High Fuel Costs Threaten Road Maintenance Funds

The possibility of reduced road and bridge maintenance services in Tyler County was a major consideration in a budget workshop held by the Commissioners' Court, during a meeting Monday, August 6.

With the present cost of fuel, added Commissioner Maxie Riley, "we will be able to work only six or seven months of next year before the money runs out."

In an effort to save fuel doubled since the last budget was set, it will be very difficult to maintain current services provided by the county.

One area where a substantial reduction in the budget could be made was in vacation relief secretarial help. According to County Auditor Ann Foaden, approximately $2,700 is currently budgeted for this expense.

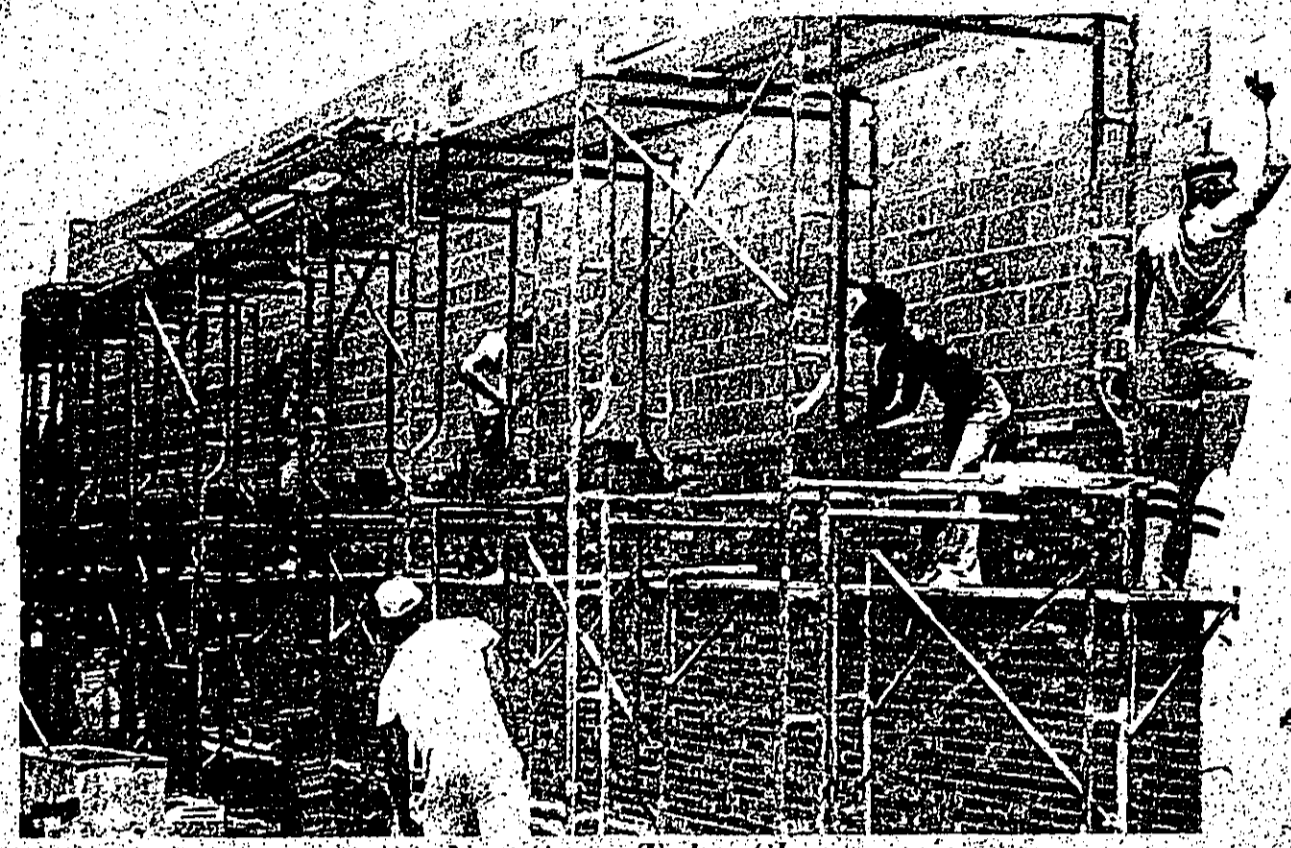

Following more discussion on this matter, Sturrock recessed the meeting until Thursday, August 9, 10 a.m.

that it is going to be necessary to "cut out the frills." The commissioners decided that while it is necessary to send these employees to various schools, sending them to the annual convention was an unnecessary expense.

