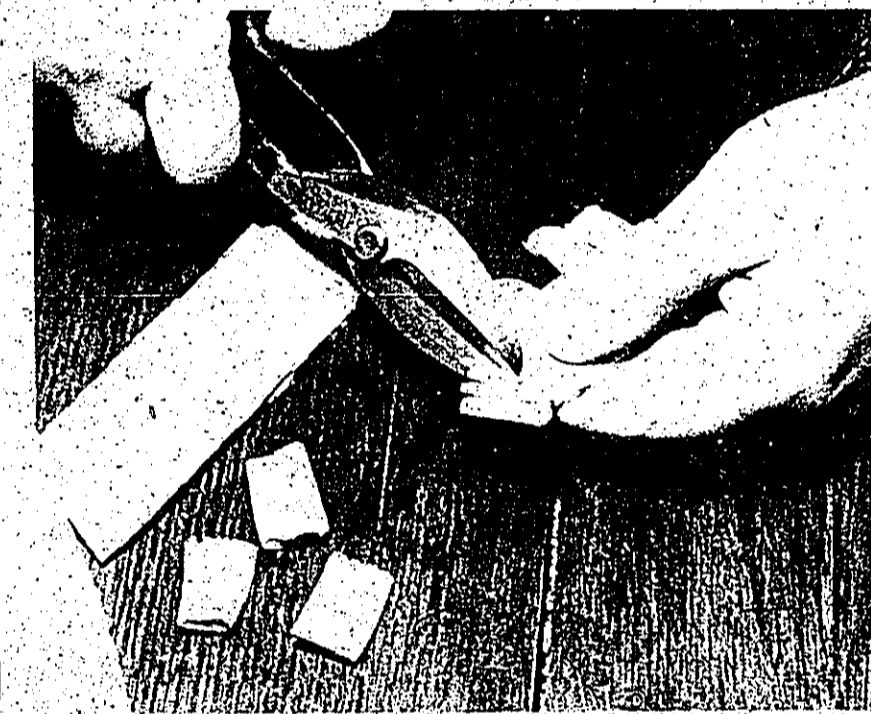

See photograph (to the right) for the petal shape. The top should curve gently to a point (which will be crimped back) and the petal base should be squared. Petal size depends on the desired size of your finished flower.

Step 1. Holding one petal at a time firmly under two fingers, push back pointed end of petal with pencil eraser. This "crimping" gives each petal a realistic dogwood shape. Crimp 4 petals for each flower.

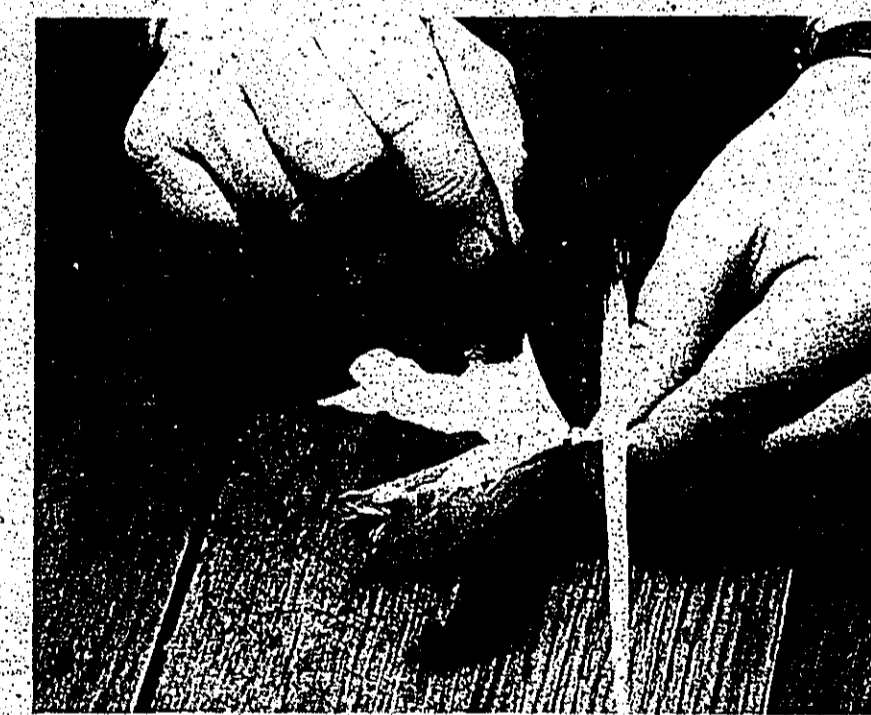

Step 2. Prepare dogwood centers by cutting strips 1 inch wide from folded green and yellow crepe paper.

Step 3. Next take each strip and cut slits 1/4 inch long. Cut three 1/4 inch slits, then cut completely across paper. Separate. Now take one green and one yellow center and twist together at the bottom.

Step 4. Holding between thumb and index finger, group 3 petals, then position the "center" before adding the fourth petal.

Step 5. Twist bottom then fasten with a 9 inch piece of 20 gauge wire.

