Cravens Deny Threat Allegations

Responding this week to allegations that he threatened the life of Michael Ross Sidoric, of Austin, Gary Craven, son of Tyler County Sheriff Lewis Craven, said Monday, "What Mike said was false ... I don't know why he said those things ... neither me or any member of my family has threatened him."

Sidoric, who accused Craven of leveling threats at he and his wife in Darn-B, gave an account of the incident to the Tyler County Commissioner's Court on Monday, May 12, then answered reporters' questions at a press conference which followed.

Sidoric said that the Cravens confronted him and his fiancée, June, at Darn-B and told them, "that someone might find us lying face down in the dirt with a slug in us."

Rumors of a possible slander suit have been circling the courthouse since the statements were made by Sidoric who said, "In the eventuality that the Sheriff finds it necessary to file a slander suit, then I maintain that the truth is an absolute defense. The sheriff knows what he said and did to us. June and I know what he did to us, and if he wants to continue this in a legal forum, it would mean that the truth would be revealed and that no rumor or slander or campaign rhetoric will be able to disguise what really happened."

According to Helen Craven, wife of the Sheriff, "It's not fair that Lewis was not made aware that the press conference was going to be held. Why weren't we informed?"

Craven reiterated his denials of Sidoric's accusations Monday by saying they were completely "erroneous and false."

In statements that Craven made to the press on May 12 following a private meeting with Sidoric in the Sheriff's office, he said that, "he felt the statements he (Sidoric) made were not politically motivated. I did feel like it was politically motivated due to the time factor. But since I have talked to Mike, and Mike is very concerned, he has led me to believe that he is a very concerned citizen about better government. I doubt it at this time."

The differences between Craven and Sidoric apparently stem from a land dispute located just across the Neches River-Tyler County line in Angelina County. Sidoric has contended that Craven Bros. Redi-Mix Company was mining rock illegally and "for objecting to Craven's actions, I have been labeled a 'liberal environmentalist.' If refusing to allow land that has been in my family for years to be destroyed by the Cravens is an act of a liberal environmentalist, I guess I qualify."

Sidoric said that, "on numerous occasions, the Sheriff supervised his family rock operation from the front seat of a Tyler County sheriff's vehicle, while it was parked on our family land in Angelina County."

Craven said, "I don't deny that I have been up there in a county vehicle. I went there often to discuss dope problems coming out of my county. That land up there has a lot of swimming holes, and it was a good location for kids to congregate with dope."

Gary Craven said, "I have never talked to June Sidoric. I've seen her a couple of times ... seen her at a distance." Craven said that he wanted to ask Sidoric, "Why are you doing this, it doesn't sound like you." Craven added that he had seen the Sidorics "25 or 30 times while mining rock up there."

The younger Craven said, "I'm not in a political contest, and I think my political reputation will speak for itself."

Craven said that the only solution to the situation is "for Mike Sidoric to retract his statements ... I'll never settle for anything less."

Regarding the mining operation in what Craven called the Haralson Pit, he said the rock that was extracted was referred to by geologists as "tuff" and was used primarily to build road bases, and to put asphalt on top of.

Gary Craven said, "We paid for everything we got. I have all the bills."

Craven said that there had never been Tyler County equipment used at the pit during the mining operation, nor could he verify whether or not Craven Bros. Redi-Mix had ever sold any crushed rock to Tyler County to be used on Tyler County roads.

HUD Housing Program Should Interest Homeowners

Woodville has recently established a program of special interest to homeowners. The program, which is being funded by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, provides money for general home improvements or rehabilitation.

The Housing Rehabilitation Program is an effort on the part of the City to promote safe, decent and sanitary housing by rehabilitating existing owner-occupied houses. The program is designed for low to moderate income families who own and live in a rehab-able house. Rehabable refers to safe, decent and sanitary.

Preference will be given to applicants living within the Neighborhood Strategy Area. Indicated on a map available at City Hall. However, homeowners residing outside the Neighborhood Strategy Area, but within the City Limits of Woodville may apply.

