Ain't It Great!

By MIKE BURROW

I guess a person can be too much of an optimist. We should all think positive about our lives but at the same time we must remember that we are still bound by reality. On the other hand, though, we can certainly be too darn pessimistic about things too. I think at times we all make things worse than they really are.

There is an old story about "The Man Who Sold Hot Dogs" that pretty well sums up the latter thought. And, as we enter into this fresh new decade of the 1980s perhaps it is a good time to tell the story for those who may not have heard it before.

The story goes something like this... There was a man who lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs for his living. Being hard of hearing, he had no radio and read no newspapers because of vision problems.

But, he sold good hot dogs. The businessman put up signs on the highway telling how good they were. He stood on the side of the road and yelled, "Buy a hot dog, Mister!" And customers bought.

Business flourished. Meat and bun orders increased and it was necessary to buy a bigger stove. His son finally graduated from college and came to help him out.

But then something happened. His son said, "Dad, haven't you been going to the radio? Haven't you been reading the newspaper? There's a big recession. The European situation is terrible and our domestic scene is worse."

Whereupon the father thought, "Well, my son has been to college, he reads the papers and listens to the radio, and he ought to know."

So, the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his advertising signs and no longer bothered to stand out by the highway and sell his hot dogs.

And his hotdog sales fell almost overnight. "You're right, son," the father said to the boy. "We certainly are in the middle of a great recession."

Council Accepts Contract

The Woodville City Council voted December 27 to accept the 1980 block grant contract with Semetko and Waxman, Inc.

Several minor alterations, suggested by attorney councilman Joe Wheat, were included in order to bring the document in line with the legal form of last year's contract.

Clyde Gray, owner of Heritage Garden Village, appeared before the Council to request financing from the city tourism fund. Gray will take part in a publicity trip to England sponsored by the Texas Tourism Board, and will promote interest in Tyler County among English people planning trips to East Texas.

City Council was unable to act on Gray's request at the time of the meeting, but Mayor Terry Watts stated that the Council would give the promotion "some assistance."

Following the meeting, City

Manager Walt Davis took the press on a tour of the newly completed water

Commissioners Award Bid

The Tyler County Commissioner's Court met December 27 and awarded bids for construction on Black Creek Bridge at Lake Hyatt in Precinct 4 which was washed away by rains in April in 1979.

Commissioners awarded the construction contract to the low bidder, Accuraline of Silsbee. Accuraline had submitted a total bid price for the project of $42,797.65.

The only other bidder on the project was Davis & Brown Construction Inc. of Livingston. That firm bid $44,200 on the project.

Charges Filed In Murder of Spurger Man

A murder charge has been filed against Robert Arrie Hooks, 17, in the Christmas Eve death of Lester Wayne Chambless, 24, of Spurger.

Chambless, whose throat had been slashed, was pronounced dead upon arrival at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Beaumont by Justice of the Peace J. Paul McNeil. The actual attack occurred shortly before 7:23 p.m. when police received the call.

According to information released by Silsbee police, the incident occurred on Highway 148 somewhere on between Highway 92 and the 11th Street intersection. Hooks reportedly drove to Silsbee Doctors Hospital and, with the assistance of his wife, Debbie, walked into the building.

Chief of Police Al Burtleson said the cutting climaxed fighting and arguing among the six persons in the pickup which Hooks was driving. The feuding allegedly began at Club 96 on the Evadale Highway when one of the group was slightly injured in a fight. The chief said he believed the group was headed for the hospital to obtain treatment for the injured member when Hooks allegedly cut Chambless in the throat.

According to police the persons

Browder Announces Candidacy

Larry Browder officially announced today that he is a candidate for the Texas House of Representatives in District 16, a position now held by Jim Browder. District 16 covers Liberty, Polk, San Jacinto, Trinity, and Tyler counties. Browder, a native of San Jacinto County, made the decision to seek this office when Representative Jim Browder decided not to run for his 3rd term upon advice from his personal physician. The State Representative suffered a major heart attack in the spring of 1979.

The main reason for Larry Browder's decision to seek his cousin's post is his personal commitment to the continuation of the important and successful legislative program that presently affects our district.

