Ain't It Great!
By MIKE BURROW

Well, folks, it looks like winter has decided to come in just bits and spurts this year. One day you have to break out the old longjohns and the very next you get that sudden urge to run out to the swimmin' hole. Ain't it somethin'?

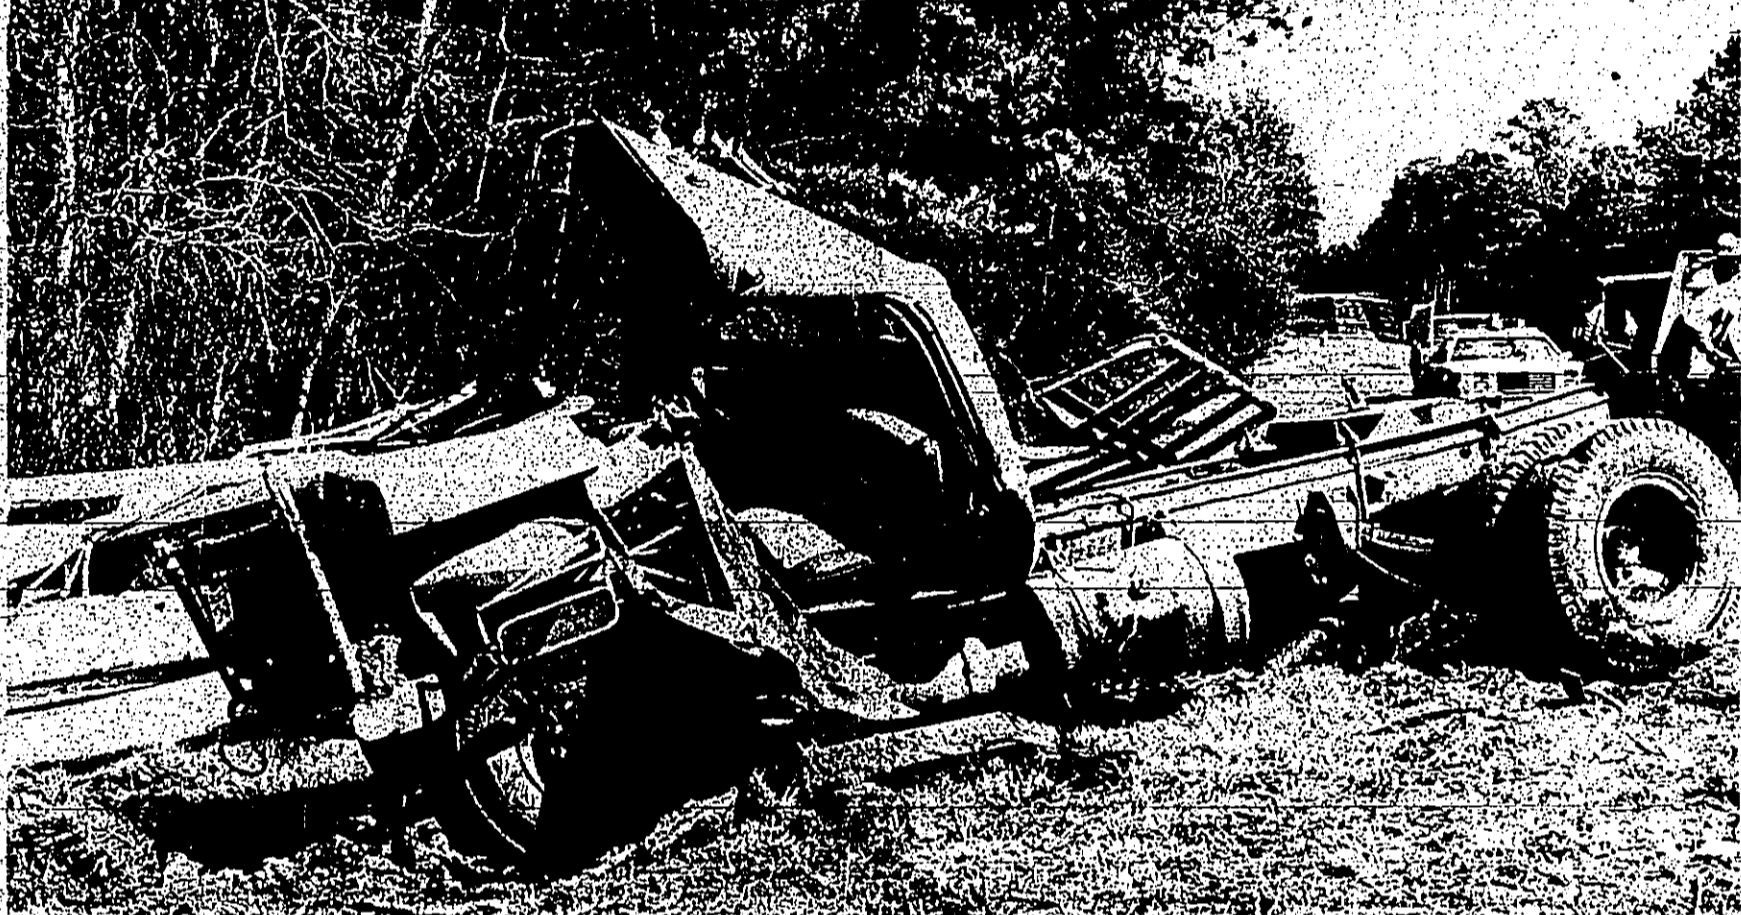

One thing is for sure, though. Grady Miller, who lives out on the Spring Valley Road, knows how to take advantage of those cold snaps.

This past Saturday when the north wind started to howl, Grady decided it was time for some pork. He and a couple of recruits came up with four hogs in Grady's horse trailer and decided that the weather was right for a butchering.

There are some of us in my generation who have never had the "pleasure" of doing that type of thing and it was kinda interesting when I drove up to Grady's house and found that crew scraping a hog and keeping the water hot. Needless to say, I got an invitation to join in the fun, but for some reason or other, I seemed to have some other pressing obligation to take (Continued on page 3A)

Rape Trial Underway Here

Charles Lee, 23, of Hillster, went on trial Tuesday in District Court in Woodville for the aggravated rape of a Tyler County woman on October 14, 1979. The case is being prosecuted by District Attorney George Kirkpatrick and Woodville attorney John Kinney. Lee's defense attorney is Roy E. Jernie of Houston. An account of the trial is scheduled to appear in next week's Tyler County Booster. At press time this