Bank Purchase Considered

A transfer of control stock purchase application may be approved this week for the acquisition of a 25 percent or more stock interest in the First State Bank of Colmesneil and the Chester State Bank of Chester.

According to Karen Bernard of the State Banking Department offices in Austin, application was filed on August 18 and has to await a 30-day investigation period before State Banking Commissioner Robert Stewart can make a decision on the application. According to the Banking Office clerk, the procedure does not involve a vote.

The two banking properties which are owned by David Feagin of Woodville, and more recently Colorado, are being applied for by four individuals who were listed on the application as follows: Richard L. Giesecke of Dallas, Donald Schautteet of Marble Falls, Joe B. McClanahan of Lancaster, and Roy Richard of Schertz, Texas.

SETS & L Gets $1 Million For Home Loans

Southeast Texas Savings and Loan was notified Tuesday that it's facility will receive $1 million in home mortgage dollars to be loaned out "on a first-come-first-served basis" as part of a Texas Housing Authority Single Family Mortgage Program which across the state of Texas was able to draw from a pool of $125 million state dollars allocated in order to stimulate housing sales across the state for both buyers and sellers.

According to SETS & L Vice President Dick Davis, "The plan is designed for families which earn up to $25,000 a year plus $1,000 for each child." Davis said that category of loan was considered "low to moderate income" by the State Agency and that 25 percent of the money had to be distributed to families accumulating $19,000 or less during the period of a year.

The money will not be available until Nov. 1, Davis said, and the maximum loan total can't exceed $67,500, offered on a conventional basis for 30 years, and with a 12 percent or less interest rate condition, he added.

Davis said the Savings and Loan institution would be encouraging people to sign up for the available dollars and would be keeping an official roster. Persons must indicate their interest in the program in writing, he said.

