Gulf States Files For 20 Percent Rate Hike

Gulf States Utilities today is filing for a $50.5 million rate increase in Texas. Petitions are being filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUCT) in Austin and with incorporated cities in the company's Texas service area.

Gulf States Board Chairman W. Donham Crawford said, "The company truly regrets that in a time of inflation and energy uncertainty we must ask our customers to shoulder additional energy costs."

It would raise the average residential monthly bill by about 27 cents a day in Texas. Crawford said that increases are the only way Gulf States can reflect the earnings that will attract investors to finance the more than $2 billion the company plans to spend to construct four major generating units in the next six years.

Gulf States' last oil gas burning unit at its Sabine Station near Bridge City, Texas, is scheduled for completion late this year. After that, federal laws require that additional capacity must be provided by nuclear plants, which are much more expensive to build, he said.

The Consumer Alert

By Mark White, Attorney General

AUSTIN—If you're out with a number of prospective work and want some help in choosing the best one, you're beating a new job. The ads for lawyers say that "executive search" firms may sometimes mislead you. Many of these "standards" are the result of a services claim to be totally unbiased. In the past, different from the traditional of the jobhunter, and employment agencies, and sometimes they are the result of many claims to have expertise in the field. But they track records of selecting information being provided by the different firms. It is a good idea to check the management records and statistics. Do they are the executives?

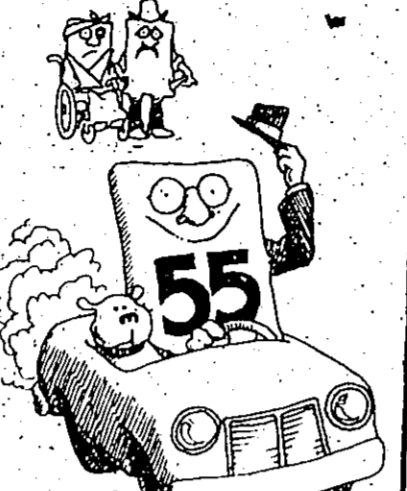

ONCE THERE WAS A LITTLE SPEED LIMIT WHO WASN'T NEARLY AS MACHO AS THE BIG-SPEED LIMITS. THEY LAUGHED AT HIM AND CALLED HIM A MILKTOAST, AND WORSE.

BUT ONE BIG-SPEED LIMIT KEPT CRACKING UP IN ACCIDENTS, AND ANOTHER WENT BROKE BUMPING GAS, AND SO IT WENT.

AND THE LITTLE SPEED LIMIT PUTTERING RIGHT ALONG, SAVING GAS, SAVING MONEY, SAVING LIVES.

Message to Washington

HIRING THE HANDICAPPED

MESSAGE: Because I am physically handicapped (partial paralysis of the hands and legs) I have found it almost impossible to gain employment, in spite of an excellent record in college. I have found some temporary work through the Texas Rehabilitation Commission but that ended last month. Recently, I took a U.S. Civil Service examination in hopes that I might qualify for a job as a bilingual telephone counselor at a government agency. I am fluent in Spanish and my Master's Degree is in International Business Administration. I was hired for the job. I was interviewed in Spanish and offered the job, which I enthusiastically accepted. I was told to report to work in two weeks. A few days later, however, I was called and told that I could not be hired because my college grade point average was 3.09 instead of the required 3.50. Needless to say, I was bitterly disappointed. This job was the first ray of hope I ever had to see my education and ability in Spanish. Please check into this and see if there is any way that I might still be able to get this job. K.J. Houston

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN—Don't believe it if you hear that the just completed session of the Legislature was pro-special-interest/consumers. The facts just don't match up with what actually happened. It is a fact that in August the states interest rate ceiling will be able to float from 10 to 12 percent, but it is only for a two year period. The change was necessitated by money market conditions that were not improving to record highs. The only alternative was the trying up of the Texas boosting industry and the jobs it produced. Hundreds of thousands of future home owners would have likely denied home ownership. The usury rate bill, then, should not be termed anti-consumer, because consumers will have the product available to them and an entire industry will not be strangled to death. Some say the consumer protection and deceptive trade practices laws were weakened, but the fact is that both sides of the issues agreed and in the final analysis the acts can be viewed as consumer oriented. Also to be counted are new consumer care programs, tighter regulation of hazardous toys, wider choice for selected medical service under Medicare policies, broader automobile insurance coverage, and doing away with automobile insurance increases because of speeding ticket convictions. So by and large, you can determine for yourself after looking down the list, that this was not an anti-consumer session. Interest session but a very balanced session of the legislature.

A TRIBUTE TO MY MOTHER

"How sweet can you get?"
A life devoted to family, friends, work and the down-to-earth.
Really loyal in times of adversity.
An everlasting smile that could break your heart in love or lift your spirits in sadness and make you smile too.

A braveman, a physical toughness that could look trouble and face in the eye and make them back off.
No one gave more of themselves and asked for so little.
No one who has ever let her tender loving care or fair her wrath, can ever forget it. She lived the word "love" and her whole life was a never-ending song of love, and I miss her so.
How sweet can you get?

Clean Dirty Filters With Vacuum Cleaner

Ready - Set... Air Condition!

As the first utility bills for the summer are received, grumbled about, and finally Tyler County consumers check air-conditioner units for energy-efficient operation.

"Ready... set, air conditioning means follow a simple checklist to get the most from your air conditioner, according to Luz Rakley, County Extension Agent.