Representative Jim Browder, now holding the position, will serve as treasurer of the "Elect Larry Browder Campaign."

Larry Browder attended Lee College and Sam Houston University. He is self-employed with business interests in real estate, construction, farming and ranching, and a grocery and marina on Lake Livingston.

Mr. Browder has had a variety of experiences in federal, state, and local government. He worked for five years with the Soil and Water Conservation Office of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Governor Dolph Briscoe appointed Browder to his current

Chamber Meeting January 7

The regular monthly meeting of the Tyler County Chamber of Commerce will be held Monday, Jan. 7, 7 p.m. at the Chamber office, 507 N. Pine Street.

This will be the last meeting before the Annual Banquet on February 1, 1980.

Tickets are now available for the banquet from any director or at the Chamber office at $8 per person.

All Directors of the Chamber of Commerce are urged to attend this meeting. It is open to all members and those interested in becoming involved in the work of the Chamber of Commerce. For more information contact the office by phone 283-2632 or in person.

Drugs Stolen Here

Approximately $5,000 worth of drugs were stolen from Savon Drugs, 106 S. Charlton, in Woodville sometime before dawn on Christmas Eve, according to Woodville Police Chief Gray Ray.

Chief Ray reported that double doors at the rear of the store were pulled off their hinges, apparently with the use of a chain. An inner door at the rear of the store was also forced open. Ray said an alarm on the inner door failed to sound.

In addition to the drugs, the burglars also took several hairdriers, a calculator and a small amount of cash.

TERRY WATTS

Watts Announces Candidacy

Terry Watts of Woodville has announced that he is a candidate for the position of Tyler County Tax Assessor-Collector in the upcoming May election.

Watts is currently mayor of Woodville and stated that some of his accomplishments have been as follows: location of Livingston Industrial Products in Woodville, a one-and-one-half million dollar HUD grant for housing rehabilitation, street construction and water services; installation of sewer facilities on Cobb Mill Road and Chesswood; and construction of a new sewer plant; introduction of the hotel motel tax to advertise the City of Woodville; and

Capital Highlights

AUSTIN—Following U.S. Senate approval of windfall profits tax and postponement of a House vote until February, Gov. Bill Clements last week blasted the controversial bill as directly opposed to U.S. INTERESTS.

Clements said the tax is counter to a solution of the energy problem. "It's a direct excise tax on the number of barrels of oil produced. It's not a profits tax," he made his remarks at the Rosenberg/Richmond Chamber of Commerce banquet.

The governor also reiterated his support for the 1980 Republican presidential nominee-to-be, and invited all Democrat contenders to come campaign in Texas.

Making it perfectly clear that he would not support President Carter, Sen. Edward Kennedy of California Gov. Jerry Brown, Clements said he welcomed their campaign dollars to Texas because it would be good for the state's economy.

Clements said he will wait until after the May primaries to announce his support for a Republican nominee, two fellow Texans, John Connally and George Bush, are seeking the nomination, and Clements has been careful to stay neutral.

The Democrats are sure to give Clements a hard time. Carter postponed a visit to Austin two weeks ago because of the Iranian hostage crisis, but the president intends to come in early spring. Brown has already slipped in and out of the state a couple of times. Kennedy will surely campaign here.

MOREON OIL

Texas oil and natural gas production has declined steadily over the past six years and it is unlikely to increase over present levels.

Testifying before a special Senate subcommittee on energy production in the 1980's, Railroad Commissioner Jim Nugent said if the state continues production natural gas at today's rate, it would run out of gas in seven and a half years.

"The possibility of us ever being above one billion barrels of oil production is not good either," Nugent said.

On a brighter note, the consul

Snyder Criticized

Tom Snyder's Prime-Time program television recently devoted considerable time to the U.S. government's registration and processing of Iranian "students" in the United States. The message of the program was that it's unfair to single out Iranians for special treatment.

This is a theme being employed by extreme civil libertarians in numerous journals. One would think that a foreigner has the same rights as American citizens. This is an absurd notion, of course, for only native born and naturalized citizens have access to all the rights enumerated in the Constitution. A foreigner is just that. He is a guest in this country. And, like all guests and customers of the host country, he has a duty to respect the laws and customs of the host country.