Many people put long hours into the planning and completion of a Western Weekend-Dogwood Festival Celebration. Hundreds of volunteers help make flowers for the floats, build stage properties, make costumes and other necessary jobs. Of course, somebody has to direct all this activity into one direction, and that is the duty of the Dogwood Festival directors. The 1979 Dogwood Directors are as follows: George Jarrott, executive director; Herb Branch, flowers and throne; Jerry Carruth, parade; Jim Clark, western weekend; Betsy Stafford, queens court; Ronald Watts, publicity and ticket sales; Fred Sullivan, kingsmen; Joan Graham, pageant; Becky Finnette, dances; Grady Holderman, stage.

*See Tyler County
at its prettiest!*

Welcome to Dogwood time in Tyler County! So that you will be a little more familiar with the county, and not feel like a stranger, we have listed below a few facts about the county and where to call for help should it be needed.

For those of you with campers and motor-homes, there are a number of nearby parks and lakes. The Dam B Corps of Engineers will be happy to assist with camping rates, where you can camp for free, weather information, and park patrols.

The Corps is located on F.M. 92, approximately 8 miles south of the intersection of 190 East and E.M. 92, close to the Dam and park facilities at Town Bluff. For information or to contact park rangers, call 429-3491. This is a local call from Woodville.

Camping facilities are also available at the Alabama-Goshute Indian Reservation between Woodville and Livingston on U.S. 190 West. This is also an interesting place to tour while you are here for the festival.

All rodeo activities will take place at the 4-H FFA Arena, located four miles west of Woodville, on 190, across from Hennigan Ball Park. The rodeo begins at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, March 31.

The Dogwood Pageant will be held at the Dogwood Amphitheatre, located directly behind Kirby High School in Woodville. The School is three blocks north of the county courthouse on Charlton Street.

The pageant will be held Saturday, April 7, at 7:30 p.m. This year's production is entitled "Memories" and looks back at pageants past.

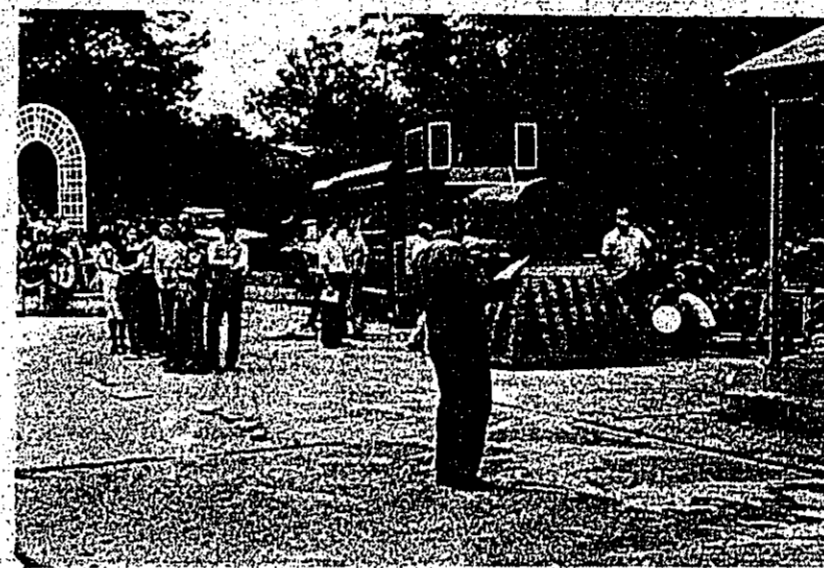

All dances for adults will be held at the Woodville Inn located in Woodville on Highway 69 North (North Magnolia Street).

If emergency medical care is needed, Tyler County Hospital is situated on the west side of Woodville on U.S. 190 West (Bluff Street).

Tyler County is a dry county and no alcoholic beverages are sold.

The Tyler County C.B. Club monitors Channel 10 in Woodville for those of you who are C.B. operators. They will be happy to assist in any way possible. Many of the Highway patrolmen monitor Channel 19, and can be reached there if they are within range.

We are happy to have you in Tyler County. Enjoy your stay here and enjoy all the activities surrounding the annual Dogwood Festival.

Five Girls Vie For Crown

Five girls, representing Tyler County's five high schools, have been chosen to compete for the coveted crown of Dogwood Festival Queen for the 1979 Dogwood Festival.

More than a month of judgments and interviews have resulted in a large number of potential princesses being reduced to five. One will be the queen, and another, the first runner-up, will be the princess of Tyler County.

The princesses, and the schools they represent are as follows: Luann Cloy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stein Cloy, Woodville, representing Warren; Cheri Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bennett, Chester; Susan Brodnax, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.L. McCulley, Woodville; Khandi Handley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Handley, Colmesneil; and Tina Fredieu, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Fredieu, Spurger.

These girls were selected after two interviews by the Kingsmen committee of the Dogwood Festival. Approximately 100 Tyler County business and professional leaders make up this group, which has selected the Dogwood queen since 1959.

