If you're a victim of sciatica, you know what "shooting pains" are all about. The sometimes excruciating pain of sciatica frequently affects the hip, thigh and back of the leg. The ankle and foot are sometimes affected, too. But that's not where the problem is. The scintic nerve, the largest nerve in the body, extends from the lower spine to the back of the thigh and knee. Then it divides. One nerve goes down the front of the lower leg, and the other goes down the back of the leg.

The cause may be traced to a misalignment of the spinal column that's putting abnormal pressure on the roots of the sciatic nerves as they pass between the vertebrae.

Through x-rays and other procedures, the doctor of chiropractic can locate the missigned vertebrae Using a gentle adjustment, he can align it properly again to help eliminate the cause and the pain.

It's the heart risk assessment. And making a passing grade is very important, because this test may indicate your chance of developing heart disease.

Many serious illnesses seem to strike without warning. Others are associated with certain risk factors - and heart disease is one of them.

Your age, blood pressure, and family history of heart disease are by this assessment, which you can score yourself. Your diet, weight, exercise level, alcohol consumption; among the risk factors measured and smoking habits are also noted.

The assessment is thorough, but takes only minutes to complete. And while this test is no substitute for an examination by your physician, it can help you learn about heart disease risk factors and how to control them - for a longer, healthier life.

Pick up a heart risk assessment form. It's free at your doctor's office or Heart Network member hospital in your community. Take the test. And take the results to heart.
