Ain't It Great!

By MIKE BURROW

Well, one thing is for certain, guys. A man just can't seem to please these women these days.

Our "Tyler County Viewpoint" question this past week asked a simple question...namely, "Are you for or against the women's movement?" I thought the question was simple. Believe you me, it wasn't. I didn't know a guy could rile a woman's anger with just eight little words until I asked that one.

The bombardment started the moment I walked in the kitchen door at home last Wednesday night, after a long day's work and with certainly no thoughts whatsoever about the "rights" of the fairer sex. My 13-year-old daughter, who apparently thinks she is no longer a child, wouldn't even let me sit down in my favorite chair before she lit into me like a hungry chicken at feedin' time.

Well, guys, she was really loaded for bear and guess who was wearing the furry coat. It turns out that her junior high English class uses the Tyler County Booster in their class each week and guess what the debate centered around last Wednesday.

She let me know right quick that I really "loused up" the Tyler County Viewpoint column. The purpose of the column she informed me, is to present both sides to an issue, not just one. I guess I must agree with her on that. Also, she claims, the only women I questioned last week were housewives. After looking back over the column, I guess I have to agree with her on that also.

Well, being that I had my tail between a rock and a hard place, I tried to react in the best way I knew how...mainly, to quickly put the shoe on the other foot--HERS! "I'll show you how fair I am," I informed her, tongue in cheek. "I'll just drop by your school tomorrow and ask the students in your class the same question and run it for next week's Viewpoint. How's that, kid!"

Man Charged With Rape

Charles Lee, 23, of Hillister, has been charged with the aggravated rape and aggravated robbery of a Tyler County woman Sunday, October 14.

Lee was arrested Monday, Oct. 15, at his place of work by Tyler County Sheriff's deputies. The 56-year-old woman had allegedly been raped at knife point and robbed shortly after returning home from church.

Chief Deputy Butch Kraus reported that Lee made a signed confession of guilt to both the aggravated rape and aggravated robbery after an intensive investigation and interrogation by deputies.

By mid-day Wednesday, Oct. 17, Sheriff Lewis Craven and his deputies had all evidence gathered and labeled for laboratory analysis, Kraus said.

Lee reportedly led Sheriff Craven and Deputy George Reynolds Tuesday night to a place off FM1013 and showed them where he hid part of the money, Kraus said. This Wednesday morning Lee showed deputies Gordon Toler and himself where he hid gloves and a knife used in the crimes.

Kraus said that Lee has confessed to six other unsolved burglaries in Tyler County. Lee is on probation in Tyler County for theft. He is also charged in Hardin County for burglary of habitation.

Lee was arraigned by Justice of the Peace Roy Drake and is currently being held without bond in the Tyler County Jail. The case is scheduled to be presented to the grand jury early next week.

Deputies Conduct Drug Raid

Eddie Ray Barkley was arrested at his home off the Beaumont Hill Road near Hillister Saturday night for misdemeanor possession of marijuana, following a raid by deputies of the Tyler County Sheriff's Department.

Woody, the recently acquired dog, was utilized in the search of Barkley's house. Conducting the raid at the Barkley residence and at other locations in the county Saturday night were Chief Deputy Butch Kraus and deputies George Reynolds, Gordon Toler and H.W. Unsworth.

Reynolds said that Barkley was on probation at the time of his arrest and that Monday he was being held in the Tyler County Jail for violation of probation in addition to the marijuana charge. Barkley was on probation for misdemeanor possession of a controlled substance, Reynolds said.

The arrest of Barkley resulted from a series of narcotic raids by Tyler County Deputies which began at approximately 4 p.m. Saturday and ended at 3:30 a.m. Sunday with the arrest in Kountze of Arthur Lee Yarbough for felony possession of (Continued on page 2A)

Wal-Mart Store Opens Oct. 30

Woodville's new Wal-Mart store is officially slated to open for business Tuesday, Oct. 30, at 9 a.m.

A special grand opening and ribbon cutting ceremony will be held at 8:30 a.m., shortly before the doors are opened for business and several dignitaries are scheduled to be on hand for the occasion.