Here's the checklist:
1. Check the filter. Clean it if it's dirty.
2. Dirty filters make air conditioners work harder.
3. If the filter is reusable, vacuum it, remove it, and wash it in soap and water, replace it damp on the machine.
4. If the filter is not reusable, change it. Make sure the replacement is the same material, quality and thickness as the original.
5. Trim shrubs and bushes around the unit.
6. Free air circulation around an air conditioner.
7. Check coils inside and outside.
8. Vacuum clean coils on the inside of the unit.
9. Also, look for dirt on the outside coils.
10. If cleaning is necessary, you'll probably need the help of a professional who can steam clean the coils.
11. Check the oil points.
12. If you're unsure of where to oil the unit, read the manual.
13. If you're still unsure, call the repairman.
14. Ask him what you can do in order that you can oil the unit yourself periodically.
15. Check the power cord on a room air conditioner.
16. Look for peeling or cracked insulation. Repair problem areas first.

Beef-Pork Price Spreads Unjust

WASHINGTON, June 22—Retail prices for beef and pork may be more than expected, according to a study by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The study, which is the latest in a series of reports on the cost of various commodities, found that the price of beef and pork has risen sharply in recent months, and that the increase is not justified by the cost of production.

The study also found that the price of beef and pork is higher than that of other meats, and that the increase is not justified by the cost of production.

The study was prepared by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and is the latest in a series of reports on the cost of various commodities.

Each piece of wood in a Texas Rocker is hand marked, cut and snapped. Here Vaughn demonstrates his skill on the band saw as he cuts a decorative backing for a love seat rocker.

An interesting wavy pattern, rockers are not made in stacks and chairs of the same style and size are ready to be assembled. Building rockers, according to Vaughn requires very precise cutting and fitting.

Texas Rockers

Building On Tradition

By D. Morey Sitton

The rocking chair, invented by Benjamin Franklin in 1764, has become a part of American heritage.

Comfortable and cool on the porch in summer, snug by the fire in winter, this functional piece of furniture has been enjoyed by both the young and young-at-heart for over 200 years.

Hugh Vaughn, of Woodville, began recreating that heritage 4 years ago when he developed the Texas Rocker.

Everybody around the country thinks of the big, tall Texan. The Texas Rockers are bigger than most, stouter and are put together to last," he says.

Vaughn, who has a BA degree in accounting and who was employed in that trade for several years, began making chairs as a joint venture. Almost immediately, he says, he was left with a rocking chair pattern, but no partner.

The pattern, originated from an elderly gentleman in Louisiana, but was nothing more than a sheet full of measurements.

"I've developed my own rocker," he says, "from that original pattern."

The Texas Rocker, he says, has resulted from a series of refinements both in construction and appearance. The chair is now characterized by longer rockers, a more comfortable contour to the body, and is considerably more decorative.

Another feature of the chairs, says Vaughn, that makes them distinctly "Texas" are the woods they are made from.

All of the rockers are constructed from hand-picked native hardwoods: black walnut or ash.

These woods, according to Vaughn, are not only attractive, but are highly durable as well. In addition to using the highest quality of wood, Vaughn treats each chair with both an oil finish and a clear protective over coating.

Constructing a chair, according to Vaughn, requires over 100 separate steps from start to finish. Each post on the rocker is carved by hand chisel on the lathe. Each piece of wood is hand marked, cut and shaped. The end product is a hand-made, custom-built rocker.

Vaughn's credentials as a craftsman speak for themselves. This past spring he was one of 200 chosen from a field of 1,100 applicants to exhibit at the St. Louis Spring Arts and Crafts Market. The show, he says, resulted in sales to shops in Indiana, Massachusetts and Colorado.

Vaughn has also exhibited in Michigan, Arizona, and Tennessee. In addition, Vaughn has also shown at the prestigious, juried Texas State Arts and Crafts Fair in Kerrville, Texas, for the past four years.

