Pettijohn named editor of Semi-Weekly 'Booster'

The "Tyler County Booster," which begins semi-weekly publication today, after over 50 years of continuous weekly publication, also has a new managing editor.

Pettijohn, 33, begins her duties as managing editor effective this issue, according to Morrison. She moved to the area in November, and has been employed as a staff reporter since that time.

Pettijohn attended McNeese State University in Lake Charles, La. While in college, she served two years as managing editor of the school's student newspaper, the "Contraband," and one year as the Student Government Association Director of Publicity.

While Pettijohn was editor of the "Contraband," the weekly newspaper won first place with special merit in the American Scholastic Press Association's 1985 newspaper excellence contest. The "Contraband" competed with over 1,300 college newspapers, many of which were large dailies.

She also received an Outstanding Young Women In America award in 1985. Pettijohn's journalism experience includes working at the "Lake Charles American Press," a daily newspaper. She has also worked at the semi-weekly "Southwest Builder News" in Sulphur.

Other positions Pettijohn has held in the journalism field include Lifestyles editor at the daily "McDowell News" in Marion, N.C., editor of the weekly "Rocky Mount Record" in Rocky Mount, N.C., and the court, police and government reporter for the weekly "Brunswick Beacon" in Shalotte, N.C.

She has also worked in radio, and was employed as an account executive and co-op advertising specialist for WPGO-FM in Shalotte, before moving to Texas.

Pettijohn and her husband, Wayne Pettijohn, live in the Ivanhoe development south of Woodville.

Mills becomes General Manager

Mike Mills, 26, has been named as general manager of the "Tyler County Booster," effective this issue. Mills has been employed with the "Booster" for one year. As general manager, he will be in charge of circulation, coordinating the backshop, photography and darkroom, and his primary function will be advertising sales.

He will also be functioning as the publication's computer specialist. Mills attended Lee College in Baytown, and a correspondence college in Missouri. He also has taken photography classes in high school.

"I enjoy my work," said Mills. "And my primary objective in this position is to update the darkroom with the latest technology, and to focus on quality photos. A good looking newspaper depends on quality photos, which can say a lot about the newspaper itself."

Mills added that the "Booster" is a growing business, and that he feels proud to be a part of it. Mills and his wife, Teresa, have one child, Clayton, who is 16 months old.

Herod Murder Trial Slated Jan. 30

By ETTA PETTIJOHN

The trial of a Tyler County youth charged with murdering his mother in 1987 will be heard in District 1-A Criminal Court this month. Sixteen year-old Craig Herod will be tried as an adult on January 30. Herod confessed to the shooting death of his mother, Irene Carter Herod, 46, shortly after the incident occurred on December, 1987. The punishment range Herod could face upon conviction is from a minimum of five years in the penitentiary, to a maximum of 99 years or life, with the possibility of parole, according to Tyler County District Attorney Pat Hardy.

Fewer Fatalities Reported In 1988 Than in Previous Year

By ETIA PETTIOHNN

1988 proved to be a safer year to travel on Tyler County highways than 1987, and the 1988 Christmas season, one of the more dangerous times for motor vehicle travel, passed without any fatalities in the county. Although the official season isn't over until tomorrow, the state Department of Public Safety has broken the entire season (from Christmas Eve until Jan. 2) into two periods, both of which last 78 hours.

The Christmas period began December 23 and ended December 26. The New Year's period began at 6 p.m. Friday and will end at midnight tomorrow. There have been five fatalities resulting from auto accidents on Tyler County roads during 1988, exactly half of the 10 that occurred in 1987. And, there were no fatalities during the holiday season in 1988. According to a news release from the DPS Austin office, as many as 66 fatalities were projected to occur statewide during the 1988 holiday season. As of Friday, 39 had occurred statewide.

No Traffic Fatalities occurred in the county in 1988 or 1987

By planning to leave early, and getting plenty of rest before leaving, people can have safe trips, said Chandler.