No Iranian has an automatic right to use a visa as a license to demonstrate, engage in mob activity or to evidence hatred of this country. If an Iranian wants to demonstrate, let him do so in Tehran, not Washington.

Judging from Tom Snyder's show, Iranian "students" are all law-abiding, peaceable folk who want to advance their education. Those who want to study and obey our laws are welcome here. Those who want to attack the police, turn over automobiles—as they did in Beverly Hills—a few months ago—who parade in down in front of the White House, ought to be deported. We don't need foreign troublemakers in this country. We have enough of our own.

The best congressional commentary on the Iranian "students" came from U.S. Rep. Norm Shumway of California. He wrote the following in his newsletter:

"Carter's decision to deport Iranian students who violate the terms of their visas is welcomed by Americans who are understandably outraged. To be confronted on our own soil by dissidents who are supporting the terrorists responsible for the bombing of our fellow citizens would be bad enough. However, when those rioting students receive the protection of our own police, and when they are here, for purposes of exploiting American opportunity and education, it is doubly hard to fathom."

I have just finished reading the account of Mr. X, an Iranian student who is in Washington. He admits to being a Communist demonstrator, who has long since lost track of the number of anti-aircraft rallies he has attended, saying "I support any anti-imperialist action." That includes the seizure of our embassy in Tehran. Mr. X came to this country to study politics, leftist, Marxist politics, on which he owns 1600 books. The books were purchased with money he earned illegally by working as a waiter in a Washington-area restaurant. This individual is filling an enviable slot at one of the nation's best universities, he is illegally filling a job that Americans who are understandably outraged to be confronted on our own soil by dissidents who are supporting the terrorists responsible for the bombing of our fellow citizens would be bad enough. However, when those rioting students receive the protection of our own police, and when they are here, for purposes of exploiting American opportunity and education, it is doubly hard to fathom."

I hope to reach every citizen of Tyler County and enlist your support in the May election," Watts stated.

Charges Filed

left in the truck drove away with the exception of Hooks, who is reported to have fled on foot. He was arrested 11:15 that night by Deputy Sheriff Charles Ray. Deputy Sheriff said, "He was arraigned by Justice of the Peace Sid Johnson. Bond was set at $50,000."

Natives of the other four persons in the vehicle were withheld by police. No charges have been filed against them, the chief said.

Johnson ordered an autopsy on Chambers, which was performed Christmas morning.

"It was thought in the beginning that Hooks had been shot, but a nurse at the local hospital said his throat had been cut. Burleson said a .44 caliber rifle lying behind the seat had been discharged twice. The bullets penetrated the left side of the cab's floor level.

Investigation of the incident was headed by Sgt. William Guff and Officers Larry Dalgic and Bruce Yancy and Deputy Sheriffs James Williams, Roger Anderson and Bobby Gentry assisting.

Funeral for Chambers was held Thursday at South Spurger Baptist Church with burial in Turner Branch Cemetery.

A native of Port Arthur, he had lived in Spurger most of his life and was a high school graduate.

Survivors include his wife, Debbie; of Spurger; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Chambers of Spurger; a brother, Tommy Chambers of Kountze; a sister, Sammy page of Spurger.

Antitrust Laws

Antitrust laws have a significant impact on daily consumer transactions. Every informed consumer should have an understanding of the reasons for and fundamentals of these important laws so we can appreciate why their impact on our daily activities is so extensive.

The word "antitrust" refers to the body of laws which protect competition in the marketplace. When businesses must compete for customers, they are forced to offer higher quality products at lower prices because these are the main reasons customers choose to shop one place as opposed to another.

Competition also encourages efficiency. Each seller and supplier must work to keep costs as low as possible if they are to lower prices (to attract customers) and still make a profit. In addition, higher costs can be passed along to consumers, especially when those higher costs are caused by one business being operated less efficiently than another.

Laws that encourage competition clearly serve the interests of consumers as much as they serve the interests of businesses.