The City will contract directly with local builders to carry out the improvements needed. Most of the work will encompass repainting and replacing damaged portions of the existing house. Examples of work to be done will be: repairing leaking roofs, insulating attics, repairing existing plumbing and electrical systems.

The firm of Semetko and Waxman, Inc. has been hired by the City to implement the Housing Rehabilitation Program. A representative of the firm will take applications from interested homeowners on May 28, 29 and 30th from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at the Woodville City Hall. State Capital Highlights

AUSTIN -- As expected, Republican Ronald Reagan and Democrat Jimmy Carter captured the majority of delegates to their parties' national conventions this summer following a weekend of county and senatorial district caucusing ... and Texas Gov. Bill Clements is still considered a possibility for vice president on the GOP slate.

Carter took an easy two-to-one delegate lead over his primary opponent, Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, but Kennedy supporters have vowed to wage a hard convention fight.

The presidential contender with the hardest row to hoe in Texas is Illinois Sen. John Anderson who must gather over 40,000 signatures over registered voters here to gain an independent slot on the ballot.

He is now awaiting a legal opinion from Attorney General Mark White to determine who is eligible to sign his petition.

Anderson has already received a so-ahead from Texas Secretary of State George Strake -- a Republican who last week ruled that Democratic primary voters and others, but not Republican primary voters, were eligible to sign for Anderson.

Strake's interpretation of the legal language prohibited voters in a binding primary from signing for Anderson. The Republican presidential primary was binding; the Democratic primary was not.

Since Strake's ruling will enhance Anderson's ability to siphon votes from the Democrats, and lessen his ability to "raid" Republican voters, Texas Democrats are not pleased.

An opinion on the same subject has been requested of Atty. Gen. White by State Rep. Susan McBeck, D-Del Rio, chairman of the House Elections Committee, but Anderson supporters say they plan to go ahead with Strake's interpretation.

Is it finally beginning to sink in that the country is spiraling down into a tough recession?

Most economists warn not to look at falling interest rates, except for the psychological lift they give. There is still a lot of rough water ahead.

Both automobiles and housing are in desperate shape. We sold more automobiles 22 years ago than were purchased by customers this year.

And housing starts and building permits nosedived to nearly half of what they were a year ago, and remember 1979 in the housing industry was not really the best of years.

And with the political season upon us, there is a very real temptation for the federal government to attempt to "spend" our way out of the predicament we're in. Course with that political thought in mind, we lose the handle on inflation, the federal budget deficit goes through the roof, and we're back where we started when the Federal Reserve Board cranked in high interest rates eight months ago.

More damaging than anything in times like these are the loss of skilled workers as plants cut production. The men and women we are going to need badly when things turn around again. And the deeper the recession, the longer it will take to assemble a talented work force.

And the competition from the defense industries for skilled craftsmen puts additional pressure on other manufacturers. It will become a vicious circle. Each trying to outbid the other, as demand for goods and services increases.

By the way, let us apologize for warning you about the ten cent a gallon raise in gasoline prices that didn't happen. When this column went to bed a week ago, the White House said the tax was in the bag.

Then a federal judge got into the act, and said only Congress could pass tax legislation.

And by the time the appropriate committees in the Congress took a look at the proposition, they decided they wanted no part of it.

So if Carter is going to balance the budget by adding to tax balance, he is going to have to look elsewhere. There ain't no bread left in that cupboard.

We would guess that Mr. Carter could decide to take one of the planks out of John Anderson's platform. You remember him. He's the guy who wants to put a 50 cent tax on gasoline, and use the money to reduce Social Security taxes.

But with Congress wanting to make things like the budget, so workers as plants cut production. They can come home after the party conventions, and convince us badly when things turn around again. They are one word of caution.