Free Arbor Day Packet Offered

The Texas Department of Agriculture is offering a free Arbor Day information packet to anyone interested in participating in Arbor Day activities during the coming year. Texas Arbor Day officially occurs on January 20 in 1989. However, tree planting and landscaping projects in observance of the holiday will stretch well into spring, depending on local planting conditions.

TDA is working with other state agencies and private organizations to promote greater observance of Texas Arbor Day. It is anticipated that activities will be planned by schools, PTAs, Scout organizations, FFA and 4-H chapters, parks and recreation departments, garden clubs, botanical gardens and arboreta. Service groups and the media. Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said, "Trees

According to Hardy, Herod turned himself in to law enforcement authorities shortly after the incident. Hardy said that during the confession, Herod said he didn't remember "shooting" his mother in the face. Two times, Herod also told authorities that his mother had threatened to punish him for falling asleep he brought home from school. It was determined during a transfer hearing held in January 1988 that Herod, who was 15 at the time of the murder, would be tried as an adult.

Reforestation Funds Available To Landowners To Purchase And Plant Trees

In its drive to turn idle land in Tyler County into productive forests, the Texas Reforestation Foundation in 1988 distributed over $18,943 to Tyler County landowners to help them plant trees.

Across East Texas, the nonprofit forest conservation foundation gave a total of $353,000 to landowners to help them plant 5,723 acres of brand new forest land. Ron Hufford, executive vice president of the Texas Forestry Association, said that TRF is devoted to helping private landowners in Tyler County reforest their land.

Since 1981, Hufford said, the industry-funded foundation has given Texas landowners nearly $24 million to help cover the cost of site preparation, tree stand improvement and planting on non-industrial land. "The cost shares are interest-free, and do not have to be repaid if the land owner maintains the land in trees for at least 10 years," he added.

TRF is a unique forest conservation program. President Reagan in 1981 awarded the organization the eastern part of Texas, which is the most heavily forested region of the Lone Star State, the rate of reforestation.

plantation had fallen so low by the end of the 1960s that state forestry officials were profoundly concerned about the prospect of a decline in the sustained yield of wood from Texas forests.

Under the leadership of the Texas Forestry Association, major wood products industries in 1980 put up a portion of their annual profits to fund TRF programs. A trust was established, and the foundation is now administered by a board of trustees who approve cost-share requests. The Texas Forest Service provides technical forestry assistance TRF participants.

It is estimated that over $500 million in private aid money will be distributed next year, or roughly one-fourth of all available aid. Sunday Edition Brings New Features, Deadlines

The first Sunday edition of the "Tyler County Booster" is our first step in efforts to better serve our readers.

And we feel that with this edition, we can bring our readers better coverage of the news events, the human interest stories, and club and community events.

As we grow, we hope that our readers will help us make the changes easier. In order to fully serve our readers, we have established new deadlines which will make it easier for us, and in the long run for you.

The deadline for display advertising is 5 p.m. Tuesday for the Thursday issue, and 5 p.m. Friday for the Sunday paper.

News, club news, and announcements should be turned in by noon Tuesday, for the Thursday paper, and by 5 p.m. Thursday for Sunday.

Weddings and anniversaries will run on Friday days only, and the deadline for these items is 5 p.m. Wednesday.

A new feature the "Booster" will implement is the birthdate greetings. Children up to 12 can have their picture run with a cutline stating the date of their birthday, and the photo will be returned to the child's family members.

We encourage our readers to bring in their child's pictures for the birthday greetings, and give them a real surprise when they see it in the paper.

Other features we plan to run in the Sunday paper are weather reports; a "From Our Files" column, with briefs of stories printed in our newspaper years ago; and an old picture of a community, family or on various topics. We encourage our readers to lend us their old photographs so that we may print them in this column. The photo will be returned to the owner after we print it.

Again, we hope to better serve our readers, and by establishing these deadlines it will better enable us to do so. We ask for our

Tyler County Booster Editorial

Editors support in meeting the deadlines, and in submitting the above-mentioned photos and news items.