The commissioners discussed a pay raise for county employees during the 1979-80 year. Commissioner Maxie Riley stated that any raise should be "across the board" for all employees.

Following more discussion on this matter, Sturrock recessed the meeting until Thursday, August 9, 10 a.m.

GOING UP--Bricklayers and construction crews were busy at work this week on the new Wal-Mart store. By mid-week the front of the store was almost completely bricked. Construction, which was slowed by recent rains, appeared to be in full swing.

Ain't It Great!

By MIKE BURROW

I feel like I have to say, "It's great to be alive again!" It's great to be out of the city and back in the country where people and nature has its place.

Everyone knows that newspapers make mistakes but did you know that those hidden typists who prepare the selection labels for juke boxes are as bad as we are...

HAS TICKETS--There is a lady in Warren who has a couple of boxing tickets you may be interested in. They are a little out of date though.

Mrs. Peterson, who moved to Warren from Dallas, is an active person. She asked me if there was a "hobby club" around Woodville and being new here myself I didn't know what to tell her.

Keep your eyes open folks. There's going to be some changes ahead for The Tyler County Booster. Changes I hope you will like.

College Courses Offered Here

In cooperation with the Woodville School District, Angelina College will be offering college classes in Woodville this fall for the first time.

Registration for classes will be held in Room 30 in the brick classroom wing adjacent to the school administration building on Monday, August 13, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen Watching Washington

Texas Instruments is one of the big employers in our state with 78,000 workers. This is a lot of jobs, but it's small potatoes when compared with the army of full-time workers that would be needed to comply with paperwork demands made each year by the federal government.

According to the latest estimates from the Office of Management and Budget, it takes the equivalent of 393,000 full-time workers to fill up all the forms government in Washington sends out.

There is an average of 100 forms being sent out each day. The phrasing in the American people's minds is that the government is too big and too expensive. No million hours a year is being spent on forms and forms are the backbone of the government.

I must have said here that the OMB estimates are correct. I am sure that the OMB estimates are correct. I am sure that the OMB estimates are correct. I am sure that the OMB estimates are correct.

There was some blurring of lines on the financial aspects of the Chrysler deal. Chrysler Corp. is the manufacturer of more than 200,000 cars in the last three months. In an earlier generation, we had a car for every man, woman and child. Dodge Brothers, Wags of the day always reminded us that with that medalion as your mine, Dodge cars did not need horns to discourage them.

The Speaker Reports

Hard-headed as it may sound, we don't agree with the passing of the American business community. And much gnashing of teeth by the folks in our affected communities. Supporting absenteeism at the federal business is not our business. This action was partly due to a recent court case, Ramirez v. Bennett, in which the Supreme Court of Texas held that there is an implied warranty of habitability in rental contracts.

Pickled Okra - A Texas Favorite
Pick the extra okra from your home garden or roadside vegetable stand that you do not want to eat. Pickled okra is a favorite for many Texas families and adds zest to meats and soups. Process the okra for 20 minutes. Start to count processing time as soon as hot jars are placed in actively boiling water. Remove jars and place on a rack to cool out of a draft. The next day after processing, remove jars. Wash and dry jars and place in cool place. NOTE: The okra will be shriveled immediately after removal from the water bath, but after several days will absorb the liquid and become plump once again.

New Rules Lower Grid Injury Rates

New rules and better equipment are slowly decreasing injury rates for Texas high school football players.