Some of the head corporate officers of Wal-Mart from Bentonville, Ark., are to fly in for the ribbon cutting. Representatives of the Tyler County Chamber of Commerce, County Judge Allen Sturrock, Woodville Mayor Terry Watts, county commissioners and other city officials will also be on hand. The Lions Club sweethearts, Kristi Broussard and Nancy Polk, will assist with the ribbon cutting.

Area Halloween Carnivals Slated

Halloween will be highlighted this year with fun-filled carnivals for the youngsters throughout the county.

The carnival in Woodville will be held Halloween night, Wednesday, Oct. 31. However, the carnivals in Fred and Colmesneil are scheduled for Saturday night, Oct. 27.

WOODVILLE CARNIVAL
Mr. Ghoul will spend Halloween night at the Spook House in Woodville, along with his old "friends," Dracula and the Mad Scientist. The Mad Scientist is reportedly busy preparing a new and exciting Spook House, which will be long remembered.

The carnival in Woodville will be held on Halloween night, Oct. 31, from 5:30 to 9 p.m. on the old football field. There will be several new game and food booths. There will even be real clowns at the carnival, giving away gum and candy in the spirit of Halloween night.

At 7 p.m. the clowns will lead a Costume Parade through the carnival festivities. All those dressed in costume are invited to join.

A lot of preparation and planning has gone into the 1979 Woodville Halloween Carnival and those participating classes and clubs have tried to make this carnival a safe and fun place to spend Halloween night. Children from the surrounding communities, as well as Woodville, are encouraged to attend.

English Newsmen Visit

Two English newspapermen passed through Woodville this past week enroute to the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation before returning to Houston and their flight back to England. They took a few minutes of their time here for a quick interview with the Tyler County Booster and gave us some of their views on the United States.

Keith Cade, and Stan Elston both represent the Journal of Commerce, a daily shipping newspaper which is published in Liverpool, England, and distributed around the world. Cade is the paper's managing director and Elston is the news editor.

They had been in the United States for approximately two weeks working on their newspaper's annual USA edition which is published each December. This was their second trip to the United States. Last year they visited the East and West Coasts and this year they concerned themselves with the shipping ports in Houston and New Orleans, La.

A couple of days before their trip ended, they decided to travel to Dallas to visit friends. They elected to rent a car in Dallas and take the scenic route back to Houston and their Saturday flight home. They arrived in Woodville late Thursday and (Continued on page 2A)

Editorial Hazards Haunt Halloween

In recent years Halloween has been scarier for adults than children. Children can imagine a world of spooks and goblins. Adults must face the very real threats of poisoned candy, vehicle accidents, dangerous costumes and other hazards endangering children. Seeking ways to avoid these problems and decrease vandalism, parents increasingly are steering their children toward organized activities such as school carnivals and parties.

Such efforts have been at least partially successful—or maybe children simply are forbidden to go out on Halloween. In any case, the number of trick-or-treaters in many places has declined dramatically.

Yet Halloween is too well established to die out completely. Since people probably will continue celebrating in some form or other, here are some tips from the Texas Medical Association (TMA) to cut down on Halloween hazards.

Giving balloons, pencils, coins or other small, inexpensive items probably will please children as much as receiving candy. Some inedible treats may even be cheaper than candy and will not be wasted by parents who have to throw away treats that might be poisoned.