Foreign Ownership is Threat to State

By Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox

The "State song" "Texas, Our Texas" may someday have to be changed to "Texas, Texas, Texas" if we do not act soon to reverse the trend of foreign ownership of Texas businesses.

In the last twelve months, we have seen control of our major banks move from Texas to New York, Chicago, and North Carolina.

McCorp, the last of Texas' large bank holding companies, is struggling to remain a Texas property. The other gigantic Texas bank holding companies, which faced massive loan defaults, fell to bailouts by out-of-state banking interests.

Now an even more ominous cloud is on our economic horizon.

Recently, the Antitrust Division of the Attorney General's Office received complaints regarding Texaco's sale to Saudi Arabia of half of its refinery operations, including its Port Arthur refinery.

This sale will adversely affect the ability of independent Texas businesses to compete in local markets and put thousands of employees at the mercy of foreign interests with no lasting ties to our state.

However, the results of such an acquisition, there are no state laws designed to stop or even detect such takeovers by foreign interests and the state's antitrust laws do not provide the answer to this problem.

This is just one of many significant acquisitions by foreign investors in our state. The economic downturn in the Texas economy has resulted in local businessmen and women being forced to sell their businesses to foreign owners, and has made them easy targets for anyone with money to invest.

Internationally, the reporting of foreign ownership. It is not a solution in itself, but such information is necessary if the extent of the problem is to be understood and an immediate remedy is to be found.

Of course, the ultimate solution is a strong Texas economy built on a diversified industrial base. A strong economy will be disinclined and resistant to foreign ownership.

A cooperative effort by the citizenry, business, industry and government can keep Texas our Texas.

State Representative

Outgoing Judge Wheat Reviews 19 Months

Editor:

As the New Year, with all its hopes for peace, prosperity and new beginnings approaches, so does the expiration of my time in the position of County Judge of Tyler County.

This has not been the most pleasant assignment I have ever had, but it has been more than made up for by those of you, particularly those among our senior citizens, who have come to me at the nutrition center, and other places, and quietly expressed your appreciation for what I was trying to do.

This I will always treasure.

During my 19 months in office, I have tried to perform the duties of County Judge in a way that would meet your approval. You are all aware of the reason why I am serving in this capacity. With its proud history, Tyler County should never again permit a situation to exist in county government such as existed when I took the oath of office on May 8 of last year.

No person should ever be allowed to suppose that he can, by threats and intimidation, dictate to other officials how they must perform their duties and how government must be operated. A county government, whose operation is directed and dictated by threats and intimidation from one or a few, is worse than having no government at all. This situation must never be allowed to recur.

I believe the situation has now largely been corrected. As for my role, my only contribution was to refuse, from the beginning, to let anyone dictate to me how to discharge the duties of County Judge, and to encourage other officials to take the same position.

Gratitude must also be expressed to Judges Smokey Stover and Monte Lawlis, for their understanding and actions with regard to the problem, and to the restraining influence of the Grand Jurors, particularly the Grand Jury whose term is now expiring.

To all of you, I express my appreciation, and I want to extend to all of the elected officials and their staffs my sincere appreciation for their cooperation these past months.

It is no secret that I have strongly disagreed with the Criminal District Attorney concerning a number of matters, particularly his filing a lawsuit against the commissioners' court, who he is charged by law with representing.

The District Court, Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court of Texas held in favor of the commissioners' court. Nevertheless, it was necessary, and the District Court so ordered, that the commissioners' court retain lawyers to represent the court at a cost of almost $18,000, which money, in these times of need, could have been so much more fruitfully spent in view of the shortage of funds.

Ironically, the suit resulted from a slight reduction in the budget for last year by commissioners' court just because there was this shortage of funds.

Although I have had differences with Mr. Hardy, I must state for the record that in our professional dealings with each other during court and in personal association, he has been courteous and professionally correct in his conduct. Hopefully, in the future there can be a spirit of cooperation and togetherness in order that the needs of the people be met.