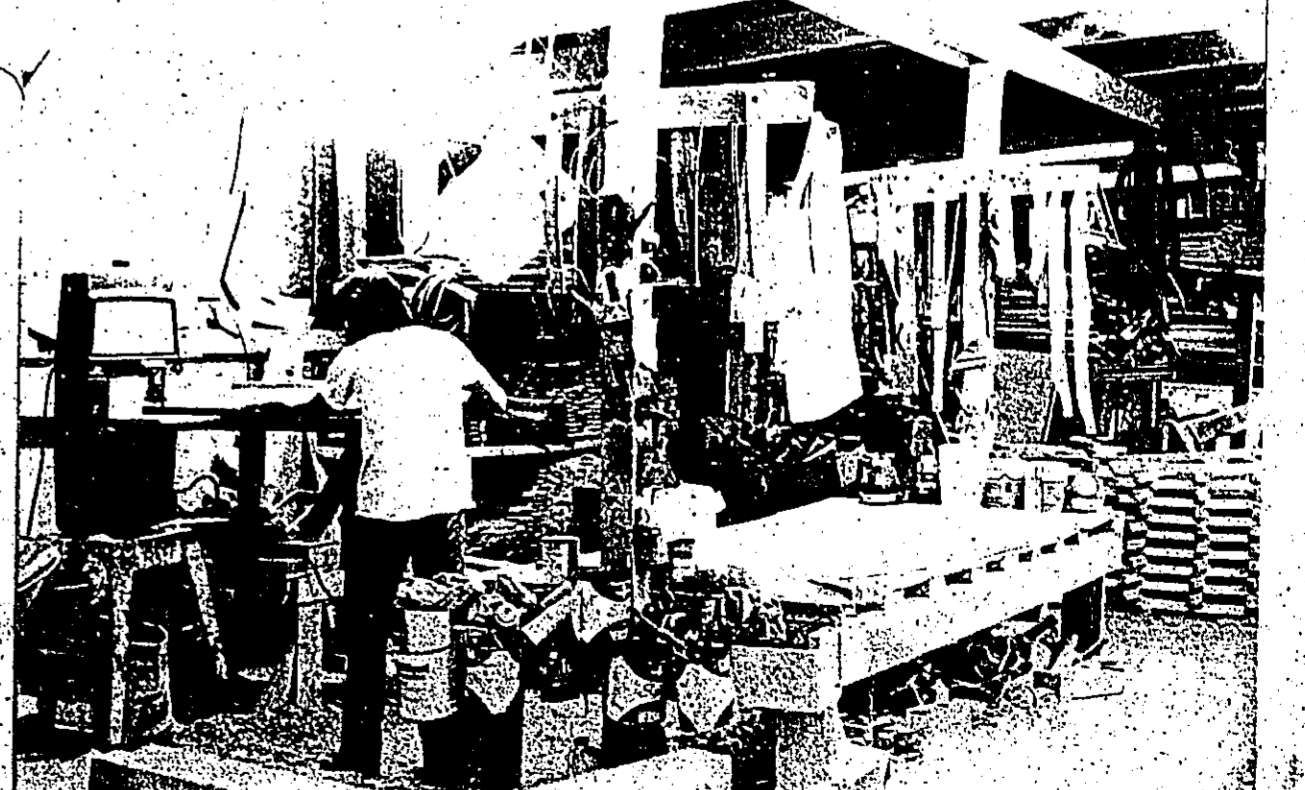

"I'm building a product and I've got to get out and sell it myself," says Vaughn, who spent over 2 months last year traveling and exhibiting in shows throughout the United States.

do. Vaughn has also exhibited in Michigan, Arizona, and Tennessee. In addition, Vaughn has also shown at the prestigious, juried Texas State Arts and Crafts Fair in Kerrville, Texas, for the past four years.

Vaughn's shop facilities have grown as the demand for Texas Rockers has increased. In addition to exhibiting at several major craft fairs each year, Vaughn has acquired sales outlets in Indiana, Massachusetts and Colorado.

Benefit Rodeo Scheduled

Employees of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company and the Silsbee Trail Riders Association will again team up for their third annual Benefit Open Rodeo on July 5 and 6.

This year's event will be held at the Trail Riders Arena, seven miles north of Silsbee on the Sprague Highway.

According to Gary Pritchard, local manager for Southwestern Bell, and a member of the company's Service Community Action Team, all proceeds from the rodeo will go to the Silsbee Association for the Retarded.

In addition to the two-day event, Pritchard said a benefit dance has also been planned for Thursday, July 5. Thursday's event will begin at 7 p.m. on the parking lot of the Silsbee Public Library.

Music for the dance will be provided by the Country Moonlight Express.

The a Bell spokesman said all typical rodeo events, including bull riding, calf roping and barrel racing will be scheduled.

Providing the entertainment on Friday will be recording artist Johnny Preston, whose hit single, "Running Bear" was atop the music charts during the sixties.

On Saturday, Springer's Sandra Galloway will entertain the spectators.

"This is our third year for the fund raising event," Pritchard added. "Since 1977, we've been able to raise over $20,000 for the Silsbee Association for the Retarded."

The association's Sheltered Workshop teaches basic self-help skills to children from ages 3 to 16, and provides a work environment for retarded persons 16 and older.

Tickets for the rodeo are $1 for children 12 and under, and $3 for adults. Advance tickets can be obtained at Southwestern Bell Business Offices at 105 South Third at Silsbee, 240 E. Milan in Jasper, 3500 Highway 365 in Fort Arthur and 555 Main in Beaumont.

TO APPEAR: Recording artist Johnny Preston will be appearing on July 5 at a Benefit Open Rodeo, sponsored by Southwestern Bell employees and the Silsbee Trailriders Association.

Pine Beetle Not Active This Year

IFRIN - The southern pine beetle, a forest pest that devastated more than 40 million acres of pine trees in 1976, does not appear to be active in Texas this year.

A state wildlife biologist, who spotted a few beetles in the south last year, says that the pine beetle is not active in Texas this year.

Some of the beetles were reported primarily in the Dallas-Fort Worth and Houston areas.

According to Texas Forest Service records, this is the lowest level of beetle activity in Texas since the mid 1950's. Historical data indicates that the pine beetle has a 6 to 8 year cycle.

Last year only a few beetles were reported primarily in the Dallas-Fort Worth and Houston areas.

Increase To Affect VA Pensioners

The first cost-of-living increase in Social Security payments since passage of last year's Veterans Administration pension reform bill will affect more than 2.5 million VA pensioners in a variety of ways, said W. Myatt, Director of VA Regional Office, Houston, said today.

Myatt said the increase will bring a .9-9.9 percent bump in monthly payments for approximately 100,000 veterans and their beneficiaries.

Under the new program, higher pension rates than the old one, all income of a veteran and his dependents is counted in calculating his pension.

Under the old plan, certain income is excluded.

The 9.9 percent increase for new program pension recipients means that a single veteran with no income will receive $1,092 a year, up from the current $3,550.

A veteran with one dependent and no other income will receive $5,112, an increase from $4,651 at present. For each additional child the rate is $660 a year.