Keep your eye on your wallets, friends. The only way the federal budget is going to be balanced, what with high unemployment, and rampant inflation, is new taxes. You may not see 'em all comin', but they'll be there. And your purse will be the poorer.

open mind Encourages Music Education

Dear Editor,

As a piano teacher in the Warren area, I feel impelled to encourage music education during the summer months, that is, piano lessons, which offer a good foundation for other instruments.

Fathers and mothers who are genuinely concerned with the minds of their children will introduce them to the beauties of the arts, including music.

Statistics reveal that over a billion dollars are spent annually for new musical instruments, sheet music, and accessories. Upward of two hundred thousand pianos are sold each year. Most of these are destined for home use, primarily for young children eager to play.

At what age should we begin the child's formal educational procedures? Many educators agree that most children at the age of 5 or 7 are ready for stringent demands that are often placed upon them by well-meaning parents and teachers. Some are not even ready for school at this age. If their music lessons were deferred for 2 or 3 years their chances of success would be greatly increased and their first experiences would be pleasant. Money for lessons, time spent in practice, and the investment in an instrument will not have been spent in vain.

After a happy experience in glee clubs, choirs, instrumental groups and various musical experiences thru secondary and college level, I turned to piano instruction. The lessons I gave were primarily in the homes of the students. This saved the mother time, she could be listening if she chose, and little Johnny or Mary usually had the backing of the parents in his practice sessions. This, however, opened up a whole new world to me. It was the disinterestedness of parents in providing suitable plans for their children at the age of 5 or 7 that I have not going to expect his young son to turn out a beautiful piece of furniture if he provides for that poor quality look. A mother, in teaching a daughter to sew doesn't expect blue ribbons on her daughter's H suit if she has to fight with a sewing machine that only works half the time.

Just so parents who provide old clunkers of pianos that do not hold the pitch, borrow half or all missing, just so they play, pride themselves that they are saving money while finding out if the child will take a real interest in music and be worthy of a new piano. I have seen this in almost every case. I have found that soon the enthusiasm wanes and the parents blame the child and the teacher. Although it might be the fault of the teacher, more often than not there are other reasons. In a half hour lesson once a week the teacher can seldom give the motiva-

Our Policy

The Tyler County Booster is an independent newspaper which reports what it believes to be true. It has no affiliations, political or otherwise, which can interfere with its editorial policy or the handling of news. Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of this newspaper will be corrected upon being brought to the attention of the publisher.

Many parents should endeavor to make music and music practice a happy experience by introducing the child to quality music. This can be done by the means of recording, taking the student to concerts at every opportunity, and exposing them to the finest music the world has to offer. Music educators caution against easing up on music lessons during summer vacation. A stepped up program of practice is most often recommended.

Morning hours are, by far, the most desirable in which to reach a reward from practice sessions.

Hopefully, anyone, young or older, getting piano instruction in the Warren or Woodville area will have a beautiful and happy experience. This is especially true if the student is easing up on music lessons during summer vacation. A stepped up program of practice is most often recommended.

Takes Exception With Cartoon

Editor:

I take strong exception to the editorial cartoon by Ben Sargent concerning the Texas Prison system. The stereotype prison guard carrying a shotgun commenting that the Governor has "forgotten" parole is also off base. Texas has one of the finest prison systems in the nation. It is efficient, call it has never been fun, it's not supralatively inexpensive and fair. When posed to be, they are the other protected from criminals.

Since 1960 when the parole office program was instituted every ver. doing time, even if found guilty, chance for parole has been offered to every prisoner who deserved it. Being in the "joint" as the cons law.

He has done the best he could with equipment and manpower he has available to him, and I should know for I worked for him in the Sheriff Dept.

Lewis E. Craven is sworn to uphold the law, and he does this very well. He is the type of man you can sit down and talk to at any time and he will listen and help you in any way that he can as long as it is within the law. I fully intend to support Sheriff Craven because I am a concerned citizen. I am concerned about the welfare of my people of Tyler County, but that is the reason I want to print this in the news. I would like to see his faith in return. I want him to know we appreciate people of Tyler County, and I want him to know we appreciate people. Support him and Vote for him on June 7th.