We have not accomplished everything that I would like to have seen accomplished during my 19 months in office; however, we have experienced some rather positive events. We have seen the completion and dedication of the Tyler County Justice Center, a modern and efficient institution capable of meeting the needs of the county for the foreseeable future.

We view the future with great excitement as a result of securing the location of the Texas Department of Corrections Glib Lewis Unit in our county, which offers to provide employment for many people.

This unit was located in Tyler County because of the joint effort of all of our citizens, and without our citizens coming together to work on this project, it would have gone elsewhere. I have never seen as united as they were on this project.

Work commenced this week on the Tyler County Airport to reconstruct, rebuild and reinforce the apron and taxi way, and to provide paved parking for automobiles under a grant from the Texas Aeronautics Commission. This work will bring our airport to a first class condition, except for the fact that we still need an instrument landing system, for which our application was denied.

As traffic increases with the coming of the prison unit, I have no doubt that in the future we will be able to secure funds to provide that much needed instrument system.

Plans are being completed for the Tyler County Human Services Center, which will be constructed at the corner of Willow and Beaver Streets. This much needed facility will provide a nutrition center, assistance for our senior citizens and those with mental and emotional problems, and will also serve citizens in other ways, including those who have business with the social security system. This building is being constructed on property provided by the Veterans of Foreign Wars at no cost to the county, and is being financed by a grant of $300,000 from the state of Texas and a grant of $185,000 from the Temple Foundation, and I hope you will express your appreciation for these grants whenever you have the opportunity. They mean much to our future.

Plans have been completed for our multiple use Civic Center, to be located adjacent to the rodeo arena and our application to Farmers Home Administration for a loan to fund this project is now being processed in the Lufkin office.

It will provide shelter for the distribution of commodities, an exhibition hall for the annual Tyler County Fair, and other exhibits, a large meeting facility and a place where the Dogwood Festival and Chamber of Commerce can sponsor dances and other social events to help pay for the building itself. So far, we have pledges which will pay approximately one-half of the costs expected.

My greatest hope is that in the coming year we can more effectively organize a Farmers' Market. This building will have a floor which will allow producers to drive their trucks into the building and display their products from their truck, out of the hot sun in the summertime, and out of the cold wind in the fall. I believe this will be a county facility of which all of us can be most proud.

With the help of the Garden Club, we have tried to begin the beautification of the courthouse square. I hope this work can go forward with the involvement of the Garden Club, the Tourism Fund, the Chamber of Commerce, and the Tyler County Probation Department and others.

I feel that our courthouse square should be made so attractive that people passing this way will admire the beauty of the square and say, "This must be a county where people have pride in their area."

Many problems remain. Not the least of these is the repair of the courthouse building itself. This building has not had major repairs since it was remodeled in 1935 and 1936. I have asked the elected officials and department heads to itemize those repairs which are needed in their offices, and I have asked the county commissioners to survey the external repairs which are needed, and then to make up a priority list of these various items. We do not and will not have sufficient funds to address all of these needs at one time; however, by giving them a priority listing, we can solve a few each year as funds will permit.

We all regretted having to slightly increase the taxes this year; however, we asked to carry up a heavy burden and it is felt that this much money to meet the needs of the people.

I hope that next year the economy will have improved to the extent that

Clements Remarks On Task Force Report

Editor's Note:

The following are Remarks of Governor Bill Clements in accepting a final report from the governor's task force on agricultural development in Austin.

Seven months ago, I called on this task force to develop recommendations to enhance and protect the vitality of Texas agriculture in the coming decades.

It was a tall order. But with this group's diverse and successful experience in the industry, it was an order I knew they were fully capable of filling.

Agriculture in our number-one renewable economic resource. It's the foundation upon which our state was built and it holds out countless opportunities.

Texas consistently ranks among the nation's top three states in total cash receipts from agriculture, and we're in the top 10 nationally in the production of 42 different agricultural commodities.

