Commissioners Set Equalization Hearings

The Tyler County Commissioners Court, in its regular meeting Monday, June 11, set the days of August 14 through 17 as the meeting dates for the Board of Equalization.

In other action, the commissioner's approved the county treasurer's monthly report, approved the County Pension monthly report, approved the county clerk's district clerk, and deputies attending a meeting in Kerrville on June 12-15, and approved Justice of the Peace John Spanhans attending the J.P. convention in San Antonio on June 13-15.

The court tabled a motion to set maternity benefits until Friday, June 15. This motion deals with the new requirements that the county provides maternity benefits to all employees.

Brad Smith addressed the commissioners representing the Concerned Citizens group, stating that "the men running the county are doing an outstanding job." Smith also dealt with a fund started by the group for cancer patients only. According to Judge Allen Sturrock, this is "primarily a transportation fund" to aid the patients in getting back and forth from treatment.

Judge Sturrock brought to the attention of the court two bills that are currently in the legislature that will relate very heavily to the county. One, the Peveto Bill, is a "Central Appraisal" bill. The county will have the option to join this system, or not. According to Judge Sturrock, "only the counties have the option."

The second bill, H.B. 1060, defines "which lands will qualify for agricultural use valuation, how such valuation shall be made, roll back penalties, and application procedures." Commissioners will meet on Friday, June 15, to consider the option of implementing the bill in 1979 or 80.

will be leased for the post office in a building at the northeast corner of Wheat and Reid Streets.

The space will be constructed to meet Postal Service requirements and it is expected to be available for occupancy in March 1980. It will be leased to the Postal Service for a basic period of 10 years with renewal options for an additional 20 years.

KELLER BLAZE TAPPED OUT—Threatening the main part of the Keller Building, the rubbish fire shown above, got out of hand around noon on Saturday and required the attention of the Woodville Volunteer Fire Department. Quick response by the volunteers had the fire watered down and the plant out of danger in a short time.

On Spurger Highway Brinks Truck Deposits $249,000

A Brinks Armored truck, south bound on Hwy. 92 one mile north of Spurger, at approximately 2:45 p.m. Wednesday, June 6, dropped its cargo onto the road, containing an estimated $249,000.

According to Tyler County Sheriff's Deputy Otis Powell, the truck, owned by Brinks Security, was transferring money when it hit a rough spot in the road caused by the recent flooding. The door of the truck was jarred open by the jolt and a bag of money fell to the road surface, spilling open.

"A pretty hard wind was blowing," said Powell, "and the money from the bursted bag blew around on the road."

Two men, identified as Leon Bass and Bernard Taylor, both of Beaumont, were driving by, spotted the money on the road, stopped, and picked up a bundle each. They then drove away in their vehicle.

One Injured

SWERVES INTO DITCH—This one car accident saw the driver, Mark Edgar Harberts, 23, of Beaumont, while traveling south, slow down to avoid hitting a car in front of him, which had slowed down also to let a northbound firetruck respond to a Keller Extrusion Plant fire around noon on Saturday. The driver was injured and taken to the Tyler County Hospital by the Woodville Tyler County Ambulance Service.

Editorial Hurray For Hurst!

In recent testimony to the U.S. Senate Committee on Human Resources, O. Ray Hurst, president of the Texas Hospital Association put in a plug in opposition to the power grab by the HEW and the administration called the "Hospital Cost Containment Act of 1979."

Hurst said, "I am not based on the assumption that the government can do a better job than the private sector... hospital charges from 1967 to 1977 rose 194 percent whereas patient care went up 226 percent; the federal budget increased 400 percent and the cost of operating the U.S. Congress rose 422 percent."

Hurst continues saying that as much as 25 percent of each patient's hospital bill can be directly charged to the cost of the hospital trying to comply with an excessive amount of government regulations which have absolutely nothing to do with the safety or quality of patient care.

"It seems to me that when the federal government cannot deliver the mail, cannot run the railroads and can't balance the budget it is absolutely ridiculous for us to show the government to take over absolute control of health care delivery," he added.

Our federal government seems bent on going socialist in health care with new bills pointed at government takeover being presented each year. One plan, submitted by the health committee by Democratic Senator Edward Kennedy proposes that health care be "nationalized" to gain increased control over the country's growth.

They have said who will get the available care and who will be left out.

Another plan, proposed by a Republican committee, would require employers to pay for unlimited care after 90 days of hospitalization and a set amount of other expenses.

No one has proposed cutting out all the government intervention and leaving doctors to their practice, hospitals to their business and the government looking after all the people, not just special interest groups.

Specialized medicine hasn't worked in England. It won't work here and we'll all end up paying more for less plus the additional cost of another extremely large bureaucratic agency.

Refining oil and gas from coal is really trying to get a handle on this energy mess. Instead of all the reclamation and name-calling, we have been hearing for years, House Majority Leader, Jim Wright of Texas, has some concrete proposals to get the United States down the road to energy self-sufficiency.

Wright notes that the United States has the world's largest reserves of coal, and with the foreign oil producers continually ratcheting up the price of crude, conversion of our coal reserves to synthetic energy should be a top federal priority.

For once, instead of railing at the oil producers, chastising American energy consumers, and directing blame to the Congress, the White House seems to have taken a favorable view of Wright's proposal.

It makes sense from this corner. After all, the Germans during World War Two, almost brought the rest of the world to kneecap with their tanks and aircraft running on fuel from coal.

Wright's proposal would put a guaranteed floor price of about $28 a barrel on the oil American industry would produce.

That seems fair to this corner, to induce the billions of dollars in private capital that will be necessary to get such refining facilities on line.

There is no quick fix in Wright's proposal. But, by the time the refineries are up and running, it will be a situation, and to this time at least, it will be a very dangerous situation.

Wright also had one other proposal he offered the President. It is not as easy as it sounds, but it is a very important proposal to bring them to pass.

Wright said that he would like to see the President offer the President's own proposal to bring them to pass.

Praise Given To Woodville Band

To the Editor: Last Thursday night it was my privilege to hear the fine bands of Woodville Elementary, Junior High and High School. We should all be very proud of the students in these bands.

Commissioner Hugh Armstrong, Railroad Commission chairman John H. Bosterman and his fellow commissioners Mack Wallace.

Both Hobbs and Armstrong criticized President Carter's proposed windfall profits tax on oil companies. Hobbs, reacting before a House of Representatives subcommittee, called the tax "misguided" and said it would create the worst of both worlds.

By doing up and down price and stifling exploration, the tax would hurt the industry, which would be hurt by the tax. Hobbs, reacting before a House of Representatives subcommittee, called the tax "misguided" and said it would create the worst of both worlds.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen Watching Washington

At about 10 o'clock on the night of December 23, 1978, Richard Welch and his wife returned to their home in an Athens suburb near a Christmas party at the home of the U.S. Ambassador to Greece.