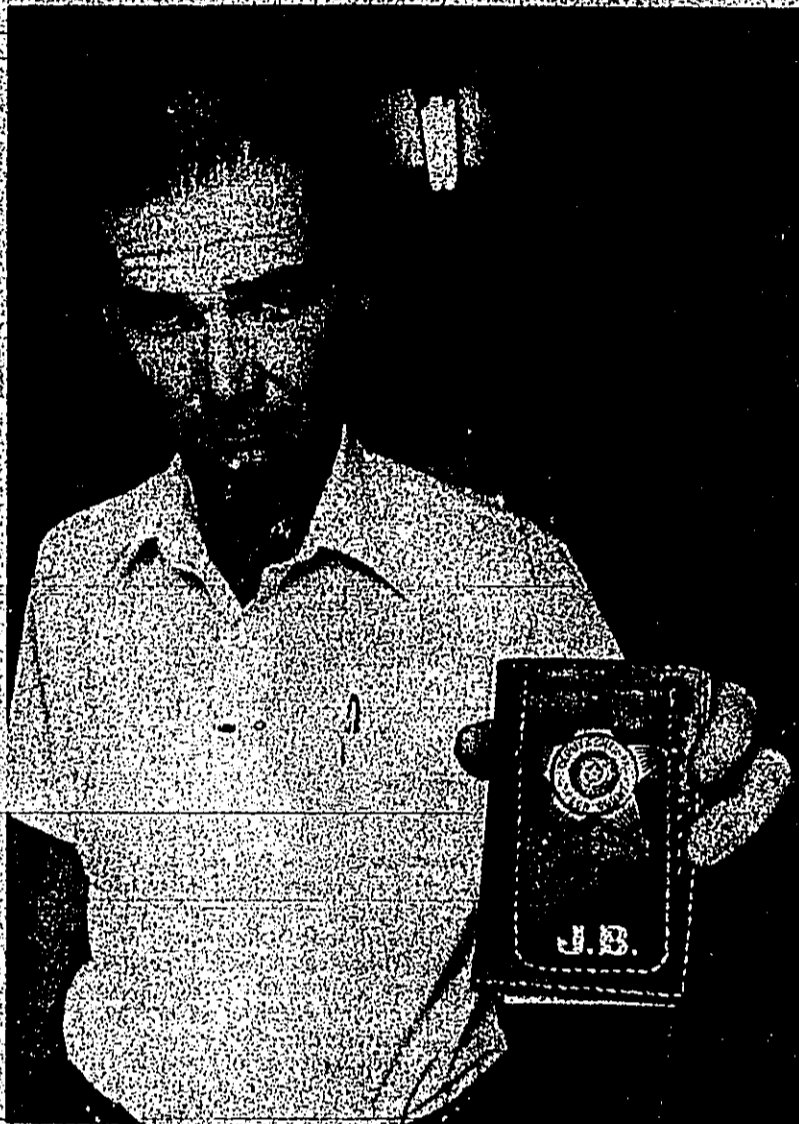

According to County Judge Allen Sturrock, who is also president of the Deep East Texas Council of Governments, "Only one other agency in the area of responsibility was approved in the program, Lufkin Federal Savings and Loan was the only other lender who applied for the program dollars."

Across the state, some 113 applications receive "at least $1 million," said Earline Jewett, Executive Administrator of the Texas Housing Agency.

Little League Group To Meet

The Tyler County Little League Association is having an Annual meeting to elect a president for the coming year and to hear reports on the financial condition of the organization. The meeting will meet at the Woodville Inn Tuesday, Sept. 23 at 7:30 p.m.

Conservative Voters Group To Meet Sept. 18

The Conservative Voters of Tyler County, a newly formed group of persons interested in the elections of Ronald Reagan and George Bush, will meet at the Community Room of the Citizens State Bank, Thursday, Sept. 18, at 7 p.m., according to Dr. Brian Babin, chairman of the Reagan-Bush Campaign in Tyler County.

Purpose of the meeting, Babin said, "is to make further organizational campaign plans and discuss the preparation of the opening of the Tyler County Republican Campaign Headquarters, which will be located at the intersection of Hwy. 190 and U.S. 69."

'Peer' Group Theory Emerges

The Concerned Citizens Against Drug Abuse dual meetings held at the First Baptist and Our Lady of the Pines Catholic Church Thursday resulted in average to "good-sized" crowds, who chose to take the opportunity to learn more about how to educate themselves about drug prevention.

Several "big names" in the drug abuse education circuit which spoke at the meeting included: Corigan Police Chief, Joel Lambright; General Ronnie Kisner, Governor Clement's specialist in War on Drugs; a National Child Safety Program representative, Earl McLaughlin, from Texas Alcohol and Narcotics Education.

The purpose of the meetings was to gather public interest in forming an official advocacy organization in Tyler County to fight drugs," said Dr. Harold Herrington, who just recently experienced a family incident when his son came home with a controlled substance which had been given him at school.

Herrington said, "Up until that happened, this sedate, easy-living, quiet county we live in all of a sudden changed."

General Kisner reported about a relationship he had with his son who "had been using drugs for several years before I found out." He told the group that "You're so valuable to me, I'll never let drugs have you."

He told the group that Texas "is the clearinghouse for illegal drugs and as a result, groups like yours are springing up like toadstools all over Texas."

Anti-drug crime fighter and specialist in his field, Corigan Police Chief Lambright gave a talk to the group showing different paraphernalia used by drug users.

Several Tyler Countians revealed personal experiences about drug abuse incidents for the group. One Tyler County teacher saying, "I didn't know my boy as a human being till he was in drugs. They responded to nothing but hate. It took a lot of pain that he came past then using drugs. My contacts caught selling on the high school campus."

One mother who told of her experience with her son said, "It hasn't been a week since he was in drugs. One person at the meeting said,

Takes Badge Back

Resigning formally early Monday when he turned in his badge to Sheriff Lewis Craven, Deputy Sheriff Jack Burns said that "Being a deputy in Tyler County was like beating your head against a stone wall."

But, within six hours, the disgruntled deputy took his badge back, apparently after being persuaded by fellow deputies to stay.

Burns, who was found Sunday in the Sheriff's office turning in his gear, said that leniency by the judicial system in Tyler County was the prime reason for his decision to leave the department.