Our food and agriculture sectors now account for some 20 percent of all jobs in Texas. That translates into 1.2 million jobs.

AC Offers Business Management

The Angelina College Business Division began the fall semester with a new program designed to offer an advantage for the business student as well as area business and industry.

The management development program is a two-year program in business management and marketing. It will enable the men and women successfully completing the program to function as supervisors or mid-managers.

The curriculum includes four job practices, each consisting of 20 or more hours of employment and one lecture hour per week. Each practice carries four semester hours of credit. According to Jim Kennedy, acting director of the AC business division, the associate degree program is transferable to approximately 25 four-year postsecondary institutions in Texas offering B.B.A.S. or similar degree.

Although the program was not approved by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board until August, Kennedy said the college recognized a need for this type of degree program as early as 1984.

Kennedy said: "Seventy percent of AC students work full or part time, and those jobs do not usually occur in their career choice. With this program in place, a number of students will be able to gain valuable on the job experience in their career areas while completing an associate degree."

The new program enrolled 20 management majors according to Suzanne Bradford, supervisor of the job practicum and instructor in the program. She indicated that the degree program is a specialized co-operative effort between the college, the student and the student's employer. "There's more responsibility on the student. The emphasis is on objectives and the logical steps to achieve those objectives, one of the basics of management," Bradford said.

Betty Williams, Director of Marketing and Community Relations for Memorial Medical Center of East Texas and a student in the management program, said: "The material we have learned in lecture has benefited me a great deal and has enhanced my communication skills. It reinforces those elements I use daily in my work."

The core curriculum includes courses in salesmanship, personnel management, small business management and four job practicum. In addition to the "core" courses, the management development major is required to take six hours of English, three hours of math or science, speech, physical education and 21 additional hours of business courses.

For more information on the new management development program, contact Jim Kennedy at 639-1301, ext. 310.

Business venture Worm farm goes underground

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH

A few years ago, Ed Lovelace began a worm farm near Woodville. He bought $20,000 worth of worms and built two huge beds to hold them. The beds were eight feet wide and longer than a football field. He filled them with wood chips, rice hulls and cow manure.

"We had to go to every ranch around there and fill up trailer loads after trailer loads of cow manure and mix all that stuff together," says Ed. "We had to buy a mixer to get it in the proper proportions then we'd put it in that bed. Then we put the $20,000 worth of worms in there and it didn't make a dent. We had to go out and put another $30,000 worth of worms in there. So all together we had about $60,000 invested in worms and every time I turned around my worms were leaving."

The worms were afraid of noise and light. And every time stormy weather came around, there was trouble.

"The lightning would flash and the worms would head for the bushes," says Ed. "They'd come on over the sides of the worm bed and head into the grass and disappear forever. I could just visualize all of my investment going into the ground. We had every light in the place turned on that worm bed to try to drive the worms back in and all the wives and the children and the men were gathered out there with flashlights going through the grass grabbing up big hunks of worms and putting 'em back in the bed."

He put a sprinkling system in his worm beds and built roofs over them. Tin-bottomed beds kept the gophers out.

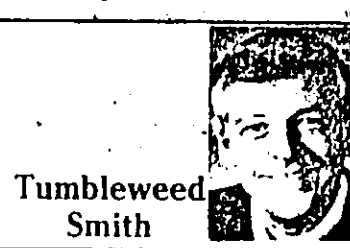

"But spring came and the birds came," says Ed. "I'll tell ya, they must have sent telegrams to every bird in America because they all came to my worm place. They had a feast. All they had to do was fly down there and poke their bill and they'd come up with half a dozen worms. Fat birds, man, we had the fattest birds in the country."

Ed sent his worms to fishing camps by air. Sometimes the cargo handlers were not careful with the containers. Finally the airline told Ed they wouldn't haul his worms anymore.