Welch was in Greece for about six months. He was officially listed as a special assistant to Ambassador James B. Hutchins but shortly before his death The Athens News, an English language daily newspaper, listed him as one of the top Central Intelligence Agency officials in Greece.

Welch was identified as CIA station chief for Greece and his address and telephone number, along with those of other top CIA officials, had been published in the Athens News.

Earlier that year, Welch had been initially identified as a CIA operative by the U.S. based journal Counterpoint.

There is a continuing campaign to publicly identify U.S. intelligence officers serving overseas.

Last year, Philip Agee, an employee of the CIA, launched a new publication, the newsletter to Counterpoint. Apparently, he is not alone in his efforts to expose CIA personnel and operations, whenever and wherever they are.

This new publication is called the Cover Action Information Bulletin. It gives a worldwide effort to print the names of everyone working overseas for the CIA.

But that is not enough for the small group of disgruntled radicals who publish this periodical. Read what else Mr. Agee, in his own words, calls for.

"They organize public demonstrations against those names—both at the American Embassy and at their homes—and where possible, bring pressure on the government to throw them out. Peaceful protest will do the job. And when it doesn't, those whom the CIA has most oppressed will find other ways of fighting back."

"We will add this article," Agee says, "together with the struggle for socialism in the United States itself."

There is an inexcusable gap in the law that permits Mr. Agee and others of his kind to act with impunity.

I believe that when people like him threaten the safety of our intelligence officers, they should face the prospect of jail. This kind of vicious, senseless and stupid act cannot be justified or condoned. There can be no tolerance of the warped mentality of those who so dangerously jeopardize our society.

In 1976 I first introduced legislation to close this gap in the law. I reintroduced the bill in 1977 and again this year, when effort to see it approved and signed into law.

The Bentsen bill would impose strict criminal penalties on any past or present employee of the Central Intelligence Agency who discloses the names, addresses, or telephone numbers of active officers without authority.

Violators would face a 10 year prison term and a $10,000 fine.

CIA Director Stanfield Turner has expressed support for my proposal. He recently sent a letter explaining in some detail the need for it.

Mr. Turner made a very valid point in the letter when he said that failure by government to close a loophole in the law which permits "intentional exposure of covert intelligence officers to disclosure of their names, addresses, or telephone numbers" is "a grave and continuing danger to the national security."

"I suggest," he continues, "that U.S. intelligence officers play a vital game for those members of their own society who take issue with the existence of the CIA or find other motives for making these unauthorized disclosures."

"I for one, most assuredly do not believe that our intelligence operatives should be considered 'fair game.' The United States Government must not condone, by a legislative action, the continuing exposure of these individuals who are serving our country abroad."

Levingston Announces Operations Change

Ed Paden, President of Levingston Shipbuilding Company, today announced a major operational realignment with the establishment of an Offshore Division and a Commercial Ship Division, headed by two senior Levingston vice presidents.

Paden said, "The establishment within Levingston of an Offshore Division and a Commercial Ship Division is designed to better serve our company's overall business and to provide a balanced mix of commercial shipbuilding, offshore rig construction and ship repair."

The signing late last year of a contract for the construction of five dry bulk carriers was a significant step towards fulfilling one of Levingston's objectives, that of becoming an active competitor in commercial ship construction. The mission of the Commercial Ship Division will be to provide the overall management of the existing bulk ship program now underway at Levingston and to pursue the commercial ship market for the purpose of providing follow-on commercial ship contracts for additional bulk carriers or tankers in the 10,000 to 50,000 deadweight ton range.

Joe Barrios has been appointed Vice President of the Commercial Ship Division. In this position Barrios will report to the president and will be responsible for contract management, purchasing, warehousing and quality assurance, as well as for the management of Levingston's commercial ship construction programs.

Barrios is a 31-year veteran of Levingston who has held many managerial positions, including Manager of Planning and Manager of Estimating, and most recently, Director of Program Management. He attended St. Edward's University and Louisiana State University and is a member of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers.

With the commercial shipbuilding backlog now in excess of $100,000,000, and a sudden upsurge in offshore activity, the company is in a position to aggressively pursue its more traditional line of business, that of construction for the offshore market. Levingston's engineers have developed several new products to serve the offshore market and these products are presently being introduced to oil companies and drilling contractors around the world. Paden stated that Levingston's entire management team will be actively involved in expanding the company's offshore business.

Joe Wise has been appointed Vice President of the newly formed Offshore Division. In this position, Wise will be responsible to the President for all design research and development, engineering, licensing and estimating. In addition to marketing to offshore industry and management of Levingston's current offshore construction programs.

"Beyond - The - Sundown" To Be Presented Soon At Reservation

BEYOND THE SUNDOWN, a musical production of the Alabama-Coushatta Indians, opens its fifth season on June 22 in the Sundown Theatre on the Alabama-Coushatta Reservation located in Woodville on U.S. 190.

Written by acclaimed Young Harris, Georgia, and Robert Locke, of Sam Houston State University, BEYOND THE SUNDOWN is a dramatic retelling of the Alabama-Coushatta Tribes' struggle to remain at peace during the Texas fight for independence from Mexico. BEYOND THE SUNDOWN also dramatizes the timeless conflict between the zealous passions of youth and the staid wisdom of their elders.

Composer Frank Lewin, known as "The Defenders," and choreographer Luke Ka-hlich, former assistant artistic director with the Lubbock

Litter Is Expensive For Texans

Most Texans would hardly agree that litter is unsightly, unsanitary, and perhaps, heavy on the pocketbook. Hardly anyone would dare own up to having had a discarded cigarette butt, a crumpled paper cup, or a discarded sandwich wrapper, littering the landscape.

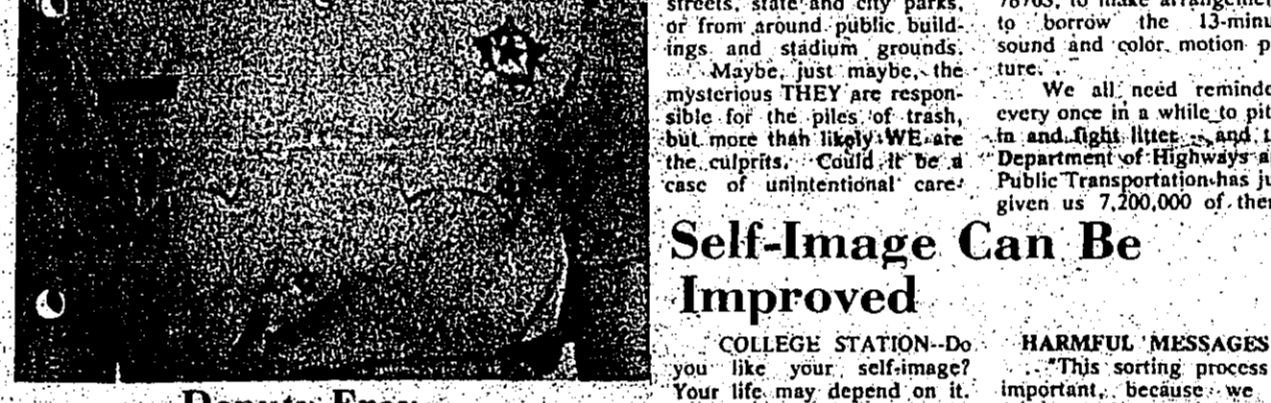

But, litter is a real problem. It costs the state of Texas $7.2 million just to clean up along Texas roadways. And that's only the price tag figures by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation; it doesn't include the cost of removing litter from city streets, state and city parks, or from around public buildings and stadium grounds.