Burns said he made the decision to leave following the release of a George Holcomb, 48, of Spurger who was brought in by Burns following charges of assault, disorderly conduct and terroristic threats, reportedly which were made to Burns after he responded to a call in the area.

Burns said that Holcomb was released on a personal recognizance bond "quicker than a flash," and he added, "there's a jillion just like that one over here."

"We need to set bonds high enough where people wouldn't have the money to buy their way out."

Burns said he didn't take the job for the money, but "When you arrest a man, all you've done is aggravate the person so that the next time you arrest him he's really going to be hostile and more arrogant mainly because he knows he's not going to be penalized."

The biggest problem is the failure of the courts to prosecute. "People who complain about the need to raise taxes are a bunch of bunk," Burns said, "if they would just prosecute and levy fines, then you wouldn't need to raise taxes."

Burns said that he averages about 15 arrests per week since he has been a deputy.

Fellow Deputy Leslie DuBose said, "Burns is not one of the best... he is the best. It would be a great loss without him."

Burns indicated that the sheriff's office was one deputy short now, and was one vehicle short. He said that he had used his own personal vehicle and driven about 13,000 miles claiming only about $300. "Just doing it for the good of the county," he said.

Burns said the other deputies gave him the proper assurances of department cooperation but that he still would press for the courts to not be lenient on offenders.

Burns said his position pays $973 a month.

Water Hookups Soon

Some 800 persons who have signed up in the past year for a hookup to the Tyler County Water Supply Corporation will be serviced with running water "at least by spring," according to Rayburn Moore, an engineer with the J.F. Fontaine Associates of Palestine, who under the auspices of the Farmers Home Administration have set up non-profit water supply groups in the communities of Dan-B, Town Bluff, Spurger, Fred Hillster and the Dies Community.

According to Moore, drilling is scheduled to begin in two weeks by two drilling companies, Lanford Drilling Co. of Shreveport and Key-Drilling Company of Garrison.

The program, according to Moore, is set up "to provide good drinking water to these communities."

The Lanford drill operation will be for the Spurger and Town Bluff Communities and the Key-Drilling Company drilling will be for the communities of Fred and Hillster.

Moore said he didn't think the work would be done by Christmas and that "it would be a safer bet to say by spring."

He said that each drilling company had only 60 days to complete their drilling.

Moore said the program was authorized under the Farmers Home Administration and totaled $2,300,000 in available loans which would be paid by $10 monthly fees. Fifty percent of Moore said the wells would reach a depth of 800 feet, be gravel packed and percent of the grant funds are also provided by FHA, he said.

Moore said Phase II of the program was scheduled to include the communities of Rockland, Rocky Springs, Mt. Carmel and Holly Fork. Moore said the wells would reach a depth of 800 feet, be gravel packed and percent of the grant funds are also provided by FHA, he said.

ABWA Seeks Members

Wisteria Chapter of American Business Women's Association will hold a fall Enrollment Event September 23rd at 515 Timberland, in the home of Mrs. Belle Schutte according to Mrs. Irene Sheffield, the outgoing president.

The theme, "Black & Gold Rush," focuses on the official ABWA colors and stresses personal and professional goals through membership. The event promises to be a festive highlight of ABWA new member enrollments this fall.

ABWA events are held to introduce ABWA and the local chapter to business women in this area. Throughout this period, similar events will be held across the country by more than 1,800 other ABWA chapters.

The goal of ABWA is to help women in business advance through education, increased competence, and through upgrading of professional skills and business attitudes," Mrs. Sheffield said.

The Association, founded in Kansas City, Missouri, in 1949, now has more than 100,000 members. Last year, ABWA chapters throughout the United States and Puerto Rico awarded more than $1,500,000 in scholarships to women students, and the national scholarship fund gave another $175,000 during the same period. Wisteria Chapter awarded $900 this year and a total of $7622.00.

Membership is by invitation only. For further information, contact Irene Sheffield or Events Chairman, Maggie Pryor.