week the jury was being selected to hear the case. Lee was arrested October 15, 1979, at his place of work by Tyler County Sheriff's deputies. The 56-year-old woman had allegedly been raped at knife point and robbed shortly after returning home from church on October 14.

LOG TRUCK TURNOVER—An Allison logging truck driven by Robert Owens, went out of control on a curve on Highway 69 South of Colmesneil Tuesday. The pole trailer broke loose from the tractor, which came to rest in the ditch on the west side of the road. Owens, listed in critical condition, was treated at Tyler County Hospital and transferred to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Beaumont.

At the time of the arrest, Chief Deputy Butch Kraus reported that Lee had made a signed confession following an intensive investigation and interrogation by deputies. The Tyler County Sheriff's Department also stated at that time that Lee led Sheriff Lewis Craven and former Deputy George Reynolds to a place off FM1010 and showed them where he hid some of the money that was allegedly taken at the time of the rape. Kraus also told the Tyler County Booster after the "arrest" that Lee showed Deputy Gordon Toler and himself where he hid gloves and a knife used in the crimes.

Fuller Assumes DETDA Presidency At Lufkin Banquet

Tyler County Treasurer Austin Fuller accepted the president's gavel at ceremonies at the Deep East Texas Development Association meeting held in Lufkin at the Crown Colony Country Club on Thursday.