"If you put tens of thousands of worms in an airplane and they get out of the container and they crawl everywhere, no matter how tight the container is, they'll find a way through every crack they can find in that airplane trying to find a way of escape or getting to food or getting to water or something. First thing you know there were worms in the seats. So passengers began complaining. And this was another reason the airlines wouldn't carry the worms anymore."

Ed finally gave up on the worm business and let the worms go into the ground.

"Today that is probably the richest farm land in East Texas because there's $70,000 worth of worms crawling through that land."

Minyard Stevens Wed in Marshall

Pamela Sue Stevens and Teddy Bob Douglas Minyard, both of Marshall, were united in marriage in a 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 16, 1988, wedding ceremony at Central Baptist Church. Following a trip to Dallas, the couple will make their home in Marshall.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Stevens of Marshall and the granddaughter of Roy Martin Ford and the late Nancy Ford of Marshall, and Mr. and Mrs. E.P. Stevens of Highlands. She is a 1986 graduate of Marshall High School and a 1988 graduate of East Texas Baptist University. She is employed by First National Bank in Marshall.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Minyard of Colmesneil and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. D.E. Wilson of Silsbee, and the Rev. and Mrs. Jack Minyard of Colmesneil. He attended Colmesneil High School and is currently a senior education student at East Texas Baptist University. He is employed by Monarch Tile.

Dr. W. Wallace Watkins and the Rev. Jack Minyard, grandfather of the groom, officiated the ceremony. Music was provided by organist Mrs. Wallace Watkins, pianist, Mrs. Steve Baile and vocalists Becky Grantham, who sang "The Rose," "Honestly," and "Only the Beginning," and Greg Mehan, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The altar was centered with an arch decorated with ferns and bouquets of the bride's colors of sonia roses, carnations, snowflake mums, baby's breath and pinks. Arch candelabras flanked the arch and were accented with polished palm leaves and baker's fern. Palms and ferns further enhanced the altar setting.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal white satin gown, designed with a V-neckline in the front and back, trimmed in black with a sunburst of pearls and a crystal ornament. The long Victorian sleeves were sheer at the bottom and trimmed with beaded Venice lace. The elongated basque bodice was V'd and trimmed with more of the beaded lace. Her very full skirt was banded at the bottom with scalloped Schiffler embroidery, and the skirt was trimmed in front with rows of cluster pearls. Her removable train was a mass of beaded lace cut outs trimmed at the side with satin ribbons, and attached to a satin sash. The train was 10 feet long and she wore a pulled finger tip veil of bridgeline silk cascading bouquet, designed and created by the groom's maternal grandmother, of white carnations, roses, stephanotis, lily of the valley, pearl filigree, peonies, leaves and long satin streamers with silk roses.

Mrs. Doreen C. Woodard, a friend of the bride, was bridesmaid. Misty Foley, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor and Vickie Clark, a friend of the bride, was flower girl. Elisha Stevens and Jamie Stevens of Marshall, nieces of the bride, were ring bearers. They were dressed in white, long-sleeved, V-neck, elbow-length, long-sleeved dresses with full skirts and accented at the back waist with large bows. They wore matching satin pumps.

Rusty Hunter of Austin served as best man. Groomsmen were Jerry Earl Dabuse, Doyle Coxart and Alan Adrian Davis, all of Colmesneil. Jerry Vance Cowart of Beaumont and James Kevin Davis of Linden, all cousins of the groom, ringbearer was Eric Kyle Hippler of Gilmer, cousin of the groom. Ushers were Michael Howeth of Harleton, Michael Ray Stevens and Larry Stevens, both of Marshall and brothers of the bride, Steven Burrows and F.B. Rodgers.

The reception was held in the church parlor and fellowship hall. A backdrop of white lilies and roses, which was centered with green foliage wedding bells, adorned the reception area. The bride's table was centered with a silver pedestal holding an arrangement of the bride's flowers, sonia roses, carnations, anemones, freesia, foxglove and Queen Anne's lace. The windows at the altar were decorated with pink poinsettias and maguolia foliage.

