Early Christmas!

. For a short while, but only for a short while, Friday afternoon, it seemed like the old rural "bad luck" telegraph of rumor and gossip was right. Certainly judging from the full parking lot of the Chester State Bank Friday afternoon as that institution failed, some Chester residents were experiencing fears of there being a bare space under this year's Christmas tree.

But the good news is the "bad luck" telegraph Instead, what the community of Chester received was an early Christmas gift: The Bank of East Texas.

With this gift comes what Chester has been needing and now has at its fingertips: the oppor-tunity for a new start and one which would allow the community of Chester to see an end to the string of economic reverses of the last few years.

Chester now has a new bank owned by people with considerable experience in banking. This new asset plus the fine school system which Chester already possesses, are building blocks which when added to the overall support of the community, can be the basis on which a thriving community can be built and maintained. Bank of East Texas President, Jody Pearson, says that a good many of the people who pulled money from the old Chester bank last week are already putting their money back into their new community bank..Good! The future of Chester is where it should be; in it's citizen's hands.

Now came the frank and substan time. He stopped off in Brussels and tive discussions. That's diplomatic talked to the folks at NATO.