'The Way I Am'

Letter to the Editor:

I read a letter in the Booster last week that brought back some old memories.

About four or five years ago, I needed some help from our law. At that time, we had the same Sheriff, children living in Tyler County and I was just sitting around. I told them my problem, no one was concerned enough to do anything at all. Maybe it wasn't a big problem to them, but it was to me. I was hurting and asking for help. Do you know what they said to me, if you hear anything or get any leads, let us know. In other words, it wasn't important enough for them to try help.

As I was leaving the courthouse, we met Herman Nowlin. We told him our problem. He told us he would do us day and night until our problem was solved. Thank Mr. Nowlin, I know you know the problem I am speaking of.

In January my son was in the funeral home and all of you have chil-

Larry Browder can and will help Tyler County

Browder was raised in a rural county, and he knows the problems a rural county faces...

He has held several elected public offices in a rural county.

Serving as President of a rural county school board, he is well aware of the imbalance in teachers' salaries and funding of our school system.

Serving as a board member of SHECO, he fully understands the problems of the retired and senior citizens when it comes to making ends meet on a fixed income, trying to overcome higher utility rates and taxes.

He has served over 10 years as a peace officer in a rural county and has been cited for outstanding service.

As a small businessman and farmer, he knows the problems we face on a day-to-day basis.

Serving as an officer in numerous volunteer fire departments, Browder knows they need help, not only from the community, but from the State of Texas also.

Larry Browder's knowledge of a rural county hasn't come from a textbook, it came from first-hand knowledge, better known as experience...

VOTE
June 7th
Leon Fowler
 for Sheriff

To the people of Tyler County:

First of all, I will not make any promises that I cannot fulfill. I know that I have the ability and understanding to make you a good sheriff and if elected, I will work hard to see that this is done.

If you elect me as your sheriff, you will have 24 hour service from the sheriff's office, your calls will be answered by trained and courteous personnel. Civil Citations will be served promptly, and I will work not only for your protection, but to establish better working relations with all law enforcement agencies.

On June 7th, elect Leon Fowler for EVERYONE'S Sheriff. Paid Pol. Adv. by Leon Fowler, Star Rt. 1, Box 20-A, Woodville, Tex.

- POLITICAL
- Strong Democrat
- Area camp coordinator for
- Delegate to Democratic Con
- Member of Democratic Com
- Committee

My opponent wants you to elect him as a "Strong Democrat" - but in the last election he was a Republican Chairman!

If you saw Larry Browder's big ad, you read that he said he was a "Strong Democrat". But two years ago, LARRY BROWDER WAS A COUNTY CAMPAIGN CHAIRMAN FOR REPUBLICAN GOVERNOR CLEMENTS!

Ask yourself why you should vote for Larry Browder as a "Strong Democrat" when he worked so hard to help elect the first Republican Governor in Texas since 1876?

Ask yourself if being a Republican Campaign Chairman was good enough for Larry two years ago, why doesn't he want to tell you about it now?

And ask yourself this: Since Larry Browder thought we needed a Republican Governor in the last election, who do you really think he would serve in Austin - you and the people of District 16, or the rich Republican Governor he worked so hard for?

ED NORWOOD HAS BEEN AN ACTIVE DEMOCRAT ALL HIS LIFE. He supported the Democratic ticket in the last election, and he will be a strong Democratic State Representative for you in Austin.

Ed Norwood has run an honest campaign. He hasn't tried to mislead you, or confuse you about who he was, and he has not "omitted" his political history.

On June 7, please VOTE FOR A TRUE DEMOCRAT: ED NORWOOD FOR STATE REPRESENTATIVE.