About 7 percent of high school players were injured in 1977, compared to about 10 percent in 1975, said Bill Farney, state athletic director.

Parents, coaches, and players need to make sure such injuries are followed in order to decrease knee and other major categories of injury.

Mike Collins, Mickey Bass, Tracy Collins, Darren Bean, Gerald Dill, Dennis Battise

We're sorry that your accomplishments have been completely overlooked by our local newspaper.

To possibly rectify this oversight, we wish to congratulate the team members, their Manager and Coach, their parents and all others who supported this team in their efforts.

You went the entire season without losing a single game. To win a place in the Texas State Tournament you had to beat the best of Beaumont, Lumberton, Silsbee, Buna and Kirbyville. You ended the season as one of the best 4 teams in Texas. You have made Tyler County proud.

The season is over and we are a little sad. Our baseball teams, all the way from T-Ball thru Big League, have given the people of Tyler County many hours of good, clean family entertainment.

Our THANKS go to the Board of Directors, all Coaches and Managers, the Umpires, the Snack Bar workers, all those who have donated their time, their money and their support and to approximately 350 young men who have worked and played hard to entertain us this summer.

Browder Comments On Fuel Supplies

Having completed a survey of public hearings, each of the five counties which he represents, Rep. Jim Browder has concluded that much of the fuel shortages which exist in these counties is due to the fact that the large metropolitan areas are the most severely affected and have directed a large portion of the state allocation program to the urban areas and particularly to the service stations which are in these areas.
The congressman said that one of his biggest concerns is why the allocation for the state of Texas was stated to be in excess of 91 per cent in July. This information presented at these hearings appears that the service stations in the Houston area were only receiving between 62 per cent and 64 per cent of what they received in July 1978. Browder said that the gas which should be coming to the five counties is being sent to other parts of the state. This is one of his concerns, which he has discussed with the Governor and his staff when he goes to Austin next week to continue his work with the bureaucrats in Austin here decided that the urban

New Hay Handling Methods

However, traditional storage and feeding methods aren't suitable with big hay packages. Since their size requires outside storage, they must be stored in a well-drained area. Also, the must be dense because low density packages absorb more water and spoil more quickly.
Another mistake is to stack bales under trees, which prevents rapid drying after a rainfall.

Cattle Prices May Improve.

COLLEGE STATION—With a decline in cattle numbers, cattlemen can look for improved prices. All this points to in 1980-81 period, says a five-stock marketing specialist.

Dr. Ed Uvacek with the Texas-Agricultural Extension Service says there are fewer cattle and calves on farms and ranches now than a year ago, as well as fewer beef cows and replacement heifers.

Uvacek says the price of a cow-calf pair is expected to improve in the next five years or so.

Uvacek says the current forecasts predict a new cattle cycle with a few years of herd buildup, peaking in cattle numbers by 1985 or '86.

"Remember, however, that the cattle cycle is only numbers," reminds Uvacek. "In reality, it reflects the producer's reaction to profitability in the cattle business. Producers expand their herds when a profit is made or anticipated and decrease their herd size during periods of low prices."

"At the bottom of the cycle, supplies are usually low and prices improve. In terms, this stimulates producers to expand their herds. That's where we are now," concludes the marketing specialist.

"Eventually, there will be over-production, near the peak of the cycle, and prices will decline again."

Generally, cattle numbers are opposite to price levels.

No Sweat For Some

Some people seem to thrive on heat. They can drive other people crazy because they look cool and collected when everyone else is wilting away into sweaty puddles, either these cool people are made of insulated aluminum or they are acclimated.

Acclimation is something the body does to cope with temperature changes. It is like creating a swimming pool instead of diving in. The Texas Medical Association (TMA) says acclimation occurs naturally when a person works outside and gets used to the heat as the season changes.

Modern air conditioning has short-circuited this system. In a world where offices, cars and homes have provided constant cool protection, from summer to winter, people are taking away every cool retreat from the heat. Texas are being forced to acclimatize.