Maybe, just maybe, the mysterious THEY are responsible for the piles of trash, but more than likely WE are the culprits. Could it be a case of unintentional carelessness, or an epidemic of thoughtlessness? Perhaps, heavy on the pocketbook, the law of highway littering is illegal, subject to a maximum $400 fine, you know. Whatever it is, we can do something about it.

Don't litter! Use a litter bag. Dispose of trash properly. Please spread the word if YOU don't litter and WE don't litter, and THEY don't litter, then maybe there's a chance.

One way to help arouse public awareness is to show the film "A Litter Message" to your club, organization, class, wedding guests, family members, or bowling team. Simply to "A Litter Message," Box 5064, Austin, TX, 78763, to make arrangements to borrow the 15-minute sound and color motion picture.

We all need reminders every once in a while to pitch in and fight litter, and the Department of Highways and Public Transportation has just given us 7,200,000 of them.

Protect Yourself From Lightning

In West Texas, it struck someone playing baseball with an aluminum bat.

On the Texas coast, another victim was just getting into a car.

In Harris County, it was during an installation of pipe at a construction site.

Another victim was a young football player.

What happened to all these Texans? They were struck by lightning. Three of the four were killed.

Although lightning is obviously not something that can be eliminated, fear of lightning can be replaced with facts and basic precautions, according to the Insurance Information Institute.

Suppose this is the situation:

You are driving through flat farmland in Texas. What appears to be a mild shower on the horizon seems to be moving inland. More and more lightning streaks across the darkening sky. As you pay closer attention, the grumbling thunder turns into loud frequent claps.

There is no question that you are about to be caught up in the midst of a Texas thunder storm that may be good for your parched lawn back home, but it is potentially dangerous.

HARMFUL MESSAGES

"This sorting process is important, because we all receive some messages from others that do not contribute to a strong and healthy self-image.

Messages that hurt our self-image are the ones to discard, because a strong self-image is the foundation of sound mental health," says McReinhart stresses.

A STRONG SELF-IMAGE

Building a good self-image is the most important task an individual has in his mental and emotional development - and it's among the greatest challenges of parenthood, she explains.

Individuals with high self-esteem are more likely to achieve the goals they have for themselves - and those others have for them.

Proper Skin Care Is Important During Summer Months

Exercise proper skin care during summer months when emphasis is on outdoor sports and the beauty appeal of sunbathing encourages people to spend more time in the sun.

SKIN DAMAGE FROM SUN

Exposure to the sun can not only produce sunburn, but it also causes skin to age faster and increases the chance of skin cancer, says Beverly Rhoades, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Damage caused by sun exposure is irreversible. Results may not occur immediately but will become apparent in later years.

SKIN PROTECTING PRODUCTS

Products are available on the market to screen or block harmful ultraviolet radiation which can cause sunburn.

A sun screen can block 95 percent or more of the ultraviolet rays. A sun block is opaque and totally blocks ultraviolet rays and visible light.

For people who are sensitive to the sun, or who take certain drug or hormone, or have a history of skin cancer in the family, sun screens and sun blocks are recommended.

MEDICINE/SUN REACTION

Anyone under treatment for acne should be especially cautious with sun exposure. Miss Rhoades cautions.

Recent studies show that a prescription drug called tretinoin acid or tretinoin used in the treatment of acne may increase the risk of skin cancer, especially when exposed to the sun.

Check medicine labels for this ingredient or consult a doctor for warnings, she advises.

Home Improvements Buyers Beware Of Fraud

Homeowners who are eager to snap up a bargain home improvement job could lose their homes and/or their insurance, the Better Business Bureau warned today.

Recent advertising by home improvement contractors offering what would be "fantastic bargains" for installation of siding has all the earmarks of the "old-time snake-oil salesmen" of the 1930's, stated Mary Ann Kitchell, Manager of the Better Business Bureau.

Prospective purchasers should consider the following before any contract: 1. Be aware that the use of 30% off, or ANY percent off, in siding sales is misleading, since these are all independent contractors who can sell with a markup of anywhere between 10% to 150% over their factory price. Obtain at least three written bids before jumping at any "fantastic offer."

2. Contact your insurance agent. You may find that insurance coverage, if available at all, will be considerably higher with steel or aluminum siding applied.

3. Get all warranties in writing for the job. Make certain this is all in writing in your contract. Siding alone is not considered a significant insulative product. Energy experts tell us the "R" value for walls in this area should be "R-19."

4. Be aware that all steel siding requires some maintenance and does not, in placing your notes, should be warning signals. Insulation claims, adding: calcium to the siding your firm, you may also be taking the first step toward losing your home, should you become delinquent on your payments. Exorbitant interest rates which push the total amount entirely out of sight, many times resulting in payments far exceeding the resale value of the house, and - pay attention - individuals higher than anticipated were rampant in the '60's, and appears to be surfacing again, taking many unwary homeowners' homesteads with it.

5. The old "model homes" using your home for "advertising purposes" with a "reduced price" is one tell-tale sign to look for. Know with whom you are dealing. If the company is from out of town, who will honor guarantees if something is not right, to whom will you direct your complaints?

6. The use of the term "prescreened credit" could be most misleading, as prescreening of prospects under the new Credit Protection Laws is illegal under most circumstances, since it invades the privacy of unsuspecting individuals.

7. Know with whom you are dealing. Check the firm and salespersons out with the Better Business Bureau. Never sign a blank piece of paper. ALWAYS read and see just how much you are taking on. If you are not sure, write down your income after deducting federal, state and social security taxes and signing and in-home contract such as this, in which you state your mind, both by change and by federal law.

Doctor-Patient Relations Improve

COLLEGE STATION—A doctor-patient relationship ideally forms a "partnership," says Carla Shearer, a health education specialist with the Texas A&M University System.

The specialist is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

TWO-WAY RESPONSIBILITIES
Both the doctor and the patient have responsibilities, Ms. Shearer explains.

A doctor's responsibility to the patient is to provide technical information the patient lacks.

A patient's responsibility to the doctor is to provide information about the health problem, to enable the doctor to make a diagnosis and decide on an appropriate treatment.

PATIENT'S HOMEWORK
Before a patient comes to the doctor, it is helpful for the patient to write down information about the present illness, Ms. Shearer suggests.

Also, make notes about any medicines which might relate to it.