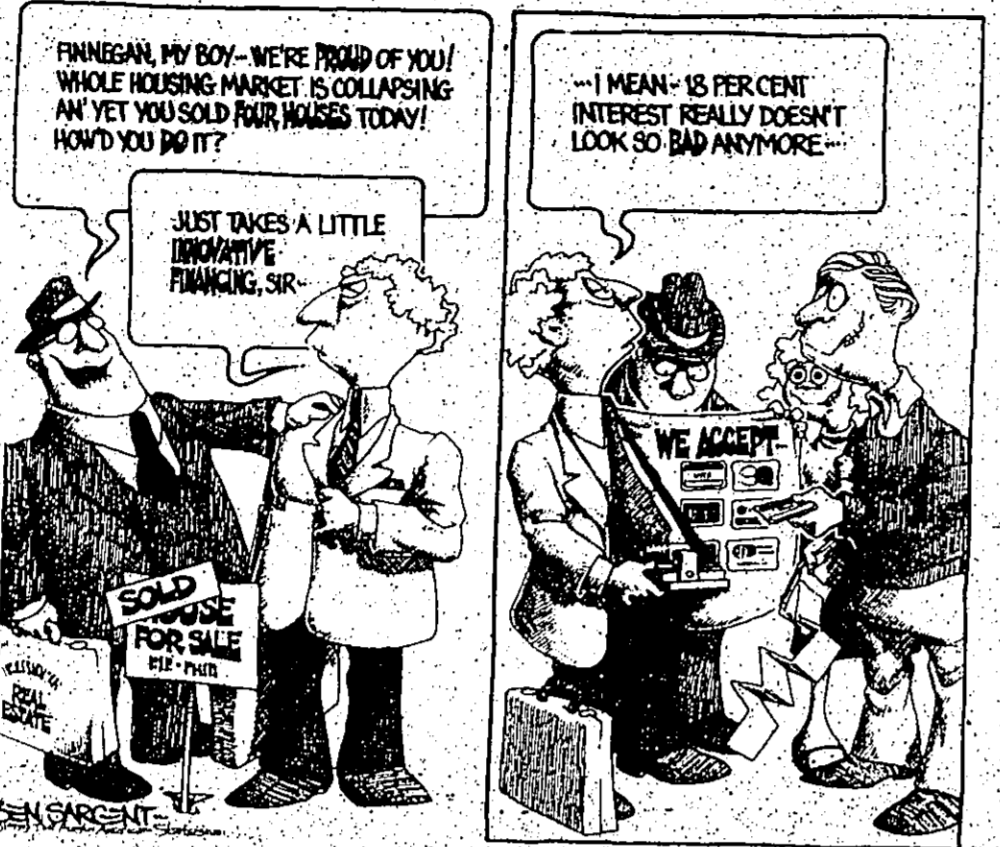

Adults can decrease the possibility of poisoning by giving only treats in their original wrappers that could not be poisoned and then re-wrapped. Parents should use the same standards when inspecting treats. Parents also should throw away fruit and other treats that could be injected with dangerous substances because they easily could overlook the pinhole a needle could make.

Costumes are another responsibility parents have. They should avoid costume masks that could slip and block a child's vision or breathing. Painting a child's face with cosmetics, grease paint or burned cork can be a good substitute.

The costume itself should be light-colored to help the motorists spot children, flame resistant and not so loose or long it could trip a child or catch on an obstacle. Costumes also should not include sharp objects, torches or candles. Adults can improve safety by putting reflective tape or luminous paint on costumes and objects children carry.

People can make their property safer and cut down on vandalism several ways. For instance, keep the property well lighted and put away hoses, lawn furniture and garbage cans. If possible, put cars in the garage and lock them. Bring pets inside to protect them and children from each other.

Simple preparations such as these can help both the children and adults survive the season.

In the Tyler County Viewpoint of October 18, 1979, there appears to be some confusion as to the objectives of the "women's rights" movement in general and the proposed 27th amendment to the U.S. Constitution in particular. The entire text of the ERA is as follows:

Section 1. Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex.

Section 2. The Congress shall have the power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

Section 3. This amendment shall take effect two years after the date of ratification.

"Fortunately we have on the books two important pieces of federal legislation—the Equal Pay Act of 1963 which makes it unlawful to pay one sex lower wages for equal work and Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 which makes certain types of employment discrimination on the basis of sex a federal offense. But the ERA is still necessary for two reasons: (1) The ERA would of course cover more than employment and wages. It would provide a uniform federal standard in eliminating sex discrimination in housing, credit, property ownership, child custody, alimony, etc. (2) The ERA would give real teeth to Title VII of 1964, the wage gap between men and women. In 1955, men's earnings exceeded women's by 55%; in 1974, men were earning 75% more than women. ERA can provide the impetus for allocating more resources toward enforcement of fair employment laws.

I do not believe that anyone should be denied the privilege of remaining in the home to raise children. However, I see the women's movement as a response to forces within society which make it necessary or desirable for a woman to work outside the home, such as divorce and economic pressures. The women's movement should not be blamed as it is trying to protect women from the consequences of such social problems.

Above all, we should remember that the women's movement is a people's movement. As President Carter has said: "As women achieve equality, men, too, are liberated from ancient prejudices and relieved of arbitrary barriers to personal fulfillment."