Texas has a long proud tradition of strong antitrust laws. The Texas Constitution, which was adopted in 1876, prohibits that "perpetuities

U.S. Farm Exports Set Record In 1979

WASHINGTON—Exports of U.S. farm products hit a record $32 billion in fiscal 1979, improving on the previous year's 18 percent, Department of Agriculture economists reported today.

The total was a 17 percent jump over the department's previous year's record of $27.3 billion, an 8 percent increase over the previous fiscal year. Imports of U.S. farm products were valued at $15.8 billion, exceeding the 1978 total by 18 percent.

Statistics and Cooperative Service said the exports gained mostly in feedgrains, wheat, soybeans, cotton and other products.

The U.S. farm trade surplus, which includes exports such as coffee, bananas and cocoa, reached an all-time high of $16.7 billion in 1979, up from $15.8 billion in 1978.

The increase in exports was due to a number of factors, including a 10 percent increase in the value of exports of agricultural products, a 10 percent increase in the value of exports of non-agricultural products, and a 10 percent increase in the value of exports of services.

The lowest outside bid was $495,000, so the city undertook the project, which has been under construction one year. Funds came completely from bond money without any aid from government grants. The area to be benefited from the new plant is entirely residential and has a current population of 300 with 1,500 projected. Twenty houses will be connected to the system immediately. Proposed volume is 100,000 gallons per day.

'Sundown' Manager Resigns Position

Alan Levey resigned as General Manager of Beyond The Sundown outdoor drama at the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation near Livingston on December 11, 1979. He will accept a post as Managing Director of the California Shakespeare Festival in Visalia, California. Levey, a native of New York came to the reservation in the Spring of 1977 after a successful stint as the General Manager of the Cincinnati Outdoor Drama in Chillicothe, Ohio. During his two seasons with Beyond The Sundown, he directed a complete redesign of the costumes used in the show. More dramatic lighting techniques were also introduced including eight figures in the haunting underworld scene. Beyond The Sundown is presented each Summer evening with the 1980 schedule from June 20 through August 23. A cast of 50 professional actors and dancers participate in the two hour drama.

which dramatizes a critical period in the history of the Alabama-Coushatta Indians. Casting for the show is selected to begin in early February. An immediate search will begin to replace Levey. Sharon Miller, administrative assistant will be the acting general manager during the interim.

Jill Mahaffey, Lonnie Grissom Exchange Vows

Miss Jill Elise Mahaffey and Lonnie B. Grissom, Jr. were united in marriage December 27, 1979. The ceremony was held at Baptist Church with the Rev. Henry W. Shettles officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Dumont of Ivanhoe. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Flores, Lonnie B. Grissom, Sr. of Woodville. Music for the ceremony was given by Becky Waldere. Organist who also accompanied Jan Ray, soloist. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Frank J. Dumont. The wedding gown was of candlelight chiffon fashioned with a high-necked bodice accented by a wide lace collar and full pleated sleeves, held tightly at the wrist by wide lace cuffs. A sunburst pleated skirt flowed from the Empire waist. Sheffield lace encircled the neckline and chapel-length train. A fingertip veil of bridal illusion and lace was held in place by a cap of lace accented with pearls. The bridal bouquet was a snowflake designed of candlelight fuchsia mums and rainbow carnations. Honorary attendants were Mrs. Ronnie Taylor, matron of honor; Susan Bradnax and Mrs. Curtis Mahaffey, bridesmaids; and Miss Danassa Wilkinson, cousin of the groom. Colmesneil, Junior bridesmaid.

The attendants dresses were high-necked ruffle trimmed bouquets with kneeling skirts of rainbow colors. Each carried a long stemmed carnation to match. The bride wore a long dress of white and red dotted Swiss. Best man was Pvt. Ronnie Taylor. Serving as groomsmen were Randall Grissom of Woodville, brother of the groom and Curtis Maxwell of Sabinaw, brother of the bride. Ushers were Ricky Grissom, Jessica Eakens, niece of the bride, who wore a long dress of pink and white, and a high neck and trimmed white lace. Serving as ringbearers were Tom Neal, cousin of the bride, and a graduate of Kirby High School and Christian Real Estate School. The groom is a graduate of Kirby High School and is presently serving in the U.S. Army at Fort Devens, Mass. After a wedding trip to Lake Livingston, the couple left for Ayers, Massachusetts where they will make their home.