List questions for the doctor.

At the doctor's office, use the list to make sure the doctor has all of the necessary information.

Also use the list to make sure all the questions are answered.

Do not worry about referring to a paper while talking to the doctor—it shows that the patient thinks the problem is important enough to require full preparation.

UNDERSTAND MEDICATION
Finally, it is vital that the patient be fully informed about any medicines that the doctor prescribes.

Ask the doctor these questions about any medicine he prescribes:

1) At what times should the drug be taken, such as before or after meals?

2) What should be done if the dosage time is missed?

3) How long should the drug be taken?

4) Are there any activities or food or drink to avoid while taking the medicine?

5) What are the possible side effects of the medication?

6) How long should the symptoms persist after starting the medication?

7) What are the drug's benefits and risks?

8) Should the patient avoid any other drugs, prescription or non-prescription, while taking this drug? If so, what are they?

PREVENT PROBLEMS
Having answers to the above questions will help lessen the chances of taking the "drug the wrong way."

If you are pregnant, having to call the doctor back for more information.

Calcium Essential Nutrient For Bone Health

It is not just an uncommon fact that the elderly relative or friend has fallen and fractured a hip. It is possible that the first symptom breaks his leg; it is usually because the bone responds to sudden force of some kind. But when an elderly person suffers a fracture, the older person's bone fractures are often the result of osteoporosis, the two common bone diseases, are not restricted to old people. With either poor calcium absorption or a diet low in calcium can suffer from these diseases.

In osteoporosis, the bones are too soft. They bend easily from the body's weight (causing rickets) or break. This disease occurs primarily in women, who have limited sunshine and/or poor intake of vitamin D. Without this essential vitamin, even a diet high in calcium is useless. Increasing the consumption of dairy products, fortified with vitamin D, will be beneficial in helping the body utilize this mineral.

It is possible that the condition where the bone density decreases, resulting in brittle bones. The condition is often inherited in an older population, like United States population, where the intake of dairy products decreases as people age.

Other factors which increase a person's need for more calcium are menopause, a diet high in protein (meat, milk, or vegetable), numerous carbonated beverages, pregnancy, nerve injury which cuts off blood supply to the bone or weight loss which results in loss of soft tissue (fat and muscle) as well as hard tissue (bone).

Scientists are now wondering what effects long-term diet improvements would do on younger age groups before they reach age 55, when bone density is known to begin decreasing.

In the American diet, calcium is supplied by the milk-group foods of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Four Food Groups: Milk, buttermilk, cheddar, milk, cheese, yogurt, pudding, and cream are milk group foods. Some other foods high in calcium are spinach and other greens, salmon, sardines, macaroni, and cheese, oysters and baked beans.

Learn To Live With Inflation

COLLEGE STATION—Learn to live with—and beat—inflation, says Lillian Chenoweth, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Try this "inflation test" and see just how much inflation has affected your family.

Look up your 1967 tax return and write down your income after deducting federal, state and social security taxes.

Write down the same figure from your 1978 tax return.

If the 1978 figure is not approximately twice as large as the 1967 figure, your income has gone down since 1967.

If your "buying" power has been cut, like most average U.S. families, there are three basic suggestions for managing family resources.

EVALUATE LIVING LEVEL
Evaluate your "level of living."

You may want to change your lifestyle and live with fewer, bought, goods and services. Changes in attitudes and values accompany an exchange in lifestyle.

To simplify and live with fewer material goods does not necessarily mean lowering the quality of life. Sometimes less is more.

EXPAND, EXTEND MATERIAL RESOURCES
Expand and extend material resources by increasing your consumer skills in maintaining or repairing existing resources, and recycling.

Become more knowledgeable about quality characteristics of products.

Be aware of special opportunities as well as price.

INCREASE RESOURCES
To increase resources, ways to increase income might include getting additional training to qualify for a higher-paying job or increasing the number of wage earners in the household.

Creative human production, such as sewing or gardening, allows you to use income formerly spent for clothing or food. This human production increases the goods and services a family enjoys—and it's non-taxable.

Some families increase their resources by bartering or exchanging time, skills, and energy with others.

For example, you might paint a neighbor's garage in exchange for lawn mowing or baby-sitting services.

Forest Service Sponsors Walking Trails

LUFKIN—Walking is one of the best exercises available. Doctors encourage it, their patients to take up walking, even if only on a limited basis.

The Woodland trails, sponsored by the Texas Forestry Association, are there for that reason. Fifteen of them dot the piney woods from just south of Tarkenton, to just north of Beaumont and west to the edge of the rolling hills and prairie near Navasota.

Erich Krumm, chairman of the TEA Woodland Trails Committee, said, "We have dropped a few trails the past couple of years because of vandalism, but this year, we have added four new trails."

A brochure of trail location and perhaps a fact of note is available from the Texas Forestry Association. All trails are open year-round, except one that is called Wild

Keep Aluminum Clean

Keep aluminumware clean by washing after use and following manufacturer's instructions for different finishes, a family resource management specialist says.

Generally, aluminum cookware will come clean using hot suds and a sponge or scouring pad followed by rinsing and thorough drying, explains Bonnie Pifer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

However, aluminum cookware will darken from prolonged contact with salty or acid foods—or from not drying completely.

DISHWASHER WASHING
Automatic dishwashers may increase the amount of staining on aluminum when the high heat of the drying cycle is added to minerals present in water, she cautions.

However, a dishwasher may be used if it is turned off before the drying cycle begins.

Washing in a automatic dishwasher may affect anodized aluminum (electrolytic action to coat with a protective or decorative film).

COOL BEFORE WASHING
Allow aluminum pans to cool before soaking or washing to avoid warping.

REMOVE BURNED-ON FOOD
To remove burned-on food, fill the aluminum pan with water, cover and simmer, scraping occasionally with a wooden spoon.

Then wash normally, rinse and dry.

Use a wooden, plastic or smooth-edge metal utensil to protect aluminum surfaces from sharp-edge tools, such as knives and beaters. Mrs. Pifer's recommendation is to use a soap-filled scouring pad.

Use a scouring pad on aluminum (except for anodized or anodized) and on stainless steel interiors.

To restore luster on the exterior of an aluminum pan, wash in a dishwasher and follow directions.

Test To Detect Lukemia Developed

DALLAS—A test to measure enzyme activity that occurs more frequently in children with acute leukemia is being completed at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School here and will be used to follow recovery or predict relapse of patients under treatment.

The technique was developed by Dr. W. Graham Smith, Assistant Professor of Internal Medicine, with support of a research grant from the American Cancer Society.

The test depends on reaction of an enzyme, TdT (terminal deoxynucleotidyl transferase), with T₂ cells, a type related to those active in leukemia. In acute lymphatic leukemia, the enzyme system against disease TdT derives from a primitive one which may have been the ancestor of the leukemia cell, Dr. Smith said. The enzyme reaction is not exclusive to leukemia cells. Normal thymus gland and bone marrow cells also produce TdT, however, in smaller amounts than in leukemia patients.