Workers who are hot under the collar about their 78 degree buildings can take comfort in knowing that they probably will be used to it in about 10 days. If heat stress does not get them, they will be acclimated.

Researchers have devised a method to acclimatize people who must work in hot situations. It involves doing normal activities for relatively short periods (which can be about an hour) under the expected temperature for about 10 days. More exposure does not speed up the process. That fact could mean trouble for workers trapped in a hot office for eight hours.

People with heart problems and chronic diseases should consult a physician about handling constantly hot temperatures because the heat might be physically threatening. But heat can make even a healthy person feel tired and irritable. Heat also gets the blame in some studies for increasing depression, crime, alcoholism and suicide.

To avoid such problems, TMA suggests drinking plenty of water to replace fluids sapped by the heat. Even if a person is relatively inactive, it still may be necessary to drink lots of liquids—except alcohol, which some doctors believe can increase the chance of heat stroke.

Fluids are necessary because the body uses them to cope with heat, even when it's not hot. One researcher figured that the body heat given off during sleep typically could boil a pint of water in less than an hour. Successful heat survival also requires eating a balanced diet that will supply extra energy used to keep cool and will replace nutrients lost when sweating.

Bentsen Seeks Drilling Improvements

WASHINGTON—Senator Lloyd Bentsen on Tuesday urged the House of Representatives to approve legislation suspending proposed drilling mud regulations that could more than double the cost of drilling for oil and gas.

The Senate late Monday approved unanimously the Resources Conservation and Recovery Act. The bill includes an amendment by Bentsen delaying for two years a proposal by the Environmental Protection Agency to regulate drilling mud as a "hazardous waste." The Bentsen amendment has been included in the act by the Environment and Public Works Committee on a 9-3 vote.

"We have an energy shortage and we've been watching the price of oil shoot through the roof, so it is nonsense to contemplate government regulation of drilling mud that would increase the price even more," Bentsen said.

EPA has admitted that it "has very little information on the composition, characteristics and the degree of hazard posed by" drilling mud, but the information does have indicates "that the potential hazards are relatively low."

Drilling mud is used at wells to bring up pieces of rock ground up by the drilling bit. The mud also cools the bit. After use the mud is pumped into pits and allowed to dry. The proposed EPA regulations would substantially increase the cost of building and operating the drying pits.

The American Petroleum Institute estimates that it would cost $10.8 billion a year to comply with the proposed EPA regulations. By comparison, only $9.9 billion was spent for oil and gas drilling throughout the U.S. in 1977.

The Bentsen amendment calls for a study of potential hazards involved in drilling mud during the two year suspension of the regulations. Once the study is completed the existing state and federal programs should control disposal of these muds during the period of the study and EPA should concentrate its regulatory efforts on wastes that represent more significant hazards," Bentsen said.

"I urge my colleagues in the House of Representatives to act favorably on my proposal when it is considered before the body," Senator Bentsen said.

State Employees Must Pay Loans

AUSTIN, TEXAS—State employees who defaulted on student loans they got in college may not get state paychecks this month.

Bullock said the former students were identified in a computer cross-check of loan defaults against the July payrolls submitted by state agencies.

State law prohibits a person owing the state a debt from receiving state payment of any kind.

Bullock said he's written the former students telling them their paychecks will not be released until the debts have been resolved.

"This is the first time we've worked over student loans and it's safe to say it won't be the last," Bullock said.

The 200 employees in question are part of 24,685 named by the Texas College and University Coordinating Board as being in default on education loans, worth $39.7 million under the Hinson-Hazewood program.

The 200 state employees collectively owe the state some $27,000, in amounts ranging from $45.32 to $7,781, according to Bullock.

The payroll checks will be held by the Comptroller's office until the Coordinating Board says the debts have been settled.

"Leaving college without paying back state-sponsored education loans is going to be a lot tougher than skipping book fairs," Bullock said.