Fuller, who attended the meeting with a strong contingent of Tyler Countyans, said that he "was proud to have the opportunity to serve the region and would do his best to earn the organization's support in any projects he would recommend for the coming year."

Fuller accepted the president's responsibilities from the outgoing president Rex Spencer of the Texas Forestry Association.

Featured speaker for the evening was Texas Department of Public Safety Director James B. Adams, who told the group of changes he would legislate for in his administration which addresses stricter enforcement of already existing laws.

Adams centered his comments on speed safety on Texas Highways and on crackdowns on illegal drug smuggling and "sting" operations statewide.

The new director also said he would reinstitute unmarked patrol vehicles on state highways as a direct response "to fast drivers, who think speeding is a game of sportsmanship."

The DPS director also told the group that he would install a larger education effort in talking to the public about safe driving and obeying the law.

The group was welcomed by Robert Richardson, president of the Lufkin Chamber of Commerce, who brought a promotional slide presentation about Lufkin, Texas, and Deep East Texas in general.

Adams was introduced by Arthur (Buddy) Temple III, who is running for the State Railroad Commission.

Fuller said that the activities of the Board of Trustees.

Capital Highlights

By LYNDELL WILLIAMS

Fort Worth and Lynn Nabers of Brownwood are oft-mentioned names, which is turned upside down so they can float down in chaotic fashion. State Capital halls boisterous.

AUSTIN: Like a Christmas toy since both have indicated they may run for Speaker in 1983 (but not now). In the meantime, Clayton contrast week with the news that a FBI bribery investigation (code name "Briab") touched the office of House Speaker Bill Clayton.

Clayton was subpoenaed last week to appear before a Houston grand jury to testify about whether he took a bribe in return for helping an undercover FBI informant gain information about bribing on the state's employee health insurance program.

The Speaker, who has denied taking a bribe, won a delay until mid-March. Clayton allegedly received some hundred-dollar bills in his office on Nov. 8 from Houston laborer R. B. Moore, following a conference which also involved Joseph Hauser, an FBI informant who identified himself as a Presidential Insurance of America agent.

All accounts of the meeting report that the money was offered as a "political contribution" following a brief discussion of insurance. Clayton admitted he took the money, but not as a bribe. He also maintains he has not provided any favors for the money.

AVOID EMBARRASSMENT Clayton explained he took the money to avoid embarrassing Moore, his past political supporter, in front of his guest Hauser. Clayton said he first laid the money unopened in his desk, then later gave it to his aide Rusty Kelley, for safekeeping until it could be returned to Moore. Kelley took it in a safe in his office where it remained until last week when it was turned over as evidence to the grand jury.

Initial news reports gave the amount as $10,000, but when the safe was opened, $5,000 was counted and turned over to authorities.

Telephone logs in the Speaker's Office were presented as records that Clayton later tried unsuccessfully to phone Moore; and Moore apparently did not return the calls.

POLITICAL FUTURES The subpoena has upset the normal turn of events in the Legislature as House members consider the political future of their speaker.

Indictments are returned against Clayton; he may not be able to keep the job of the Governor's promised special session in August. He might resign his office, or he might fail to be re-elected following a motion to declare the Speaker's chair vacant.

Already there are a handful of state representatives listed as possible successors to Clayton, should he step down or be toppled from his three-term reign (an historical first).

EMERGING CONTESTANTS Clayton's most clear-cut opponent is Dallas liberal John Bryant, who formally announced two weeks ago he would challenge Clayton in 1981. In the midst of the Briab flurry, Bryant is scrambling to win more commitments to his candidacy in time to challenge Clayton in the special session.

Bryant claims some 60 commitments (en route to 76 votes needed for a majority). More cynical observers speculate Bryant has about 40 solid votes. Although many of Clayton's trusted team members will not come back in 1981 (due to retirement or defeat) and Bryant is credited with a decent shot of bumping him off then, the Bery Dallas member is generally given only an outside shot of taking over in August.