The test, when combined with other laboratory tests, is used to measure TdT reactions in acute lymphatic leukemia, the type that strikes children most frequently. A decrease in TdT or a return to normal levels would indicate that treatment was becoming effective. Also, a child successfully treated with chemotherapy could be tested with the TdT method to forewarn of relapse.

Dr. Smith expects to use the test eventually in combination with two methods already developed in other laboratories by which themselves are not always entirely conclusive. These tests measure the quantity of leukemia cells in the blood and the activity of a protein found on the surface of cells in the immune system. The three methods together will provide a complex that gives an extremely accurate profile of the course or presence of leukemia, Dr. Smith predicted.

Self-Help Books Top List

Self-help books top national best-seller lists, but according to the National Wildlife Federation, 1978 list of "best sellers" is the subject is also interested in aiding wildlife and improving the environment.

"Invite Wildlife to Your Backyard" was the most popular of the 120 publications NWF offered in 1978, most of them free of charge. Of the 214 requests for its publications, NWF received 1978, 17,813 were for this reprint of the 1973 version of National Wildlife magazine. The illustrated booklet explains how to develop a backyard, bird, or butterfly garden, or a natural area on an existing habitat. It is available for $1.00. National Wildlife Backyard Habitat has been certified across the country in Florida, New York, and in three Canadian provinces under the NWF program.

Number two on the NWF "best seller" list was "Birdwatching," which drew 8,974 requests. A 13-page booklet reprinted from "Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine" for children by the famed ornithologist Roger Jones Peterson. In it, with full-color illustrations, Peterson explains to youngsters what to look for and where to look when they go birding.

"Official Birds, Mammals, Trees, Flowers, Insects, Fish of the Environment, and Possessions" finished third with 8,951 requests. The pamphlet reveals some interesting facts. For example, seven states—Indiana, Kentucky, North Carolina, Ohio, Virginia, and West Virginia—have named the cardinal as their state bird. The rose, adopted by Georgia, Missouri, New York, North Dakota, and Iowa is the most popular state flower.

Another Ranger Rick reprint, "Recycling for Birds," finished fourth with 8,944 requests. This publication describes how throw-aways, such as milk cartons and coffee cans, can be recycled into bird feeders.

Fifth place (6,509 requests) went to "Wildlife of Lakes, Streams, and Marshes," a 13-page booklet describing the animals common to these areas. The booklet is available for $1.00.

"Never injure a friend, even a bird," is the motto of the "Wildlife of Forests and

Raising Children Expensive

Raising children in today's society costs money even though children don't wear price tags.

A recent survey estimates for the cost of raising a farm child from birth to age 18 were recently reported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

THRIFTY LEVEL $27,577
LOW LEVEL $39,407
MODERATE LEVEL $59,414
LIBERAL LEVEL $89,028

The items included in the estimate were the direct costs associated with child-rearing—food (both at home and away from home), housing, transportation, clothing, medical care and education, using 1977 dollar figures.

The estimates did not include costs for the child's birth—now estimated at more than $2,000.

College expenses are not included either. Today, the cost of one year at a four-year college or university can range from $3,000 to $8,000.

Vaccination Can Prevent Rabies In Pets

Vaccination is one of the most effective ways of protecting your pet from various contagious animal diseases. The man or woman bitten by a rabid animal must risk a severe case of rabies if he or she does not receive a series of injections in a race against time to develop immunity before the disease symptoms become obvious.

Some pet owners have the mistaken impression that cats do not need rabies vaccination. They claim cats live mainly indoors and do not roam as far as dogs. Unfortunately, these people forget that a tissue and travels through the air toward the brain and will still almost any small animal.

Rabies in man-animal. While out of doors, a pet can be bitten by a rabid skunk, fox or bat. These seemingly wild animals are not uncommon in suburban areas. Even a brief visit outside may be long enough for such an encounter. Records show about the same number of feline and canine rabies cases reported each year.

When an animal is severely bitten on the head or body, and the virus reaches the spinal cord rapidly, symptoms may develop within 12 weeks. When the infection enters through a minor cut on paw or leg, as many as 9 to 12 months may pass before signs become obvious.

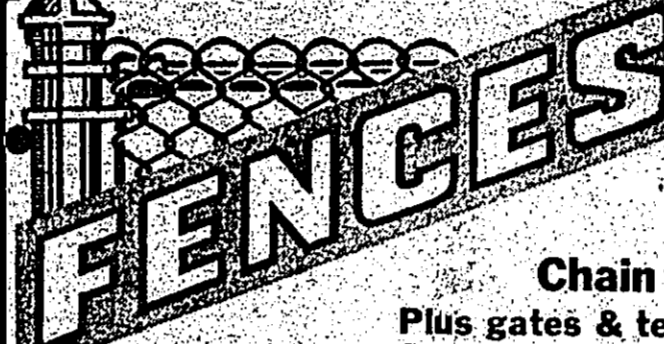

Not all pets react in the same fashion to rabies. Some are somewhat aloof and aggressive. Cats that are normally gentle and shy will attack family members and strangers, slaving and biting. They lose all caution, and fear of natural enemies. Kittens may seem friendly, but will bite viciously even during play.

The classic case of animals "foaming at the mouth" occurs when the muscles of the throat become paralyzed and the animal cannot swallow. Saliva will then drip from the jaws. As the disease progresses, the animal may experience convulsions go into a coma and finally die.

Some animals may develop a type of "dumb" rabies. Pets that are normally affectionate and outgoing become withdrawn and sullen. They may appear to have a medicine or examine a pet's mouth and throat for a hidden bone fragment. Fortunately, animals with dumb rabies are not vicious and rarely attempt to bite.

If your pet's behavior changes, isolate it from other animals and people, if possible. Call your veterinarian about the animal can be tested for rabies. If the animal bites a human being, call a physician at once.

Pet owners can control the incidence of rabies by reducing the number of unvaccinated pets in the area.

First Time Home Buyers Increasing

Although home prices continued to rise last year, first-time home buyers reported it took less time to save up the down payment than did first-time buyers a year earlier, a national survey by the Family Housing Bureau revealed.

The median price of a home purchased in 1978 by first-time buyers was $37,500, compared with $36,800 in 1977, according to the Family Housing Bureau, a public information service of Chicago Title Insurance Company. New and existing homes were included. Yet it took first-time buyers 2.2 years to save up the down payment, compared with 2.5 years reported by first-time buyers in 1977.

If the home was priced under $30,000, the 1978 first-time buyer needed only 1.7 years to amass the down payment. And if the home was over $50,000, the first-time buyer needed just 2.7 years to amass the down payment.

The average down payment made by a first-time buyer in the survey was 4.6 percent of the purchase price, which, on a median price of $37,500, comes out to $4,650. In 1977, the average down payment by a first-time buyer was 4.2 percent, or $3,705 on a median price of $36,800.