JACK BURNS WOULD LIKE TO TAKE THIS OPPORTUNITY TO PUBLICLY DENY THE CLAIM THAT HE HAS ENDORSED A CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF. JACK BURNS DOES NOT ENDORSE EITHER LEWIS CHAVRY OR LEON FOWLER FOR SHERIFF. DURING THE LAST FEW DAYS SIGNS SAYING "VOTE CHAVRY OR BURNS" APPEARED IN COUNTY 1. THIS WAS DONE WITHOUT THE KNOWLEDGE OR CONSENT OF JACK BURNS. IF THE VOTERS WILL CHECK THE PERCENTAGE OF VOTES JACK BURNS RECEIVED, AND COMPARE TO THE PERCENTAGE THAT THE TWO CANDIDATES FOR SHERIFF RECEIVED, THE VOTERS CAN ASCERTAIN THAT THERE IS DEFINITELY NO REASON FOR JACK BURNS TO ENDORSE EITHER.

JACK BURNS HAS AWARDED THE VOTES OF COUNTY 1 FOR LEON FOWLER AS CONSTABLE, ON THE BASIS OF JACK BURNS' OWN OPINION AND WILL STAND ON HIS OWN MERITS.

Medicare Insurance Helps Many

Medicare is a Federal health insurance program that helps millions age 65 and older and many severely disabled people pay the high cost of health care. It has two parts: hospital insurance, which helps pay for inpatient health care, and medical insurance. Practically everyone 65 or over is eligible for Medicare. Also eligible are people under 65 who have been entitled to "social security disability benefits for 24 months. People insured under social security and their wives, husbands, and children are also eligible if they need a kidney transplant or dialysis.

One doesn't have to retire to get Medicare hospital insurance. You can keep working - but the local social security office should be contacted about three months before age 65 to enroll. Everyone 65 or older who is eligible gets the hospital insurance without payment of any monthly premiums. Eligible "disabled" people get the hospital insurance automatically. Hospital insurance is paid for by the tax workers and their employers pay. Hospital benefits pay for 90 days inpatient care for each benefit period. The first 60 days cost the patient the first $180, with the balance paid for by Medicare. It pays for all covered services except $45 a day from the 61st through the 90th day of hospitalization. Medical insurance costs $8.70 a month. Beginning in July it increases to $9.60 a month. The Federal government pays an additional amount which is over two-thirds of the premium cost. It helps pay for physicians' services, including supplies and drugs which you cannot administer yourself as part of your doctor's treatment. It also helps pay for outpatient hospital services, certain home health "visits" prescribed by the doctor, and a number of other medical and health services prescribed by the doctor, such as X-ray, dressings, splints, rent or purchase of certain durable medical equipment, and other items. After the patient has $60 in reasonable charges for covered services, Medicare pays 80 percent of the reasonable charges for additional covered services received in the year.

Reasonable charges are determined by Medicare health insurance carriers - health insurance organizations selected by the government to handle the medical claims on contract. The "reasonable charges" may be less than the actual charges made by the doctor and suppliers. For more detailed information, call any social security office.

Family Land Program On

AUSTIN - "This year is going to be round-up year in Tyler County for the Texas Family Land Heritage Program," Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown announced as the 1980 registration period opened this month.

"We hope that everyone involved in history and agriculture will help us register all families who have held on to their farms and ranches for 100 years or more," Brown said.

The Texas Department of Agriculture is entering its seventh year in sponsoring the program to honor those who have maintained continuous agricultural production on the same land for at least a century. The registration period will extend from May 15 to August 15.

So far, there have been 1,294 Texas families who have qualified, 5 from Tyler County.

Those who qualify are honored in state ceremonies and receive a certificate and a copy of the Family Land Heritage Registry, in which are printed old photographs of the family and homes as well as a brief history of the land.

"We have had excellent cooperation from Agriculture district county historical commission chairpersons, and from judges and historians who have helped to locate people in their areas who might qualify," Brown said.

The Registry has become a very popular publication because it contains unique historical photographs and remembrances of families who are the foundation of Texas agriculture," Brown said.