Drug Raid

marijuana and the sale of narcotic drugs, Reynolds said.

Reynolds said the arrest of Yarborough resulted from information provided Hardin County officials by the Tyler County Sheriff's Department. Tyler County deputies assisted with the raid in Kountze and also used Woody in that search.

Information gained in the earlier raids in Tyler County Saturday night provided the names and directions necessary for the Kountze raid. Kraus, Reynolds, Toler and Unsworth assisted the Hardin County Sheriff's Department and the Kountze Police Department in the arrest of Yarborough. Reynolds said the Yarborough was jailed in Hardin County and charged with both offenses.

Tyler County Sheriff Lewis Craven indicated that the intensive drug raids conducted in Tyler County Saturday night were only the beginning of an effort to uncover drug-related offenses in the county.

"Numerous calls and complaints have been coming into our department about drug use in Tyler County and we intend, through constant raids, such as the one conducted Saturday night, to uncover any and all persons in Tyler County that are associated with narcotics," Craven said.

Sheriff Craven stated that the raids Saturday night which resulted in the misdemeanor arrest of Barkley and the felony arrest of Yarborough in Kountze were very successful.

"We want the people in Tyler County who are associated with narcotics to know that we intend to pursue their activities to the utmost of our ability," the sheriff said.

Craven said he thought it was worthwhile to offer assistance to the officials in Hardin County. "A close working relationship with other counties is more effective in dealing with narcotics. Narcotic traffic knows no county boundaries and we have to work closely with our neighboring counties," Craven said.

Tyler County Viewpoint

Are you for or against the "women's rights" movement? Why?

THERESA RUNN Student

I am for E.R.A. because I think if a woman is capable of doing a job as well as a man, and in some cases even better, she should be given a fair and equal chance at the occupation she chooses.

BRYAN SIMMONS Student

I am against the whole thing. When I grow up my wife is going to stay home and tend to the kids, if I have any, and have my supper done when I get home.

JORAH BURROW Student

I am for women's rights. Women have to pay equal tuition to get in a college, but when you get out you get paid less. It's unfair. I think the main problem with it is most women aren't ready to face the fact they are equal with a man. I have a lot of ambition to do something besides clean house.

GINA FOWLER Student

I'm against women's rights. I think the woman's place is at home with her kids because I feel that men going out and getting jobs is what's breaking up most of the families today.

KIRBY SHEPHERD Student

I have a mixed opinion. I think a woman should take care of her kids, but also work if she wants.

Drivers Admit Speed

More than 63% of the licensed Texas drivers surveyed in the latest Crime Poll admitted that they drive faster than the 55 mile-per-hour legal speed limit.

Only 35% said their average highway speed is 55 or less.

The Texas Crime Poll is a survey of attitudes and opinions in the area of criminal justice conducted by the Criminal Justice Center at Sam Houston State University in Huntsville.

A total of 1,530 individuals representing 180 counties participated in the latest survey.

In answer to a question on average driving speed, the speed listed most frequently was 60 miles per hour (40.1%), followed by 55 (28.1%) and 65 (11.5%), for an average of 58.93.

Participants were also asked what they thought the legal speed should be. The most common responses were 55 miles per hour (17.1%), 60 miles per hour (25.8%), 65 miles per hour (14.3%) and 70 miles per hour (14.3%), for an average of 61.09.

In another area of concern, 56% of the respondents said they felt they may be the victim of at least one crime during the next year, and a similar number (55%) felt that the crime problem in their community is becoming worse.

Nuclear Participants Being Sought Now

For over a year the Department of Defense has been attempting to identify former military and civilian Defense personnel who participated in the atmospheric nuclear tests conducted in 1945 to 1962. The Defense Nuclear Agency is the Executive Agent for this program.

If you participated in these tests, which were held largely in Nevada and at Kikiti and Eniwetok atolls in the Pacific, you are urged to contact the Defense Nuclear Agency if you have not done so in 1978.

The Defense Nuclear Agency is attempting to reconstruct a complete history of the atmospheric nuclear test program, including names of participants and any radiation doses they received. One of the purposes of this effort is to enable the National Academy of Sciences and other scientific organizations to determine if there are health hazards resulting from participation in the tests.