Also on the bride's table was a white octagon two-tiered cake, separated by crystal columns and encircled with greenery. Miniature stars led from the main cake to two satellite cakes.

The groom's table featured the bride's bouquet and a flower-filled satin slipper, belonging to the bride. His two-tiered, octagon-shaped chocolate cake was topped with chocolate curls and almonds.

Members of the housewife, Lori Levy Howeth of Harleton, Tammy Harris of Ore City, Misty Minyard and Debbie Minyard, both of Colmesneil and Natalie Loftin of Marshall.

The cover of the bride's book was designed by Mrs. D.E. Wilson, grandmother of the groom. Rice roses and almond bags were given to each guest by Lori Howeth.

The bridesmaid's luncheon was held at the Hungry Potter hosted by Mrs. William G. Pierpont, and the rehearsal dinner was held at the Stottford House hosted by the groom's parents.

SPORTS SHORTS

Women Score Bullseye In Darts

More women are scoring a bullseye in the once male dominated sport of darts. The reason? Since darts is a sport that requires skill rather than brawn, it is an ideal one for growth in females ranks.

Especially significant in increasing female participation in the sport are the Lucky Lights Dart Tournaments. Recognizing that this is a sport in which women can excel, the tournaments have significantly increased the number of women's events, as well as upped the prize money in the women's side of competition.

Most significant is the increase in top prize money for women. The Lucky Lights Challenge of Champions now has a purse of over $16,000 on the women's side of the tournament—the largest Women's Singles tournament in the world!

Report Wildlife Poisonings

AUSTIN—Persons encountering suspected cases of wildlife poisonings can report such incidents by calling a toll-free number, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Bruce Thompson, nongame and endangered species program director, said the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has contracted with Texas Tech University to operate the hotline for collecting data on poisonings of wildlife by pesticides.

The 24-hour number is 1-800-858-7378. Operators can answer questions about pesticide product safe use, recognition of pesticide poisonings, clean-up and disposal procedures and other general information.

Any evidence of poisoning wildlife also should be reported immediately to the department's Operation Game Thief number, 1-800-792-GAME, or a game warden in the area where the poisoning is occurring.

Hunt, Fish Terminology Sometimes Baffling

AUSTIN—When new hunting and fishing regulation guides roll off the press each August one thing is certain: the terminology is baffling to some beginning sportsmen.

For instance, hunters and fishermen have difficulty with the term "in the aggregate." When used in game or fish bag limits, the term means a combination of species. If a limit on bass is five largemouth, smallmouth and spotted bass in the aggregate, the fisherman is allowed to keep five bass of one species or a combination of the three species as long as he retained a total of only five bass.

Bag limits and other information on game and fish regulations can be found in the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's hunting and fishing, now available at department offices and license outlets. All new regulations are effective Sept. 1, 1988.

Here are some other terms that may be unclear to some sportsmen:

—RIMFIRE: The term "rimfire" and "centerfire" refer to two basic types of rifle or pistol cartridges. Centerfire cartridges have an observable primer that is centered in the base of the shell casing. The gun discharges when the firing pin strikes the primer. In rimfire ammunition, the firing pin strikes anywhere on the end of the shell casing, causing an internal primer to discharge the round.

Rimfire ammunition is not legal for use in taking deer, antelope or elk because it usually is too low-velocity to be effective on big game.

—JET GUN: This is another type of cartridge prohibited for use on big game. Jet guns and rocket guns use a self-propelled cartridge, rather than a casing and bullet configuration.

CHACHALACA: Relatively few Texans get an opportunity to see the elusive chachalaca, or "Mexican pheasant," of the Lower Rio Grande Valley. There is a hunting season, however, to give certain hardy individuals the opportunity to pursue these low-flying game birds through their brushy habitat.

CIVET: The term "civet" or "civet cat" refers to the spotted skunk. True civets are a European form of the skunk, but local custom still applies that appellation to spotted skunks, so the terminology has remained in the law book.
