T-WHEELER

Would it surprise you to know that come September, most of us may be trussed up in our automobile seats like a pig on a barbecue pit.

Seat belt tightening is back, if we listen to the politicos currently writing the laws in Austin. And if you think our elected are sincerely concerned about the lives to be saved if we all buckle up, be advised that pick-ups and four-wheel drives are exempt. What the good folks in Austin are telling us is that pickup drivers are always law abiding. They turn their truck lights on at night. They don't throw beer cans out of the eab windows. They may spit a little tobacco juice on occasion. And they certainly don't speed, and they stay in their

Besides, everybody knows that pickup trucks are built to be tougher than passenger cars. See where the logic lies? Those who will have to buckle up are most of us who drive passenger cars. We are the real menace on the highways. Passenger cars are constantly chasing pickups and eighteen wheel ers off the road. The legislature in its wisdom knows that if all the little old ladies who drive passenger cars were forced to buckle up, all of us pickup drivers would live a little longer. Also exempt from the nasty old sear belt law is any vehicle used for "occasional off-road operaion." Now we would guess that means all four-wheel drive vehicles. Again, the legislature assumes very few docile old ladies own four wheelfrive cars, but if they mess with a man's macho and told the rest of us to meekly surrender to with a sissy sear belt law, they will take a hiding he next time they come home to visit. So the sponsoring legislators gave us another out with that "occasional off-road operation." We assume from that loophole that if we put a power take off winch on Nan's Cadillac, shw the grocery store citizen." wouldn't have to be buckled up to make that five belt law. You know by now that the legislature might have had a totally different idea than the saving of lives for introducing such a bill. Some folks around the Austin scene are telling us it has to do with Saturn and air bags.

Saturn is a new prototype American car. The car will be built in a huge factory, employ thousands of workers. But the Saturn folks are said to oureally like air bags all that much. Expensive e consumer, you understand. The feds, or at least some of them are pressing for air bag regulation to protect us from our driving indis-

who consider themselves out of the running for Saturn. Every other state would sell the capitol dome to net the prize. So that's why Texas is going to make sure whatever legislation is on the books will please or at least not aggravate Saturn. Rest assured there isn't an air bag bill in the hopper.

The legislature, with its political nose sniffing the wind has mollified the pickup off-the-highway crowd by exempting them from buckling, another "the government knows what's best for us." and besides we won't bellow too loud. Whoever heard of a caravan of passenger cars descending on the state capitol? Truckers and farms maybe, but not the "average drive to work or You're looking forward to a new life—a time shining with happiness, hope, and possibility. It's a future that joins dreams, strengths, and love as surely as your wedding joins you and your husband.

There's so much to do before you start your new life together. The future will be here before you know it, and your wedding day will be a source of many precious memories. You'll want to remember the way you felt the day you were married, and the future was rolled out before you like a long, white runner. Your wedding photographs will help make the memory of the day you begin your life together as real and as tangible as every day to come.

How much of each Social Security tax dollar would you guess is spent to administer the program, as opposed to paying retirement, disability and survivors' benefits? In a poll taken on that question, the majority of people believed that more than half of each tax dollar went for administration. Only one person in 20 thought that more than 80 cents went to pay benefits. The surprising truth is that only about 1.4 cents each dollar is used to administer the Social Sec urity program; the other 98.6 cents goes directly to the 36 million people who are collecting ben-