The Kingsmen held a final interview of the five princesses prior to the festival and then voted for the queen. The results, however, will be secret until the coronation on April 1.

There are three factors that the selection of the Dogwood Queen are based on: beauty, personality and poise.

Five other girls who were not selected as princesses will serve as ladies-in-waiting to the court. The 1979 ladies-in-waiting are: Gina Brandon of Warren; Susan Hryhorchuk of Warren; Marion Garner of Woodville; Carol Graham of Woodville and Gina Riley of Woodville.

Each of the Dogwood princesses will receive a $250 scholarship from the Dogwood Festival Association to assist them in their post-high school education.

The Dogwood queen also receives a diamond ring as a gift from the festival and will represent the county at various events throughout the following year.

The reigning Dogwood Festival queen is Melinda Ralford.

1952 MEMORY—Shown riding in the 1952 Dogwood Parade is Dogwood Queen Bernice Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Phillips.

First Annual Dogwood Marathon

This year the Tyler County Dogwood Association has added a new feature that promises to add excitement and also to bring more visitors to the Dogwood celebration. This addition is a marathon race of 26.2 miles combined with a ten thousand meter (6.2 miles) run.

Marathon courses varied greatly in length in the early days, but the standard distance of 26 miles, 385 yards finally emerged at the 1908 Olympics in England. The 385 yards were added in order to stretch the starting line to the walls of Windsor Castle, the better to afford the royal family a view.

A local physician decided a year ago that the sport of running for fun and health had not reached Woodville as it had in so many areas of the country. A race in the country at Dogwood time would appeal to many urbanites and at the same time draw local attention to this form of exercise.

Runners may register by mail (Dogwood Marathon, 201 Kelley Blvd., Woodville) or they may register in person at the Chamber of Commerce office on Friday, April 6th. Registration desks will be open until 10 p.m. Friday night, April 6th. Registration is $7.00 for adults and $3.00 for students of high school age and below. The first two hundred registrants will receive a fine T-shirt commemorating the events. All finishers will receive a trophy.

The race will start promptly at 8 a.m. April 7th in front of Heritage Garden and proceed east on the Old Town Bluff road. At a set point the runners will finish the ten kilometer race. The marathoners will proceed slightly over twelve miles before retracing and finishing the race at the railroad tracks.

It is hoped that many non-runners will enter just for the experience.

"KEEP THAT GREAT GM FEELING WITH GENUINE GM PARTS"

That Holy Ghost Feeling

The Big Thicket of southeast Texas is a lot of things to a lot of people. Some see it as trouble-others as treasure. Some view it as a tangled, disordered, disagreeable place filled with snakes, ticks, gnats, and mosquito-breeding swamps. Other folks view it as a unique ecological wonderland, where one can see swamp and desert in the same glance. Where Arctic lichen mixes with jungle fern.

And then there are folks who just love the place. They don't know the botanical names for the plants or trees. All they know is what Arch Fullingim, editor of the famous little weekly newspaper, The Kountze News, once wrote, "...I sat there and pretty soon this feeling washed over me like a wind in my heart and I felt like I'd been there before. I was suffused with a spirit something like what Adam and Eve must have felt. It's a feeling of lightness...that Holy Ghost feeling." That's what the Big Thicket does for the people who live there and for those who visit it. That feeling is really what the Big Thicket is all about, and that's why the Big Thicket is worth preserving.

Memories Is 79 Dogwood Pageant Theme

"The past is dead, long live the past." The past will live again in Woodville, April 7, when the Dogwood Festival Pageant for 1979 unfolds with "Memories", a play depicting scenes of Pageants of the past.

It requires a genuine love for the county and the Dogwood festival itself to invest so much of one's time to such an effort. The pageant committee this year, headed by Joan Graham, decided that it was time that some of this creativity was revived by presenting a scenario of scenes from the plays of festivals past.

No one person is responsible for the success of the play. This year a committee of five persons began their work in October of last year. Under the direction of Joan Graham, Monroe, Prescott, Ruth Houston, Yvonne Byram, and Joan Loiodice met weekly to toss around ideas for the "new play". Many ideas are considered and rejected before one is agreed upon by everyone as suitable for the pageant. At that point, the work begins in earnest.

The writing of the play and music, and the preparation of the props, notation, the casting of parts, requires many months of work. It actually takes about six months to get the play into production.

"Memories" is a scenario of Dogwood Pageants past. The play begins with Miss Ruby (Ruby Wheat) sitting in her yard, surrounded by children and grandchildren. While sitting there, she begins to think back to past Dogwood pageants she has seen. The body of the play consists of scenes from her memory.

"The pageant, this year," said Joan Graham, pageant director, "is dedicated to all the ladies of Tyler County who work so long and hard making flowers for the coronation and pageant. The beauty they create has to be seen to be believed."

The pageant will begin at 7:30 p.m. Saturday,

April 7, and will be seated in the Dogwood Amphitheatre located behind the Kirby High School on Charlton Street in Woodville.