Based upon research to date, it is believed that radiation exposures were low. While medical science has no proof that exposure to radiation levels as low as those hazardous to health is generally assumed by scientists that even low levels of exposure carry some slight risk. There is, however, some disagreement within the scientific community regarding the magnitude of this risk.

If you were a participant in the atmospheric nuclear tests program, you have not already done so, you are to contact the Defense Nuclear Agency at toll-free number 800-335-3668 in continental United States; from Virginia, outside the Washington, D.C. area, call toll-free 800-572-6845; from Alaska or Hawaii, call toll-free 800-572-6845.

The agreement is approved by the Rural Electrification Administration and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, which serves portions of East Texas. It will begin continuing to pay the plant's construction costs. GSU has already spent about $400 million on the plant. When Sam Rayburn and Cajun have paid in their respective portions of the project cost, GSU, Cajun and Sam Rayburn will proceed on a pro-rata cost sharing basis. GSU's share of the power output would be 592 megawatts. GSU's share will continue as project manager of the nuclear unit.

Bullock Against More Tax

Bullock pointed out that Texas would be one of the few states to increase the one percent city and county sales tax. He said that Texas would be one of the few states to increase the one percent city and county sales tax.

Citizens Say Courts Hinder Crime Control

Four out of every five Texans feel that rulings by courts in the area of law enforcement have hindered police in their efforts to control crime.

This was one of the findings of the latest Texas Crime Poll, a survey of opinions and attitudes in the area of Criminal Justice conducted by the Criminal Justice Center at Sam Houston State University.

A total of 1,530 Texans from 180 counties participated in the survey. Thirty-four percent said court rulings have "severely hindered" police and 45% said such rulings have "somewhat hindered" police.

Dr. Victor G. Strecher, dean and director of the Criminal Justice Center, agreed that courts have made it extremely tough for police by limiting the practicality of obtaining admissibility of guilt and availability of scientific evidence to stop someone who is running away from a serious offense, most of which are violent crimes and 69% of which are felonies.

Strecher said, "We shouldn't have court rulings that are so restrictive as to stop someone who is running away from a serious offense, most of which are violent crimes and 69% of which are felonies."

COUNTRY CLUB CORNER BY DON COLE

FUN FORE ALL... Golf as a sport is older than football, baseball, tennis, basketball and most other ball sports. Started over a hundred years ago in Saint Andrews, Scotland, it has survived other fad sports because it can be played by all age groups and by either sex.

As in tennis, golf is a non contact sport and therefore one's chances of getting hurt are practically nil. The physical fitness aspect of golf are enormous and obvious; walking, clean air, swinging the arms and torturing the body. The emotional and mental therapeutic advantages of playing golf are also appreciated in today's busy and complex world.

Wasting a beautiful golf day and the chance to get one's needed daily exercise in front of a television set is like pouring milk and vitamins down the drain. Look good and feel good; play golf regularly.

Film Highlights of the 1979 Masters Golf Tournament in Augusta, Georgia will be shown regularly at the Club this week for interested Golfers.

MEETINGS AND EVENTS... Greater East Texas Health Systems agency will meet at the Dogwood Country Club, Wednesday, October 24th. The teen members' Disco Dance was held last Saturday night. Seen in the crowd were Tammy Tolbert, Carlos Cordera, Randy Ward, Marilyn Lane and Stephen Crimes.

Woodville Little Theatre members have been head huddling to discuss both the Patron Member party (before the Play) and the Cast Party (after the Play) at Dogwood Country Club November 18th.

SPORTS TIP OF THE WEEK... (Hunting) with the hunting season underway, hunters should be concentrating on safety and being prepared. To be properly prepared hunters should sight in all rifles to be used this season.

HEALTH TIPS
 Until boys and girls are at least 4 years of age they're not able to chew well enough to deal with foods like nuts and popcorn. The danger of their inhaling such things is shown by the large number of children who get them caught in their throat or windpipe.

Keep Halloween "special" by keeping it safe. "Goblin excitement" is high for this first holiday of the school year, so parents and teachers have a challenge in protecting children.

Three safety areas--costumes, treats and traffic--until the most attention.

Make sure costumes fit children as closely as possible. Avoid too-large costumes, since they can cause tripping, stumbling or falling when children scurry from house to house.