House conservatives are not sitting back on their hands, and should something happen to Clayton, Bryant will be confronted by an opponent from their numbers: G. B. Lewis of

Alan Miller's T-WHEELER

Our thoughts this week are tempered by forty-four months of duty in the United States Navy in World War II -- and offered without limitation against the Carter administration, of the several that preceded him.

Is there a crew loose somewhere in the moral fiber of this country? When our very existence is threatened by blatant and covert Russian aggression in the Middle East, we are again seeing protests on our college campuses. Students are protesting the fact that this country would dare to register its young people to convince the Russians that their interventions in the Persian Gulf do affect our national interest.

Frankly, we're ashamed that just days after the Canadian embassy in Tehran shipped six Americans out of Iran to freedom, college students and other young Americans were on the phone to Canadian consulates, inquiring as to whether they could immigrate to Canada to avoid draft registration.

We're not so sure that Vietnam is anything more than a crutch too many of us are using to avoid becoming personally involved in this country's future.

Of course no one wants to be drafted. Military life, except for those who choose it as a career, can be a very dreary, frustrating and boring time.

But wouldn't the Russian bear be a little more cautious if he understood that we were ready to challenge him when he overstepped the bounds of international diplomacy?

President Carter, in his news conference the other night, put it rather bluntly: We have drawn the line on naked aggression. There are events in the world that vitally affect the interests of the United States.

It is painfully clear today that this was an inappropriate judgement on our part.

Our future means keeping armed to the teeth, in the hope that this preparedness will deter any military confrontation with the Soviets.

That's why, in our view, it is essential that we have a strong foreign policy, and have the wherewithal to back it up, perhaps we can maintain a peaceful co-existence.

LIVINGSTON Fifty percent of all Careless debris burning wildfires controlled by the leading cause of TFS crews in the 52-wildfires in East Texas county play woods in 1979, according to region. Originated from figures just released by trash fires, field-clearing the Texas Forest Service and similar causes, vice. Arson and railroad fires were the next. For the year, 1265 important causes, with fires burned 205 acres in 17 and eight percent, acres, the lowest total Tyler County, since 1973.

Ain't It Great!

Of course, you know what that meant for those three welly fellows who had been cleaning those hogs. They had two more that had to be dressed out now and that north wind really seemed to pick up when the sun went down. I was really sorry I couldn't get anybody to help then but I just had to go home and see if my coffee pot was still working. You know, you never know when your coffee pot is going to go out on you!

Well, they had just thought they were going to put the chore off till morning. Somehow, it seems that

Country Club Corner

THE FORE TWO—(Golf) Among the new faces on the Dogwood course recently were Bob Bailey (Bailey's Fireplace Shop) and brother-in-law left from the Golden Triangle and the Welch twins from Port Arthur. Rosie O'Grady joined regulars Gus Lewis, Dan Armstrong, Lonnie Grissom and John Smiley.

Incidentally, say "Happy Birthday" to Dan Armstrong. Golf pals surprised him with a get together at the Club on Wednesday. Jim Pool is among the more serious tournament players and practicing regularly during lunch time and after work. With several big tournaments coming up this spring, many others are getting in their practice rounds also.

Woodville High School golf team members Steven Grimes, Jamar Kent, Barry Blackwell, Lance Sprinkle and Scotty Ward are out on the driving range each day with Coach Kelley Bousard. The talented young golfers expect to take their share of several tournaments scheduled this year.