Woodville Considered For Offices

Woodville may be considered as a location possibility along with several other East Texas towns in the 20th County Region 10 Department of Health area for a Headquarters facility to house some 25 Department of Health employees with projected average salaries which may range from $25,000 to $30,000 per year.

Cole said that he spoke to the Chief of Staff, Senator Region 10, Robert McKinney, of Tyler, Texas, who indicated that the key factors in the decision to locate will be competitive private proposals from individuals and adequate and appropriate office space available, and available suitable housing for staff members who fall into this income bracket.

According to the Region 10 office, proposals need to be received by October 4, 1980 with possible occupancy of the facility by Jan. 1, 1980.

Actual funding for the Headquarters facility will be officially acted upon by the Legislative Budget Board in Austin later this month.

By LYNDELL WILLIAMS Texas Press Assoc. - ion work to see him re-elected. That's probably a relief to Carter, who has said he needs Texas to win in seven weeks. In a two-day blitz, starting at 11 a.m. in Houston, the top leaders traveled in groups of twos and threes to all areas of the state. The group included Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, former Atty. Gen. Jimmy Carter and Republican Bill Bullock, Comptroller of Public Accounts. ... BULLOCK, WAYNE CLEARED ... To debate or not to debate. That is the question. And the way it looks now, the League of Women Voters, who agreed to sponsor three debates featuring the top three Presidential contenders, seems to have solved it. Or if they are held at all, President Carter will not be there. Carter is afraid of giving John Anderson more public exposure. Apparently, Reagan seems to think that not debating in Iowa last winter got him in trouble. So he sought debate time with his Republican challengers wherever he could find them. And whether the debates in themselves had anything to do with it or not, Reagan is the Republican candidate. President Carter on the other hand would not debate Kennedy in 1960. And now he will not debate Reagan if Anderson is on the platform. In our view, Robert Strauss, the President's campaign advisor, is caught in the middle. His argument is that Reagan is afraid to debate Carter would not afford water-based on the fact that Reagan met all corners in his primary campaign. And Pat Caddell, the President's pollster, may be right when he says a viable Anderson candidacy would take votes away from the President, so why push Anderson into the limelight.

several are entering and leaving through the courtroom doors. The most dramatic case remains of course, the Brilab trial of House Speaker Bill Clayton, which was delayed because of the Jewish holiday Rosh Hashanah last week. Clayton's case was thought to have received a blow when a federal judge last week overruled a ruling giving immunity to a key witness for Clayton. BULLOCK, WAYNE CLEARED ... A Travis County grand jury returned a "no bill" against former Deputy Comptroller Ralph Wayne alleged to have used state employees and equipment for his personal business. District Atty Ronald Earle said the investigation of Comptroller Bullock and his office is now closed. The probe was on-going some three years. A relieved Bullock said he believed he was treated fairly by Earle and the jury. NEXT, A SENATOR ... The next state official to stand before that grand jury may be State Sen. Jesse Jones of Houston, alleged to have used state employee and equipment in setting up a Houston fundraiser which brought in some $40,000. Jones has already reimbursed the senator's aide preparing a campaign contribution letter using a state-owned letter-writing computer. Jones has already reimbursed the state $1,625 and claimed not to have known about the work. AIN OF CAUTION ... Hints and rumors of more investigations of such misuse abound at the Capitol, a bit of open season to catch offenders. The result has been an air of caution among staffers to avoid intentionally committing an offense. Some Capitol watchers anticipate more cases to unfold before the election. Consumer Alert By MARK WHITE Attorney General The Division's consumer complaint process continues to operate efficiently. It has received 60% of all complaints filed with the Division are settled to the satisfaction of the consumer. Through the Bureau's informal mediation process, the Division has recovered $512,495.62 for individual consumers in the last 12 months. Approximately one year ago, we tried an experiment in resolving those complaints which fell outside the jurisdiction of the Division and other state and federal agencies. Up until that time, consumer complaints that did not fall within the scope of the statutes enforced by the Division or other agencies were simply closed out. We felt that something should be done in an effort to provide some assistance to consumers who had legitimate complaints but for whom there was no legal redress. We contacted the Better Business Bureau of Texas and asked them to assist. Through the Bureau's agreed to provide whatever assistance they could in resolving these complaints. Fewer than 10% of the complaints received by the Division are forwarded to the Better Business Bureau but we feel that this approach helps to insure that when we are unable to assist, at least we can suggest an alternative source of help. I am justifiably proud of the job which my Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division has done in protecting the citizens of Texas and can assure you that this work will continue.