One party residential rates would increase $1.55 per month in each exchange served by the company.

The 13 percent increase would apply to both flat rate residence service and measured one party residential service.

Rate increases for two party residential customers would range from $1.30 per month in the smallest exchanges to $1.80 per month in the largest.

One party business rates would increase $4.65 per month throughout the date under the company's proposal.

Rogers said no rate increases are being sought for in-state long distance calls.

Continuing growth and inflation leave us no choice but to ask for increased rates," Rogers said.

In the past three years, we've spent almost $3 billion in construction expenses.

Southwestern Bell's proposed monthly basic local rates:

One party residential measured service would range from $4.45 in Rate Group 1 to $6.55 in Rate Group 10.

One party business service would range from $14.40 in Rate Group 1 to $29.65 in Rate Group 10.

Southwestern Bell present rates range from:

$4.75 in Rate Group 1 to $6.75 in Rate Group 10 for one party residential (non-measured) service.

$5 in Rate Group 4 to $7.75 in Rate Group 10 for two party residential service.

$2.50 in Rate Group 1 to $4.75 in Rate Group 10 for two party residential service.

$25 in Rate Group 10 for one party business service.

Southwestern Bell Asks For Rate Hike

Southwestern Bell today asked the Public Utility Commission for "145.2 million in new Texas rates. However, the company emphasized that its actual revenue need is $242.9 million.

The 145.2 million request is in line with President Carter's anti-inflation guidelines, which are endorsed by Southwestern Bell, said Doyle E. Rogers, the company's president for Texas.

The need is clear for $242.9 million in new rates," Rogers said. "All the facts support an increase of that amount."

However, he pointed out, "we are committed to meet the president's guidelines on price increases. Consequently, we're asking the Commission to approve only $145.2 million."

Currently, Southwestern Bell is earning 8.55 per cent. Rogers said. "With present rates, we cannot hope to reach the 9.488 earnings level, and we certainly cannot achieve the level we need."

Rogers pointed out that approval of $242.9 million in new rates would allow the company to earn only 9.91 per cent, still far below the 10.97 per cent return actually needed in Texas.

Southwestern Bell's proposed monthly basic local rates:

One party residential measured service would range from $4.45 in Rate Group 1 to $6.55 in Rate Group 10.

One party business service would range from $14.40 in Rate Group 1 to $29.65 in Rate Group 10.

Southwestern Bell present rates range from:

$4.75 in Rate Group 1 to $6.75 in Rate Group 10 for one party residential (non-measured) service.

$5 in Rate Group 4 to $7.75 in Rate Group 10 for two party residential service.

$2.50 in Rate Group 1 to $4.75 in Rate Group 10 for two party residential service.

$25 in Rate Group 10 for one party business service.

Keep Post Office In Mind When Mailing Letters

July 15 is the deadline for mailers to use up small and undervalued envelopes and cards, Woodville Postmaster Bruce Latalois reminds residents of Woodville today.

"Letting mail or newspapers overflow a mailbox literally advertises that a house or apartment is empty and unguarded," Postmaster Latalois said, "and amounts to an open invitation to burglars."

The postmaster suggests that the householders ask a friend or neighbor to empty their mailboxes daily when they're going to be gone for a relatively short time; have the post office hold the mail as long as 30 days, or have it forwarded to a vacation address.

The postmaster also offered some other tips for vacationers:

- Buy enough stamps or post cards and other correspondence before leaving on vacation.
- Remember to use the right amount of postage - ten cents for post cards and 15 cents for letters that weigh one ounce or less. For letters that weigh more than one ounce the additional postage is 13 cents an ounce.
- Make sure that you deposit mail where it is most frequently picked up; when possible, at post offices or in downtown, business district collection boxes.
- Take along an address book that includes ZIP Codes of those you plan to correspond with.
- Postmaster Latalois also says taking the time to write legibly will help immensely in getting cards and letters to their destinations more quickly.

Fire Is Third In Fatafs

Nearly 3.5 million fires occurred in the United States in 1977, resulting in a total property loss of $6 billion. In addition, fire has become the third most common cause of fatal accidents in the U.S. In 1977, the latest current figures available, 9,950 civilians died as a result of fire, an increase of 13% over the previous year. Of these deaths, approximately 7,800 were incurred in residential fires.

Since most of the fires occur in people's homes and apartments, Liberty Mutual Insurance Company offers some suggestions on how to safeguard your residence against fire and stop the fire before it starts. According to Alan Meyers, Liberty's Loss Prevention Department, these tips may save you some money and make your home safer.

Have a safety technician inspect your portable heat equipment before you put it to work for the summer. If you use a gas water heater, have it inspected during the summer months. Although gas heaters provide comfort, they can be a fire hazard. This is not a flammable gas, but it is a flammable gas. If it is not properly vented, it can build up in your home and cause a fire. If you have a gas furnace, have it inspected by a professional. If you have a gas water heater, have it inspected by a professional. If you have a gas furnace, have it inspected by a professional.

Have your furnace cleaned and inspected now that summer is over. A clean furnace helps insure a safe fire plan for the cold winter months. Also, remember never to use a fireplace that is not equipped with a screen glass. Replace all flammable items with ones of the same size.

Keep matches away from children. Teach your children fire safety habits at an early age. Instruct them not to play with matches or lighters, and always keep such sources of fire out of their reach. Never store matches in the "candy" attractor to hold them above the stove since a child could as easily be scolded for stealing a candy as for stealing a match.