The conclusion is that first-time buyers last year made a smaller down payment and took on higher monthly payments, a Family Housing Bureau spokesman said. Monthly payments were $200 for 1978 first-time buyers, compared with $207 for 1977 repeat buyers.

First-time buyers in 1978, like first-timers in previous years, relied heavily on their own resources to provide the down payment. Last year 27.6 percent got their entire down payment from their own savings and investments, amounting to $14,048. In 1977, compared with 29.0 percent repeat buyers, average 35

Prevent Food Poisoning

Getting food poisoning is a sure way of turning a fun excursion into a sudden nightmare. When planning spring outings, the Texas Medical Association urges you to observe adequate caution in preparing and handling food.

Bacteria are the prime culprits in food poisoning. Present throughout nature, bacteria are usually harmless. For growth and reproduction, they require a food source, moisture, and temperatures between 45 and 115 degrees F.

Salmonella is one bacterial organism which can produce illness. Most frequently found on raw animal products, such as meat, poultry and eggs, this bacteria can be transmitted from one food to another. For example, if a knife used to cut contaminated raw meat or poultry is not washed before being used to peel potatoes, the bacteria growth is accelerated if food is then left at room temperature or cooled very slowly. The results can be diarrhea, abdominal cramps, vomiting and fever.

These pointers will reduce the chances of salmonella poisoning: 1) Before preparing other foods, use hot, soapy water to wash hands and utensils which have been in contact with raw meats, poultry and eggs; 2) Thaw meats and poultry in the refrigerator rather than at room temperature. If pressed for time, use cool running water; 3) Wait to stuff poultry until immediately prior to cooking. Use a meat thermometer to avoid undercooking; 4) Immediately refrigerate leftovers and heat them thoroughly before eating.

Another common bacterial menace is Staphylococcus, often called "staph." Staphylococci are commonly found on the hair and skin, the nose and throat, and in skin infections. Staph bacteria produce a toxin which cannot be destroyed by cooking. Certain foods such as gravies, dressings, meat, eggs and poultry are more prone to contamination.

There are ways to prevent staph contamination: Avoid keeping susceptible foods at room temperatures or at warm holding temperatures; never use the hands to mix food; Be cautious to keep the hands away from the mouth, nose and hair; and cover all coughs and sneezes. Don't prepare food if suffering from a skin infection or infectious disease. Botulism, the most serious form of food poisoning is often fatal. The majority of cases result from improperly processed, home-canned vegetables. The Medical Association urges botulism spores form a deadly toxin. Symptoms of poisoning include double vision, inability to swallow, and speech and breathing difficulties.

The likelihood of botulism poisoning can be greatly reduced by following these rules: 1) Only use the pressure canner method of canning. Vegetables, meats and poultry require the high temperature required to kill botulism spores, not possible by other home-canning methods. Pickle vegetables and fruits are often sufficiently acidic to prevent bacterial growth and may be canned with boiling water. To be certain, obtain canning instructions for all foods from the United States Department of Agriculture and make sure your equipment is working properly; 2) Throw away any foods which have a "off" odor. But sometimes poisoned foods do not smell bad; 3) Never taste food that is suspicious. When in doubt, throw it away; 4) Throw away food from cans that leak or bulge. Be sure to dispose of such food in a way which will protect other people and pets from its accidental use.

Helmetts Still Needed By Cyclists

Helmetless motorcyclists are costing thousands of dollars and hundreds of lives, often their own, by refusing to wear helmets, the Texas Medical Association says.

A Texas A&M University study showed unhelmeted riders are more than twice as likely to die or have serious head injury in an accident as a helmeted rider.

When heads start cracking on the pavement, the public often has to pay for treating long, expensive treatment. The study showed most riders are between 18-25 years of age, a group which generally does not have enough health insurance to pay for the cost of care. More than $192,000 to $520 per case, these figures do not include rehabilitation, funeral, property damage and other costs.

Because of the safety and economic factors, several Texas legislators are proposing bills to "once again" require helmets for people age 18 or older.

Best Buys This Week

COLLEGE STATION—Best buys at Texas grocery markets this week include several "specials" along the aisles: poultry, and some fresh vegetables, according to Gwendolyn Ciani, a consumer marketing information specialist.

Mrs. Ciani, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

GROCER MARKET AISLES—"Specials" appear on pork and beans, barbecue sauce, peanut butter, crackers, lemonade mix, instant tea, tuna and macaroni.

POULTRY—Fryer chickens, for budget buys, both whole fryers and mixed parts. Turkeys 10-14 pounds are available at feature prices in some stores.

FRESH VEGETABLES—Best buys include cabbage, carrots, shell squash, corn, potatoes, onions, cucumbers and cooking greens.

Moderate prices appear on green beans, broccoli, peppers and sweet potatoes.

PORK—Scattered specials are showing up on end chops, Boston butt, ribs and "loin" roasts.

Frankfurters are a good buy in most stores.

BEEF—Some markets are placing emphasis on fore-quarter cuts, which are in less demand during the summer. They're also suggesting ground beef, rib steaks and brisket.

FRUIT—Fruit, including watermelon, which has reasonable prices.

Eggs, more attractive prices on cantaloupe and honeydew melons soon.

Strawberry and pineapple prices are moderate with supplies slowing down a bit.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS—Fresh corn is about to reach its quality "peak."

Refrigerate it immediately to keep it fresh.

Window Shades Are Energy Savers

By LIZ RACKLEY, County Extension Agent

Window shades do a powerful "blocking" job for energy-saving touchdowns. They block out heat during summertime and block in heat during winter months. Opaque, light-colored shades block air flow better than draperies and venetian blinds, saving up to 21 cents on every home-cooling dollar and eight cents on each home-heating dollar.

Raise the shades during early morning, evening and nights to allow cooler air to enter and reduce the need for air conditioning.

For big energy savings during the winter, keep shades down during the coldest hours of the day—early morning, evenings and nights—to keep indoor heat locked inside the home. Raise the shades during the warmest parts of the day and let the sun's heat help warm the house.

For maximum energy savings, install window shades inside the window frame about one inch from the glass.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Be sure the shade "fills" the window space as much as possible, leaving only the narrowest margin possible between the shade and the window frame.

PROPER USE OF SHADES—For the biggest energy savings in the summer, pull shades down during hot sunny parts of the day. That will deflect the sun's rays and keep their heat from building up inside the house—and that will save home-cooling energy.

Raise the shades during early morning, evening and nights to allow cooler air to enter and reduce the need for air conditioning.

Window shades reduce heat gain in a home, on the summer sun by 63 percent and they prevent 24.31 percent heat loss in the winter.

PROPER INSTALLATION—For maximum energy savings, install window shades inside the window frame about one inch from the glass.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Peach Tree Borer Emerging

By CLINTON R. CURRIE, County Extension Agent

The lesser peach tree borer is emerging from older infested peach trees. The moth is about one-half inch long and is black with some yellow markings.