Correct Laws

The enormous variety of consumer problems attacked by the Division during this past year is notable. In McAllen we stopped the manufacture of worthless drugs which promised to cure everything from high blood pressure to heart disease. In San Antonio we stopped a valueless work at home scheme which caused hundreds of thousands of dollars of losses. In west Texas we stopped the sale of worthless real-estate through a phony contest scheme which netted 17,000 victims before the first complaint was filed. During the past twelve months, the Division has continued to improve its ability to respond immediately to situations where such a response is necessary. For example, two separate bands of pyrites, posing as paving contractors, and prey on business in Nacogdoches and Amarillo. In both cases, court orders were obtained by the Division within 48 hours of the receipt of the complaints. Additionally, within the last nine days, upon receipt of requests for legal action from the department of Health, and operating under the authority of the 1977 amendments to the Nursing Home Act, the Division obtained court orders taking over the operation of three nursing homes whose patients had been severely neglected. These orders were obtained in a matter of hours from the time the Health Department's requests were received. Sub-humans like this have not and will not contribute the slightest iota to the world in which they enjoy the fruits of the labors of others. Our current social philosophy teaches all - everybody - that they deserve not only the opportunity, but the rewards of that opportunity which they reject, rejected in favor of brutally taking from others. Fortunately for civilization, most people stand by the traditions which make civilization possible. But it is a constant struggle to battle back the long night of barbarism. With our present system, this can happen on any street, in anyone's back yard. And even if convicted, the vermin are out on parole in a short time; convicted murderers and robbers out in 5 years to prey on society again. And the press headlines the social liberals who scream "police brutality" every time one of these beasts is brought to bay, but never do they take into account the real victims of brutality - Don Ladusau and the hundreds and thousands like him. If you are at all concerned about these trends you must get involved, get personally involved and fight the apathy - the jingoism - the technocracy - to change and improve the system. It is mandatory that each of you - our readers - contact your local elected officials (mayor, councilmen, judges) to demand that they correct our laws to put an end to the inequities that allow the criminals to go free and the victims to be put on trial and suffer the results of brutality. The Editor challenges all of you to get involved and demand that something be done about the inequities that exist in our system by writing our elected officials, local, state and national.

Travel Time Going Too Fast By BINNY NERSON After several days of lovely, hot sun in San Antonio, we were hit by the tail end of Hurricane Danielle. We were mesmerized by the length of the storm, which lasted two days and the fact it continued to stay very warm. In England, when we have a thunderstorm - in winter or summer - we all rush and put on an extra jersey as it is almost always cold when it rains. In New Mexico, this storm blew over fairly quickly and we went out to see the famous caverns. I thought it was the most amazing experience to walk for three miles in this "Fairland" - hundreds, add hundreds of feet below the ground. I was terribly impressed with the way the caverns were lit and the trail set out. I am afraid to say that during my stay in New Mexico, they were the only things I was impressed with! After Texas, where everyone was so overwhelmingly kind and had gone out of their way to help, I found the people in New Mexico very unhelpful and the scenery monotonous. The only bad thing about the whole trip is the time is going too fast and the distances between the cities are so great we seem to spend a vast amount of time on the highways! But even this can be fun as we have met several English people doing roughly the same thing and we have all swapped experiences and sentiments.