Let your TV and stereo sit on a sturdy table. Allow adequate air space around your television and stereo equipment to prevent overheating. If the equipment is not working properly, have it checked immediately and don't use it as it could be a fire hazard.

Keep a fire check on your wiring. Make certain all electrical extension cords are in the open rather than under carpets, over books or through other openings and inspect them regularly for wear. Refrain from overloading electrical outlets and be sure your home is equipped with special circuits for heavy-duty appliances such as air conditioners and washing machines.

Liberty Mutual suggests that gasoline and other flammable liquids always be stored in metal safety containers, since an open flame could easily ignite the fumes. Store them in a well-ventilated area where leakage cannot be ignored such as the outside garden shed. Also, move your power mower before starting it, as a stray spark could ignite the fumes and cause an explosion.

If you smoke, be careful while relaxing in a chair. Never smoke near flammable liquids or in a confined or cluttered area such as an attic or cellar where a live ash could smolder and ignite. Use large ashtrays that are free of paper and cellophane and douse the ashtray's contents with water before emptying.

If you have a work area, keep it clean and fire safe. All flammable items should be cleared away from the workbench; paint and solvent containers should be kept closed and away from all sources of ignition; and soiled rags, wood scraps and other combustible debris should be removed and stored outside in a metal container. Power tools (as well as all electrical appliances) should have a testing agency label of approval, be kept in good repair and be properly stored.

Energy Affects Cattle Future

COLLEGE STATION--The cattle industry's future must be planned within a "framework of energy," assured Texas A&M University's veteran animal scientist, John K. Riggs.

"We hadn't been forced to do it. Now we must," Riggs said. "Although there's a whole host of ways it can already be done, we've only begun to explore ways to reduce energy use."

"The second (and current) pit is worse, and maybe more through-provoking about conservation of energy," Riggs added. "But the outlook is that the energy squeeze will gain strength before it weakens."

Riggs credited the livestock industry for modifications toward use of less energy and labor, such as triple-decker trucks replacing double-deckers for hauling more cattle, merging feeding pits, feed mills and slaughter houses, and more cattle in less time.

He also cited many time and energy-saving innovations proven but not widely accepted by the industry. Some of these included reducing pickup mileage up to 60 percent by feeding supplements to cattle two to three times a week instead of daily, and feeding of grain with high (25 to 30 percent) moisture content, rather than purchase of grain with 12 percent moisture, only to apply steam to soften and flake it for higher efficiency in producing beef.

Riggs said that the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station launched a new five-year plan for agricultural engineers to develop additional methods to reduce energy requirements for processing of feed and for animal scientists to work on reduction of energy in processing and packing of meat.

Bullock Releases Report
AUSTIN, TEXAS--Texas cities shared $218 million in rebates from the one-percent optional city sales tax during the first six months of this year, State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Friday in announcing the city's June tax allocations.

This figure compares to $196.4 million that cities received during the same six months during 1978. Bullock said that June allocations for the more than 900 Texas cities will be $67.7 million, compared to a 1978 statewide allocation of $60.9 million for the month.

Dallas will get a check for $7.9 million, bringing the city's year-to-date payments of $25.8 million. Houston's payment for June totals $14.3 million. The city has received $45.8 million in tax rebates for 1979. San Antonio's rebate for this month will be $3.5 million, bringing that city's 1979 total to $22.7 million. Fort Worth's check will be $2.6 million for a yearly total of $8.7 million. Bullock also announced tax allocation totaling $53.5 million to the state's two Metropolitan Transit Authorities. San Antonio will receive MTA tax rebates of $1.6 for June and Houston will receive $12.7 million.

Compare Lease Terms Before You Buy

COLLEGE STATION. Leasing may offer an economic and practical alternative to buying, says Nancy Granovsky, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

However, consumers need to carefully compare the costs of buying with cash, buying on credit, and leasing, she recommends.

The Consumer Leasing Act requires leasing companies to tell the consumer the facts about the cost and terms of their contract before the consumer agrees to the lease.

Whenever a consumer leases a car, furniture, appliance or any other personal property for more than four months, and uses for personal, family or household use, the consumer should get a written statement of the cost and terms of the leasing.

To do the questions:

1. How much is any advance payment, such as a security deposit?
2. How much are the regular payments? How many regular payments are there, and when are they due? What is the total amount of those payments?
3. What are the costs for any license, registration, taxes, and any other fees, such as maintenance?
4. What kind of insurance is required?
5. What is responsible for maintaining and servicing the property? What standards for reasonable wear and tear are in the leasing company's set?
6. What is the penalty for default or late payment?
7. How is the lease to be cancelled? Are there any charges for cancelling the lease?

Buy Drugs Economically

Getting the best buy in prescription drugs is not as easy as comparison shopping for many items. The Medical Association offers some suggestions to help you get the most good for your money.

Ask your physician about substituting a less expensive drug than the drug prescribed. Sometimes the doctor can prescribe a safe substitute, but many drugs do not have equivalent drugs. If a completely equivalent drug exists, it may be cheaper.

As questions, find out if the drug has side effects when taken with alcohol, foods or other drugs.

To help the doctor decide about drugs, have a record of all prescription and over-the-counter drugs you currently are taking, past prescriptions and drugs you ignore.

Call around to find inexpensive pharmacies. When a doctor does not mean you saving, ask how much the prescribed amount of the drug will cost.

Avoid trying to save money by taking drugs you have had a long time. They can be useless or dangerous. Bad smells, fumes, color, wrong consistency, or other odd date on the prescription are a few clues to bad drugs.

