The Rainbow people have come and gone and after they came it started raining. Whether or not they had anything to do with it or not, I don't know, but as long as we got the rain in all that matters. They may have their next meeting in Nevada next July 4th where it might be cooler at night.

Homecoming is only two or three days away. It got here sooner than I thought. The old saying is "Time waits for no man."

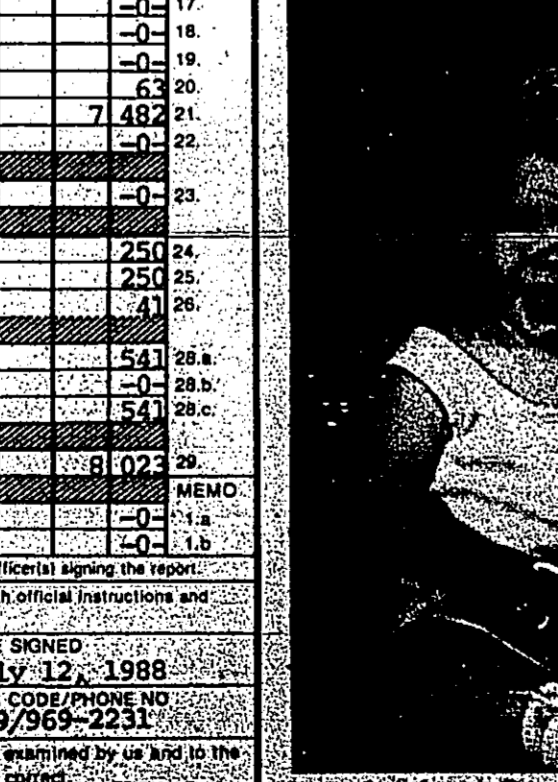

It was announced last year that we would have watermelon Saturday night. John Allen Pittman said he likes the watermelons like a kid. Everyone come on out and enjoy yourself. Don't let the weather stand in your way as it is no hotter now than it was fifty years ago. About two or three hours at the most is all it will last and it is all over. Then on the other hand there wasn't any air condition fifty years ago either. There are five Saturdays and

A LITTLE LIGHT PLEASE?

By Sue Hendrick

When we are children, the words, "Happy Birthday," are something that we look forward to hearing. It seems like an eternity from one birthday to another. Each year the cake grows more magnificent with the addition of the word "candles." Looking at the flickering display of candlelight on the top of the special cake, we hear the words, "blow them out and make a wish."

Yes, those are wonderful days. The day that we celebrate just for us. Expectantly, we look forward to the numbers, "16", "18", and "21". And then one day, the candles begin to outnumber the people that are present for the party. And then someone begins to call you "Ma'am" or "Sir."

Suddenly, we experience a change in attitude and we begin to hide the calendar when "out day" draws near. "Which birthday is it?" some innocent person asks. And, we painfully answer with something cute like, "29 and holding."

The retail businesses have caught on to this change in attitude and are attempting to revive the interest of the adult community in the word "birthdays." They are trying to bribe us with slogans like, "40 is glory," "50 is fifty," and "70 is heavenly." But, that is because the retail market doesn't deal with maturity.

For the Christian believer, any birthday can be measured, by man, is really insignificant. Maybe that is why birthdays are never celebrated in heaven. After all, it would be ridiculous to ask an angelic chorus to sing something like, "a thousand is rowan!" or "a billion beats a million."

Come to think of it, the whole man-made idea of celebrating on a cake is downright silly. The new punch-holes all over the smoothly spread icing. And then, each guest receives a piece of cake that resembles a casualty of a battlefield.

Personally, the only thing that I like about birthday candles is through the promises of Jesus Christ. I intend to be around for eternity and I'm still working on the first side of the coin.

So, if you are celebrating a birthday, I suggest you eat your cake. I only have one thing to say, "Happy Birthday." I wish you a Happy Christian Birthday, not just you can out-bid that calendar!