Holiday Pines Whisperings

By LILA KIRKLAND

We are still busy here. Holiday cheer is in the air. Every minute of it. On Monday, Mrs. King was here for her husband's birthday. She told us that he and his new bride were moving to town but he would still be coming to entertain us. Congratulations to Mrs. King and the new Mrs. King. On Tuesday Mrs. DeLoach and Johnnie Harrison brought us our monthly birthday party for all the residents having birthdays during September. We enjoyed the program they brought and are looking forward to next month. The residents having birthdays this month are: Lela Mae Scott, Tom Ogden, W.B. Sturrock, Mollie C. Creel, Zelma Fountain, Bill Peoples, Vohn Myers, Ida Mitcham, Aubrey McChyde, Joe Jarlow, Lila Caraway, Elmo Schutte, Lenora Morris, Jack Laynon, Mrs. DeLoach and Mrs. Harrison brought a very nice program - and we really appreciate them for being so thoughtful. Pat Evans and Marlene Best visited with Byron Lazenby this past weekend. Mr. Lazenby enjoys the family visit with him. Beacie Griffin visited her father, Math McQueen this week. Mr. McQueen was glad to see them and enjoyed Charles Connally and the visit. Savilow Stanley came to visit Lana Curran and Camalee O'Quinn this past Wednesday and brought three fresh omelets and homemade cake. Mrs. Standley will never know how much Mrs. Curran and Mrs. O'Quinn appreciated her visit. Thomas Hensarling visited with the group from the Warren churches. On Wednesday morning Mrs. Monroe Tolan brought a beautiful message. Those singing were: Willie Ruth Tolan, Mrs. and Mrs. Standley, Opal Hall, Lucy Moyer, F.B. Durham, Carl Dickens, Monroe Tolan, Charles Britnell, Mrs. Slocum, Mrs. Harris, Beverly Riley, Mr. Richardson, Mrs. Bill Tolan, Peggy Willford, Mrs. Harlow and Lucy, Mrs. Hatten and Lucy. Walter Lee visited his brother, John Lee Friday. John stays busy making and selling love baskets from pine needles but he will take time out from his work to visit at any time. James Bodine is still in the hospital in Beaumont. We hope him a speedy recovery and hope he comes home soon. Archie Hutto came home from the hospital Friday. We were glad to see him. He must be feeling pretty good, he started justing at some of us as soon as he came in the door. We have two new residents. They are Charles Connally and Aubrey McBryde. We welcome them. On Wednesday night Charles Britnell and his wife Dorothy led our Prayer Meeting. Gill Borden visited with Louis Monsur and several other residents this past week. From what I hear if you want to know how to make some real good chili, Texas style, you need to come out and visit with Louis Monsur. On Thursday we played Bingo which was sponsored by the Warren Methodist Church. Mrs. Collier brought the prizes and visited with us before Bingo started. The winners for Thursday were: Mollie Creel, camp Brookshire, Irma Daniels, Mary Dickma, Ruby Gilchrist, Beacie Grimes, Byron Lazenby, Ida Mitcham, Louis Monsur, Flora Schenkewitz, Henry Schenkewitz, and Bud Wambaker. Elmo Gibbs was here Thursday night for our Gospel Singing. He is really good and we appreciate him. Lucille Stephens and Myrtis Gieves visited with all of us this past week. We always enjoy seeing and visiting with them. On Friday Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sturrock led our weekly Bible Study and Gospel Singing. Thank you to Mr. and Mrs. Sturrock. Marcel Spurlock was here Friday to fix our ladies hair. We sure appreciate her help. On Thursday morning we went for our weekly van ride. We drove out to Dam 'B' again and rode thru the park. We saw rabbits eating on the side of the road, we saw fishermen out in the lake fishing and other people just best riding it's beautiful drive and naturally we stopped by C.A. Williams again for our coffee and hotcakes. Woodville and they were some real good chili, delicious as usual. On the way back home we drove South down Hwy 92 and came back to Woodville on the Town Bluff Road. We always have a grand time on our trips. I already have more riders for next week than I have room on the van. But we all take turns making the trips in order that every one who wants to go gets choir, a solo by Amy Tompkins and a duet by Elmo Gibbs and Aloha Frestand. Ken Frestand, pastor of the church will bring the morning message. Following dinner on the ground, a special afternoon singing program will be conducted by Rodney and Linda Britnell. A time for reminiscing will also be included in the program. All members, former members, and friends of the church are invited to attend.

