'It's Fun To Be A Fish' By Sue Hendrick

Along with the early morning sunshine and climbing temperatures, passers-by can sense the excitement of buzzing boat-motors at any East Texas waterway. The revving sounds of the racing outboards are accompanied by the soft sounds of splashing waves on the shoreline. To any spectator, it would appear that a big race had just begun. The only problem is that no one seems to know which way to go. Some of the boats take-off in one direction, while others go the other way. There are a few of them that seem to go in continuous sweeping circles, as if they have lost their way entirely. Ands, of course, none of them stay in any one place for very long.

But, all of the boats have one thing in common.

And that is the fact that they are all in search of darting gills that are attached to creatures called, "fish". It doesn't seem to matter what variety of fish they find. To any addicted angler, there are only two things that are important about fishing.

First, they must catch a fish before anyone else does. And secondly the fish must be the biggest.

encewnico will be neited at the proposal service with final positions and specifications, and secondly, the fish must be the biggest one caught that day.

Now, anyone knows that several varieties of fish act for sale at the grocery store. Depending on how they're processed, the price of a pound of fish is usually less than a good steak. But, no "real" fisherman cares about that!

In fact, to the casual observer, it would appear that to catch a fish in its natural habitat is really what matters. That's why a good fisherman must be willing to invest in expensive equipment. A lot of the time spent on the lake, is also a "must" if one wants an opportunity to catch the "Big one". Fishing is a tradition, that began with ancient history. However, there was a man, by the name of "Jesns" that was the greatest fisherman, of all time. He taught the philosophy that we should to "fishers of men". He only wanted to cast the fire of men, Texas.

It is up to us to decide if fils investment was worth it. As for me, i was caught in that its ving act a fight has is known as "you and me."