They also pose a fire hazard around "witches' fires."

Be sure each child can see clearly through his mask. Check to see that the mask does not have a "blinder" effect. Be sure he can see out of the corners of the mask.

Look for flame-retardant costumes or safe, flame-retardant fabrics for making costumes. Paper and most gauzy fabrics are highly flammable.

Let your child wear his school shoes with the costume. Costume shoes may interfere with his running skills.

Keep costumes use reflective tape.

Among those here Saturday to see Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Collier for the funeral service of Harold and Ann Fisher, Jo Ann and Sour Lake and Phillip Harold Jr. of Huntsville; Floyd and Martha Idom of Humble, Janice Boykin, Leslie and Frace Nall of Woodville, Buckley and Carolyn daughter Dee Dee of Mont-Belieu, Ala. Kimberly and Steve Irvin of Lufkin.

Arcelia Haynes and Velma Sumrall visited Will and Beadie Holt in Kountze Saturday.

Mrs. Linda Osborne with Gary and Barry of Vidor spent the weekend with her mother S.E. Holt.

Attending a family reunion Saturday, Bleakwood were Mrs. Laura Morgan, Lee and Cleo Norton with Harold and Dot Allison of Woodville.

David and Linda Sue Collier with Jamey and Nancy of Port Arthur and Wesley Earl and Marietta Smith of Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The B.J. Smiths and Mrs. Dona Norton last week.

For children, learning about responsibility in the home is and a part of accepting responsibility in the larger environment, says Diane Welch, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The B.J. Smiths and Mrs. Dona Norton last week.

By Eric Galton, Chairman Citizens Legal Education Committee, State Bar of Texas. The new Columbia Pictures release "And Justice For All" will make many lawyers and judges unhappy and increase the public's distrust of lawyers and the legal system. A review of this film "from a lawyer's point of view" for those reasons, exceeds "difficult."

Objections To Movie Voiced

The film fails largely because of the fact that it insults the audience's intelligence. The producer should have taken a note from the system he explored and served that some trial lawyers fail because they talk down to and underestimate their juries. "And Justice For All" underestimates it. The audience could appreciate that some attorneys are corrupt without making a film from this viewpoint. "And Justice For All" is a motion picture which has raised serious and difficult questions, but failed to do so by being so disconnected in plot and sensationalistic in approach.

Wal-Mart Started As Small Variety Store

Not unlike other retail discount chains, Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. had its beginning in the small-town variety store business. The company's founder and Chairman, Sam Walton, expanded their variety store operations in 1945 and 5,000 in 1962. They assembled a group of fifteen successful small-town variety stores, led by Ben Franklin stores, which served as the base for what was to become Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. headquartered in Bentonville, Arkansas. Wal-Mart's first Discount City store opened in Rogers, Arkansas in 1962. Today, the Company has 54 stores in operation in Arkansas, 11 in Illinois, 3 in Kansas, 3 in Kentucky, 6 in Louisiana, 13 in Mississippi, 6 in Missouri, 42 in Oklahoma, 10 in Tennessee, and 20 in Texas.

During the year, the Company had the greatest amount of growth in its sixteen-year history. Thirty-five new Wal-Mart stores were opened, four stores expanded, three stores relocated, and one store was closed. A Savings Home Improvement Center, approximately forty-five new stores are expected to open during 1979. In addition, construction is under way on a new 390,000 square foot, District Distribution Center in Bentonville, Arkansas, which is scheduled for completion in 1979.

Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., unlike many other major discount chains, has devoted itself almost exclusively to serving small business communities and rural areas. With few exceptions, Wal-Mart Discount Cities are the largest non-food stores in their respective communities. Generally, Wal-Mart's discount departments range in size from 30,000 to 60,000 square feet of building area, with the average store size being approximately 43,000 square feet.

Sport Goods Offered

Whatever your favorite sport may be, Wal-Mart's Sporting Goods Department offers a complete selection of famous name equipment at big discounts. Although stores are located close to a few other metropolitan areas including Tulsa, Oklahoma, Saint Louis, Missouri, Memphis, Tennessee, and Dallas and Fort Worth, Texas, sales have shown steady gains with corporate volume reaching $950 million during the fiscal year ended January 31, 1979—an increase from $778 million dollars for the fiscal year ended January 31, 1978. The Company's common stock is traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

As the Company has grown, so has the number of associates who comprise the Wal-Mart family. Today, the Company employs more than 17,000 associates in its twenty-state region. The Company's founder, Sam M. Walton, continues to serve as Chairman and Chief Executive Officer. Jack Shewmaker is President and Chief Operating Officer.