Bus Safety Urged
School buses may be a controversial, political subject or just a common way of getting to school. But no matter what role busing has in our community, nobody wants children to be hurt while busing. The Texas Medical Association urges car drivers to be very careful around buses, especially in the year when many children may be unfamiliar with "bus safety" procedures.

REMOVING BROKEN LIGHT BULBS
When light bulbs are shattered in your pockets, removing the bulbs is a major problem. Before removing any bulb, be sure to unplug the light fixture and turn the power off. Good way to remove this bulb safely is to use an old rubber ball on top of a ball and press firmly into the socket and unscrew. Sometimes the "tricky" wooden ball of novelty light bulb extractors does not work so well. If these methods fail use a ball of newspaper.

Mosquitoes On Increase

By CLINTON CURRIE
County Extension Agent

Heavy rains in South Texas and scattered rains in other areas have led to standing water that is an invitation for mosquitoes.

Mosquitoes need water to live and complete their life cycle wherever standing water is available for a week or longer. Old tires, tin cans, birdbaths, roadside ditches, rain gutters, temporary water containers, swampy places and flooded areas all are excellent sites for mosquitoes to breed.

The first step to battling these blood-sucking insects that annoy man and other warm-blooded animals is to eliminate their breeding sites. This means eliminating all standing water and discarding any containers that might serve as mosquito breeding sites.

Any standing water that cannot be drained or eliminated should be treated with a larvicide. One of the most effective larvicides is No. 2 diesel oil with a biodegradable spreader, applied at 6 ounces per 100 square feet of surface area. Abate, malathion or Dursban, applied to standing water at rates indicated on their labels also are effective larvicides. Read labels carefully to determine the hazards these insecticides pose to persons applying them and to fish and animals.

Aerosol insecticide dispensers can be used inside buildings to kill adult mosquitoes. Most of these contain pyrethrum or allethrin because of their low human toxicity and quick knockdown ability. Release of the aerosol for a few seconds into the air usually kills most insects in an ordinary sized room, tent or trailer. However, aerosols are short-lived so frequent application will be necessary if other mosquitoes move inside.

The "pest strip" offers effective indoor control for long periods with a pest strip needed for each average-size room. Be sure to read the label on these pest strips for certain restrictions.

Control adult mosquitoes outdoors by space (directed against flying insects) or residual (applied to surfaces) treatments of insecticides.

Space treatments (fog or mists) have little residual activity and require frequent repetition. They are most effective during cool night or early morning hours when wind velocity is less than five miles an hour.

Residual treatment with malathion, Dibrom, methoxychlor, gives longer lasting control than space treatments. Spray vegetation, eaves of roofs, under porches and similar shaded areas where adult mosquitoes rest by day. Mowing grass and weeds in alleys, vacant lots and yards will eliminate mosquito resting areas.

Effective mosquito control is time-consuming and requires the efforts of individual citizens as well as local governments. And a combination of control methods is usually necessary to stop the pesky biters.

Effective mosquito control is time-consuming and requires the efforts of individual citizens as well as local governments. And a combination of control methods is usually necessary to stop the pesky biters.

People can also protect themselves from mosquitoes by using properly maintained window screening, protective clothing and repellents. Ordinary window screens with 16 x 16 or 14 x 18 meshes to the inch will keep out most mosquitoes. Frequently mosquitoes will rest near doorways and follow people into buildings. Thus, applying a residual insecticide such as malathion, Dibrom, methoxychlor or Dursban on and around doors gives added protection.

Long-sleeved clothing of tightly woven materials offers considerable protection but will be hot. This type of protection may be necessary for people who must work in areas where mosquitoes are particularly abundant. Mosquito netting can also be used over beds in rooms where it is impossible to exclude them.

Applying insect repellent to the skin and clothing can give some relief from mosquito attack. Liquid repellents will prevent mosquito bites for 1-3 hours or more, depending on the person, type and abundance of mosquitoes. However, many repellents will damage paint, varnish, plastic, rayon fabrics and other items. Also, keep repellents away from the eyes, lips or mucous membranes.