Genealogists and researchers in other fields have found this information very beneficial.

The requirements include the following: Continuous agricultural production on the same land for 100 years; ownership of the land remaining in the family; complete operation or supervision of the farm or ranch production by family members; and a size of at least 10 acres with a minimum of $250 income from farm or ranch products. If all of the land has ever been rented out, the property is ineligible. Timber and recreational leases do not qualify. The Texas Department of Agriculture is the final judge of eligibility.

Persons who meet the basic qualifications and wish to enter the program can obtain an application from the county judge, county chairperson, the nearest Texas Department of Agriculture district county historical commission office, or they may write the Department, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

Wilson Tries To Reduce Debt

WASHINGTON - Never again will Congress have this chance to dramatically reduce the national debt without cutting existing spending programs, Wilson said. "Revenue from the tax is indeed a windfall and ought to be dedicated strictly to reduction of the debt."

If, as his critics have feared, revenue from the windfall profits tax is absorbed into the federal budget, ten years from now when the tax expires the government will find itself billions of dollars short, Wilson said.

Wilson's bill will require repeal of the existing allocation of revenue from the excess profits tax. As it stands now, 60 percent of the revenue is to go to the poor and elderly to help them pay soaring fuel bills and remaining 40 percent is to be used to spur domestic energy production.

According to the House Ways and Means Committee, the national debt for fiscal year 1981 will be approximately $926 billion, and interest to be paid on that debt will be $72 billion.

Wilson's bill will establish the "Public Debt Retirement Trust Fund," using money deposited there to retire Treasury bills as they become due.

Basing anticipated revenue from the windfall profits tax on a 5% annual increase in the price of crude oil over and above the rate of inflation, Wilson predicts the government will collect $32 billion over ten years. Adding to that an estimated $1.6 billion from the oil import fee, it would be possible to reduce the national debt by nearly 48% to about $448 billion.

That would in turn reduce the debt service from the current $72 billion a year to an estimated $37 billion in 1990.

Although Wilson originally opposed passage of the excess profits tax, since the tax does exist, he favors using the money wisely instead of spending it foolishly.

Fort Polk Soldiers To Support Refugee Influx At Arkansas

Soldiers of Fort Polk's 258th Military Police Company are leaving Fort Chaffee, Arkansas, where they are providing support for the Cuban Refugee Processing Center.

A contingent of 30 MP's left Fort Polk Monday morning, with 90 more troops, vehicles and equipment to follow on Tuesday.

The Fort Polk MP's will join other military units from throughout the nation which will be drawn to Fort Chaffee to handle the influx of thousands of refugees fleeing Cuba. The Fort Polk soldiers will stay at the Arkansas post for an indefinite period of time.

Fort Chaffee, located near Fort Smith, Arkansas, was used in the mid-1970's in a similar role, handling thousands of refugees coming from South Vietnam.

Don't Use Faulty Canning Equipment

One of the major reasons for processing all non-acid vegetables and other home-canned foods is to prevent possible spoilage and/or botulism.

Use only standard pressure canners. Pressure canners are not intended for use in canning. They are not impervious to extreme heat and pressure.

Gas Surplus Said Boon To Travelers

LIVINGSTON — The shores of Lake Tom record gasoline inventory as well as nearly 17 million gallons of gas being pumped by the American Petroleum Institute. A U.S. Energy Department survey shows an embarras of riches — nearly 20 percent above last year's figures. "Not as far," DeLong explained, "because travel patterns are definitely shifting. People will be looking for several mini-vacation possibilities instead of one long trip, breaking a summer. This shift in patterns will use less fuel. We're ready for them!"