The moths can be laying eggs within 2 weeks. Insecticide application should begin during the egg laying stage, which is now in East Texas.

The application should be repeated in two weeks and again four weeks from the original application.

The lesser peach tree borer attacks the tree from six to twelve inches above the ground in the top of the tree. The peach-tree borer, which is not emerging now, attacks the tree at the base from six to eight inches below ground up to about six inches above the soil line. Both borers feed on the cambium layer and create a jelly-like substance. The lesser peach tree borer feeds in what appears to be a saw-like pattern on the limb.

Some orchards may not need to be treated. Orchards should be inspected for infestations and treated only if the lesser peach tree borer is found. Endosulfan (Thiodan R) is approved for the control of peach-tree borer.

Uncontrolled, the lesser peach tree borer will eventually cause the tree to become weakened and die. Infestations may also reduce the fruit crop. Publications on the control of peach-tree borer are available at the Tyler County Extension Office.

Mistletoe Is Parasite Plant

By CLINTON R. CURRIE, County Extension Agent

Mistletoe is a true parasite plant as it derives its food directly from trees. The haustoria or "feeding" structures of the mistletoe grow into the vascular system of the tree and derive its nutrients from the sap flow of the tree. Mistletoe is spread by birds feeding on the berries and spreading the seed burr in an attempt to use their droppings on other trees. The seed germinates in the rough bark of the tree and the haustoria then grow into the vascular system. There are a number of ways in which the mistletoe is removed. The use of mechanical means is the most commonly used. In addition to not cutting the mistletoe, the use of mechanical means is the step currently recommended. The mistletoe is removed by using a knife or some other type of sharp instrument and removing it from the wood where the haustoria is located.

Rains Hamper Harvest Operation

By HERB BREVARD, Extension Area Communications Specialist

Communications Specialist Herb Brevard says that the rains during the past week have hampered harvesting operations over most of East Texas. However, the rain was light in most areas and the unbalanced soil should dry within a short time with sunshine and adequate air movement.

Wayne Taylor, Extension Area economist-management, has another alternative for those producers wishing to expand their cow herd. Taylor says the producer can buy twice as many cows for the same price. The time a producer expands his herd depends primarily on the individual situation of the producer. If adequate capital is available, expansion is probably an excellent option. To expand his operation, all factors should be considered in making the final decision.

Texas 4-H Camp Soon

By LIZ RACKLEY, County Extension Agent

Texas 4-H Summer Camp will host about 1,000 youth this July for a three-day session in which they will learn canning, archery and outdoor cooking among other activities, points out Liz Rackley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Field at the Texas 4-H Center and stadium, and several sports, adds Liz Rackley.

A new amphitheater complex at the center will be dancing, songwriting, and other activities.

Twenty-three 4-H and adult leaders from Tyler County will attend camp July 22-25.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Take Vacation With energy In Mind

By LIZ RACKLEY, County Extension Agent

Before "waking out" the door, take five energy conservation steps to save home energy while away on vacation.

Consistently, horrid heat waves and temperatures that are unbearable.

Turn off all unnecessary appliances.

Unplug and "instant-on" television, timed coffee pots and clock radios.

When the vacation will last more than a week, consider turning off the refrigerator.

Remember to unswear the interior light bulb and prop the door open so mildew won't form.

Or, leave the refrigerator running, but put it on a warmer setting—be sure no food is left that will spoil at the warmer temperature.

Turn off the air conditioner, but remember to move any house plants to a friend's house if the warmer temperatures would harm them.

Consult a horticulturist about temperature ranges the plants can withstand.

Turn off the electric or gas supply to the hot water heater.

However, consider leaving on a timed light to discourage burglars.

Keep Pressure Canners Safe

Pressure canners can be tested by Liz Rackley, CEA at the Tyler County Extension Office. Call 283-2482 for more information on canning.

'Sundown' Named Official State Play

AUSTIN—A bill naming "Beyond the Sundown" as the Official State Play passed the House of Representatives today on the consent calendar.

Representative Jim Browder of Goldspring was one of the House sponsors of the measure.

An informal poll of school children passing through the Capitol revealed some mixed emotions. One child who had seen the play said that he really enjoyed "Beyond the Sundown" but was afraid it was going to be recognized as "Lone Star Drama" and "Fandango" all of which are out-

Parents Hold Keys To Teens Future

COLLEGE STATION—Parents hold the keys to their teenager's ever-changing future.

By doing five things, parents can help their adolescent child mature into a contributing, relatively self-sufficient member of our changing society, says Jenny Reinhardt.

Mrs. Reinhardt is a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

DECISION-MAKING SKILLS—With so many changing choices facing them, youth must learn how to make efficient, effective decisions.

Parents who serve as examples by practicing effective decision-making skills give their children this important tool for life.

OPEN COMMUNICATION—Open communication is the key to successful relationships in all spheres of life.

Teens learn this skill when parents and other adults provide home and school environments that encourage the development of open, free communications.

INDEPENDENCE—To become independent emotionally, socially, and financially, a teen must master several developmental tasks.

To help their teens make this vital step, parents must first understand the teen's need for it.

For example, by understanding that a teen needs to achieve emotional independence of parents and other adults, parents find it easier to support the youth's struggle for independence.

COPING WITH STRESS—Parents who show their teens how they cope with stress will give their children another important tool for life.

Successful coping includes flexibility, patience and creativity.

Parents teach their teens how to cope by doing three things: admitting stresses, talking about them, and seeking ways to handle them.

Parents harm their children when they provide negative examples of coping with stress—such as using alcohol, drugs or other such means of "escape."

HIGH SELF-ESTEEM—Teens have a better-than-average chance of growing into healthy, happy adults when their parents have a positive self-image and when they encourage this in their children.

The view adolescents have of themselves is learned in part from important people in their lives.

The experiences which youth have and their perception or interpretation of these experiences also influence self-esteem.

Parents give their teens a valuable life skill—a positive self-image—when they exhibit and encourage high self-esteem.

Title Search Is Important

When Jonathan and Sally Naismith sold their house this year, they couldn't understand why there had been a title search and examining together with a new owner's title insurance policy as part of the closing.

"We just bought the house three years ago, and there was a title search then," Jonathan said. "Why does there have to be another search and new policy when there hasn't been a change in the ownership?"

This is a reasonable and frequently-asked question according to the Family Housing Bureau, a public information service of Chicago Title Insurance Company.

The answer is that although there was a title search and examination several months ago, and an owner's title insurance policy issued, many things could have happened to affect the title to the property since that date. The buyer and the mortgage lender need to be sure the title is clear at the completion of each new transaction.

Some of the things that could happen in a short period to affect the title are these:

—The current owner may have placed a second mortgage on the property.

—The current owner may have made a prior sale of the property which, even though he thought it had fallen through, may not have cleared on the record or may still be enforceable by the first buyer.

The current seller may even have given a deed for the property to his spouse or to a relative or other person.