Armstrong-Walston Marriage Planned

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rayford Armstrong of Colmesneil are proud to announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Edith Cristine, to Richard Dean Walston, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Walston of Woodville. The wedding will take place January 19 at 2 p.m. at the First Baptist Church of Woodville. All friends and family are invited to attend. A reception will follow the ceremony.

AN EPITAPH 'LET THE MUSIC PLAY LET THE DANCE GO ON' In a little while I shall be old, But I trust the twinkle glint and sparkle will still be in my eye. And I will wear my hat at a rakish angle. That my spirit will not drag And that my step will be brisk, That my being shall be steadfast and that there will still be steel in my spine. I will, it is hoped be indifferent to personal physical pain and misery. And that laughter, will be heard between my walls. That I will be worthy of an adversary And faithful to a friend. I trust my outlook will be forward not backward And my head will be held high, not bowed. Fortunate in the realization that regrets will not be my lot. Life has been good and life has been sweet. My dreams and desires have all been fulfilled And I feel like the luckiest person who ever lived, having achieved knowledge and enlightenment. I have dared to live. I will not fear to die. Let the music play. Let the dance go on. John Dee Stewart

Watchtower At Lufkin

"Whose Disciple Are You?" was the subject of the highlight lecture of the semi-annual convention of Jehovah's Witnesses held Saturday and Sunday, December 22 and 23, at the Lufkin Civic Center in Lufkin. There were 1114 in attendance to hear this highlight talk by the District Supervisor D.B. Thompson. Thompson pointed out that "millions are disciples of human leaders, both religious and political today" but "for true Christians there can be only one leader, God, Christ Jesus," as is stated at Matthew 23:10. Thompson stated that over two million persons today are active in all nations preaching and teaching God's established kingdom as stated in Matthew 28:19 and 20. These faithful footsteps of Christ Jesus strive to imitate their leader in their spiritual outlook and daily course of action. ### Trapping Good Part Time Job

Inflation may be rising at an annual rate of 13 percent, but an increasing number of Texans are finding creative ways to hedge a little.

One part-time job in particular lasts only two months a year, but enables a person to be self-employed and make big bucks—up to $6,000 a month for a hard worker.

The capital outlay is relatively small. Less than $300 will buy the supplies needed to build 30 homemade plywood and wire box traps and get a person set for trapping season.

It does not take long to figure the mathematics of this unusual line of work: Assuming a trapper has access to a productive area, those 30 traps potentially could produce about eight raccoons on a good night, and may be a few opossums as well.

A wholesale fur buyer will pay up to $35 for raccoon skins, so $250 could be earned for a night's work.

For most fur-bearing animals in most counties of the state, the legal trapping season runs from December 1 through January 31.

But with so much money at stake, it is not surprising some trappers try to "open the season" a little early—in mid-October and November.

Just before trapping season opened this year, Dallas County game warden Jerry Hinojosa caught two men, red-handed, in the act of skinning 30 raccoons and 32 opossums.

The fines were stiff: one man paid $535 and his accomplice paid $107. The violation was possession of fur-bearing animals during a closed season.

"Even though trappers might make a lot of money illegally, they really cannot afford to get caught more than once," Hinojosa explained.

"The second time, the fines usually go even higher. For possession of 30 raccoon hides, the fine could be a maximum of $6,000."

There are still other methods some use in an attempt to circumvent the law. These part-trappers:

Wilson Sponsors Forest Bill

WASHINGTON—Congressman Charles Wilson of Lufkin said today he is anxious to resolve the controversy surrounding the Carter administration's proposal to designate nearly 15 million acres of national forest land for wilderness use.

"This issue is one that hits very close to home since my district includes all but one small part of the national forest in Texas," Wilson said.

"And ever since 1977, when the Department of Agriculture started reviewing roadless areas in the national forests, we have been in the middle of a bitter argument over just how much forest land in East Texas ought to be designated wilderness."