MEETING AND EVENTS—Well in case you missed it: "Boss of the Year" goes to attorney Joe R. Smith, who hosted the surprise party, we mentioned last week. The party was a birthday bash for secretary Josie Reed, Friday afternoon at the Dogwood Country Club. Joe and his wife (Mary Ann), Fredna Eaves, Jo Ellen Bailey and Penny Tolbert worked hard to put together a real surprise for Josie, complete with a cake decorated with legal documents and a small typewriter on top. Local well-wishers included clients, friends and legal associates. Seen in the crowd were Judge Allen Sturrock, Joe Wheat, Harry Stafford, Mr. and Mrs. Lois Brockman, Jim Dillon, Josie's son (Jimmy) and Billy Frank Eaves. The entire staff of East Texas Land Company showed up including Boss Butch Herring, Jerry Buck and Scott Gilchrist. Now that's appreciated! Joe's planning another event at the Club later for his political supporters in the County Attorney race.

Greater East Texas Health Systems Agency has a meeting scheduled Thursday night in the main room of the Dogwood Country Club.

Roller Coaster Spirit

There are days when we feel on top of the world. Everybody loves us and shows it. Nice things are done for us. Sunshine and happiness drenches everything. And then there are other days — when we're blue; people are busy. We're alone. We're afraid. It might as well be raining. Nobody knows the trouble we're in. Needed is a little self-discipline, not a lot of self-pity. We must learn to face the fact that life is not always a flowery bed of roses and pleasure. Children dodge hard places, responsibility, and joint hardships. A mature person stands on his own two feet under God. Time, insight, and the grace of God can remove mountains — and take away that roller coaster spirit. Begin the road to spiritual maturity by attending church this week.

Advertisers of energy "savers" must back up their claims, and consumers can ask for this proof.

A new Federal Trade Commission ruling says energy-saving claims in advertising must have facts to prove them.

For example, if an ad says, "Storm windows will cut fuel consumption by 25 percent," you can ask for information that supports that claim.

This also means we may see different wording on ads, so claims will be easier to prove.

Here's a possible: "Storm windows may reduce heating and cooling bills." That's acceptable since it's fairly simple to back up.

Efficiency Tips For Tractors

By Clinton R. Currie, County Extension Agent

Regarding spark plugs, even if you don't think they need it, you can't always tell by looking at a spark plug when it's going bad. The time use a spark plug outside the cylinder doesn't tell the whole story.

When you select the right tractor for the job? If you select one that's too big, you're simply burning excess fuel to produce unused power. You may be wasting nearly a third of the fuel you're buying.

Most engineers says the best way to drive a big tractor is to pull a light load is to "shift up and throttle down." This maintains engine speed while keeping the engine working efficiently.

Slippage wastes fuel, but you have to have a certain amount on most soils with most tractors, and optimum slip is about 15 percent. Less means you're pulling too light a load. More means horsepower is probably being wasted.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, or national origin.

As the costs of maintenance and repairs rise dramatically faster than other operating costs, one of the best hedges a homeowner can have against rising repair and maintenance costs, says Dr. Jane Berry, a housing and farm planning specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

While the U.S. Labor Department continues much of its effort on putting people to work during the 1978 fiscal year, it also improved the performance of its programs to improve the quality of worklife for all Americans according to the department's annual report.

What about running a tractor too cool? Most tractor operators concern themselves with engine temperature only when the water temperature gauge is on the hot side. But a tractor engine is designed to wear out faster, develop less horsepower, and use more fuel when it runs too cold.

Today's tractor engines work most efficiently when the water temperature is somewhere between 165 and 180 degrees. So, a faulty thermostat that allows the tractor to run too cool is almost as bad as one that causes the engine to overheat.

Another minor tuneup item to check regularly is the fuel tank cap. It should be sealed tightly to keep out dirt, but at the same time properly vented to allow fuel to flow freely.

Beef referendum Draws Fire

WACO — Texas Farm Bureau Board of Directors reaffirmed the state's largest farm organization's total opposition to the proposed federal Beef Referendum, according to TFB President Carroll Chaloupka, a cattleman from Dalhart.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors at the state headquarters in Waco, the members unanimously supported a strong statement opposing the research and promotion program as "another step by the federal government to control the beef cattle industry through maintaining a tight rein of the use of producer funds for advertising and research."