Consumer Can Affect Energy Use

By LIZ ARNOLD
County Extension Agent

Consumers can affect industry's energy usage by their choices at the marketplace. The "small-appliance" world is a wide-open field for this.

While small appliances use only about five percent of a home's energy, it takes significantly more energy to make them and transport them.

Although some small appliances are useful household tools, others spend years sitting idly in homes after industry wasted large amounts of energy to create them.

Consumers can do something about this problem.

They can decide which appliances are energy wasters, they can stop buying them, and then industry will not make anymore of them.

It's the old supply-and-demand system at work. Industry only makes what consumers keep buying. Once the demand for a certain product "dries up," so does that product.

After all the advertising, fad trends and sales highs and lows are over, the consumer is still the "ultimate boss" at the marketplace.

How can consumers decide which appliances waste big energy in production for very small return once they're purchased at the marketplace?

Usage at home is the key - especially versatility in use.

First, in order to be used, an appliance must meet a real need - or it'll likely end up on a shelf in the house.

Here's a before-buying checklist: each question needs a "yes" answer:

Will the appliance meet a real need?

Involved in one circuit, so you must check the wattage of everything running on that circuit.

Is adequate storage available?

Will the appliance clean easily? Is it immersible in water - or, if not, can you clean it satisfactorily?

Once an appliance gets a "yes" on the above questions, and the consumer feels it will "earn its keep at home," there are other points to remember in deciding which model to buy for at-home energy savings.

Certain features save more energy at home than others. For example, thermostatically controlled portable appliances are able to maintain a set temperature by cycling electricity on and off, so they use energy more efficiently than other appliances, and they provide satisfactory results.

Also, multi-functional appliances offer flexibility to the user with energy savings.

In addition, consumers get greater flexibility in use from cooking appliances when lids have adjustable vents. These appliances include frypans, Dutch ovens and sauce pans.

Here are other energy-saving ideas:

Locate portable heating appliances away from drafts while in use. Cooler air circulating around a frypan can increase energy consumption as heat is drawn away from the pan.

Pay Raise To Benefit Troops

More than 12,000 soldiers stationed at Fort Polk will benefit from the 11.7% military pay raise, which was approved by Congress and signed by the President on September 8th.

In approving the large pay hike, Congress suspended for one year the normal method used to determine the size of a military pay increase. The 11.7% increase will affect basic pay, subsistence allowance, and quarters allowance for military personnel.

The family separation allowance for enlisted soldiers in grades E-1 through E-4, who are not in a career status, will amount to $30 per month for each month during which a soldier is separated from his or her family.

The legislation also includes an increase in the per diem allowance paid to personnel on temporary duty away from their normal duty stations. Per diem will increase from $35 to $50 per day for military service members. For per diem in high-cost areas, the maximum rate was raised from $50 to $75 per day.

Other military compensation and benefits changes included in the new legislation are:

*An increase in re-enlistment bonuses from $15,000 to $20,000 for certain job specialties.

*An increase in enlistment bonuses from $3,000 to $5,000 for certain skills.

*An increase in the reimbursement paid for moving a mobile home or trailer.

*A 1-year extension of re-enlistment and enlistment bonuses and educational assistance programs for the Army National Guard and Army Reserve.

*A new re-enlistment bonus of $600 for the Individual Ready Reserve for a 1-year trial period.

*A new selection affiliation bonus for the Selected Reserve.

*$75 million for a directed 1-year test of increased educational benefits, including a loan forgiveness program.

*Coverage of routine infant medical care under the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS). Also, an increase from $350 to $1,000 per month in maximum coverage.

for handicapped dependents.

*Military retired pay will be calculated based on an average of the highest three years of basic pay, rather than final basic pay. This action will not affect those soldiers on active duty before the bill's effective date of October 1, 1980.

*Optional authority for the Secretary of Defense to offer up to 4 months of basic pay as a continuation bonus for pilots with 6 to 18 years of service.