The "East Texas Chamber's 'Heritage Trail' offers a wide variety of day-long or week-end excursions. Highway Executive Gets Bolo Ties

INDIAN VILLAGE — Tom Taylor, director of the Travel Division of the Texas Highway Department, received 50 handbeaded bolo ties from Leona-Clem Sylestine, Vice-Chairman of the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation. Taylor, who is an accomplished artist in making Indian beadwork at the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation in East Texas, is making beautifully designed beaded bolo ties. That's exactly what Tom Taylor wanted and he got it. The Travel Counselors new summer uniform. These ambassadors of goodwill in Texas staff the 11 tourist bureaus at all major points of entries into the state providing information on what to see and do in Texas.

Two months and approximately 56,000 beads later, Leona Sylestine presented the 50 hand-beaded bolo ties to Tom Taylor during the Texas-Travel-Counselors Annual Conference in Galveston, Texas. Taylor invited the publisher to drop into one of the state highway tourist bureaus to see the beautiful ties with a design of Texas. These attractive bolo-ties are available only at the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation located between Livingston and Woodville.

Fertilize Ponds For Higher Yield

By CLINTON R. CURRIE
County Extension Agent

An inorganic fertilizer, properly applied now, will more than double the pounds of fish a pond will produce in a year.

Fertilization is effective in ponds stocked with bass, bream or catfish. The increased fish production results from more phytoplankton (green plants) in the phytoplankton.

Using more than the recommended amount will not increase production. Furthermore, 50 pounds of fertilizer in a pond if a commercial feeding program is followed.

Cong. Wilson Fights Rail Act of 1980

WASHINGTON — will in effect subsidize rail traffic on the Rail Act of 1980, the results will be disastrous for Texas. Congressman Wilson of Louisiana is fighting the bill. "If a railroad can receive a certain class of shippers to make up any kind of revenue," Wilson said, "there is no motivation other Texas state off to be competitive and efficient. This bill would in effect encourage and subsidize the entire industry." Wilson said that the effect would have on rail rates for shipping the coal into Texas.

Wilson said that the effect would have on rail rates for shipping the coal into Texas. "Our national energy policy and energy policy encourages the use of coal. Take the situation we have in abundance with coal. As the rail rates go up, the rate for shipping goes up. But paradoxically, the rate for shipping goes down. And the utilities will be subsidizing a bill that would convert to coal. And the utilities will be subsidizing a bill that would convert to coal. And the utilities will be subsidizing a bill that would convert to coal."

Shrimply Delicious Pizza Pie

COLLEGE STATION — Mama Mia! How she loved that pizza! And how we love that pizza — especially when it "goes elegant" with the addition of small Texas shrimp!

Annette Reddell, a seafood consumer education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, shares the following:

"Shrimp Pizza" can be made in a flash.

Use pre-rolled pizza crusts, available in supermarkets, and use already-cooked shrimp available at most seafood markets, if you need all the speed this recipe offers!

This meal is a money-saver, too — since a nine-inch pizza uses only one-third pound of shrimp.

Surprise your family soon with this mouth-watering wonder.

SHRIMP PIZZA

3 cloves finely chopped garlic
1/2 cup melted margarine
3 cans (6 ounces each) Italian-style tomato paste
1/3 cup chopped parsley
1/4 teaspoon oregano
3 unbaked 9-inch pizza crusts
1/2 pound Mozzarella cheese, thinly sliced

Cook onion and garlic in margarine until tender.

Add tomato paste and simmer for 5 minutes. Remove from heat; add parsley and oregano.

Place pizza crusts on well-greased baking pans.

Cover each crust with 1/3 of the sauce, 1/3 of the shrimp, and 1/3 of the cheese.

Bake at 425 degrees for 20 minutes or until crust is brown and cheese melts.

Makes 3 pies. Serves 6.

To Nation's Wood Supply

South Holds Key

LUFKIN — The South holds the key to meeting national demand for forest products in the 1980s, according to a leading forest products industry analyst.

At a recent meeting of the Society of American Foresters in Lufkin, Thomas Clephane, vice president of Morgan Stanley and Co., Inc. of New York, gave the 300 plus foresters present his seven major forecasts for the next 5 to 10 years.