Wilson is co-sponsoring the National Forest Multiple-Use Management Act of 1980 in hope of establishing a series of deadlines that will apply to the administration's recommendations for forest land use.

"This bill won't designate any wilderness areas; it won't take any land out of the wilderness system; and it doesn't change the Administration's recommendations at all. What it will do is give Congress adequate time to act on President Carter's proposals for wilderness."

Reaffirming the fact that Congress alone can designate land as wilderness, the bill provides that wilderness designation by the Administration will be managed as wilderness, without an act of Congress, until Jan. 1, 1987.

If by that time Congress has not yet designated those lands as wilderness, they will automatically return to multiple-use purposes.

"Don't forget that multiple use means those forest lands used as research areas, recreation areas, wildlife habitats, and even historic sites," Wilson said.

In addition, some of those lands could be opened for responsible timber cutting.

"It is critical that we manage our public lands in a way that can help reduce inflation, control unemployment and encourage energy development," Wilson said.

Early in 1979, the Administration proposed designating 10,212 acres in East Texas for multiple use and 18,032 acres for further study.

"Those figures, though, don't take into account the 84,550 acres set aside in the Big Thicket National Preserve. That land is to be treated as wilderness, even though it is officially designated as such," Wilson said.

If Congress designates an area as wilderness, it is closed to all vehicular traffic and development.

Agri Report

As winter temperatures drop in East Texas, many agricultural activities begin to slow down. According to Dr. Joe Lock, area fisheries specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, catfish also decrease their feeding as temperatures get colder.

"Catfish have almost the same body temperature as that of the surrounding water," Lock says. "Because of this digestion and other body processes slow as the temperature of the water gets colder."

On the average, catfish eat about one sixth as much food per day from December 1 to March 1 as they eat during the warm months. Catfish may completely stop eating floating feed in the winter. They tend to congregate on the bottom in the deepest part of the pond.

According to Lock, if catfish are not fed all during the winter, they lose about nine percent of their body weight. That is equivalent to 180 to 270 pounds weight lost per acre.

Research at Auburn University indicates that catfish will gain about 20 percent during the winter if properly fed.

Various feeding rates were also compared at Auburn. The most economical growth was obtained by feeding one percent of body weight every other day. "A producer does not know the weight of the fish in his ponds. Lock recommends feeding every other day—one third of the amount of the fish were eating per day in October. During the winter, a sinking feed should be fed in the deepest part of the pond.

Overfeeding during the winter can cause problems in the spring when temperatures begin to rise.

Beef Short Course In April

COLLEGE STA. Dr. Dennis Herd, short course chairman and Texas A&M University's 1980 beef cattle specialist, announces the 30th Annual Beef Short Course will be held April 7 and 8.

The 1980 short course will be the 30th to be held. The program will center around beef cattle interests of men at current prices. Herd health programs to keep more value animals in the herd and heifer selection and pasture and range management programs will be among the highlights," says. More complete details of the conference will be forthcoming soon. Herd adds:

As a part of the Texas Animal Agriculture Conference, the Beef Short Course will feature a wide array of state and national speakers from many segments of the livestock industry.

Besides the Beef Short Course, the Texas Animal Agriculture Conference also will include the 32nd Annual Dairy Short Course, to be held at A&M and at several other locations around the state; 29th Annual Swine Short Course; an exhibit and trade show; and the 24th Annual College of Agriculture convocation for students and faculty.

Animal Agriculture Conference sessions will be in the form of seminars, day sessions, producers and industry representatives will hear more than 70 subjects of interest to all segments of the animal agriculture industry," says L.A. Maddox, overall conference chairman and Extension beef cattle specialist and project leader.

Emergency Feed Program

All agricultural producers are reminded that the Emergency Feed Program, an on-going program in all counties. For further eligibility information contact your ASCS office.

Producers who may be eligible but believe their feed supplies for winter are adequate are advised to file an application before December 31, 1979, to be sure of coverage in case assistance is needed later.

Tyler County is not eligible for EFP now since normal feed levels were produced in 1979. Your ASCS office is located at 411 North Pine, Woodville, 283-2244.