Wal-Mart's stock is well known as the sportsman will find a wide selection of Bear hunting bows and arrows, game calls, truck and wall gun racks, gun cases, and gun cleaning accessories, plus famous brand pistol shot-

Walton Earns 'Discounter Of Year'

"He will be a tough act to follow." That's the way Doug Stinson, managing editor of "Discount Store News," a New York City described Bentonville's Sam Walton, who was awarded the first "Discounter of the Year" honor August 14 at an "invitation only" dinner in Chicago.

Walton's selection, Stinson said, was made by a panel of 100 discount chain executives across the country. "He was the choice, by a very big majority, of those polled," the managing editor related. "Praise from one's peers is usually considered the zenith of awards. But Walton was also recognized for his contribution to the discount store industry. Wal-Mart is the fastest growing chain in the country. Mr. Walton is well-known, well-liked and well-respected," Stinson said.

In accepting the first time award, Walton expressed his deep appreciation to his wife and to his brother, Bud. For much of the chain's success, Stinson stated, Walton, who parlayed a small, family-owned variety store into a billion-dollar industry in a few short years, personifies the fulfillment of the Great American Dream. Stinson commented, "With concern across the country over inflation and the forthcoming recession, Walton remains optimistic about future growth in the discount industry. He told the 300 dinner guests that because of, and in spite of, the economy, he anticipates a continued strong growth rate among family, company—and morning, was when his wife, Helen, put her foot down and wouldn't be in a small town. The real beginning, let Bud (his brother) town."

Wal-Mart Opened First Store In 1962

ELECTRIC AND APPLIANCE DEPARTMENT--Wal-Mart employee Bessie Dupree and visiting set-up man Jeff Dill go over proper shelving technique for stereo units at new Wal-Mart store. Along with electric appliances and phonographs the store will offer cameras, film and records and tapes.

SETTING HEALTH AND BEAUTY AIDS--Health and Beauty Aids department manager Ann Guindop is shown stocking shelves in preparation for the store's grand opening which is scheduled for Tuesday, October 30.

Wal-Mart's first store opened in Rogers, Arkansas, in 1962. Today the Company is recognized as one of the leading regional discount department store chains in the country.

Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., with headquarters in Bentonville, Arkansas, currently operates a regional chain of over 230 units, with an estimated 45 new stores scheduled to open during 1979. On January 31, 1979, 54 stores were located in Arkansas, 11 in Illinois, 9 in Kansas, 3 in Kentucky, 6 in Louisiana, 13 in Mississippi, 6 in Missouri, 42 in Oklahoma, 10 in Tennessee, and 20 in Texas.

During 1978, the Company had the greatest amount of growth in its sixteen-year history. Thirty-five new Wal-Mart stores were opened; four stores expanded; three stores relocated and one store was closed.

Home Improvement Center for a net gain for the year of 42 new units. In addition, construction is underway on a new 390,000 square foot Distribution Center in Bentonville, Arkansas, which is scheduled for completion in 1979.

Unlike many other major discount chains, Wal-Mart has devoted itself almost exclusively to serving small business communities and rural areas. With few exceptions, Wal-Mart Discount Cities are the largest non-food retailers in their respective communities.

Generally, Wal-Mart's discount department stores range in size from 30,000 to 60,000 square feet of building area, with the average store size being approximately 43,000 square feet.

The Company's expansion program is directed toward communities within a 400 mile radius of its General Office, Distribution Center, and Warehouse operation in Bentonville, Arkansas. Although Wal-Mart stores are located close to a few metropolitan areas, Little Rock, Arkansas; Tulsa, Oklahoma; Saint Louis, Missouri; Memphis, Tennessee; Springfield, Missouri; and Dallas and Fort Worth, Texas, the average population of the communities Wal-Mart serves is 5,000 to 25,000.