Summer Program Teaches County Youth Basics Of Conservation

A group of Tyler County youth people have been taking part this summer in a program sponsored by the Texas Forestry Service to provide summer employment and conservation experience. The program, known as the Youth Conservation Corps, involves young people in the process of providing outdoor activities for the state's citizens.

According to Harold Timmons, local Forest Service representative, the Tyler County youth people have been working this summer in two groups. Each group has an adult crew-leader who supervises the work. Crew chiefs for this summer were two Woodville coaches, Troy Holliman and Danny Bonhar.

The young people who are paid for their work, have been helping in the construction of nature trails in various parts of the county. During the eight week course, the participants built fences, cleared areas for bridges and fences, built entire nature trails, as well as learning first aid and conservation techniques.

Taking part in the program from Tyler County were Billy Harrison, John Harden, Guina Bridges, Constant Walker, Becky Sherrod, Parley Simmons, John Mack and Lance Skinner. According to Timmons, the young people worked very hard during the summer and "did a real good job."

COLLEGE STATION...duce the energy demands of lawn care without lowering lawn benefits.

"While lawns offer many aesthetic and recreational benefits, they may be offset by energy requirements of lawn care," says Dr. Richard D. Duke, turfgrass specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Mowing, watering, fertilizing, pest control and leaf-clipping disposal are all energy-consuming requirements of lawn care. During spring and summer months, lawn watering and collection and disposal of grass clippings place a heavy burden on cities for these services." Grass clippings may account for more than 30 percent of total trash collections in cities during spring," notes Duke.

He offers several suggestions to help homeowners reduce these energy demands. Reducing fertilizer applications to maintenance levels - not as much as 100 pounds of nitrogen per acre - will go a long way toward reducing energy demands. This will also reduce mowing requirements.

Duke advises new homeowners to select and plant adapted, low-maintenance turfgrasses to reduce energy demands. Reducing pesticide use to only essential applications to prevent loss of turf is another energy-saving practice.

"Duke advises new homeowners to select and plant adapted, low-maintenance turfgrasses to reduce energy demands. Reducing pesticide use to only essential applications to prevent loss of turf is another energy-saving practice."

Duke, a professor of turfgrass pathology at the University of Texas at Austin, says that the use of white buffalo grass is adapted to areas of West and North Texas. Both of these grasses have low maintenance requirements and are adapted to the conditions of the ground covers such as the luxury of an attractive lawn and "landscaping" tends to be excessive energy requirements. The benefits of a plant cover in favor of energy conservation.

Good Farm Records

Important Today

COLLEGE STATION — the broker's commission requires separation of farm business deductions from non-business ones. This means keeping good records of all expenses throughout the year.

Since much of the 1979 work and labor expenses lie ahead, Texas farmers and ranchers should give particular attention to proper accounting procedures, says Dr. Ashley Lovell, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

For instance, if there is a true employer-employee relationship, a farmer's children may be paid reasonable wages, at other times when a business expense and therefore deductible.

Wages paid for construction of buildings should not be deducted as ordinary business expense but should be capitalized as part of the building cost.

Feeding such wages as ordinary expenses would reduce taxable income, but would not reduce the farmer's tax liability. The economist cautions that any loss from a building future deduction is deductible as a business expense.

Best Food Buys This Week

CONSUMER FOOD NEWS COLLEGE STATION — Best buys at Texas grocery markets this week include poultry, pork and some fresh fruits and vegetables.

Also, "specials" in frozen food chests and along grocery market aisles offer budget-stretching items according to Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist.

Mrs. Clyatt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

POULTRY — Special prices appear on fryer chickens — whole, cut-up and split. Also, legs and thighs have low prices and mixed parts offer a good value.

Eggs have reasonable prices, and turkey is a feature in some markets.

PORK — Best buys are hams, bacon, quarter-loins cut into chops, Boston butts, loin roasts, smoked picnic and live.

FRESH FRUITS — Attractive prices signal good buys on bananas, cantaloupe and watermelon.