Since drug dispensary vary from days to years, check with a doctor or pharmacist if you are on doubt. Keep in mind that even if a drug is still good, it may not be what you need for a specific illness or a newer, better drug may have come out.

Store drugs properly to increase their lifespan. Often the humid bathroom cabinet is the wrong place for drugs since some must be kept in a cool, dry place.

Keeping drug containers tightly closed is another important aspect of drug storage.

Follow directions fully. It is a waste of money and a threat to health if you ignore instructions.

Remember that visiting a doctor does not mean you need a prescription. In this society that thinks a pill can cure anything, patients can pressure doctors for unneeded medicine.

Brown Patch Developing on Augustine Lawns

Clinton R. Currie
 County Extension Agent

Cool, wet weather this spring has led to brown patch disease of St. Augustine be- come prevalent on many lawns. Centipede grass and bermudagrass are also sus- ceptible to brown patch, but to a lesser degree than St. Augustine.

In the early stages, the disease may appear suddenly as small, circular brown or yellowed leaf blades with a discoloration and rotting at the point the leaves attach to stolons or runners. Leaf blades so af- fected can be pulled from the runners with only slight effort. This condition is useful for rapid diagnosis of the disease.

Brown patch is caused by a fungus which grows at temperatures that are cool, usually below 60 degrees Fahrenheit, and adequate surface moisture is available for fungal growth. Diseased areas frequently appear first in poorly drained lawns or in spots where water tends to stand following rains. Heavy applications of nitrogen fertilizer in late summer or early fall may contribute to disease development.

Fungicides suitable for control of brown patch include PCNB (Terraclor), maneb (Fenel), chlorothalonil (Daconil 2787) and benomyl (Tersan). These materials should be used at dosage rates specified on the product label. Where brown patch damage is severe, a repeat ap- plication in two weeks is advis- able.

Ask Questions First, Then Spray Later

Excessive use or misuse of pesticides is both economi- cally wasteful and environ- mentally harmful. Many of the naturally occurring benefi- cial insects that aid in the control of insect pests feeding on vegetable plants, are un- necessarily killed. Without natural enemies, the popu- lation of plant feeding insects can build-up to a plant injury level even faster and greater than if a pesticide were used.

Consequently, a veg- etable gardener without the aid of beneficial insects becomes increasingly dependent on the availability and application of pesticides. This pesticide dependency will likely con- tinue since pesticides also pre- vent continuance of benefi- cial insect population.

In essence, pesticides should be used only when the beneficial populations are few to keep the insect pest numbers below the plant's economic injury level.

To determine if spraying is necessary, homeowners should inspect their gardens and monitor the insect population every day for symptoms of plant damage.

Handpicking the large in- sect pest and destroying their masses at first sight is an effective means of in- sect control and can thereby reduce pesticide use. Those insects that can be easily removed by hand include squash bugs, harlequin bugs, squash bugs and horn worms. Do not forget to destroy their egg masses, normally found on the leaf surface, or the insect population could increase rapidly.

If it becomes necessary to apply a pesticide, select when possible a pesticide that is specific for the pest you want to control. For example, use Kelthane for the control of spider mites and use an insect bacterium such as Dipel, Thuricide or Biorol for the control of cabbage loopers.

Home owners should learn to recognize the adult and immature stages of benefi- cial insects present in their gardens, such insects include praying mantids, lacewings, ladybugs, beetles, tiger beetles and many others.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, or national origin.

Wall-To-Wall Carpet A 'Dye Hard'

COLLEGE STATION — within fiber families that cause wall-to-wall carpet is a "dye same nylon to accept a dye," says Dr. Jane Berry, a while other nylons will not. When carpet yarns are a blend of fibers, each fiber will react differently to a given Texas Agricultural Extension dye.

Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Success in redyeing a car- pet depends on several factors: dye carpet or not, first know over which most people have the content of the yarns— little or no control.

Major stumbling blocks: bency.

Then test a small piece of the carpet.

Apply some of the dye to swatch of carpet and let it dry overnight.

Different fibers respond to dyes and dyeing process in different ways.

Wool is the easiest fiber to dye. Since it's highly absor- tive, it accepts the widest range of different dyes and colors.

On the other hand, poly- esters (olefin) fibers are someone spills liquid on it or washes it, some dye will be removed from the carpet.

In between those two ex- tremes are nylons, polyesters and acrylics.

To further complicate matters, there are variations in dyeing might be in order.

Timber Sellers Should Seek Market Help

LIVINGSTON-To make intelligent decisions, potential timber sellers should seek information about timber marketing and cutting practices.

Don Staples, district forester with the Texas Forest Service, a part of the Texas A&M University System, gave this advice recently when asked how private landowners should react to offers from timber buyers.

"Many area forest products companies are searching for sources of supply to replace badly depleted timber inventories at areas, especially in the Texas A&M University System," Staples stated.

"Unless woodland owners know something about current marketing and cutting practices they will not be able to make the proper decisions."

"For instance, some buyers may offer to buy all pine trees at a certain diameter. This type of harvest may yield the largest immediate return to a landowner, but it will be at the expense of future financial returns from the property."

"Diameter limit cutting will lengthen the time interval between harvests and reduce the quality of subsequent timber harvests. Diameter limit cutting is the best option for timber owners above a specified minimum diameter," Staples said.