The Beef Referendum, a name commonly used for the program, was authorized by an Act of Congress in 1976 authorizing a national check-off program or mandatory deduction from the sale of cattle to finance research and advertising for the beef industry. Cattlemen had to register from January 28-February 6 in the county ASCS offices to be able to vote for or against the program. Voting dates are February 19-22, at the local ASCS offices.

Delegates to the Texas Farm Bureau state convention in McAllen in December, 1979, overwhelmingly opposed the Beef Referendum and supported promotion efforts by the National Live Stock and Meat Board, a private, voluntary check-off program.

The TFB leader said livestock producers support a program to promote their industry, but said it would be difficult to comply with the proposed Order "because it is complicated, costly and difficult to administer."

Proponents of the Beef Referendum claim that the government, under the direction of the Secretary of Agriculture, will not be in charge of the program. Chaloupka strongly disagrees and contends that the following factors indicate that "the government certainly will keep a thumb on the program."

The order proposes to establish a Beef Board of not more than 60 producers and 5 consumers. Control by the Secretary of Agriculture includes: (1) appointment to five non-voting consultants; (2) ability to bring suit against any individual who willfully fails or refuses to assess; (3) duty to prepare by the Board of its anticipated expenses and disbursements; and (4) authority to approve and set a minimum percentage of assessed funds to be devoted to research activities.

Chaloupka also commented on the policy recently adopted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for all commodity research and promotion programs, as stated by the administrator of the Agricultural Marketing Service of USDA before a House Agriculture subcommittee in 1976. The administrator said that any domestic food commodity search and promotion program will not be approved by USDA as long as the following elements are included: (1) The program must pay total federal administrative, both salary and overhead; (2) a specified minimum percentage of the "net assessment" collected must be devoted to research activities; (3) the program must engage only in promotion or advertising that is substantially devoted to presenting nutritional information and other educational information, as well as the results of research; (4) funds must be made available to those producers not willing to participate; (5) the program must be initiated by a referendum of producers and (6) provide for the appointment by the Secretary of Agriculture of public members (consumer advocates) to the program.

"It is the nature of government to mismanage most everything," Chaloupka said, "and I can't see throwing away the funds into a quasi-government agency directed by the Secretary of Agriculture."

"All of us in agriculture must strike a blow for freedom by doing everything we can to defeat the Beef Referendum," Chaloupka said.

The choir also scheduled some sight-seeing and shopping in Reynosa, Mexico.

Texas Motor Vehicle Accidents Increase

Despite spiraling insurance costs, rising maintenance costs and skyrocketing fuel prices, Texas motor vehicle accidents continued to increase in 1979. The number of Texas traffic deaths increased proportionally with the growing number of licensed drivers in Texas. James R. Halverson, vice president for Traffic Safety for Texas Safety Association, said, "At 65 miles per hour, drivers increased their chances of being involved in a fatal accident by 25 to 35 percent, and use 18 percent more gasoline than when driving 55 m.p.h."

Ramblin' Round Rockland

by Aloha Freeland

We missed you last week, but yours truly, accompanied by the better half, went to Austin to attend the Attorney General's Conference on School Violence. It was a most enlightening experience, and was the initial meeting for the purpose of drafting a code of conduct for Texas public schools. During the weekend, we also had a wonderful visit with the Dan Utleys who live in Austin. Dan writes the historical markers for the state of Texas. It was a great weekend. In the absence of Bro. Kenn at Rockland Baptist Church on Sunday, Bro. Steve Benthal filled the pulpit. Everyone reported wonderful services.

Our sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Benton Bowen and family in the recent death of their son-in-law, Billy Baker of Huntsville. Those from here attending the funeral for Mr. Baker were Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Dickerson and J.C. Dickerson.