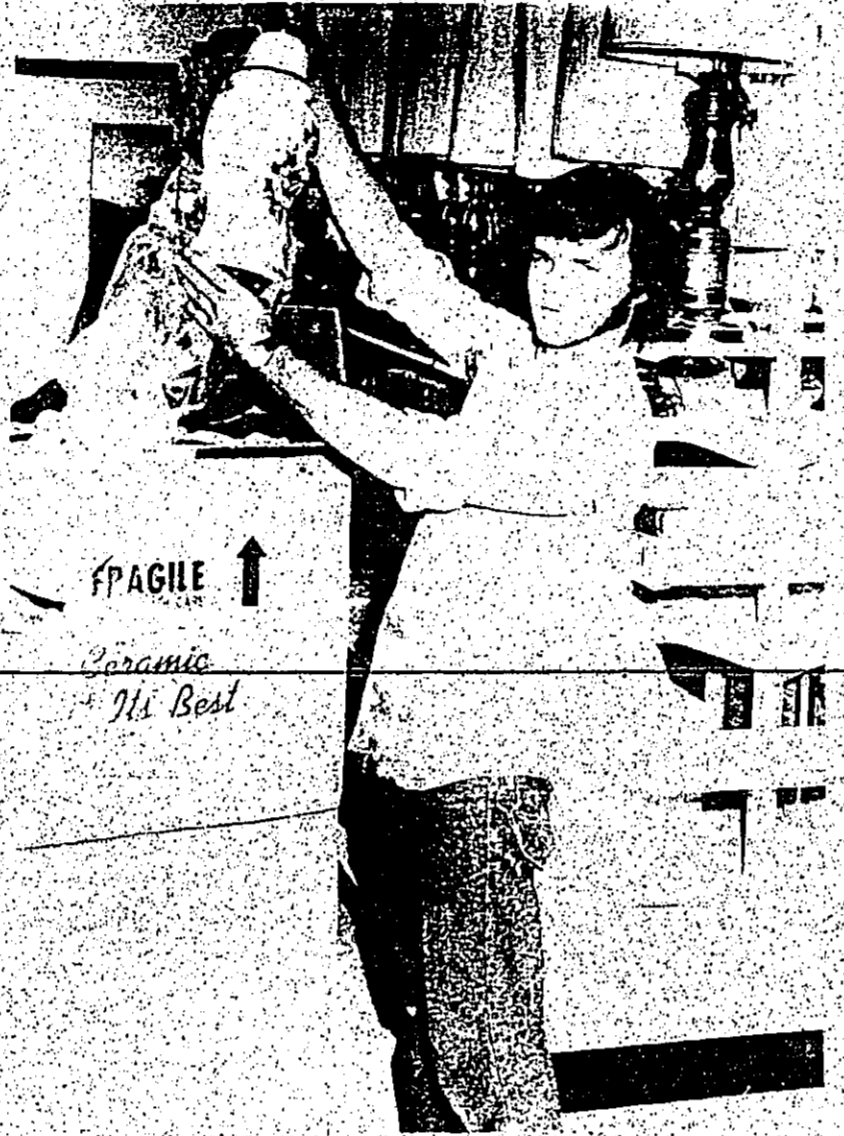

Since its founding, the regional chain has not digressed from its basic concepts -- to provide consumers in small business communities and rural areas with a varied selection of quality merchandise at everyday low discount prices and to guarantee customer satisfaction.

Allegiance to these principles has resulted in spectacular growth and remarkable consumer acceptance.

Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. had its origin in 1962, a variety store business. Mr. Sam Walton opened his first variety store, under the Ben Franklin franchise, in Newport, Arkansas, in 1945. One year later, Mr. Walton was joined by his brother, J.L. "Bud" Walton, now Senior Vice President, who opened a similar store in Versailles, Missouri. The two brothers went on to assemble a group of fifteen Ben Franklin stores, and subsequently developed the concept of the first Wal-Mart Discount City in Rogers, Arkansas, in 1962. This concept led to the opening of the first Wal-Mart Discount City in Rogers, Arkansas, in November, 1962.

The Company's founder, Sam M. Walton, continues to serve as Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer. Jack Shewmaker is President and Chief Operating Officer.

In October, 1970, the Company has grown to have the largest number of associates who comprise the Wal-Mart family. Today, the Company employs more than 17,000 individuals in its ten-state region.