—The current owner may have had some remodeling or improvement done to the house but failed to pay for the work, so the contractor has filed a mechanics' lien against the house.

—The city or state may have taken part of the property by right of eminent domain to widen a street.

—There may be newly created liens against the property as a result of unpaid taxes or special assessments for public improvements such as streets, sewers and water.

which the current owner had no control over and possibly no actual notice.

—The owner may have a judgment against him, automatically resulting in a general lien on the property until the judgment debt is satisfied.

—The couple may have become divorced, and now one spouse claims a title or equitable interest in the home.

—There may have been a death of one of the owners, resulting in the possibility of a will; a will contest; undisclosed heirs; minor heirs who require a guardian to convey their interest; estate taxes; and claims of creditors.

So even though "there" has been no apparent change in ownership, the title can be impaired or totally lost by these and other occurrences, according to the Family Housing Bureau. These developments mean that other people may have claims which take priority over the rights of the new buyer or the lender.

Ninth Annual Gospel Festival

The beautiful East Texas town of Woodville will fall into nationwide prominence again this weekend when it hosts the Ninth Annual All-American Gospel Quartet Festival, and hundreds of gospel music fans and performers will arrive for the three days of whirlwind activities which will begin Friday night, June 15, and continue through Sunday, June 17. Some of the out-of-state singers and fans have already arrived for a few days of sightseeing, rest, and relaxation in the beautiful Pine and Lake Country of East Texas.

Everyone is invited to hear all these musicians perform in free concerts on Friday and Saturday nights at 7:30 p.m. in the air-conditioned high school auditorium and again on Sunday afternoon at 1:00 p.m.

Special programs of gospel music by these visiting musicians may be enjoyed under the giant oak shade trees on the court house lawn on Saturday from 10:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m., where the Band Booster Club will be selling refreshments.

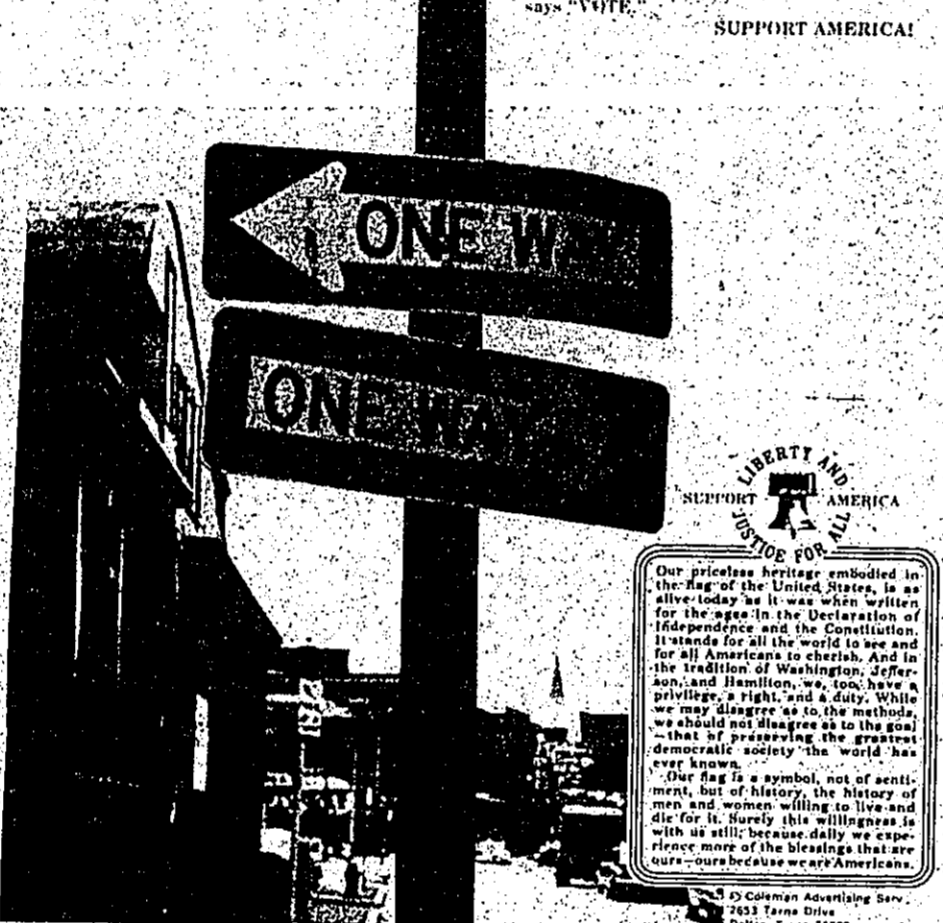

Thrill to the music of the Lamar Sego Family from Georgia. The Followers from Alabama. The Woodromes. The Glad Tidings Trio. The Voices of the Mainland, Haywood Robicheaux, The Masters Brothers, The Jesus Christ Gospelaires, Elmer Adaway, Heaven's Heirs, The Reflections of Faith, The Crain Family, Expressions of Love, Ebenezer Trio, The Rye Family, Country Gospel Singers, Edith Martin, and that happy, sangin' preacher, Rev. Tommy O'Dell, who will be back for the second time.

E.W. "Woody" Woodrome, a native son of Woodville and now a teacher in Nederland High School, is the founder and coordinator of the festival. He says, "The purpose of the festival is to show some of the clean-cut, well-groomed, happy Christians, who can have a music festival without the 'pot', drugs, and alcohol which are so apparent at the country music and rock music festivals."

Woodrome continued, "I especially invite and challenge the church folks in Texas to show their appreciation and encouragement to these visiting church folks by attending the FREE concerts."

Governor Bill Clements is showing his appreciation and encouragement to them by declaring June 10 through 17, 1979, to be Gospel Music Week in Texas. Woody stated further,

FOLLOW THE SIGNS

In a world where order depends heavily on regulation, we have learned to rely on signs for direction. Sometimes, however, the signs seem to point in completely opposite ways.

Now often we have heard a political candidate point out for us his way, all the while assuring us it is the only way. His opponent, meanwhile, diligently attempts to convince us that success lies in the opposite direction. The most confusing factor is that they may both be right in some degree. Before we can make a choice, we must consider the signs and utilize them in reaching our conclusions.

The decision we make when we cast our vote is vital to our future. Let us examine the issues with great care. Exercise our best judgment. And most important of all, let's be sure we follow our sign without fail—the sign that says "VOTE."

SUPPORT AMERICA!

Our priceless heritage embodied in the flag of the United States, is a gift today as it was when written for the ages in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. It stands for all who love this land and the traditions of Washington, Jefferson, Madison, and Hamilton. We owe this privilege, a right, and a duty, while we may disagree as to the methods, we should not disagree as to the goal—the preservation of the greatest democratic society the world has ever known.

Our flag is a symbol, not of sentiment, but of history. The history of men and women willing to live and die for it. Surely this willingness to die with us will, because daily we exercise more of the blessings that are ours because we are Americans.