Watch prices carefully on soft summer fruits — they have varying price levels. These include peaches, plums, cherries, nectarines and grapes.

Also, varying prices appear on honeydew melons and avocados.

FRESH VEGETABLES — Budget items are cabbage, cooking greens, cucumbers, peppers, onions and potatoes.

Also, "specials" in frozen food chests and along grocery market aisles offer budget-stretching items according to Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist.

Mrs. Clyatt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

FROZEN FOODS — Specials include orange juice, lemonade, vegetable, fried chicken and sherberts.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES — Feature prices appear on canned fruit and vegetables, breakfast cereal and sandwich fillings.

DAIRY — Specials are varied with much emphasis on lowfat milk, half and half, sour cream, whipping cream, cheese slices, cottage cheese and mild cheddar cheese.

CONSUMER WATCH — Words: Take special care of long white potatoes, newly dug and quick-to-spoil without proper attention. These potatoes, in good volume with low prices, have thin skins, so buy only enough for a few days and be careful not to bruise them.

New Coal Program Gaining Importance

By Cecil D. Adams, Secretary of the Interior.

Coal, America's most abundant energy fuel, is a key ingredient in President Carter's formula for decreasing our dependence on costly and uncertain foreign petroleum. The new Federal Coal Management Program which I recently approved is a particularly timely and significant development.

The program's importance in the national energy picture become dramatically apparent from the recent upsurge of production in the West where the Federal government owns about 60 percent of the coal. The nation's total coal output now runs about 691 million tons a year. Of this, some 60 million tons comes from Federal lands.

The program I recently unveiled has the potential to vastly increase the Federal share, and we have already targeted three major coal regions of the West where we can expect to produce early results.

There is no "plop, plop, fizz, fizz" medicine that will permit coal leasing to keep pace with the increased demand for coal that we know will occur in the 1980's and beyond.

The Green River-Basin Fork region in Idaho, Wyoming and Colorado, now producing less than 26 million tons per year, could produce an additional 36 million tons yearly from several new mines.

The Utah-Southwestern Utah region which extends into western Colorado and currently produces 10.1 million tons, would produce 4.8 million additional tons each year.

And the Powder River region of Montana and Wyoming would see its annual production rate almost doubled, from 37 million tons to 72 million tons.

Additional leasing in these three regions can begin as early as 1981, and is expected to produce 1.5 billion tons of new coal by 1987.

That's just the beginning. In the long run, up to 200 billion tons of Federal coal reserves would be made available for leasing and production. Considering that each ton of coal produces roughly the same energy equivalent of four barrels of oil, that will go a long way toward reducing our dependence on petroleum.

This new program has been more than two years in the making, and we have gone all out to make it both environmentally and legally acceptable.

It requires that all potential coal lands first be studied to eliminate those unsuitable for coal mining. Before the coal industry can make a bid and before lease sales are conducted, this will reduce the risk of leasing to a minimum. Logical as it sounds, it was not done in the past, and many conditions feature weakly. Mining was not feasible. So our new planning efforts will have the best advantages.

You Ask ?

AIR CONDITIONERS
Question: Is it possible to buy an air conditioner with too much cooling capacity for a room or house?
Answer: Bigger is not always better. Buy home conditioners from Whirlpool Corporation. For larger air conditioners, call Whirlpool or an entire house a cold, clammy feeling. Air conditioners dehumidify as well as cool the air, so a unit with too much cooling capacity for an area will cool the air quickly without staying on long enough to dehumidify it.
Question: Do I need to clean the filter in my air conditioner?
Answer: Yes. A dirty filter impedes air flow and increases the unit's operating cost. Whirlpool room air conditioners feature washable filters, and the company recommends that they be washed frequently.

Spiderworts Aid Cancer Research

SMITHVILLE, TEXAS — Women in more than 50 Texas towns are participating in a cancer research project using native Texas plants that may indicate the presence of latent cancer agents in the environment.