"Lighter periods select size harvests may be profitable in the short run, but they may limit harvests for some time in the future. Landowners should consider the long-term benefits of timber harvesting. Selling timber can be complicated and time-consuming. It could also be unnecessarily costly."

"Area landowners should contact the Texas Forest Service at 508 Pan American Drive in Livingston or call 327-4812.

Rural Initiative Grants Total $19.2 Million

WASHINGTON. Presidential and cabinet officials today announced grants totaling $19.2 million in a White House "rural initiative program designed to help overcome economic and social problems in rural areas. The grants went to non-profit community based organizations.

The announcements came from Jack Watson, assistant to the President for Inter-governmental affairs, Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland, Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall, and Director of the Community Services Organization Olivarez.

Speaking at a reception to representatives of community based organizations and delegates to the annual convention of Rural America, Bergland said the funds will be used to develop systematic plans in rural areas to overcome such problems as employment and the lack of decent housing, medical care, water facilities, and other community services.

"The grants announced today are a symbol of the kind of cooperative efforts being made to improve life in rural America," Bergland said.

Bergland said the grants have recognized their problems and are taking positive steps to overcome them. "The grants will help them identify their specific needs, resources and available solutions."

The organizations receiving the rural development grants have been identified by the cabinet agencies involved as being efficient, effective and concerned. They serve the poor, minorities and the disadvantaged.

The USDA planning grants were awarded to:

- Texas Development, Inc., a community development corporation of Shelbyville, Tennessee, for an individual improvement and expansion plan to create jobs for the unemployed, low income and minority residents of Bedford county (130,000).

- Opportunities, Inc. in Phoenix, Arizona, to develop plans for economic development, housing, health services an education for farmworkers in rural areas of Maricopa county (37,500).

Southern Rural Policy Congress in Montgomery, Alabama, to assist some of the poorest small farmers in four rural counties: $7,500 from USDA, plus $20,000 from CSA.

Northwest Regional Housing Authority in Boone county, Arkansas, for a housing plan to assist low income families, the elderly, and the handicapped in seven rural counties (74,000).

Portable Practical Educator Preparation, Inc. in Tucson, Arizona, to develop a plan to improve delivery of social services including housing, health, transportation and economic development, to low income, minority and unemployed rural residents. Pima county (37,500).

Northwest New Jersey Community Action Agency in Phillipsburg, New Jersey, to plan for low income and elderly residents in Warren county (28,500).

Costal Enterprises, Inc. of Bath, Maine, for a comprehensive plan to help improve, manage and market systems for small farmers in four rural counties (37,500).

Costal Plains Rural Development Corporation in Charleston, S.C., for a comprehensive plan for industrial development and housing in Indian community of Four Holes in Dorchester county and the community of Cross in Berkeley county (30,000).

Labor Department grants announced by Secretary Marshall and their purposes are:

- 28 Youth Employment and Training grants and a Youth Community Conservation and Improvement grants for 14.2 million to alleviate unemployment among farmworkers south.
- Projects include repairing solar water heaters, developing nature education centers and integrating training and educational programs.

Bad Bear Behavior Leads To Syndrome

A steady increase in the number of injuries to hikers in U.S. parks each year has altered bear behavior that the dangerous mammals have begun to attack tourists. It's called the "mugger" bear syndrome," reports the current issue of National Wildlife magazine, and the problem is reaching epidemic proportions in Montana's Glacier National Park.

From 1910, when Glacier was created, through 1955, only one person was injured by a grizzly there, says the National Wildlife Federation's bimonthly publication. As park visitation climbed rapidly in the mid 1950's, the situation began to change. Since 1956, 21 people have been injured by grizzlies and three have been killed.

To date, Glacier is the only U.S. park where grizzly behavior changes have become so obvious. But it's a problem all parks may have to face. Charles Junkel, a University of Montana, Grizzly expert captured at National Wildlife.

"American parks provide a setting for continuous contact between bears and people, and as a result, as are beginning to suffer serious problems with fearless and aggressive bears."

At Great Smoky Mountains and Yosemite National Parks, there have been reports of black bears charging people, but because grizzlies are so much bigger than their cousins they can grow to 10 feet and 1,700 pounds, the situation at Glacier is much more alarming.

There is another complicating problem: The grizzly was classified as a "threatened" species by the federal government in 1975. Glacier is one of the bear's last major strongholds in the lower 48 states, reports National Wildlife, and now because of its aggressive behavior, the animal's survival at Glacier may be ensured only by imposing stringent controls on people in the park. But any such controls contradict a federal mandate which states that parks are for the people.

Recently, park officials have noted a new, alarming trend: attacks on hikers. Instead of the classic confrontations involving a sow and her cubs, many attacks have involved just a single bear. And often the bears have attacked without provocation. In one case, a woman was killed when a young grizzly ripped into her tent in a popular campground and dragged her away.

Last year, says National Wildlife, one minor injury occurred when two hikers surprised a pair of grizzlies along a trail. "But a number of bear mauling incidents took place, including one in which a woman had to take refuge in a backcountry outbuilding while a bear stood outside scratching at the walls."

In attempts to solve the serious problem, Glacier park officials are trying to prevent grizzlies from associating with people. Garbage collection and storage facilities have been improved. At campgrounds, all ice chests and other food storing devices must be locked in cars at night. And backpackers are no longer allowed to bury trash in the trail.

Already Glacier authorities have begun to restrict trails and campgrounds. But despite these preventive actions, a problem all parks may have to face. Charles Junkel, a University of Montana, Grizzly expert captured at National Wildlife.