Week-end visitors with Ralph Dean were Bettie and Harvey Bas-ketto of Diboll, Chris and Everett Franks of Lumberton, Charles and Jenie Dean and children, Penny and Robin, of Vidor, Herbert Dean, Walter Ensign, Thelma Grove, and baby Patrick of Hillister.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Reppond and family of Zavalla were Saturday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Reppond and family.

Mrs. Lynette Baker of Huntsville was a visitor with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benton Bowen the first part of last week. Mrs. Bowen returned home with her Wednesday for a visit.

David May of Huntsville spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl May, J.C. McCauley of Tyler was also a visitor with Mr. and Mrs. May last Friday.

Mrs. Nena Robinette and Jack Matthews attended the wedding of his son, Howard Hank Matthews to Miss Kathryn Riley at Queen of Peace Catholic Church in Sweet Home, Texas on Feb. 9, and also the reception and dance at the Fireman's Hall.

Approximately 65 interested citizens attended the water meeting at Rocky Springs Baptist Church Feb. 12 pertaining to securing a water system for this area.

Services were good at the Baptist Church this past Sunday especially the fine special music by Jennifer Batge, Amy Tompkins, and Candy Lawson. At the evening service were privileged to have Scooter Wenner from East Texas Baptist College in Marshall who brought us a report on the college. Next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 the Baptist Church will have an ordination service for Roy Tompkins who will be ordained as a deacon. The public is invited to attend this very special services.

Congratulations to Deirdre Reppond on her participating in the Miss Tyler County Pageant. We are proud of you and your participation.

Happy birthday to Barbara Sowell on the 18th, Cotton Williams on the 19th, Joe Greenwood, on the 10th, Kitty Wallace on the 22nd, John Grounds and Michael Sowell on the 23rd, and Odene Brown on the 27th.

See you next week. Until then, God bless.

Weekly Agri Update

Some producers are already stocking ponds with catfish fingerlings. Dr. Joe Lock, fisheries specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says that March and early April are ideal months to stock fingerlings. If producers have not made arrangements for their fingerlings, they should do so immediately in order to be assured of an adequate supply of quality fish.

Aphids are working on small grain pastures again, according to Dr. James Robinson, Extension area entomologist. The most damaging aphid to small grains is the greenbug, a light pale green aphid with a darker stripe down its back. Larger plants may be capable of withstanding infestations of up to 800 aphids per linear foot of row. However, much smaller infestations may be caused for control.

Robinson says that more corn leaf aphids are also appearing in some small grains. This aphid is greenish-blue and is found in the whorls or on the upper parts of the plant. Although extremely common on small grains, chemical controls are seldom justified for the corn leaf aphid.

Producers should check their small grains for beneficial insects such as wasps, lady beetle larvae, and others. Aphids that are parasitized by tiny wasps form a mummy. If mummified aphids are found on the plant, the parasite is present.

Garden Changes

Unlikely

COLLEGE STATION--Despite the age of computers, it's unlikely that gardeners will be able to do all their chores by simply pressing a few buttons in the years ahead.

"Tilling the soil, hoeing weeds, and spraying for bugs and diseases will probably be as commonplace during the 1980s as last year," says Dr. Sam Cotner, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"One thing is sure, though--gardening will be even more popular in this new decade. More and more people are taking to gardening in an attempt to cut grocery costs as well as to simply grow things and get back to nature," he points out.

Gardening offers economical as well as psychological benefits, contends Cotner. In the age of computers and a "dog-eat-dog" world, gardening can be "just what the doctor ordered," a chance to "get away from it all."

At last look, some 31 million American households had gardens--41 percent of the total, or one of every 2.5 families.

And gardening has become big business. Gardeners are spending more than $1 billion a year on seeds, garden equipment, home food freezers, and related items. However, that billion dollars returns almost $14 billion in the value of garden produce, notes the horticulturist. Gardeners process about 11 percent of all the fruit and vegetables processed in the U.S.

Whether gardening for fun or profit or both, Cotner suggests detailed planning, selecting a sunny, well-drained site, and starting on a small scale.