Members of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs (TFWC) are raising special spiderworts and sending samples to the Smithville, Texas, laboratory at the University of Texas, Science Park. Research is being done to see if these plants could detect agents in the environment which may be potential cancer-causing agents.

As soon as the plants are ready for transport, they are packed in a special shock and start blooming. The TFWC members will receive specimens from their plants once a month and mail them to special boxes to be sent to the laboratory.

Dr. Scott will examine the blossoms under a microscope to see whether they have an color change.

Dr. Scott says that these plants were specially developed from a plant obtained in Austin and were flown from Brookhaven Laboratory for the TFWC project.

"This is a Texas low-growing, leafy, herbaceous plant, the majority of human cancers may be caused at least in part by environmental chemicals and pollutants.

Flowers of this special type of spiderworts are naturally a bluish color, but change to pink or red when the presence of radiation and certain chemicals, says Dr. Barton Scott, assistant biologist at the Science Park and director of the spiderwort project.

"It is important to emphasize that these changes can also be caused by natural phenomena," Dr. Scott adds. "So only a trained observer with all the data can determine the results." This TFWC project is actually a pilot-study to find out whether these special plants can grow in Texas if samples can survive shipment through the mail.

Dr. Scott says, "Before we came to Texas two years ago, Dr. Scott worked with researchers at Brookhaven National Laboratory in Upton, New York, where the plants' unusual ability to detect cancer-causing chemicals was discovered.

"When he first got the idea that the plants could be kept in people's homes as possible environmental monitors, the TFWC was asked to help because the members lived all over Texas and had been longtime supporters.

"M.D. Anderson projects since. About 100 spiderwort plants were given to TFWC members living in 52 Texas communities last spring.

"We told the TFWC members they were taking part in a survey that may ultimately serve as a model for the rest of the United States," Dr. Scott says. "We explained that the long-term

Denture wearers are discovering new security with a denture adhesive seal called Sea-Bond. Locked into each piece of denture is a powerful all-natural adhesive from the sea that can't wash out or dry up.

Water thin, these comfortable seals fit easily into dentures for all day security.

The earliest known set of dentures embodying both upper and lower dentures was dug up from a field in Switzerland and believed to date from the late 15th century. The teeth are carved from bone and attached to a stringed strap with gut. This denture, experts say, had to be removed at meal times.

Managing Farm Income Vital For Tax Impact

COLLEGE STATION — Managing farm and ranch income properly is vital to managing one's income tax liability.
Dr. Ashley Lovell, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension

Service, Texas A&M University System, emphasizes wise management of all types of income during the current tax year.
Often, livestock sales can cause problems in income management, says Lovell.

In 1977 and 1978, many Texas cattlemen were forced to sell excessive numbers of breeding livestock because of the drought. Normally, any gain realized would be recognized for income tax purposes. However, one to forced sales caused by the drought, if replacements are purchased within two years of the year of forced sale, producers can defer paying tax on the gain.

Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) loan proceeds are considered as income the year they are received or the year a commodity is sold, whichever the producer chooses. The producer who chooses the first option can influence his taxable income situation by properly timing his commodity's entry into the CCC loan program. Once the decision is made, the producer must have IRS permission to change his election, Lovell explains.

According to the economist, a loss from a commodity hedging futures transaction is considered a necessary business expense. However, a speculative futures contract results in a short-term or long-term capital gain or loss. During 1979, a speculator should consider the six-month holding period required to establish a long-term capital gain or loss from liquidating a futures market contract.

The effect of additional off-farm income on an individual's tax liability situation should also be considered in income management. Such income may affect one's social security tax liability and future social security benefits.

A related concern is whether or not the off-farm income will enable one to "income average," says Lovell. Unless off-farm income offsets a poor yield or commodity price situation, income averaging may be necessary. On the other hand a taxpayer may not qualify for income averaging if there is no off-farm income. Regardless, a taxpayer should compare income on an annual basis to this year's developing income situation against last year's in managing one's income tax liability.

The economist encourages producers to consult a tax accountant or attorney regarding business details.