"Don't panic. If the bear doesn't charge or menace you, speak to it in firm, even tones and back away slowly."

"Never run. Climb high into a tree if possible."

"If the grizzly charges, shout (don't scream) at it. If you are attacked, try to face down on the ground or curl up with your hands clasped behind your neck. Play dead. Don't struggle or cry out."

If you are lucky, says National Wildlife, this will convince the grizzly that you are not a threat.

Property Values Assist Broker

COLLEGE STATION- Small business firms hard pressed for new sources of capital funds may find it advantageous to consider property re-evaluation as a means of raising needed funds.

The suggestion comes from Roman, Sr., economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Growing firms are often faced with an increased demand for capital expansion which, to finance larger inventories to provide for a safety cushion" due to high or accounts receivable," notes Roman. "Since banks usually demand specific collateral for term loans, the small entrepreneur may have to look at the possibility of an increased net worth resulting from inflated property values."

Inflation may have vastly boosted the value of real estate and capital equipment far beyond the net value reflected in the firm's books, An independent appraiser may be hired to make a re-valuation of the company's property as a means of reaping the benefits to be derived from this source of collateral," suggests Roman.

Independence Day By Cong. Charles Wilson

The Congress was in session in the hall of the State House in Philadelphia when the Declaration of Independence was adopted July 4th, 1776.

In the spire of this venerable building hung a bell, inscribed with the words of scripture: "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

The legend follows that a small boy, hearing the Congress' announcement of independence, cried the news to his father, who awaited a signal to ring the bell in the tower. Deep, sonorous tones of the Liberty Bell proclaimed that the thirteen united colonies were now the thirteen United States.

Thus we began the great struggle for the creation, sustenance, and preservation of the American Republic -- a struggle that has continued, full force, to this very day.

Throughout the struggle American traditions have held firm -- firm to the course they steered at Lexington, Concord and Bunker Hill; at Gettysburg and Appomattox; at Chateau Thierry, St. Michel, and Argonne, in World War I; and on D-Day in World War II. In every case the Stars and Stripes have borne forward the principles of freedom upon which we stand. Americans will continue their fight, whether by military force or diplomatic action, whenever democracy is absent.

We have not and may not win every battle. But we must try. We must remember there are people in a dozen countries or more who have national holidays of their own to celebrate, yet their bell must remain silent. They live under political oppression. For them, freedom is a dead thing. Independence is a dream beyond all hope of mankind. Liberty is a word without true meaning.

Americans should reflect on their blessings. Independence Day means re-dedication to the principles prescribed by our forefathers and protected by our ancestors. We must cultivate within our borders everything which will enhance the glory of our heritage. Americans must eliminate every vestige that remains of the forces which threatened our nation two hundred years ago. This country must see to it that it is strong enough to defend itself and its ideals against the enemies of freedom.

This Independence Day, let us again ring the Liberty Bell and celebrate not only our past war for freedom, but also the current battles which promise to make all men and women free.

Bentsen Looks At Coal Rates

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Senator Lloyd Bentsen announced Tuesday that the Joint Economic Committee will hold hearings into rapidly rising railroad coal shipping rates.

"We want to examine the escalating costs as well as the long and short range problems they pose for our efforts to achieve the national goal of reduced reliance on foreign oil imports," said Bentsen, Chairman of the JEC.

"The trend of large coal shipping rate increases, Texas and much of the rest of the nation is creating serious problems for consumers of electricity and for other large users and potential users of coal."

"Left unchecked, this trend could jeopardize the goal of making coal a centerpiece of the nation's efforts to achieve greater energy independence and significantly weaken the prospect of controlling inflation."

The JEC hearing will be held at 10:00 a.m. July 18 in Room 5-207 of the Capitol.

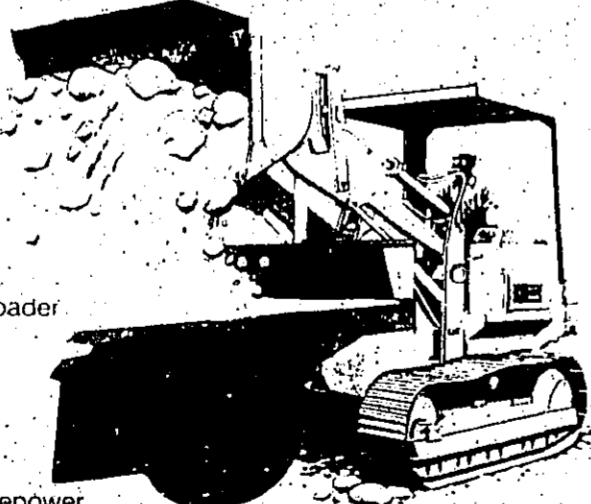

Senator Bentsen Tuesday said coal haul rate hikes for San Antonio and Houston are typical of a problem which has become nationwide in scope. Utilities in both these Texas cities have experienced coal shipping rate increases of over 100 percent in recent months.

"There are two elements of the problem. For the most part large coal users are captives of the railroads -- there is currently no other feasible mode of transportation open to them. The other element is the fact that the nation's chronically falling rail industry is in desperate need of additional revenue," Bentsen said.

"Finding an acceptable balance between the needs of the nation's large coal users and the rail industry while achieving our energy goals is the crucially important challenge before Congress and the administration. The problem is further complicated by the need to control inflation," Senator Bentsen said.

A witness list, including representatives of electric utilities, other large coal users, the rail and coal industries, the Interstate Commerce Commission, and other interested parties, will be shortly.