He stated that softwood timber prices should continue to rise faster than the overall inflation rate, perhaps as much as two percent to four percent faster.

"During the previous 10 years, southern timber prices rose at an average rate of 16 percent annually, while the overall inflation rate averaged about seven percent," he declared.

"Prices should continue to beat inflation because forest products consumption is increasing faster than forest growth."

Clephane also stated that timber prices in the South should rise more rapidly than timber prices in general. Southern timber is substantially undervalued compared to Western timber, he said. He attributed the price differential to the larger diameter, higher quality timber currently being harvested in much of the Pacific Northwest region. "The South is in a strong position to increase its market share, particularly in plywood production," he said.

The Southern share of the plywood market increased from 16 percent in 1968 to 40 percent in 1978.

Southern timber plantations won't be a major source of incremental timber supply until after 1990, according to Clephane. He quoted Dr. Bruce Zobel of North Carolina State University as saying the major impact of plantation programs in providing incremental timber supply will not be felt much before 1990.

"Dr. Zobel estimates that much of the accessible coastal sawtimber will be cut out by 1980 and that this will result in a major timber squeeze during the 1980's," Clephane said.

"The sharp rise in saw timber prices over the past five years here in the South serves to com-firm Dr. Zobel's conclusions."

Clephane foresees a continuing shift of forest products industry activity to the South. This will include corporate shifts and new emphasis in the South by major forest products companies.

"The eighties will also see continuing attempts to maximize timber values in the South," he said. "Companies will go to longer harvest rotations, which will produce larger and higher quality timber; and more paper mills will run on wood chips instead of pulpwood."

Pulpwood prices should rise in the eighties, the industry analyst added. "Competition for timber resources will increase as harvest rotations lengthen and average log size increases. Pulpwood and sawlog buyers will have to compete for the same timber," he said, "and this will drive pulpwood prices higher."

Lastly, Clephane foresees continued investment in Southern timberlands by forest products companies, private individuals, diversified companies and syndicates.

The analyst concluded much of the interest in southern timberlands lies with the past history of forestry investments.

"Although investments in timber don't offer major tax shelter benefits, this form of investment has shown superior return in the past with relatively little downside risk."

He indicated that southern timber can generate after-tax returns of 10 percent to 15 percent, even higher in some cases. "Since the maximum rate on capital gains was recently reduced to 28 percent, the outlook for after tax returns on timber investments has improved substantially," Clephane added.

He stated that four major elements create this superior investment return. "The first is the nine percent to 11 percent annual increase in timber value which I'm assuming will occur in the future," he said.

"The second is the four percent to six percent physical growth that one can get on well-situated southern pine acreage."

The third is a very substantial upgrading in value as you convert from pulpwood at age 20 to 25 years to sawtimber at age 30 to 35.

"The fourth element is a seven percent annual increase in raw land value. We're assuming the raw land value only matches the inflation rate; although past experience has indicated a two percent to three percent premium over the inflation rate in annual appreciation."

Clephane indicated that timber also has logical investment appeal for farmers, because "it offers a substantially higher return than farmland and involves fewer direct management problems."

The forest industry analyst said expanded use of timber for its energy value would correspondingly raise its economic value.

Clephane foresees a continuing favorable outlook for softwood timber demand, particularly here in the South, which should keep timber prices rising faster than inflation.

Workshop Set

"For the cost of a movie theatre ticket, you and your family can learn to enrich your lives for years to come," comments Joe McCulley, coordinator for an upcoming community education workshop sponsored by Deep East Texas MHMR.

The workshop is a three-hour program on personal and family stress to be presented Thursday, May 29, from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Lufkin Civic Center.

Participants will learn to understand the causes of stress; to recognize the signs of stress and the behaviors and feelings of a person under stress; and to identify practical measures that can be adopted to prevent stress in the future.

For reservations, call (713) 634-8241 in Lufkin and (713) 569-8288 in Nacogdoches. Charge for the program is $3 for individuals and families.
